Kings Defeat Leafs Twice; Royals Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old chestnut about the unsteady head wearing the crown sums up Richmond Virginians' position in the International League today.

The first-place Vees, with a 3-1 bulge in their five-game series with Montreal Royals, must win No. 5 tonight or lose the lead. A victory would boost them 1½ games in front. A loss would drop them a ball-game behind the Bisons, now second.

Richmond lost the lead for one hour, 54 minutes Sunday when Buffalo took a 10-4 first-game victory. The Vees came back to win the second game 6-5.

Rochester Red Wings stretched Columbus' losing streak to seven-less innings to 27-with a 6-0 victory while Havana Sugar Kings swept a doubleheader from Toronto Maple Leafs 7-5 and 7-3. Miami Marlins won the first game of their win bill with Montreal Royals 6-3 but Royals bounced back called after five innings because of rain with the score tied 3-3.

SATURDAY SCORES

On Saturday the Virginians shut out the Bisons 3-0 and the Red Wings blanked the Jets 2-0. The Royals beat the Marlins 4-3 in the second game of the doubleheader when the game was called after five innings because of rain with the score tied 3-3.

The Bisons rebounded from 20 consecutive scoreless innings with four runs in the first inning of the opener Sunday against loser Bob Wiesler (7-3) who failed to retire a man.

They added what proved to be the clincher in the second game as part of a 17-hit attack that battered Hank Bauer's two-hit relief pitching for five innings. Chris Short started for Buffalo and Frank Lary for the Vees and Joe Lonnett for Buffalo.

Cramer Thompson went back with a four-run first in the night cap to hand Bob Conley his third loss in as many decisions. Zack Monroe (3-3) won with relief help from Eli Grba. Dave Boyer homered for the Vee and Frank Herrera hit his 8th for Buffalo.

JETS STILL SHUTTERING

The Jets have now 14 of their last 18 games, got only seven hits off lefty Bill Smith (2-1). Smith, his 3rd win in as many days, and Wally Shannon and Charlie Staniland, Ken Clobert and Ken Boyer homered for the Vee and Frank Herrera hit his 8th for Buffalo.

JETS STILL SHUTTERING

The Jets have now 14 of their last 18 games, got only seven hits off lefty Bill Smith (2-1). Smith, his 3rd win in as many days, and Wally Shannon and Charlie Staniland, Ken Clobert and Ken Boyer homered for the Vee and Frank Herrera hit his 8th for Buffalo.

Borrego Alvarez slammed a three-headed homer in the last of the 10th inning for Havana's second consecutive win over Cuba Sunday. He had relieved Emilio Cuellar to save the first game.

Alvarez' three-run blast, his 15th, came after he scored the tying run in the last of the ninth on Jerry Gonder's two-out single. Don Rudolph was the loser without a decision for Havana in the nightcap and Al Pehanich (2-3) lost.

Bertram Evans came after Cuellar gave two singles and Archie Wilson's two-run homer with none out in the last inning, and himself was tagged for a one-run single by Mickey Klutz. Charlie Rabe (6-2) lost and Cuellar is 4-3.

Leo Posada's 13th homer scored Miami's first run in the opener and was enough for John Anderson's ninth win in 11 decisions. Ike Amrie's triple drove in the second run off loser Babe Birrer (4-5).

Tourney-Tough Doug Ford Wins Canadian Open Crown

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
GLENEAGLES G.O.C., CLATR, Montreal (CP)—Doug Ford, 36-year-old tournament - toughened golfer from Concord, Mass., shot steadily, if unspectacular golf Saturday to win the 50th annual Canadian Open golf championship and grab first - prize money of $1,500.

The dark, dour Paradise, Fla., veteran—he has been playing the pro circuit but non-winner of a tournament in more than a year—fired a final round of two-under-par 70 to win with a 72-hole total of 276, two strokes better than three runners-up.

One of them was Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who shared the third-round lead at 205 with Buffalo Open champion Art Sydney, Agincala, one stroke behind after Ford.

LOSES CHANCE

But Finsterwald saw his Columbus Day shopping away when he blew to a three-over-par eight on the 16th hole and finished with 73 on the round for a 278 total.

Tied with him for second place and collecting a $1,866 purse each were Bill Nary, 23-year-old Montrealer, Ma., who lost his chance for top money when he bogeyed the 18th hole rough and went one over at the 17th, and Bo Weinger of Odessa, Texas, who had a final 68 on the last round.

Cramer Thompson's old blonde Australian who became a gallery favorite after taking the lead on the opening round with a 67 finished at the end of the third, fell apart with consecutive 75s.

SOARS TO 75

His downfall started late on the fourth and continued on into the second. He soared to a 75 Saturday, edged the par-five 16th with a 25-foot putt and then needed only a birdie 3 on the par-four final two holes to force a playoff.

Three players turned in 68s—Al Balding of Markham, the first round leader, who was over-par on the next three and finished well down the list; Walter Hinan Jr., Troy, N.Y., and Dave Base, Hopedale, and Billy Casper, Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., who won the Open winner and a pre-tournament favorite.

FANS SWITCH

Casper, who had the biggest gallery following, didn't saw his fans switch to favorites when he shot a 73-69-71, got his 66 on the last round and won $675 with a 283 total.

Wes Ellis, Jr., of Aldercress, N.J., 1958 winner but even a greater favorite.

Burleson's time of three minutes 47.5 seconds cracked the AAU mark of 3:47.8 set in 1940 by Wisconsin miler Walter Mehl of Tidwell, NCAA 100 - yard dash champion, blazed to a United States record in the 200-metre low hurdles. His time around one curve of 22.6 seconds broke his own AAU mark of 22.7. Tidwell also erased the AAU mark of 23.3 set by Harrison Dillard in 1946.

Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club set an AAU meet record in the discus of 186 feet, five inches Saturday. Florida Gorden set the old mark of 183-9 in 1953.

CFL Finally Has Constitution

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Football League, after four years of operation, finally completed and adopted a constitution Saturday.

The CFL, which comprises the eastern Big Four and the western Interprovincial Football Union, wound up its two - day, mid-summer sessions.

The WIFU decided on a new setup for gate equalizations in line with the Big Four arrangement whereby the visiting team get 35 per cent of each ticket sale.

The two circuits decided on their cutoff dates for naming their 12 imports. The West's cutoff date is noon of the second day after a club's 12th scheduled game. The East's cutoff is noon the second day after a club's 11th game.

The CFL's Grey Cup committee set a price range of $10, $7.50 and $6 for tickets for the Canadian classic, to be played Nov. 28 here in the 33,000-seat Toronto Exhibition Stadium, Nov. 28.

The question of an interlocking schedule between the two leagues was left in the hands of a two-man committee — Ralph Parlsay-man and Frank Gibson of Winnipeg.

Intermediate territorial rights were discussed, but no eastern clubs now allowed one sponsored club in the west. The western clubs one sponsored team or 12 players—if they run a league as in Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Chinese Fight For Admission To Olympics

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China's is continuing its fight for re - admission to the Olympic Games.

The Republic of China Olympic committee has sent letters to members of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and other sports bodies appealing for support.

The letters say athletes and sports officials here are citizens of the Republic of China, not of Taiwan (Formosa).

Ten Chuan-Kai, head of the Republic of China Olympic committee, said it would never agree to drop the name China, as decided by the IOC.

If the name Taiwan were used instead of China, he declared, many fine Chinese athletes outside Taiwan who are citizens of Nationalist China.

Ten's resolution, which AAU officials said was approved unanimously, demanded that the IOC "rescind the unjust and unjustified action against Nationalist China."

Cop Line Stops Chicago Bear On Rampage

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A pro football player for the Chicago Bears ran into a hard blitzing line of policemen here Saturday.

Harlon Hill, one of the Bears' top rated pass-catching ends, is free on bond after he was arrested on charges of six different counts.

Police traced Hill to his home after obtaining his licence number from Paris, Ill., driver of the other auto involved.

C. D. Rawlings, one of three policemen who made the arrest at Hill's home, quoted him as saying: "You little . . . if . . . You're too little to put those handcuffs on fellows."

Hill was taken into custody after what the officers described as a hard struggle.

Specific charges were: drunk driving, running a red light, leaving the scene, resisting arrest, driving without a licence and driving after his licence was revoked. Police said he lost his licence on a drunk driving charge.

Wimbledon Tennis Tourney Has International Flavor

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (Reuters)—More than 200 tennis players were ready today for the 73rd annual opening of the world's top lawn tennis tournament.

British sportsmen, high society and lesser mortals in the thoroughfares are keyed up for two weeks of excitement, triumphs and broken hopes which mark the annual contest at the All England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club.

The Wimbledon championships this year have attracted players from 26 countries, including Russia for the first time.

WILL BE NEW CHAMPS

Chief interest this year centres on the battle for the men and women singles titles left vacant by Ashley Cooper's switch to the professional ranks and Althea Gibson's temporary retirement.

Australia's three-year grip on the men's title is likely to be broken. And the man who may do it is the player most tapped as Australia's stranglehold on the Davis Cup tennis trophy last winter—Alex Olmedo.

The crew-cut Peruvian, a member of the Davis Cup team from the United States, never has won a match here.

Or his only previous appearances at Wimbledon, in 1957, he was beaten in the first round of both singles and doubles.

Breaking down the rock will be Australian lefthander Neale Fraser; Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli; Britain's Bobby Wilson; Denmark's Kurt Nielsen; Luis Ayala of Chile; Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt and Budge Patty of the United States.

BRITON FAVORED

Heading the women's singles seedings is Britain's 18-year-old Christine Truman, sweetheart of the British crowd at Wimbledon.

Not for 22 years has Britain provided a women's singles winner. Hefty Christine, a blonde six-footer, has been made favorite after her success in the Italian, Swiss and French championships.

Second seed is another British girl, 27-year-old Angela Mortimer, runner-up to Althea Gibson last year.

Trenton Bows To Cobourg By 8-2 Score

Cobourg Merchants spotted Trenton Garretts two runs in the top of the first inning and went on from there to down the tail-end club in the Belleville and District softball league 8-2 in Cobourg Saturday night.

Jim "Sleepy" Dawe followed up his no - hitter against Point Anne with eight more innings of the same brand in burling the Cobourg win. He gave up both Trenton runs and three hits in the initial frame, then did not allow another safety over the route.

Dawe struck out 11, walked two and hit one batter in recording his third victory of the campaign. The victory tightened Cobourg's grip on second place and pushed Trenton deeper in the cellar.

Ron Wannamaker started and lost for Trenton with Gord Mahoney taking over in the fifth. Wannamaker gave up seven runs and ten of the 13 Cobourg hits. He walked three. Mahoney fanned five and passed none.

Rex McCahan drove Cobourg at the plate with three singles in four attempts. Leo O'Brien had a brace of doubles, Dawe a double and single, Boyd Hendry and Charlie Richardson two singles each. Scotty McSporran and Jim Hart had the other base knocks.

Roger Fraser, singled, Jack Austin doubled and Howard Cole tripled in the run for the first to account for all Trenton's hitting and scoring.

O'Brien's double, a walk and McCahan's single got one back for Cobourg. The Merchants plated three in the second on hits by Harsden, Hendry, O' Brien and Dawe. It was still 6-2 in a walk and safeties by McCahan, Harsden and Hendry in the third.

A walk and hits by McCahan and Austin netted Scott one in the fifth when the Merchants chased Wannamaker. Dawe and McSporran touched Maroney for a run and base hits in the seventh with the scoring.

Will Race For Harmsworth On August 25

DETROIT (AP) — New dates have been set for the Harmsworth Trophy hydroplane races on the Detroit River.

The first race between the Canadian challenger, the new Miss Canada III from London, Ont., and the United States defender will be run Aug. 25. The second race will be run the following day and a third, if necessary, on the 27th.

Racing groups from the two countries agreed to shorten the races from the previously-used five-mile Harmsworth run to the regular three - mile unlimited courses on which so many Silver Cup, Gold Cup and Detroit Memorial races have been run.

The distances of each race will be 15 laps, of 45 statute miles. That is equivalent to just over 39 nautical miles.

The United States defender will not be chosen until a few days prior to the races.

Little Boat Plays Tag With Big One

TORONTO (CP)—Paul Brafield, 23, played a 60-mile-an-hour game of tag Sunday in ramming an unmanned hydroplane off-course away from a line of stationary sailboats.

Brafield was racing his little Imp II in the Toronto Hydroplane Club's regatta when he noticed Confusus flip owner-driver Bill Bradley into the water and veer toward the sailboats lining the course.

He swung little Imp II out of the race and charged after the other craft, catching it and ramming it onto a circular course away from the spectator boats.

Brafield caught it again and tried a flying leap into Confusus' cockpit, but lost his grip on the slippery hull. Little Imp II coasted to a stop, stalled by an automatic cut-off when Brafield left the cockpit. A course patrol boat corralled Confusus.

Bradley, 33-year-old restaurant owner, estimated later that his craft had been hitting 60 miles an hour when the rubber handle of the control stick, which he was gripping with both hands, yanked loose on a turn. He suffered a wrenched knee. Brafield was unhurt.

Cooper turned in a 6-3, 6-1 win over Sam Giammalva, the 25-year-old former United States Davis Cupper making his pro tournament debut.

Anderson ousted another ex-Australian, Davis Cupper, Mervyn Rose, 6-2, 6-4 to move into Tuesday night's second round against top - seeded Australian Lew Hoad. Cooper will play pro champ Pancho Gonzales Wednesday.

Cooper and Anderson later teamed to defeat Pancho Segura of Los Angeles and Giammalva 6-4, 6-3 in a first-round doubles match.

Joe Gordon's Greatest Day

NEW YORK (AP) — "That's observed manager Joe Gordon of Cleveland Indians, "was my greatest day as a major league manager."

He was talking about Cleveland's 4-2 and 5-4 victories over New York Yankees Sunday.

The wins lengthened the Indians' American League lead to two games and sent the Yanks back into the second division. Had the Yankees won both games they would have been in first place.

"It was all simply wonderful," Gordon said. "The way we got the runs, the way the team held on and the way Jim Grant got them out."

Grant went all the way in the 14 - inning nightcap, outlasting three Yank pitchers. There was a rumor going around the league that he was in—Gordon's doghouse, but he's out now.

Stan the Man Adds Another Hit Record

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial matched another National League record to his collection Sunday by hitting the 652nd double of his career, breaking the career mark set by Bonus Wagner.

Stan's record-breaking double came off Pittsburgh pitcher Harvey Haddix in the eighth inning of the first game of a National League doubleheader which the Cardinals won 5-4.

Wagner, considered the game's greatest shortstop, played 21 seasons, almost all with Pittsburgh.

Musial, 38, also holds the National League career records for total bases, extra base hits, most years with 100 or more runs batted in, and most years with 200 or more total bases.

He won the league batting crown seven times, is one of eight players in baseball annals with 3,000 or more hits, and one of six players in history with 400 or more home runs.

Misses Triple Car Race Win

JARVIS, Ont. (CP)—A broken rear suspension and severed brake line thwarted hard-driving Denny Coad's bid for a triple victory in Saturday's sports car races at Inverod Acres.

Coad, piloting his Lotus, held command briefly on the ninth lap of the final event, a one-hour test. Previously he won the open race three and under 1,500 c.c. modified races. However his brake failure forced him to drop behind and the hour run was captured by Bob Davison of Buffalo driving a 1098 Elva.

A Brantford Triumph rolled over in the tough going and driver John Bateman suffered a broken left arm. Bateman rammed Harry Entwistle's tw in can MGA. Bateman's was the only injury of the day although John Rideout, a flag marshal, was clipped by a skidding Elva. He was shaken up, but otherwise unhurt.

Canada's Leslie Neilson May Be Another Fess Parker

BY JACK LEFLER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Walt Disney hopes he's another Fess Parker and Davy Crockett is Canada's Leslie Neilsen and The Swamp Fox.

And The Swamp Fox has—a leather trirorn with foxtail plume —could start another fad among the youngsters like Davy's coonskin.

Disney is filming half a dozen one-hour episodes of The Swamp Fox for his Walt Disney Presents TV show resuming next fall.

If The Swamp Fox goes over, more episodes will be made.

It relates the adventures of the southern hero of the American revolution—Gen. Francis Marion, who harassed the British forces in guerrilla style.

Because of his cunning, he became known as The Swamp Fox.

LOTS OF SHOOTING

The stories are long on adventure—and shooting and hard riding—with a slight seasoning of humor and romance.

Filming is in progress on the Golden Oak Ranch, which Walt purchased recently as a location for outdoor pictures. It is 30 miles north of Los Angeles.

Neilsen is genial, ruggedly handsome and his Canadian name may not strike too familiar a chord with most movie-goers and television viewers, but they have seen him a lot. He's one of the busiest actors in Hollywood.

After serving in the RCAF in the Second World War, Neilsen studied at Toronto and New York and then appeared in such TV shows as Studio One, Kraft Theatre, Philco Playhouse, Robert Montgomery Presents and Suspense.

IN THE MOVIES

The Paramount brought him to Hollywood in 1954 for a featured tombstone, weighing 275 pounds.

U.S. Acquires 60 Million Gallon Atomic Cesspool At Cost of $2 Per Gallon

By BILL RAWLINS

OAK RIDGE Tenn. (AP)—In 15 years, the United States has acquired a 60,000,000 - gallon atomic cesspool. In another decade, it will be even that big.

This giant cesspool, which costs U.S. taxpayers about $2 a gallon, is made up of atomic wastes—radioactive materials which atomic plants don't use up as fuel. The wastes, which corrode, pound the ash of a coal furnace, are often extremely dangerous.

Scientists at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, which has the nation's most comprehensive research and development program to tackle the problem, are attacking it in two basic directions.

On one hand, they are building a plant to reprocess nuclear wastes and turn part of them into usable radioisotopes for medicine, industry and agriculture. This will cut the cost of isotopes through greater production, widen their use and eliminate some of the waste.

On the other hand, they are hitching new ways to bury them in the earth so they can't escape to cause damage. Along this line, crews are moving this summer into abandoned salt mines in Kansas to test the feasibility of storing such wastes in pits carved from solid salt.

FOR 1,000 YEARS

Nearly 95 per cent of the highly dangerous wastes now are stored underground near Richland, Wash., where some have been boiling for six to eight years. Some will remain dangerous for as long as 1,000 years.

Other steel waste tanks, with thick walls, are at Savannah River, Ga., Idaho Falls, Idaho, Los Alamos, N.M., and Oak Ridge. It is estimated that building and maintaining the tanks has so far cost $120,000,000.

Reprocessing plants can turn most wastes into highly valuable isotopes, but in the reprocessing these plants themselves leave wastes. The disposal problem, therefore, will remain.

The potential of reprocessing plants is great, nonetheless.

For instance, strontium-90 is a deadly product of atomic fission.

It has limited medical use and is being tested for use in atomic batteries.

HAS POTENTIAL

Its potential for such things as long-life batteries good for possible spare travel hasn't even been scratched.

Another atomic waste is cesium-137, from which barium-137 has a strong gamma ray of the type used in x-ray machines. Potentially, barium-137 could be used in a tubeless x-ray machine good for 200 years.

Storing wastes in pits of solid salt, experts believe, offers a good solution. Others include pumping it underground, mixed with cement, into shale formations where it will form radioactive concrete; pumping it into deep wells, below water levels, and storing it in natural, saucer-shaped sandstone formations which don't leak.

Less dangerous materials can be dumped in the sea.

Batawa

BATAWA — Bata Shoe Company of Canada Ltd., will provide the setting for an important dinner meetings for staff members of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. The first central Ontario divisional meeting is in Campbellford on June 18th and the second will be held in Belleville, June 23rd.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

People of the entire area join in extending good wishes to Rev. Sister Mary Denise, principal of Sacred Heart School, and other sister of the community, as they observe the silver anniversary of her religious life. Batawa has been fortunate to have the benefit of her work as principal of the school for seven years. She has been a great service to the village as one of the most efficient teachers in the district. It is strictly against her wishes that any mention be made of her contribution to the lives of children, but fitting indeed that appreciation and good wishes are expressed.

The Boy Scouts and Cubs of Batawa will hold a campores at Presqu'ile Point on June 20th and 21st.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. Segesman from Ohio toured the Bata Shoe Plant last week.

The Batawa Public School held an operetta in the recreation hall on last Friday evening.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Lockhart on the birth of a son, born in Trenton Memorial Hospital, on Thursday, June 11th.

Batawa welcomed the following guests to the plant Thursday: Mr. A. Kotrias and Mr. J. Hoza, of Belcamp, Md., Mr. Herbert Eagles, teacher of mechanics and shop work, who will be joining the staff of a high school in Moncton, N.B. after summer recess and also Mr. Don Sutherland, of Trenton.

CENTENARY

Mrs. E. Hart Hostess to W.A., W.M.S.

CENTENARY — Mrs. Elwin Hart was hostess for the June meeting of Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. Mrs. R. Edmondson, the president, opened the meeting with the hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus," and prayer.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. B. Roblin and visits were reported.

Further arrangements were made for the strawberry social next week. There will be a bake sale with Mrs. F. Aikens in charge. The Scouts will look after the fish pond.

Mrs. B. Harder, president of the W.M.S., led in prayer and a hymn, after which Mrs. Harold Hancock conducted the worship period on "Fellowship," assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson, who read the Scripture and commentation.

The last study on "Know Your Neighbors," was heard with interest, the topic being "Unemployment and the Immigrant."

Mrs. Hancock said, "Canada welcomes these New Canadians not only for reasons of self interest, but for more ethical reasons of social responsibility. They have brought with them skills, new wealth and even bolstered the labor force at a point at which it needed strengthening by providing a large number of able-bodied workers at their most productive age."

This raised the question, "Are immigrants taking jobs away from Canadians?"

Mrs. P. Sutherland explained Canada's immigration policy with Mrs. Melbourne giving the group an outline of the numbers of New Canadians and their places of origin.

Mrs. B. Harder gave an address on the effects of immigration to Canada.

"Do immigrants really take jobs from Canadians?" was answered by Mrs. G. Sills.

Mrs. Hancock closed with the church's responsibility to the new Canadian, followed by comments from the members.

The meeting closed with the benediction and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Jet Airliner Crashes Through Steel Barrier

NEW YORK (AP)—A British jet airliner with several Russians aboard was damaged Sunday when it crashed through a steel barrier while landing at Idlewild airport. No one was injured.

The British Overseas Airways Comet IV, arriving from London, carried 35 passengers, including eight Russians, and a crew of 10.

Its front wheel gear and landing gears were badly damaged.

The plane's pilot said he was making a routine landing when the plane suddenly dipped downward, apparently because of air turbulence.

Twelve Top CBC Employees Quit As Program Cut

Say Political Influence Is Behind Cancellation

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve top CBC employees in Toronto resigned today and 19 others were reported to be planning to quit in protest over the cancellation of a morning opinion program on the radio network.

The resignations were touched off at 1 a.m. when four officials of the CBC's department of talks and public affairs announced they were quitting because "clandestine political influence" had caused the cancellation of Press Conference, a five-minute opinion program which followed the 8 a.m. radio newscast.

Frank Peers, supervisor of talks and public affairs, D. Hugh Gillis, his assistant; Bernard Trotter, supervising producer of commentaries, and producer Jack MacKenzie, producer of radio talks and public affairs, charged there was political influence in the tegrity of all public affairs programs.

Less than eight hours after these four had announced their resignations, 12 others followed suit.

They were Erich Koch, Gordon Cullingham and Robert Weaver, radio program organizers; Pat Patterson, assistant supervisor of television program Closeup; Robert Allen, program organizer for TV's Open House; Robert McDermid, chief radio talks producer; Charlotte McDougall, a radio producer, and Peter Mitz, television talks producer.

PRAISED BY PRODUCER

Producer McLean, producer of Closeup, said Mr. Peers, Mr. Gillis and Mr. Trotter were "three of the ablest program administrators the corporation has."

No senior executive of the corporation was immediately available for comment. Secretary of the CBC's 11-member board of directors, headed by acting president Davidson Dunton, said the pending a closed regular meeting in a Toronto hotel.

Lyal Brown, director of CBC public relations, in Ottawa, confirmed that four written resignations had been received but said he did not know of the others.

The eight who resigned later in the morning told newspaper men they intended to hand their formal resignations to the CBC today.

DISCUSS SITUATION

It was reported that 19 other CBC employees were also discussing to quit. During night CBC television broadcasts, eight of the CBC's 11-member board of directors, headed by acting president Davidson Dunton, met, att

NAME OF J. PEOPLES OMITTED FROM LIST

The name of Jack Peoples of Mutual Life was inadvertently omitted from the list, published in yesterday's paper, of local life underwriters who have passed their second and final year of the L. U. A. MARKSMEN'S CLUB GETS OUTDOOR RANGE

The Quinte Marksmen Club has now leased land for an outdoor range for the members' summer shooting and target practice program. The range is just south of Rednersville on a piece of private property where the natural contour of the land forms an excellent backstop for the target butts. The club executive of Police Chief Clarence at Armprior, brought home with him a letter from Hon. J. Waldo Monteith, Minister of National Health and Welfare, thanking him for his part in bringing prompt assistance to the residents of Lanark when a tornado struck the village.

Mr. Humphreys has the responsibility for making arrangements for emergency feeding in the event Lanark is bombed. It would be his duty, in the event of such disaster, to contact, or some other centre, to make arrangements for the feeding of refugees who might be sent to this area. To equip himself for the task, Mr. Humphreys was in the second day of a week-long course when the call came from Lanark for assistance. He and six other—members of his class, together with instructors and fieldmen, rushed to Lanark and quickly organized feeding arrangements there for the many made homeless by the fire.

It is interesting that you were a member of the rescue and firefighting team which rendered invaluable assistance in recent tragic fire at Lanark," wrote Mr. Monteith in a letter to Mr. Humphreys.

"I do not expect that when you signed up for our welfare course, you intended to put your training to such immediate use. I am sure, however, that the citizens of Lanark will not soon forget the skilled and effective help which was so promptly forthcoming from our Civil Defence Headquarters, and which served to illustrate the value of having trained groups of workers available to cope with such disasters."

CZECHS SEEK GOODS

OTTAWA (CP)—Seven visiting Czechoslovakian officials said Monday night his country soon may purchase as much as $10,000,000 worth of Canadian chemicals and pulp and paper machinery. Rudolf Javorik, Czech deputy minister of chemical industries, said in an interview that a lot would depend on price and availability of export credits.

Long Familiar Street Names Lose Official Place on Map With Passing of New By-Law

The long familiar street names of Trent Road, Kingston Road, Foxboro Road and the Old Lane in the Belleville suburban area lost their official place on the map last night as city councillors passed legislation changing the names of many streets in the newly-annexed area.

The meeting was the last regular council meeting before the summer recess and with the exception of special meetings on special to be called, council will not convene until September.

The by-law changing names of a number of streets in the annexed area, was but one of a number of by-laws that saw passage before the summer recess.

Included was a zoning by-law covering land use in the annexed area which had been prepared by Urban Planning Consultants of Toronto, and this by-law giving future down a line widening of College Street. This by-law has to go to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval before it can be given its third reading in council.

There was little of a contentious nature in the meeting of council meeting for the first half of 1959, although council did have to turn down a request with respect to over-spending in connection with the Fairland's Hockey team it was felt the expenditure could be delayed.

NO LEGAL OBLIGATION

City Solicitor Robert A. Pringle said the city has no legal obligation to Urban Planning Consultants.

Neither did council take any action in the reading for funding of a new city clerk to succeed Ken Sidney Brown, who died on 13th stocked the city.

The post is being temporarily filled by Les Digby, from the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs who following last night's council meeting said his job could be called for him to return to his attention by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Committee. He said the annexed area each with an area of about one building lot may be split as it is required. It will be required they would be sold to the adjacent owner or they could be sold as building lots.

Alderman Robertson Collins could not see the need for acquisition of the old cemetery as was ridiculous to lay out these small lots when there was no need for them next for the next roads. "A more sensible idea would be to widen Victoria Ave and extension of College Street, thus providing for one main road into the city," he said.

A motion to defer the recommendation from the committee was defeated by a 10-2 vote with only Alderman Collins and McCabe approving.

Former Payroll Clerk Remanded On Theft Charge

Charged with the payroll theft of $2,431.31 from the McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing Company, 21-year-old Belleville roll clerk of the Company, Richard Parker of the city, was remanded until July 2nd when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court.

The accused pleaded not guilty to the charge. He is being represented by Robert Temple.

Detective Sergeant Reid was the only Crown witness called by Crown Attorney John Pringle. Detective Reid said the accused had worked for McFarlane Gendron for about one-and-a-half years and had been payroll clerk for one year. The payroll thefts are alleged to have taken place between January and May of this year.

Detective Reid said the accused who received a $75 cheque drove a 1955 model car and had owned a "expensive looking" boat, outboard motor and trailer.

To a question from Magistrate Wills, Detective Reid said none of the money had been recovered.

A Toronto man charged with drunk driving after having refused to one of impaired driving and was assessed $15 and costs while a Belleville man charged with driving while his license was under suspension had his case enlarged to a later date.

Sunday School Picnic

CHRIST CHURCH

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Over six hundred members of Christ Church held their annual Sunday School picnic at Glen Cove Beach Park last Sunday.

Previously the picnic was held on a week day which made it difficult for many parents to attend. The success this year seem it was decided to hold it on Sunday as a parish picnic and it proved to be the most successful.

It was a festive scene at the parish hall when hundreds of children and grown-ups boarded buses and cars. There were nearly 200 cars, and headed for the picnic grounds. Mr. Georgeff, of course, were partners with Christ Church as in previous years.

The men outdid the ladies with their fashionable ensembles — Royal Stuart plaid shorts and vivid color schemes were the order of the day.

On arrival the boys and girls were entertained under the watchful eyes of Wayne Gilroy, Robbie Bisher and Bill Elliott, supervised by a group of boy guards.

Interest then occupied their attention for the next hour or so and it seemed to be no time at all when lunch was announced.

At 6.00 p.m. the service of Evensong was held with the rector, Archdeacon J. B. Creighton conducting. Appropriately silence fell on the grounds as the service got under way. It was indeed a beautiful and inspiring service, the entire congregation joining in the hymns and responses. A fitting conclusion to a very full and happy day.

To Mr. Clarence Fuzzen, the committee extends congratulations for the best picnic in years. Clarence puts great energy and enthusiasm into work and is rewarded by the resultant growth in the attendance at the picnic. Of course, as Mr. Fuzzen points out, without the staff and all the help there wouldn't be a picnic. He wishes to thank all those who contributed in valuable help at this event. Mr. Fred Beeby, who was in charge of games, Jim the rich voice of the Archdeacon which could be heard distinctly all over the grounds. Goldie Living-ston, Nick Zaffe, Jack Wright, Graham Beeby, Orville Thornton, John Lawson, Emile Painter, Gordon Pringle, Rev. H. A. C. Maslin, Tom Waterhouse, Mrs. Mary Lawson, Jim Rose, Dorothy Stapley and Bruce Sills, and Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Leggat served on the field.

Archdeacon Creeggan and Rev. Everett Smith were kept busy visiting and helping where necessary. The committee was invaluable at affairs of this kind, sharing the good fellowship and worked hard to ensure that everybody enjoys themselves. The ice cream cones were very popular with the teen-agers.

HISTORIC QUEBEC

islanders put out into the river to signal their welcome to the royal couple as they approached the heart of French Canada.

Twice the Queen appeared at the railing of the Britannia to wave to the handful welcoming party in the boats.

Shortly after the Britannia was moored to a scrubbed pier, the royal couple appeared on the deck and slowly made their way down the flagged-draped gangplank.

The Queen's gaze wandered along the long-faced Cape Diamond and along the shoreline to the shoreline to the Little Sailors' Church of Notre Dame de la Garde, to the humble workers' homes with their clothes lines strung from one balcony to another.

Premier Duplessis spoke some rapid words to the Queen as he welcomed her and she smiled nodding her head. The premier shook hands with Prince Philip and then with Princess Anne.

"Ce va bien?" (everything goes well?) the premier asked.

"Oui," replied Prince Philip with a smile.

The Queen was dressed in a stunning yellow ensemble, with white accessories. She wore a crown of yellow and white with a matching veil. Prince Philip wore a dark grey suit and carried a brown hat.

MEDALLION PRESENTED

The Queen walked slowly to the red - carpeted, flag - bedecked platform to her left and then the regimental band, wearing the red tunics of the Black Watch regiment, struck up the national anthem.

The band played the traditional slow march—the French - Canadian "Sur le Pont d'Avignon" (The Family Prayer)—while the Queen walked at a brisk gait inspecting the troops.

The Queen returned to the platform where seven - year - old Michele Gagnon, granddaughter of Quebec Premier Duplessis, presented her with a bouquet of massive orchids.

The Queen and the prince chatted with Mr. Gagnon and Mr. Duplessis and then walked to a flag - bedecked panorama before walking to their limousine.

The crowd of about 300 then broke into loud applause.

HISTORIC SPOT

Led by a 10-man khaki-clad provincial police escort the royal party sped along Petit Champlain Street from Wolfe's Cove and drove up Dalhousie Street, a gulley-like paved road up the heights of the natural rock which is to be the exact spot where General Wolfe 200 years ago scaled the cliffs to defeat Montcalm and his troops.

From the top of the gulley the royal party drove through the misnamed Plains of Abraham—actually a series of Martin's rolling cow pasture that became the battleground between that decisive battle in the 18th century and the present day—to the Legislature for control of the North American continent.

There the royal couple grand alee and moved toward city hall. Hundreds of Quebec citizens had formed a large and enthusiastic part of the crowd which greeted the royal couple.

Some of the boys ran alongside the procession for blocks.

Aldermen Get $700 Increase In Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—City aldermen voted 12 to 9 Monday to give themselves a $700 annual wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

On approval of the city finance committee, the wage increase is expected to cost taxpayers an additional $14,700.

The sum will decrease in 1937 when the number of aldermen is reduced from 21 to 14. Aldermen now receive $500 a year.

Executive's Wife Gets Bulk of Actor's Estate

The 42-year-old portrayer of incredible feats on TV killed himself with a gun in his home last Tuesday, police said.

The will named as major beneficiary Mrs. Toni Mannix, wife of Eddie J. Mannix, vice-president of Loew's, Incorporated.

The will left nothing to Leonore Lemmon, 35, of New York, who said she and Reeves were to have been married last Friday in Mexico.

Arthur Weissman, executor of the will, said Reeves had been a close friend of the Mannixes for many years and that Mrs. Mannix often had entertained in home and car and the unstated amount of money in his bank account.

Meanwhile, in Gatesburg, Ill., Reeves' mother said she doesn't believe her son killed himself. She has hired Hollywood lawyer Jerry Giesler to investigate the case.

Police said Reeves killed himself shortly after saying good-by to his two friends, Weissman and writer Robert Condon.

[illegible] Flash Fire Guts Bungalow Causing $5,000 in Damage

[illegible] — A 5.30 p.m. fire [illegible] a small out-building [illegible] Avenue, [illegible] the Trent [illegible]

[illegible] bungalow [illegible] Mr. Fabbri, who was alone in the house at the time, noticed the fire broke out, said the first thing he knew there was smoke and he smelt of kerosene oil.

The alarm was phoned into the Trenton Fire Department by [illegible] Fabbri, Bridge [illegible] Dufferin Avenue, who said at the scene of the fire that he had been visiting at the home of his small dog and had seen the fire. He rushed over to awaken Mr. Fabbri and to do what he could to help.

When the firemen arrived on the scene, flame was belching through the rear of the house and the intense heat was popping windows like firecrackers. They had little trouble in extinguishing the fire completely out by 6.05 p.m.

Among the first at the fire were Constables George Perrin and Ernest Hallett, who helped the firemen in laying the first line of hose into the building to water onto the burning building. The early hour accounted for the lack of a traffic problem.

INSIDE QUITTED

After the fire was out the entire inside had been gutted and the rear wall of the building [illegible]. Most of the furniture or clothing was saved. Testifying to the terrific heat which filled the building was the new refrigerator. When the door was opened it showed the entire contents, racks, etc., almost a melted mass and lying on the bottom of the unit. A new electric range was well soaked with water but appeared to have withstood the heat.

Mr. Fabbri, whose wife is still in Italy, had built the home himself and it was nearly finished. There appeared to be only one room inside the house which had been completed and the rest of them had all been finished using plywood for panelling.

The owner had told neighbors he was planning on having siding for the outside in the near future and getting it on during the warm weather.

Mr. Fabbri is employed by the Belleville Construction Company in the day and in the evenings he works at Graham Motors. From then until he goes to bed he has been working on his house.

The house will have to be almost completely torn down and built again although Mr. Fabbri did not know [illegible] by what he plans to do. The foundation and main floor were about all that was not severely damaged by the flames. It is situated on the road which leads into the Stokely - VanCamp Canning Factory.

SPOLETO, Italy (AP)—American jazz king Louis Armstrong was taken to hospital today, suffering from an attack of pneumonia.

Italian doctors who examined Armstrong after the attack hurriedly today said that he had suffered a heart attack. But an examination by specialists at the hospital showed that the 36-year-old musician had pneumonia.

The New Orleans-born trumpeter had come to Spoleto to direct jazz in the Festival of Two Worlds, directed by American composer Gian-Carlo Menotti.

The specialists said Armstrong's condition was not grave.

Protest Naming Of Pilot for The Britannia

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A protesting Great Lakes captain has protested the appointment of Capt. Leighton Crawford as pilot of the royal yacht Britannia when it travels the lakes.

Capt. Norman S. Johnston, a member of the board of examiners for the Welland-Sarnia district pilots, said Monday in a telegram to Prime Minister Dieterbaker:

"It would appear that Capt. Crawford is being rewarded for the second time by the marine services branch of the department of transport for heading a strike-breaking crew last year against the Great Lakes Pilots' Association.

"His first reward appears to be his appointment as head of the government organization of pilots in this area in 1939 . . ."

Capt. Johnston said in his telegram he was sure "the Queen would not approve of this appointment if she knew of the circumstances, and many fine men on the Great Lakes Pilots' Association would resent the appointment."

He "Star" I suggest the pilot who received the highest marks on the ships' pilots rating guide be given this honor."

SOCREDS STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE

Alberta's provincial election, unlike Ontario's, produced a surprise. The landslide victory which the Social Credit government of Premier Manning scored was not expected.

Post-election rationalisation may make much of the fact that nobody votes against Santa Claus and that Alberta's rich oil deposits have made it easy for the Socreds to play Santa. The truth of the matter is, though, that most people would even get tired of Santa if he had been boss of the household for 24 continuous years, instead of being merely an annual visitor. The Socreds' lengthy tenure of power, together with their massacre on the Federal battlefield a year ago, had suggested that their majority, if it did not disappear, would at least be diminished. Instead they gained 20 seats, four of them new seats and the other sixteen won from the opposition.

How does one explain the difference between the results of the federal and provincial voting in Alberta? One easy explanation is that voters like to have different parties in power at Ottawa and in the provincial capital, that when there is a Liberal administration in Ottawa people have a tendency to turn their backs on the Liberal party in the provinces, and that, with the Progressive Conservatives now in power in the federal field, the people of Alberta did not want to see the same party governing the province. That explanation, though, begs the question of why the same principle was not more evident in the recent Ontario election.

Actually, as figures for the popular vote show, there was not so great a difference between the way people voted in the federal and provincial elections as the party standings would suggest. Although the Progressive Conservatives elected only one member compared with three in 1955, their share of the popular vote increased from 9 per cent to 23 per cent. The CCF fared poorly, its percentage vote dropping from 8 per cent in 1955 to 5 per cent this election. But it was what happened to the Liberals which told the story of the election. Their share of the vote was more than halved, from 31 per cent to 14 per cent, and their representation in the legislature cut even more sharply, from 15 to one. With the vote for conservatism other than those representing the four parties in the field declining from five to two per cent of the total, there was 23 per cent of the total vote lying unused to be picked up. The Conservatives grabbed the lion's share, 14 per cent, but still left nine per cent to be added to the already overwhelming vote for the Socreds, boosting that party's share of the vote from 47 per cent to a whopping 56 per cent.

No party which can win 61 out of 65 seats in a provincial election is going to abandon hopes of becoming a power in federal politics and we can be sure that Social Credit will make another bid for seats in the Commons at the next Federal election.

THOSE SLOW BRITISH

Those poor British; so slow. Why don't they get in step with the modern age? Automation, increased production - - those are the magic words today.

Item One - - At a 370-acre experimental farm of the University of Reading straight furrows have been abandoned because it is faster for the man on the steerage hoe or cultivator to work round and round, rather than up and down.

Item Two - - At the same farm a driverless tractor has left a yard, passed through two gateways, moved around a field dropping bales of straw from a converted manure spreader and then returned to the yard and stopped.

Item Three - - W. H. Cashmore, director of National Institute of Agricultural Engineering, has suggested a new way to speed potato harvesting - - breed potatoes which could be lifted by their tops with the tubers still attached and then strip off the potatoes.

And, finally, Item Four. In the Welsh county of Montgomeryshire 2,000 cows will receive an injection of serum from pregnant mares, four days before artificial insemination. The purpose - - to introduce hormones which it is hoped will induce the production of twins.

Making a cow give two calves for the price of one ought to produce a lot of beefs.

Famed conductor Leopold Stokowski can't understand why people noisily applaud after hearing beautiful music, thus breaking the magnificent silence after the last note has been sounded. Maybe he can't find an alternative whereby people may otherwise express their appreciation. (Niagara Falls Review.)

THE LESSON OF THE PAST

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

The troubles of a year ago
Have vanished, where, I do not know.
The cares I thought would weigh me down
And smeared my visage with a frown,
No longer seem to pester me;
But I never forget to care I see.
If those I grieved about back then
Bothered by, I know not how or when,
Will not those troubles also

Why should I face them, so afraid?
Why should I frown from day to day
And think that they have come to stay?

Through bygone woes I've lived to smile;
They lasted but a little while.
This is the lesson of the past;
No care is great enough to last.
Experience that yet may bear today
Will seem quickie silly away.

Chiefs Question Indians

New York Times

Whether the level of business activity goes down (as it did last year) or up (as it seems to be going this year) the amount of paperwork thought necessary to business operations continues to increase and so does the number of people needed to pass papers back and forth. Ten years ago the one employee in forty in the United States was a paperwork-er; today, one in every six. As the number of Chiefs (persons at executive vice-presidential rank) has increased, so also has the number of those the people who actually perform the work scheduled and supervised by the Chiefs. An result of all this is that in many organizations the chief responsibility for achievement or failure has become less sharply defined. How-ever, if it always is clear who is someone, toward the end of the business day, of command, upon whom can be laid all or a large part of the blame if something has gone wrong, or threatens to.

At this lower level a peculiar form of interrogation has developed for use when a chief is doubtful of an Indian's decision or is opposed to it, but not open-ly. (Once the Indians have been known to be right). The e se questions aimed at the operating level Indians are rarely asked in per to be remarkably similar, but the answers are different. Ex-cf. If a chief says to an Indian, "Did you do that?" — referring to action taken or decision made — this is the challenge direct and blunt. The Indian is apt to say "No," or by the incriminating "Yes, but . . ." or "No, but . . ." It is the most simple and direct form of executive interrogation, and it is rarely employed by chiefs less often than some other forms of questioning, such as: "Why did you do it that way?" This may resemble, on the hearing, the first form of infor-mation, but the Indian will recog-nize it for what it is — a query in meaning, "Why did the wrong thing, so you'd better tell me what you were thinking of, see?" A more abrupt form of the fore-going is, "How did you ever do that?" — which is, obviously, a bad disapproval.

More subtle is, "Who told you to do that?" — implying that action taken was ridiculous but that the interrogator is willing to give the Indian the benefit of the doubt by blaming that the decision really was someone else's. Wise Indians will accept the implica-tion gratefully and pass the buck thereby spreading the responsi-bility as thinly as possible in the same vein but more candid is the query, "What makes you think that's the way to do it?" — which demands from the Indian some sort of coherent ex-planation which, since he will sense he is doomed, may be hard to produce.

Then there is the warning giv-en before a job is undertaken, such as, "You're probably right, but go ahead anyway" — a Gold-ilocks test, translated by the Indian means, "You're 'way off base, but you'll never learn from scratch." The less oblique approach is, "If I were you, I'd do it that way," which needs no transla-tion. Or a Chief may shoot down an Indian's project by ask-ing, "Just how much thought have you really given to that?"

A variant of the Chief's "I-d-n't-think-this-will-work" ap-proach is, "Seems odd you'd want to do that now" — implying that either what the Indian is do-ing is not timely or that he should leave well enough alone and stop rocking the boat.

Another version of "Who told you to do that?" is the more per-sonal question, "Where'd you get the idea to do it like this?" — which defeats the Indian's defense. The question or, again, offers an opportunity to shift responsibility for the idea to some other person as the challenge direct ("Did you do that?"). It "didn't you do that?" — and since to explain why one did not do something that appears to be wrong is never done is as difficult as trying to defend the indefen-sible. It is clear that this variant can be extremely troublesome. When one hears, "Why didn't you think of that before?" or "Why didn't you think to ask me?" — the Indian senses that the Chief has failed to field a ball himself and hopes to avoid having to accept a boo-ner. Sometimes a Chief will preface the Indians by saying, or scribbling on a memorandum, "That last job was well done," but mostly the Chief encourages Indians get questions beginning with "Why" — which suggests that, as they say without smiling, is the way the cookie crumbles.

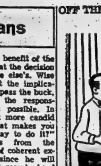
Giant Frog On Display

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

There will be widespread satisfaction in the announce-ment that the giant "Columbia Frog" has found a position of honor in the museum of the York-Sunbury Historical Society at Fredericton where it is one more on public display.

This fascinating curiosity, mounted on a base, reposed for many years in the main lobby of the Barker House at Fred-ericton. In the days before tourist bureaus began to func-tion, it drew visitors to the New Brunswick capital from near and wide by reason of the legends surrounding it. The stories were spread by picture postcard and by word of mouth across the continent.

Legend had it that the dis-tinguished-looking batrach-ian case was the stuffed remains of a frog discovered in the Killar-ney area. It was sold to Wilbur Mr. Frederick B. Coleman, the early hotel proprietor, purchased on a special diet after becoming a pet. It was said to have weighed seven pounds when one found and forty-two pounds at death.



Inherited by Mr. S. L. Cheun-ey, the famous frog from his family it continued to attract the curious until Mr. Coleman's retirement from the hotel busi-ness in 1949. He took it with him to his new home, and Fred-ericton, planning to have it re-conditioned for display again. Mr. Coleman died in 1956 and the frog was discovered in a garage at Lincoln.

Now it has been presented to the society's museum by Mrs. Ike Coleman for safekeeping and future exhibition. The collection includes the glass case and a mahogany table upon which the display is set. Also known 75 years old, this intriguing table has been used continuously since the purpose for which it was first preserved.

Should Train Successors

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Mr. Adenauer's decision to remain, at 83 as chancellor of West Germany, highlights again the fact that the world is being run by elder statesmen.

Although the life expectancy has been considerably increased in recent years, it is generally conceded that the age of sixty is one which should accompany some release from heavy re-sponsibilities. In the West, how-ever, there appears to be little chance of leaders. Eisenhower, 69; de Gaulle, 69; Macmillan, 65; Dr. Diefenbaker, 64, making way for a younger generation.

Even if we expect to be still as dynamic at 83 as Adenauer and Churchill, one would think that there should be some move-ment for the training of young successors. There is the cus-tomary gathering round of old cronies and men of similar age to hold the responsible positions.

Surely there must be good brains and inborn ability com-manship among the younger men in politics. Although in fairness to the veteran politi-cians, they are continuing to faithful old party followers, would it not be much better to be-queath to the best brains that were sought-out, and their own-ers trained for the responsibilities in life?

In our view, people entering politics should have to take an oath similar to the Hippocratic oath, that they will devote their talents to the ultimate good of the country. This should involve, when the time came, the train-ing of younger men, and eventual re-tirement from office once these men were ready.

THE ETERNITY BEYOND

The book of Revelation has often greatly troubled Christian be-livers. It is a mysterious book described as heavenly things. Most of its symbolism appears to be beyond human comprehension, but its beauty is lost upon no one who appreciates beauty of thought and language. Also peo-ple whose hearts aspire for high-er things find in this Book of Revelation, assurance and comfort which greatly supports their spiritual lives.

In the 21st chapter of Revela-tion, John says: "And I saw no temple therein." He has just been describing the glories of the heavenly city, and it would seem, John declared that there is no church in heaven. He saw nothing in that heavenly setting, but he saw no church.

Why? Because there never was and never will be any need of a church in heaven. Here on earth we have to set aside times, places, buildings and men to the deepening of our spiritual capacities. But in heaven the whole set-aside areas of holi-ness. The whole of heaven is sacred. There is no need for a holy church in heaven because there is no unholy area that sanctity of church could possibly be. It is the enlargement to infinity of what we have in small compass here on earth.

No church in heaven! And for good reason. No area in heaven set aside for sacred use because there is no area completely sac-red.

We begin to live the heavenly life here on earth; we complete it in the eternity beyond.

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Each year, the gents clothing trade selects a new word to dis-tinguish the season's fashions. A few years ago, it was "the sack-ed." That was the year of the rough, tough be-mat Edwardian look, open at the neck, no tie. And big thick rubber soles on the feet. Rugged.

This year, it is "continental." Presumably this returns to the Continent of Europe, and high fashion gives us a rather prim French or Italian look, neat, tidy, narrow, just the ticket for taking her lefty's arm in the Bois, or gleaic walk in the neat, tidy, nar-row little park.

In the restaurant lobby yester-day I saw a gentleman done up in the height of the new conti-nental fashion. He was in his thir-ties, slender, dapper, natty, a sar-gacr to please everybody within sight but himself.

"Yoo-hoo!" he kept exclaim-ing, in the true continental spirit. Yes, sir, a real boulevardier.

"Hey, Harry," he called to the head waiter at the door. "How's about a table for four, huh?"

"In two minutes," said the head waiter.

"Yoo-hoo!" cried the boulevar-dier, gallantly, as his wife and com-panions, throwing in a continen-tal gesture, both hands for emphasis.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON SPENDING ONE'S LIFE

There is an earthly end to each one of our lives. Some live to be a hundred, ending one of triumph and pride. I came across this line by William James: "The best use of life is to spend it for something that outlasts it." What nobler purpose can any of us have? Whatever we have ac-ed out to us in life, we should be glad to happy give an account of to one. None of our prized treasures, not even our own chil-dren, so let us put them all in nests that they can continually grow in love, where they can continue to be a source of joy to many.

This life was given to us that we might learn to expend it, thus finding in the appreciation of beauty and the enlargement of life itself. We keep living through experiences of others. This has gone on for centuries, and the richness is what has flavored life for us all. I have learned that the continues to be harmful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am plagued with two terrible ail-ments. My doctor says I need an operation. I hear from dif-ferent quarters that the operation isn't very successful. Any information will be appreciat-ed. — Mrs. S.P."

Well, I'm certainly not in sym-pathy with resorting to surgery every time "Dise trouble" is suspected. When the condition has been thoroughly studied and an operation is known to be the only reasonable solution, that's another matter.

Might I ask what these sources were for the "information" that the operation "isn't very success-ful"? True, it is intricate sur-gery. True, also, that it doesn't give you a brand new spine. But in the cost of some stiffness in the area requiring correction, it gives you a new lease on life and puts an end to the pain. If it were my back, I'd rather have the trouble corrected. I don't feel sure, would you. I wonder why some have a tendency to become trouble-makers and bearers of gloomy predictions when someone else is receiving the type of operation. It's a cruel thing to do, don't you think?

"Dear Dr. Molner: What do you think of hypnosis for drunks? I am a man who is driving us all crazy. — I.W."

Hypnosis is a tool. It is not a magic. It is not a "quick way out" when a problem arises. Hypnosis is a method of an ex-pert (since it is a complicated psychiatric tool used by the dis-coverer the pressures which impel someone to drink. Only then is the corrective hypnosis to make the whole thing easy — one day at a time. Sometimes it is easy and the next day he suddenly realizes that his whole society drive is not to be expected. Hypnosis, I suspect, will become more used in the future, but not if people think it has magic properties.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am en-closing 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a leaflet, 'Dot Trifle with Too-Much Sweetening.' I've had it now they are growing back in. The small intestine has been-come inflamed and troublesome, and the constrictions for a "second removal" are just what they were for the first. It is fine and let the tissue is swollen, infected and upset by the courts.

Postman As Censor

New York Times

The authority of the Postmaster General to censor the mails for obscene material presents dif-cult problems. He is beset by conflicting views as to "clean the mails" but must also be con-siderate of the Constitution and common sense limitations on such censorship. The standards are ill-defined and never easy to apply.

Given these difficulties, there could hardly be a poorer occasion for Postmaster General Day to exercise his power than that of Lady Chatterley's Lover. Whatever one thinks of D. H. Lawrence novel — and the critics are by no means unanimous on it — it is a serious literary work with an established reputation.

Censorship by the post office is perhaps most justifiable when it is intended to keep offensive material from persons who have not asked for it. Whatever the borderline of taste should not be forced on those offended by them. The small fraction of potentially exposed to "Lady Chatterley" who object to four shillings is hard-ly to its subscribers. As long as the book is sold freely in Britain and over the counter, the post office is protecting no one by a foolish attempt to censor it in the end be-

In his remarks Mr. Dingman said "It is only by associating with each other, the sharing of new ideas and techniques, that the printer can progress in his chosen field. Fortune Tellers Under Inquiry At City Council

A question as to whether fortune telling establishments could be legally operated in the city failed to get an opinion from city solicitor R. A. Pringle at last night's meeting of city council.

During the meeting the question was raised by Alderman Les Digby, who wanted to know if they were legal and also whether or not the operators had taken out transient traders licences.

It was noted by the alderman that two fortune-tellers had recently opened for business on East Bridge Street.

Mr. Pringle said that as he did not know the nature of the operation being carried on he could not answer but agreed that if they were not residents they should have a transient traders licence.

He said it was the duty of the police commission or crown attorney to say whether the operation of such a business was legal. Acting City Treasurer Gerrard Miner was instructed to find out if the operators of the fortune telling establishments had taken out transient traders licences.

What do you know about that?

"What do you know about that?" How often you hear a newspaper reader ask this question! It's largely a rhetorical question, of course, because the newspaper reader already knows ALL about whatever it is.

The primary purpose of the newspaper is to supply the ANSWERS to the questions that most interest and most concern people. Questions as close to home as this year's local tax rate. Questions as far afield as what is happening on the other side of the world . . . which may none the less directly bear on your future.

Your answer to the question, "What do you know about that?" is likely to depend on how closely you read your newspaper . . . for accurate and complete information on everything that it is important for you to know.

Groves' Family Holds Reunion At Eagle Lake

Father's Day, 1959, will be a memorable one for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Groves of Madoc. On Sunday, June 21st, 50 members of the Groves family gathered at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Fleming, Eagle Lake, Coe Hill, to honor and pay tribute to Mr. Groves, who is 85 years of age and also to each of the other eight fathers present.

As Mr. Groves sat at the head of the long picnic table surveying his family, he saw before him two of his three daughters, and his three sons, each with their separate families, which included for Mr. Groves 17 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. The youngest great-grandchild was just nine months old.

When everyone's appetite had been appeased at the bounteous table, Mr. Groves briefly expressed his gratitude to his children and his pride in his family, thus ending a happy day for all.

Mrs. C. Bamber Hostess for W.I. Meeting

The June meeting of Foxboro Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Carman Bamber with new president, Mrs. C. LaRue, in the chair, and 12 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. W. Simmons with the assistance of Mrs. P. Kilpatrick, gave an interesting talk on the motto, "Nature has granted to all to be happy if we but know how to use her gift" stating that happiness is God-given if we abide by His rules.

Convener for agriculture, Mrs. G. Gay read and informative market-cast from "Farmer's Today" magazine.

REPORT ANNUAL

One of the delegates to the annual at Stirling Hill was unable to attend and Mrs. P. Kilpatrick kindly substituted and reliance with an interesting report stating that the most interesting meeting of the past year had been the February supper meeting at which Dr. Loynes was the guest speaker.

The Federated Board representatives, Mrs. Gillespie, speaking at the annual had asked that programs be kept on a high place, dignity and high ideals be presented as well as social activities and entertainment, that W.I.'s should always be ready to throw out a helping hand for home and country.

Mrs. C. Hubble, second delegate to the annual, reported the local Leaders' Training School in this area this year will be on "How to save dollars and make sense."

The Training School last year was on rug making and many beautiful rugs were displayed at the annual.

Mrs. E. Morgan called on Mrs. W. Simmons to lead a lively singsong. Mrs. C. Hubble read a humorous poem on "Voting" Subject director, Mrs. W. Johnson recently attended a conference at the Agricultural College at Guelph and reported the main speaker at the conference was Dr. Helen Abel of the Dept. of Agriculture at Toronto who spoke on "Changes in Rural and Suburban Living."

TO PURCHASE SPOONS

A decision was made to purchase spoons commemorating the Royal Visit and sell them at a small profit to make money for the branch.

Mrs. J. Reynolds and Mrs. C. Bamber represented the branch at the annual banquet of the Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. Bamber gave the report stating that with the excellent training given to blind people by the C.N.I.B. it was almost impossible to realize that they were blind. There are 130 blind people in Hastings County.

"It was a privilege to attend the banquet and find out first hand what is being done with money collected and the report should inspire us all to take an active part in the next C.N.I.B. canvas," she stated.

Mrs. LaRue reminded the group of the conundrum tea and sale to be held in Foxboro in September. The conveners are Mesdames Hubble, Simmons, Kilpatrick and Hayton.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Johnston.

A wedding gift from the Fox-

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE "JOINT GIFT" SHOWER IS EXCHANGING POPULAR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We would like to know what your point of view is about giving a "joint gift" shower for a bride-to-be who is an office co-worker of ours. Her friends outside the office have given her a kitchen shower, a linen shower, and a miscellaneous shower, but we know of one electrical appliance she very much wants, and really can't at the moment afford. Thank you for any suggestions.

— We Two.

Under these circumstances I think a "joint gift" is an excellent idea . . . and there is good reason why it is becoming increasingly popular. When, as in your case, a group knows what the bride-to-be particularly wants, and has figured out that their individual contributions can buy for $10, it can make every body satisfied, can save wear-and-tear of deciding on a gift or gifts and then shopping for it or them. Everybody's happy! And in this particular story, when the "joint gift" may be the quite expensive gift, it offers a very sensible idea for the group to hint to the bride-to-be that this joint-gift for the shower is also intended as the wedding present also. I'm sure she'll understand and approve.

APPROPRIATE INVITATIONS TO A SHOWER

Dear Mr. Beeckman:

Some time ago I bought a supply of the large white semi-engraved cards, the so-called "fill in" kind (one sees them sometimes mention in your columns) and used most of them for a large tea I was giving in honor of a friend who was visiting me. I have all of the cards left over, and since I am planning to invite just that number of friends to a shower I'm planning to give for a friend of mine who is to be married next month, would these be correct to use for this?

— Louise K.

I wouldn't advise you to use these on-the-formal side cards for the invitations to this small, informal shower-party. To do this properly, your friend should verbally or by telephone; by invitations written on your personal or semi-oval paper or simple shower-invitation cards you'll find at your stationers.

Boro branch was presented to Mrs G. Meyers in token which will be married this month in Calgary.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served and a social time spent.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess, Mrs. C. Bamber.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and some writers. Each week a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Leona J. — It's wrong to be too proud to accept help from Dad.

Charles J. — He's insulting!

Leona J. — My husband and I were married ten years ago despite my parents' strong opposition. They wanted me to marry a very wealthy man who was interested in me.

We had a struggle, but are now out of debt and looking for a home. We have four youngsters and need more space. We were interested in a few places, but my father just laughed when he saw them. He used to be in the construction business and says that the homes we consider are shanties.

Dad wants to help us with a down payment on a better home. I feel we ought to accept as he can well afford it, but my husband won't hear of it. I feel it's wrong to let pride stand in the way.

Charles J. — My father-in-law never fails to make a point of what he considers our terrible poverty. He constantly refers to how well off his son and other two daughters are. Whenever he visits our home he brings big bags of food and various household extras. It's darn insulting.

I'm not too proud to want to do the best for the kids, but I really can't take his throwing up at me what he has done for us. I know him and I know he would do this. It's a shame that the kids have to suffer for it because I know that the contribution he wants to make would mean nothing to him.

The houses we've looked at aren't luxurious, but they're not shanties either.

The Council: It may be "wrong" to let pride stand in the way of a family's welfare if the situation is desperate, but we wouldn't. Just wash pride down the drain for the sake of a few frills.

Charles is apparently well able to take care of his family's basic needs. He should not have to accept stupid, tactless behavior from anyone. It is more important to his children's welfare that he feel like a free and self-respecting human being than that they have a better home.

The father-in-law in this case needs more curbing than merely the refusal of his offer about the home. It appears that he is trying to inject himself between husband and wife, that he is trying to show Leona he is still his big, much-needed daddy who can give her things her husband can't.

This man is most unfortunate and needs some steering — probably from his wife. He needs to learn to accept his role as an older man — the father of a grown family.

Leona should recognize that she is to some extent responsible for her father's behaving as he does. It's time at least to make a drama. If Leona did not enjoy the special attention she gets from her father he would lose interest in playing that role. She is far too ready to accept things from him.

We see no harm in the acceptance of help or gifts in a family if the emotional basis is sound. In this case it doesn't seem to be. Leona should let her dad down gently, but she must express his love and devotion, she is thoroughly satisfied with her husband and the living he provides.

Smartly Simple

By VERA WINSTON

A find is the deceptively simple dress that is so well done that it can go anywhere for summer travel or town.

The one shown is of textured silk and linen fabric in melon color, yellow or royal blue. Easy to don, since it buttons to below the waist, it is cut on straight definite lines. The soft collar ties casually; the sleeves are cut in one with the dress and are slightly belled. Breaking the line slightly are small, horizontal, slit pockets at hip-bone height.

Decorated Sandwich Loaves

by Mary Moore

No matter where you go, who you are, how many are present, summer or winter, decorated sandwich loaves have a place. I think they are here to stay for a long time.

Aggie Lillias has done some careful calculating for you and me — this time working with two sandwich loaves which will serve 15 to 20 people.

DECORATED SANDWICH LOAVES:

Use serve 15 or 20). Two sandwich loaves were ordered, sliced lengthwise. The long outside crusts were included to keep the loaves fresh but not used when it was made up.

When ready to assemble cut off side crusts. You probably will have 4 slices about ½" thick. Make up these fillings: 1) One 8-oz. package cream cheese mixed with ½ cup mayonnaise and ½ cup finely chopped walnuts. 2) One 7½ oz. tin salmon, drained, mixed with ½ cup mayonnaise with a little sweet pickle juice and 2 tablespoons mince sweet pickle. 3) Five hard-cooked eggs, chopped finely, salt, pepper, minced onion, dry mustard, ¼ cup mayonnaise. 4) Two tins liver pate, used as is, after oozing out of the refrigerator a little while. Butter each crustless slice with very soft butter and stack bread, as you are going to form sandwich loaf on clean, large sheets of wax paper. (If you cover the table with bread wraps it will save a lot of mess.) Now you are ready to go. Make both loaves simultaneously and place each slice just where you want it to stay and there will be no further moving. First spread with the cheese on each slice on each of the papers, then put the next slice of bread on then proceed with the other fillings using to the end of fillings and bread. You will repeat only the cheese and maybe the egg filling. Brush away surplus crumbs from wax paper and press down up to enclose loaves tightly. Wrap in additional layer of wax paper or tea toweland refrigerate 24 hours. One hour before serving time spread with Cheese Coating: Mix well togeth-

United Nations Short of Money

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says that for the first time the United Nations has had to borrow money from other funds to pay its bills between now and July 1.

Part of the financial trouble has been caused by the failure of many countries to pay their assessments for the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

UNEF is costing about $15,000,000 a year and there is a deficit of $13,000,000 in collections on assessments for 1957-58.

The eight-country Soviet bloc has refused to pay anything to support UNEF on the ground that Britain, France and Israel were the aggressors in the Suez crisis and should pay the entire cost. The United Arab Republic and other Arab members have not paid their assessments.

The Times says it learned from reliable sources that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold borrowed $2,500,000 from technical assistance funds administered by the UN to meet expenses during May and June—always difficult months for UN finances since many of the larger member countries do not pay all their annual dues until the second part of the year.

ACCIDENTS KILL MANY DEER

MAPLE—More deer have been killed by accident or illegally in the Lake Simcoe district during the past five years than legally in open seasons, according to a report compiled by assistant senior conservation officer J. S. Dorland, of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests here.

During the five year period, 527 deer have been killed by motor vehicles, trains, dogs and illegal hunting compared with somewhat over 400 taken by hunters during legal open seasons in a few of the northern townships of the district. A breakdown shows: Vehicle kill 333, dog kill 62, Illegal kill 130, legal kill 407. The legal kill total is for only 4 years, the 1st record for 1955 not being available.

Dave Garroway Calls Incident 'Tragic Thing'

NEW YORK (CP)—Dave Garroway told his coast-to-coast television audience Mon. that what happened to Canadian television personality Joyce Davidson over her criticism of the Royal Tour on his program was "a tragic thing."

Garroway, on his NBC-TV show Today, held up a picture of Miss Davidson, who was a guest on his show last week, and said he had heard she had resigned her position with the CBC because of the reaction in Canada to her criticism expressed on his program.

(In Toronto Sunday night Miss Davidson said she was taking a brief rest from the CBC show. Tabloid, "to spare the CBC the inevitable embarrassment her appearance would cause." The CBC said no pressure was applied to prevent her from continuing with the show, and that it appeared possible she would return once the reaction had died down.)

Garroway said on his show this morning: "I think it's too bad that this had to happen over Joyce expressing her opinion. I want to thank the American public for allowing me to give my opinions for eight years.

"I think this is a tragic thing that has happened to Joyce."

Later, Garroway told the Canadian Press:

"The CBC made a big thing of this because Joyce was on an American network."

He added that there was a possibility that Miss Davidson will be invited back to his show.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian visitors spent $425,000,000 in the United States in 1958, $100,000,000 more than U.S. travellers spend in Canada, the U.S. commerce department reports. Canadians accounted for more than half of the $825,000,000 spent here by foreigners last year, the department said. The total figure represents a five - per - cent increase over 1957.

Little Hope For Settlement By Deadline

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel negotiators have eight days left to reach a peaceful settlement on a new labor contract. There is little hope that differences will be settled by the June 30 deadline.

The industry has given many indications it does not want to let the United Steelworkers Union in a strike. Executives feel they can avoid some of the pressures that forced them to settle in other years.

Union President David J. McDonald shows no sign of relenting in his quest for a substantial wage increase—something he has not yet defined—and other economic gains. Workers now earn an average of $3.03 an hour.

For the first time in USW-steel industry negotiations, company executives show no nervousness about saying they expect a strike.

INDUSTRY WOOS PUBLIC

In many ways the industry has taken the offensive. It has made its position known to the public as quickly as it informed the union. It has openly sought public support. Customers have been alerted and the industry has been operating at near capacity for months trying to build up inventories. It's hard to guess how successful this has been, because steel consumption also has been booming.

The companies insist that any increase in labor costs will have to be met with higher steel prices. Twice since 1956 executives have been called to Washington to explain price increases to congressional groups. They don't want to go again.

McDonald repeatedly has referred to the steel firms' attitude as the opening effort of big industry to weaken the labor movement. Such talk has aroused more than normal interest among other union leaders and makes them more likely than ever to lend moral and money support to the steel union.

There is no doubt that USW membership responds will be 100 per cent if McDonald signals for a strike at midnight June 30.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A wildcat strike Monday curtailed operations of the open hearth department of the south side plant of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

The strike was called by Local 1272—the home local of USW President David J. McDonald. The local has about 5,500 members.

There were no disorders and workers in other departments were allowed to cross picket lines.

A company spokesman said there appeared to be a dispute over incentive rates for workers in the open hearth department.

Seaway Carries More Tonnage Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Cargo carried through the St. Lawrence Seaway in the first full month of operation totalled 2,343,450 tons—or just about 30 per cent more than the same period a year ago on the canal system.

The statistics for May operations this year were released today in a preliminary statement of toll traffic issued by Canadian and United States authorities.

The actual increase in Cargo was 741,360 tons, representing a gain of 46.3 per cent of May traffic last year when the 14-foot canal system was still in operation.

Sharpest rake of increase was in inbound traffic, which totalled 785,200 tons compared with 57,923. But downbound cargo remained the biggest item.

A total of 1,458,250 tons went down river in May compared with 1,044,497 last year.

TRAFFIC DOWN

The increase in 1959 seaway traffic fell off in taking into account both April and May operations. The seaway statement said the later opening of navigation was responsible for this.

The 1959 April - May total of 2,676,712 tons was 21.8 per cent below the comparable period last year.

On the Welland Canal alone, all cargo tonnage up to the end of May was 4,226,315 compared with 1,112,567 tons for the corresponding period of 1958. In May alone, however, 3,096,659 tons went through, an increase of 13 per cent.

The April tonnages were well below normal, the statement said, because of the later opening and ice conditions persisting on the upper lakes.

Pope John Will Soon Issue First Encyclical

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John told an audience of 20,000 in St. Peter's Basilica Sunday that he soon will issue his first encyclical and that it will reiterate warnings to the world.

The encyclical would be similar to that each pontiff issues shortly after beginning his reign.

The Pope did not amplify his statement about the contents of the encyclical but commented briefly on the recessed Geneva Big Four foreign ministers conference, calling the conference another example of the difficulty of reaching agreement in the world, the pontiff said the "law of Christian love is essential to reach accord."

The Pope cautioned newspaper men "not to bear false witness" and observed that newspapers frequently are a roll-call of violations of the 10 commandments.

The Pope also disclosed that the ecumenical council to be held in about two years will address words to all who believe in Christ, including the Orthodox church in the East now divided from the Roman Catholic Church.

The council will not be destined above all to be a call to them, the pontiff pointed out, but "will be a gathering for ourselves."

BROTHERS REUNITED AFTER TWENTY YEARS — Kazimierz Taras (left) shows his brother Tadeusz around his Peterborough Ont., home after Tadeusz arrived from Poland. The last time Kazimierz saw his young brother, now 21, was during the Second World War when he was only a month and a half old. Modern stove and appliances fascinate the newcomer. Taras, taken by the Germans as a slave laborer, was sent to Sweden by the Red Cross and later came to Canada, where he is now a successful builder. His brother was allowed to leave Poland after application through the Canadian consulate. (CP Photo).

Brother Thinks Workers Have Cars Because They Are too Weak to Do Much Walking

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Kazimierz Taras was too caught up in the war in 1939 to pay much attention to his brother Tadeusz who was born just a few months earlier.

He regretted it soon because shortly afterwards the Germans took him from the family farm in Polowszyce, Poland, to a forced labor camp near Berlin and then to a concentration camp.

He survived the war and so did his brother. Last week they met here for what might be considered the first time because neither knew the other.

HAD TO BE FACED

"I had to have him paged on the loudspeaker system so we could say hello," said Kazimierz, now 37. "And when I finally did see him he was so much taller than I and it was almost too much."

His first job was to put his 21-year-old brother straight on a few things. "When he got in my car, he said 'I know why you have to have a car here. It's because all the workers in this country are so weak they cannot walk and they have to have a car to get around.'

"And I said, 'look at these muscles. Do they come from not enough to eat?'"

Kazimierz compared his own arrival in Canada to that of his younger brother's.

"I arrived here with no money, no language and no friends. I was just left at Union Station in Toronto with nowhere to go.

"I finally spent the night with a Polish family in Toronto and the next day I came to Peterborough.

FIRST ENTERPRISE

"I had a job arranged for me here and went to work at Peter's Borough Lumber Company. I started building houses in my own in my spare time and now I have my own business."

After he had married and become a Canadian citizen Taras thought of bringing his brother to Canada.

"We don't know and he doesn't know himself how he was finally allowed to leave Poland," he said.

"We made application through the Canadian consulate and finally after a lot of questioning by government officials he was allowed to leave the country.

"We thought it could have been the Canadian dollars. We paid $1,000 to get him out of Poland with dollars. Many of the people who are not being refused have no Canadian sponsor."

Tadeusz, who spent his first day in Canada watching the cars and visiting a supermarket, plans to work for his brother until he becomes accustomed to his new country, then put his Polish training to use as a specialized farmer.

STRESS EVANGELISM

Grievances Up As 250 African Women Riot

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)—A group of 250 African women staged a demonstration in central Durban today. Riot squads and firemen with hoses stood by.

The new demonstration began as African grievances against the Durban council mounted. A boycott of municipal buses in one non-white township and a protest against metering of water in another caused unrest among riot-conscious citizens.

Police used tear gas Monday to disperse a crowd of 200 Negro women demonstrating in the modern Kwa Mashu Township against the council's plan to meter the township's water supply.

BOYCOTT BUSES

Africans of Clermont, a suburb 16 miles outside Durban, started a boycott of municipal buses in protest against the council's plans to expropriate ground there for a bus depot. About 10,000 who usually ride municipal buses to work in Durban took trains, taxis and other means of transportation.

Otherwise conditions were almost back to normal in this big Indian Ocean port, where four Negroes were killed and 35 hurt in gangs burned in rioting last Thursday that grew out of an African protest against municipal beer halls.

Spokesman for the Africans stress that their quarrel is against methods of the city administration and not against the national government.

Military Heads Threaten to Oust Argentine Chief

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's government crisis appeared to be nearing a climax today as the move grew among military leaders to oust President Arturo Frondizi despite his cabinet's resignation.

Tension was heightened by Frondizi's refusal to accept the resignations of his three armed services secretaries, chief targets of the rebellious officers.

The threat were voiced against Frondizi's regime by his military opponents. They were reported to feel they are strong enough to force the embattled president out unless he meets their demands for sweeping changes.

Leaders of the clique talked openly of installing a military junta to replace the president, a landslide victor 16 months ago in Argentina's first free election in more than a decade.

MAY FORM COALITION

Frondizi told Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolol, long an administrative spokesman, to meet leaders of Argentina's political parties today to sound them out on the formation of a broad coalition that Frondizi was considering forming a coalition government.

Vitolo told reporters the mass cabinet resignation Monday indicated changes in the government's policies. He did not say what the changes would be, but observers believed they might have come too late to appease the military.

Iron Curtain Traders Busy In Ottawa Trying to Court Trade With Canadian Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of Iron Curtain countries are busily angling about Ottawa in unusual numbers and they make no bones of the fact they are courting increased trade with this country.

They seem to be making some headway.

They are interested in selling to Canada as well as buying from her with a view to reducing the big Canadian trade surpluses with Communist bloc countries of recent years. In 1958 Canada exported to Russia produce valued at $18,800,000 while importing only $1,600,000 from that country.

A member of the Czechoslovakian delegation said Monday night his country soon may buy up to $10,000,000 worth of chemicals and pulp and paper machinery from Canada.

Agriculture Minister Harkness confirmed Monday in the House of Commons that Canada agreed last week to sell Czechoslovakia 2,200,000 pounds of surplus pork, the first meat ever to be sold by Canada to that Communist country.

Canada lost $150,000 on this sale. Jaroslav Mercl, Czech commercial counselor in Montreal said in an interview the meat was bought for about $500,000, or 22 cents a pound. It cost the government 29 cents a pound under the support scheme by which it takes surplus hogs off farmers' hands and stores it.

A delegation of five deputies of the Soviet parliament told a press conference here Monday a new Canada-Russian trade treaty expected to be signed soon likely will increase both the volume and variety of trade between the two countries.

There are reports this new dickering is under way between Ottawa and Communist China that may lead to new trade deals with that country. No details are available on these negotiations.

All three countries want Canada to increase its purchases, however.

Rudolf Javorik, Czech deputy minister of chemical industries heading a four-man party on a tour of Canadian industries, announced his country will send a delegation to Canada within the next few weeks. It will attempt to negotiate purchases of $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 in Canadian synthetic rubber, carbon black and other chemicals and chemical products and in pulp and paper machinery. Price and credit terms would be factors in its decision whether to buy.

This delegation likely would negotiate with the Crown - owned Polymer Corporation and Cabot Carbon Company, both of Sarnia, and Abitibi Pulp and Paper of Port Arthur. Mr. Javorik has visited these two plants.

He said he is inviting representatives of these companies to visit corresponding industries in Czechoslovakia.

Peronist Support for Frondizi Comes Back to Sour His Rule

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Peronist support that helped Arturo Frondizi to power in Argentina last year has come back to haunt the president and his aides.

The 50-year-old lawyer - president dealing in secret pacts with the followers of exiled dictator Juan Peron. Doubtless he had little regard for Peron now as in pre-revolutionary days when he was one of the dictator's most outspoken foes.

But it's on the record that Peron urged his admirers to vote for Frondizi in the February election. Unofficial estimates have placed the number who did so at about 1,500,000. Another 500,000 balked, casting blank ballots instead.

Students of Latin American considered these figures in the light of past elections and apparently showed that Peron—24 years after being driven from office—was still wielded influence over 20 per cent of the Argentine electorate.

PERONIST CLAIM

Peronistas claimed that Frondizi owes his victory entirely since his margin over the Peronist candidate Ricardo Balbin was approximately 1,500,000. But Frondizi's party—the Intransigent Radical—got the Peronist vote estimate was exaggerated purposely to help extend the margin.

At any rate, it's significant that Frondizi's victory resulted from Radroit tight - rope walking that released supporters from following his own Radical Party to Nationalism and Socialism on the right and Communists on the left.

Observers predicted that a period of political and economic industrial enemies was bound to lead to a crisis and that's precisely what is developing.

Frondizi's critics erupted after publication of the alleged presidential pact with Peron. Frondizi and Peron—a pact which, the president has always denied, never existed. The Peronists complained their party has not received its share of the spoils property as promised.

Frondizi came under attack from several sides. Military commanders who helped depose Peron, now are demanding he compromise with his supporters, which aided their election to office.

The military also is demanding the suppression of communists, in turn waging a bitter campaign against Nationalists who are identified by Frondizi, who has been fighting against the left.

In the background of all this, Argentina is suffering from pain-ful industrial readjustments, and inadequate agricultural and industrial production.

Frondizi, often described as a "leftist intellectual," made a number of statements regarding state control or ownership of industries ranging from electric power to petroleum and transportation.

But last December he told his countrymen their only course to prosperity was through austerity, hard work and foreign help. Frondizi's foes were quick to yell that he had sold out to "Yankee imperialists" on the oil question, long an issue in Argentina.

Active Service Vote Favored Liberal Party

TORONTO (CP) — The active service vote in the June 11 Ontario election favored the Liberals, it was announced Monday. It did not move previously announced results, based on the civilian vote, in any constituency.

Figures announced by Roderick Lewis, chief election officer, showed 63th Liberal candidates in 63 of the province's 98 constituencies received a majority of votes cast in service camps and women on active service with the armed forces. The Liberals elected 22 members in the legislature.

The Progressive Conservatives, who won 71 seats in the election, led in 11 on the service vote. The CCF, which elected five members, did not lead in service voting in any constituency.

WRONG WAY

In Kenora, Liberal Albert Wren's four-vote margin on the civilian vote swung up to 13. He received 16 of 23 service votes to seven cast for his Conservative opponent, Mrs. Ruth Keffer. Wren gave these service-plus-civilian vote figures for the constituency: Mr. Wren 6,527, Mr. Keffer 6,514 and Miss Dorothy Ferguson, CCF, 4,-

Mr. Lewis telegraphed individual constituency service - vote results to local returning officers for use Thursday in making official declarations. Some constituencies have four days after the official count to apply for a judicial recount of ballots.

Tabulation by The Canadian Press showed the Liberals won 44.1 per cent of the popular vote, a ballot-by-mail arrangement, totalling 1,422,000 votes or 44.3,822 votes, or 60 per cent. Conservatives 2,322 votes, or 36 per cent; CCF 1,000 votes, or four per cent; others, two votes (one Social Credit and one Communist Labor-Progressive).

Civilian vote percentages were: Progressive Conservatives, 46; Liberal, 37; CCF, 17.

The total vote department of national defence estimated some 42,000 Ontario service men and women were eligible to vote. Of these, 8,063—7,910 stationed in Canada and the United States, 153 and 733 overseas—applied for ballots.

Some mailed ballots too late for the deadline and some spoiled by failure to observe voting markings. The spoiled ballots included those from men who voted for themselves.

The clan's annual meeting Saturday decided to forgo its claim to chieftainship put forward by Robertson's father and confirmed in 1938 by the Lord Lyon of Arms, the Scottish heraldic authority.

Welland Canal Again Ready to Take Shipping

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The Welland Canal, jinx of the St. Lawrence Seaway to date, went back into operation Monday night.

Repairs to one of its locks completed, the Welland opened its gates at 9:30 a.m. to the first pair of the 47 upbound ships gathered at the Port Weller entrance.

But downbound traffic was to be delayed for another 91 hours to allow new concrete at Lock 4 to cure.

The 27-mile waterway was closed early Sunday when it was found a defective timber sill at the lock was allowing seepage.

A mile-long section was drained to allow cementing of the sill to the apron.

The 47 ships delayed in their upbound journey and another 22 held up at the Port Colborne entrance constituted the greatest number to be stopped by the canal's failures since the seaway opened April 25.

Worried canal officials combed Monday that repairs could take up anywhere from 21 hours to three days.

Transport Minister Hees was asked in the Commons Monday about "new facilities" for the improvement of ship movements through the Welland.

"Those facilities are receiving very active consideration," he told Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Lauzier), former chairman of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Mr. Hees added: "But . . . it will be impossible to put in these additional facilities until the end of this present shipping season."

Among the ships lined up in Lake Ontario today were two United States Navy supply vessels, the vanguard of a U.S. fleet which is passing through the seaway.

Street Cleaners At Cornwall Out on Strike

CORNWALL (CP)—A strike by 26 city works employees Monday mean dirty streets for the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip Saturday.

Members of Local 234 of the National Union of Civic Employees struck Saturday to demand a 15 cent-an-hour wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

The employees, mostly street cleaners, have been offered an immediate wage increase of seven cents and the same in October.

Decorations for the royal visit were erected before the strike.

QUEENLY CROSSED ANKLES— Like a tired tourist Queen stands in the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Arvida, Quebec, as she watches smelter operators at work. Ike Will Be Kept Hopping, In Air, on Land and by Ship, Helping Queen Open Seaway

MONTREAL (CP) — President Eisenhower will be kept hopping Friday by the Queen of Canada, in Canada to help the Queen open the new St. Lawrence Seaway, he'll fly, walk, ride in a car and sail in a yacht—all in less than 12 hours.

The hectic, historic part will be in a neat triangle of 67 miles, almost all within sight of Montreal Island. He lands by air from Washington at St. Hubert airbase, travel by car eight miles to the seaway entrance at St. Lambert, sails by ship 31 miles to Beauharnois Locks, and flies by helicopter 28 miles back to St. Hubert.

Including the Washington flights, the president will travel almost 1,000 miles.

CHIEF TOUR TASK

For the Queen, it's the biggest day in a 45-day cross-Canada visit that will also take her to Chicago.

The monarch and the president, old friends from wartime Britain, are to open officially the $175,000,000 seaway, built by the two countries.

They are to inaugurate the seaway by sailing in the Queen's yacht Britannia through the first two locks. But they won't be the first seaway sailors. More than 1,500 ships have used the waterway since it opened April 25 for navigation.

The Queen, who is to arrive in re Wednesday night aboard the royal yacht, plans to meet the president at Canada's major air defence command base, an airways — armed jet centre eight miles east of Montreal.

The president, accompanied by some U.S. government leaders is expected to land precisely at 9:30 a.m. EDT aboard his own plane, the Columbine.

The Queen and her guests, along with Canada's Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his wife, are to drive to the St. Lawrence Seaway's easterh gateway, the Iroquois dam from Montreal.

Anywhere from 10,000 to 100,000 people may be on hand to greet them on a 30-acre mud flat bordering the seaway channel.

"You tell me how many people are coming!" said a seaway official who asked for a crowd estimate. "I don't know. It's a public holiday. But we've got seven toilets to feed the crowds and seven toilets."

The royal procession will drive along a roadway lined with 10,000 flags of shipping lines to a grass-banked plaza, flanked by a mammoth grandstand insured for $1,000,000 against sudden collapse. They will mount a modernistic cais in a scenic setting which cost $250,000.

After receiving books in silver-cases listing every worker who helped build the seaway since 1955, they are to make speeches and then go aboard the Britannia.

A 21-gun salute of HMCS Gatineau, docked nearby with USS Forrest Royal and HMS Ulster, will send the Britannia on its way up the seaway canal.

At 11:55 a.m. EDT—if all goes well—the Britannia is to pass through symbolic gates in the canal to start the seaway on its formal career.

At the Beauharnois locks, 31 miles up the 185-mile seaway channel to Lake Ontario, the president is to take leave of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at a helicopter, weather permitting. If not, he'll drive.

Expect Herter Will Issue Call For 'No Retreat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Christian A. Herter is reported ready to proclaim a "no retreat" stand in future talks with Russia on Berlin and on deadlocked Berlin issue.

Herter is to outline his views in a television-radio report at 9 p.m. EDT tonight. His 15-minute speech will seek to explain why six weeks of intensive talks at Geneva failed to ease East-West tensions over Germany's fate.

President Eisenhower is understood to have approved the main points of Herter's address during a White House meeting Monday.

MAIN POINTS

With Eisenhower's full backing, he is reported ready to say:

1. The United States, Britain and France have reached rock bottom in the concessions they will offer Russia in order to settle the Berlin crisis.

2. The Soviet Union must recede from its ultimatum-like demand for an end to Allied rule in West Berlin if a new round of foreign ministers' talks is likely or to avoid the same deadlock that caused the ministers to recess recently.

3. Eisenhower is determined to call a summit meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev unless the Geneva talks first make readily apparent progress in blocking out a reasonable settlement of the Berlin issue.

TRAFFIC TOLL

Road deaths in Britain in April, 1959, totalled 436 compared with 419 in the same month of 1958.

Says Canadian Papers Suppress Tour Criticism

NEW YORK (CP)—June Callwood, a Canadian writer, says in Look magazine that Canadian newspapers suppress criticism of royal tours.

Canadian newspapers always treat the Royal Family "with respectful tenderness," says the former newspaper woman in the article. She adds:

"Prince Philip behaved arrogantly throughout his solo tour in 1956 yet not one of the Indignant reporters wrote a word about it. When the Queen and Philip arrived in Ottawa two years ago, the crowd welcoming them at the airport was far smaller than anticipated, and their route into town was anything but thronged.

"Reporters from the United States and Britain commented about this, but Canadian front pages everywhere reported the welcome as overwhelming and enthusiastic."

COVERAGE DIFFERENT NOW

Miss Callwood says there are indications that coverage of the current tour of the Queen and Prince Philip will be different, adding:

"A feature writer assigned to cover the visit for one of the country's biggest newspapers commented idly to the editor that Philip's impatience and irritation were always the best-kept secret of any royal tour."

"Not this time," the editor is quoted as saying. "Get your facts straight and go to it. We'll print every word."

Miss Callwood says criticism of the tour is outspoken. One reason was that "Canada has been gripped by a recession which resulted in the heaviest unemployment since the war, and popular reaction was glum when the federal government admitted it would be spending $600,000 for the tour."

Will Question 3 Financiers On Bond Thefts

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse says three Montreal men, prominent in financial circles, are to be arrested today for questioning about the disposal of bonds stolen in two Ontario burglaries.

The newspaper quotes Crown prosecutor Jean-Paul Ste. Marie as saying the men are to be arrested in joint raids by municipal and provincial police.

They are suspected of receiving bonds stolen from the Brockville Trust Company and the Premier Trust Company in St. Catharines, Ont. Ste. Marie is quoted as saying.

The newspaper says another man probably will be picked up and charged with perjuring himself in testifying at the recent trial of Peter (the Russian) Stepanoff, a convicted receiver of stolen bonds.

Arrests of other men suspected of perjury and receiving stolen bonds were being considered.

Mr. Ste. Marie was not available for comment.

ARREST YOUTH

Meanwhile, a 19-year-old youth, reported to have come to police for protection after testifying in the recent Stepanoff trial, was held Monday without bail after being charged with giving perjured testimony at the trial.

Raymond Galarneau is to appear at preliminary hearing today along with Henri Samson, 46, who allegedly paid Galarneau $500 to testify for the defence. He was also held without bail.

Stepanoff, 39, was found guilty several weeks ago of possession of $9,000 worth of bonds stolen earlier this year from a trust company in St. Catharines.

Galarneau testified at the trial that he had delivered some of the bonds, not knowing what was in the package, to co-accused Moe Yackvin, operator of a clothing store in east-end Montreal. Yackvin has not yet come up for trial.

Archdeacon Will Leave Assoc. Over Visit

SARNIA (CP) — Archdeacon Kenneth Bolton Monday night confirmed his resignation from the local ministerial association. But he denied it resulted from instructions of the Church of England after it was learned the church would not be represented in the receiving line for the Queen's visit here July 3.

"It was my own decision based on my knowledge of where the Anglican Church stands in these situations," the archdeacon said.

He denied strongly reports that Sarnia council had received any letter from him in which he said he had instructions to resign from the association if the Anglican Church was not represented in the receiving line.

All Protestant religions are to be represented in the line by the Rev. D. Bruce Gordon, a United Church minister who is president of the Sarnia Ministerial Association.

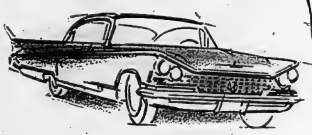
Never before has public interest in every aspect of the automotive business – including, of course, automobile sales – been so keen and so general. For that reason, we are glad of the opportunity to tell you about the cars and trucks we build and the respective positions they enjoy in the market-place. Naturally, we are most appreciative of your preference for our products – a preference which continues to grow – and, in doing so, endorses even more clearly our recent advertisement "That which deserves to lead – leads!"

We make Chevrolet.

FIRST IN SALES year after year – and again in 1959. This is the true measure of public opinion, and it proves conclusively that "there's no value like CHEVROLET value."

We make Pontiac also.



And PONTIAC'S SECOND IN SALES. Its popularity is growing by leaps and bounds, as you can plainly see in every community across the land.

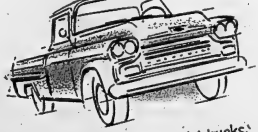
And here's Oldsmobile...

Another best-seller! In fact OLDSMOBILE is a "standout" in the medium price class. Why? Because there's nothing quite like that new OLDS feeling.

Buick...we're proud to make it, too.

THE CAR which proves that better automobiles are being built and Buick is building them. Beauty? Performance? Riding qualities? Overall excellence? Buick is unbeatable!

Then there's Cadillac ...The indisputable Standard of the World.



"World's best synonym for Quality." "Known for the company it keeps." "The decision that needs no explanation."

Now, let's introduce our pride and joy from Britain – the famous Vauxhall!

Here's the car that's breaking records every day. No question about it, VAUXHALL is the choice of the people who prefer a car of this class. We're sorry it hasn't been possible to meet the demand. We sincerely appreciate your patience!

And let's not forget trucks!

As you'd expect, Chevrolet trucks, TOO, are first in sales. Whatever the load, whatever the road, CHEVROLET does the job better, quicker and more economically.

GMC – from half tons to 45 tons

From frisky pickups to the big brutes. And, for your information, second place in sales is solidly clinched by GMC.

To complete the parade of trucks, we have the new British BEDFORD.

Tried and proven around the world and now fast becoming Canada's favorite, too!

What does all this mean? We like to think it reflects a special kind of confidence in General Motors and its vast dealer organization. It is recognition, as it were, of a philosophy which has been dedicated always to superior quality, craftsmanship and value.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

If you could get a glimpse at one of Ingemar Johansson's business cards you would find engraved thereon, "Balldener Owner, Steamshovel Owner, Truck Owner, Fishing Trawler Owner, Landscape Gardener and European heavyweight champion." By Friday of this month he hopes to add "Heavyweight Champion of the World."

A lot of people think he will do just that. A lot of people think he won't.

The pride of Goteborg, Sweden, who chilled Eddie Machen, undefeated American heavy, in the first round, is confident that his "thunderbolt right" which nobody had seen in action since the Machen bowout, will flatten one, Floyd Patterson, current heavyweight champion, and transfer the heavyweight crown to his own curly locks.

A lot of people think it will. A lot more think it won't.

His own faith and American publicity has made this "right-hand" stuff a fetish with the handsome Swedish challenger. When asked if he dreamed about the fight, he answered, "Of course, and I think a lot about it, too. What I dream about and what I think about are the same thing. It's about shooting my right hand to the jaw."

He says he has never met a fighter as fast as he is. He admitted though, that Patterson might excel him in speed. "But I think I can be as fast as he is when I fight him."

According to reports from his training camp at Grossinger, Ingemar has been an in-and-outer in his training bouts with sparring partners. One day he is sharp, the next, lackluster. "But," he says, "I don't throw my right hand in training it is because I don't want to."

Jim Braddock and Jersey Joe Walcott saw the Swede in training action the other day. Braddock was impressed with Ingemar's ruggedness, but he thought he was a little slow in delivering punches.

Walcott liked Johansson's left jab and his apparent strength. "I can't say I pick him to win," Joe said, "but I do say that he has a chance if he can hit with one punch. Remember I won the title with one punch."

Jersey Joe won the heavyweight championship by knocking out Ezzard Charles with a thunderous right to the jaw in the seventh round of their fight in Pittsburgh on July 18, 1951.

New York boxing writers who have attended the champion's training camp state Patterson has gained somestarchy in poise, far faster than Joe Louis did in emerging from another humble background. He goes around with a perpetual half-smile on his face as if he's constantly amused by life.

He is taking his training in stride. He likes life at camp and says he is in no hurry for the fight. "I'm not anxious to see time go by. Otherwise you get old too quick."

His 182 pounds, he says, is a nice deceiving weight. "The other fellow doesn't think I'm big enough to beat him."

He admits he's been knocked down. "I been down twice," he told reporters. "Cus (his manager) tried to say Pete Rademacher didn't knock me down, I gotta tell the truth, I also gotta say Hurricane Jackson knock me down. He pushed me. Didja see it in the movies afterward?"

"He threw a right uppercut and I saw it in time to roll with it," the champion said. "But he pushed me with his left. I would have preferred it the other way around, Rademacher was an amateur. I'd rather be able to say a professional did it."

Patterson was positive, he said, that he was hitting faster and harder than at any time in his career. He was asked how could any heavyweight be faster than Patterson has been in the past?

"I dunno," he insisted, "but I know that I'm faster than I ever was before."

With Johansson's verbal outbursts over the power of his mysterious right, it is a safe bet Patterson has been perfecting a defence against it. However, he is not saying anything about that.

This column's boxing adviser and expert, Harry Robinson, picks Patterson to win by a decision. We think Ingy will pick himself up, or be picked up, somewhere around the ninth and ask what hit him, a car or a truck.

Sandy Koufax Sets Night Game Strikeout Record

Dodger Southpaw Whiffs 16 In 6-2 Win Over Phillies; Mantle, Skowron Beat Kansas

By Ed Wilks
Associated Press Staff Writer

Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron are beginning to look like Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron again for New York Yankees. But who would ever recognize Bob Turley?

The big right hander, last year's top pitcher in the majors and the American League's top winner with a 21-7 record, failed to last again Monday night, almost blowing a five-run lead as Mantle and Skowron powered the Yankees to an 11-6 victory over Kansas City Athletics.

Mantle drove in six runs with his 18th and 19th homers and a triple, Skowron belted home a pair with his 14th homer. But it was southpaw Bobby Shantz who kept the Athletics from keeping pace, gaining a 2-2 record with five innings of two-hit, shutout relief.

Turley, who has won but six while losing seven, matching his losses of last season, gave up five consecutive hits and four runs as the Athletics' ace Vic Yankees lead to 7-6 in the fifth inning before Shantz hurried in.

Approach Leaders

It was the only league game scheduled and put the fifth-place Athletics within three games of first and only a half-game behind Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers, tied for third.

Mantle hit his first homer with the bases empty in the first inning off Dave Hoskins (1-1). Then, after Skowron's blast in the fourth inning, Mantle slammed the Athletics' righthander with a two-run triple as the Yankees scored four in the fifth. His other home run, with one on, was a shot over the fence in deep right-centre off former Yankee righthander Tom Sturdivant in the seventh inning.

That gave Mantle four home runs and 11 runs batted in for the last seven games, his best spurt of the season.

Skowron has done better. The Moose has hammered four home runs and driven in eight in the last four games for 52 runs batted in Mantle has 44 RBIs.

Roger Maris, just off the disabled list, had a pair of doubles, scored twice and drove in a run for the sixth-place Athletics. Bob Cerv drove in three runs with a double and single.

North, Electric Beats Oldtimers By 5-2 Score

Northern Electric soccer players, past and present, marked the 10th anniversary of the Bay of Quinte Soccer League with an exhibition tilt between the present team and one made up of those who played for the club down through the years.

The current edition proved too good for the "oldtimers," defeating them by a 5-2 score. The "youngsters" led 2-1 at halftime and outscoring their venerable foemen 3-1 in the second half.

Counting for the winners were Carter, Fancy, M. Evans, L. Evans, Reid, DeGenova, Johnny Gee, who came from Kingston to play, and Dickman, scored for the oldtimers.

The teams: 1950 team — Vangrysen, Scott, Quickert, Wilson, Pearson, P. DeGenova, Carter, Evanden, Fancy, M. Evans, L. Evans, Brinkman and R. DeGenova.

Oldtimers: Scott, Mountain, Roetsems, Williamson, Gee, Dickman, Davies, Markushensky, Sounban, Salter, Kirby and Drennan.

Leafs Defeat Sugar Kings; Royals Blanked

By The Associated Press

All that groaning and groaning between the Richmond Vees and Buffalo Bisons the past four days amounted to one thing—Buffalo still has first place in the International League but only by a half game.

The Bisons made it certain Monday night with a 4-3 victory after entering the game in second place, by a half game. Buffalo, 1½ games ahead when the five game series began Friday night dropped the series 3-2.

Columbus ended a 27-inning scoreless drought with a run in the first inning and went on to wallop Rochester Red Wings 10-3. Toronto defeated Havana 4-2 and Miami's Jim Archer blanked Montreal Royals 5-0 on three hits.

Two-Run Triple

John Easton's two-run triple with two out in the sixth inning sparked Buffalo to victory. Vees came off loser Bill Stafford (0-3) following a walk to Bobby Del Greco, Ralph Terrer's single and Mickey Harrington's RBI single.

Bobby Deakin's three - run homer off winner Art Mahaffey (3-2) in the fourth was Rochmond's only damage though the Vees loaded the bases and ran out in the eighth. Reliever Ken Lehman stopped them on two hits, one a single.

Three Homers

Toronto scored on two-run homers by Bob Hazle, a fielding and Dave Pope, Wilson and Allabaugh hit their homers off loser Walt Craddock (6-4) while Pete Poss came off reliever Don Rudolph. Bob Scheffing (6-5) scattered eight hits for the victory.

Wilson had three hits in four at bats to give him seven in his last eight trips.

Archie Wilson (6-5) struck out five and drove only a single to Sandy Consuegra and two to Curt Roberts.

The Marlins scored twice in the second inning with two on when loser Tom Lazorda (3-3) on Archie's single, Bill Valentine's double and Jerry Snyder's single, ralph drove in both runners. They added more runs in the fifth on Leo Burke's RBI single and Woody Smith's two-run double.

Bill Young, a dynamic little Australian with the well-known Aussie aptitude for colorful language, looked around at the brass in the British Empire Games athletes' village last summer and declared: "What the hell are all these people doing here!"
His comments were directed primarily at the 22 officials who made the 3,000 - mile trip from Sydney to Cardiff, Wales, for a 98-athlete team in tow. Young was general manager of the 102-athlete Australian team and he had five officials helping him.
"Look," Young told this reporter, "if those athletes of yours don't know enough to tell them what to do and when to do it, they don't belong here or in any international competition.
"They're supposed to be in top shape, which they probably are. So why all the officials? There's practically nothing for them to do except to sip tea or cocktails at silly receptions."
Champion Athletes
"Look at our team. We're loaded with world champions who don't need to be told the simple method of sacrifice of pleasure for hard work. They know what to do to stay there. My staff is here to make their career easier for them by planning transportation to training grounds and so forth. They aren't there to tell them how or when to train. They know all this."
The Aussies demonstrated it. They finished second to England in both point and medal standings.
The green - clad Australians piled up 296 points on the basis of 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six finishers in each event and won 66 medals — 27 gold, 22 second-place silver and 17 bronze. Canada, which picked up only one gold medal in rowing, was fourth with 179 points and 25 medals.
Young's conversation was recalled with publication of a Canadian Olympic Association bulletin which gives some startling figures about the number of athletes and officials attached to Pan-American Games in Chicago in August and the 1960 Winter and Summer Games. Young would be aghast at these.
Lots of Brass
For instance, Canada expects to send 175 athletes to the Aug. 27-Sept. 7 Chicago Games. But things are just getting warm. There will be 25 officials attached to the 15 teams—track and field, swimming, basketball, cycling are so one-pillar sports that they have, two assistants, one treasurer and two chaperones, giving the total: Athletes: 175, officials: 31.
For some obscure reason, known only to Canadian Amateur Basketball Association officials, the 20-member basketball team will have four officials—one brass hat for each five athletes. Twenty home again shows these figures: Pan-American Games: $69,000. Winter Games: $22,000 (board and lodging is provided free at Squaw Valley).

Summer Games: $155,000. . .
The Pan-American and Olympic Associations answer this kind of money kicking around and the big, push will be on to solicit the necessary funds from the federal and provincial governments and the public.
Bill Young's comments on the above figures would be priceless.

Trainer Says

Champ Is 'Restless Panther Getting Meaner Every Day'

By MURRAY ROSE

CHATHAM, N.J. (AP)—Floyd Patterson may prove all right to greatness or the right to be called "a good champion" on Thursday night.

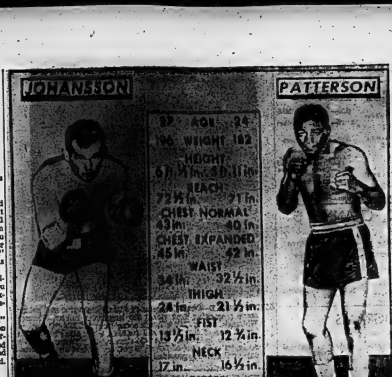
That's the avowed sign of this heavyweight champion and he may spell a lot of trouble for Ingemar Johansson when the two meet in their title bout at Yankee Stadium.

"He's like a restless panther," said Patterson's trainer, Dan Florio, after the champion finished his boxing drills with a vicious two-round workout Monday.

"I've never seen him so determined before," said Florio who has been with Patterson ever since he turned pro after winning the Olympic lightweight title.

GETTING MEAN

"He's on edge and he's getting meaner every day. I've never seen him like this before a fight. He's growling. Everything I do seems to be wrong with him. I just hope he stays that way. As far as his sharpness goes, right now he's 100 per cent better than he was for Brian London."



Patterson topped Johansson in 12 rounds in Indianapolis May 1.

The 24-year-old champion has no doubt that he hoped to prove beyond a shadow of doubt that he was being recognized with at least "good heavyweight champions."

"I'd say I'm more determined and eager for this fight than for any fight since I won the title by knocking out Archie Moore," said Patterson. I wanted the title then, Johansson is the No. 1 contender, I hope to prove myself—even if it's just a slight, teeny chance."

CITES DOUBTERS

Patterson then said he hoped to gain recognition of his talents from some still-skeptical writers and any doubters among the public—even if it takes 25 or 30 more bouts.

READY FOR BATTLE — Here is how heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Ingemar Johansson shape up for their title bout in Yankee Stadium in New York Thursday. (AP Wirephoto).

WINDUP WEDNESDAY

Patterson will wind up his training with workouts and loosening up exercises today and roadwork Wednesday, then will head for New York.

Johansson completed his running chores Monday and today, Saturday. He went shooting Monday morning and then disappeared into the hills for a siesta. Johansson to avoid further interviews. He has been very affable and patient with the press.

This is the rest period which Johansson says "brings the strength flowing into my body every day."

Johansson may or may not damage Patterson but he could certainly wipe out Eddie Machen twice a minute.

At the fight headquarters here a film projector is running a picture of Johansson's 1958 knockout victory which lasts just a half minute. The press department says it will be kept running continuously until Thursday's fight starts. By that time Johansson will have scored 5,000 knockouts.

Fishing With the 'Popping Cork'

For a good many years there has been considerable wordage taking up space in the public print, having to do with noise and its effect on fish. Few conclusions of any value have been reached. Trouble is, all too many of the exponents tend to generalize rather than to get down to individual cases. The result, as you no doubt know, is chaos.

Perhaps the simpler way to approach the matter of noise and fish is to recognize the fact that there are what might be called friendly and unfriendly noises. There is neither space nor time here to amplify this idea save in one particular instance — the popping cork.

Most fishermen who live north of the Mason-Dixon Line admittedly know what a popping cork is. Believe me, the southern fishermen know all about them.

Down in the Florida Keys not a few of the guides meet the high prices of home economics by going in for commercial fishing during the summer months when there are comparatively few sport fishermen and even fewer charter dates. The spotted sea trout, a cousin of our northern weakfish, heads high in the pricing rates at the fish markets, second only to the pompano. Thus, the Keys guides go fishing for sea trout.

USE TOY BAIT

In order to make sea-trout fishing a profitable venture, a man should bring with him 100 to 200 pounds of trout per day. With success or failure at stake, not to mention three square meals a day, the boys are careful to use the wherewithal to bait. They spend their evenings sewing hundreds of little plnfish. These are placed in the live-wells of their boats.

Sea trout are not netted. Instead they are taken on rod and line. Standard equipment consists of a long bamboo pole, usually Calcutta. This pole is fitted with about nine to which a heavy nylon leader is attached. The business end is a substantial 2/0 cricket hook. Last, but by no means least, is the "popping cork," fastened to the leader from three to five feet above the hook, depending upon the depth of the water.

Once over the grass beds where the sea trout live, a hook is baited with a pinfish and dropped over the side. Then the fisherman, by the boat drifting with the wind until a school is found, "pops" the cork gently, causing it to make a bubbling, popping noise on the surface. This noise arouses the curiosity of the trout in the area and they swim in to investigate. There under the cork swims the little pinfish. The result is obvious.

Rolfe Hollenbeck and Bill Mann, well-known Keys guides, both have fished commercially for sea trout. They tell me that there is an art to the most effective manipulation of a popping cork. Popped too softly, it attracts few trout; popped too loudly and not only will you tend to frighten the trout but you will "spook" every catfish within a quarter mile. It must be done just right.

A HANDY GADGET

But the popping cork does not confine itself to sea trout by any means. As a lure or come-on for anadromous bass, it is a real handy gadget. A good many years ago a friend and I used to fish a shallow, weedy lake in northern New Jersey. The lake held plenty of good largemouth bass and countless kingsize sunfish or "punkin' seeds."

The lake was difficult to fish. The bass were scattered and the weeds made plug casting impossible. We solved our problem with the popping cork. Out of scrap wood we made our own from thermos-bottle corks.

Our basic equipment consisted of ordinary plug-casting outfits with no-frills leaders and conventional hooks. The corks were placed about two or three feet above the hooks which were baited with the biggest night-crawlers or dew worms we could find.

We allowed our boat to drift with the wind, manipulating our popping corks 30 or 40 feet behind the boat. The resultant racket or "eating fish" were indeed something to behold.

Fish in general seem to be attracted by the noise of a popping cork on the surface of the water. Bass, both largemouth and smallmouth, will come to the noise in numbers. In evidence, witness the efficiency of the bass bug and the surface plug. So this summer, when life grows dull and the fishing is not too good, try drifting with a popping cork and bait. It may very well have a surprise in store for you.

Orioles Sign Hoyt's Brother

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles decided Monday to fling out if history could repeat and signed up a 23-year-old rookie pitcher, Gary Cooper Wilhelm.

He's the brother of Hoyt Wilhelm, the Orioles pitcher who has revived the knuckle ball cream.

Hoyt labored in the major leagues for eight seasons before making his biggest splash at the age of 35—a no-hit, no run game against New York Yankees last September shortly after reporting to Baltimore from Cleveland.

He won nine straight this season before losing.

Although his brother with the movie star name has no professional baseball experience, the Orioles had to be struck by a coincidence.

Hoyt returned to baseball from military service in 1946 when he was 22 years old.

Brother Gary was 21 last June 6. And he recently was discharged from the army where he pitched while stationed in France.

Gary will start with Bluefield, W.Va., the Baltimore entry in the all-rookie Class D Appalachian League.

Real Chevrefils To Attend Detroit Camp

TIMMINS (CP)—Real Chevrefils, former National Hockey League player with the Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings, said Monday he will attend Wings' fall training camp.

The 29-year - old left winger spent last season and part of the previous one with Springfield of the American League after Bruins demoted him because he frequently broke training rules.

Chevrefils said "I know I've got two strikes against me. But I've learned my lesson, and I'll stick in the NHL this year."

After four seasons with Bruins he spent part of the 1955-56 season with Detroit. He was returned to the Bruins following the season but was sent back to the NHL, scoring 31 goals and 17 assists. Chevrefils slumped to 4 goals and nine record in 44 games in 1957-58 and was shipped to Springfield.

Jack Adams, Detroit general manager, said he will give Chevrefils will be given "every opportunity to make our club."

Detroit confirmed with the junior Barrie Flyers said he promoted Adams '2 would show up at the Detroit camp at 175 pounds." He will have to drop 25 pounds to make that weight.

Latta Defeats Shannonville 5-1

Latta exploded for all its runs in the last two innings to register a 5-1 victory over last-place Shannonville in a South Hastings Baseball League tilt at Shannonville.

The homester took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning as Latta's Stan Reid and Shannonville's Mortimer hooking up in a tight mound duel. But Latta broke it up with two in the sixth and three in the seventh for the 5-1 decision.

Reid toned four-hit ball over the route for Latta, striking out ten batters and walking only one.

Mortimer was jagged for nine hits on the Shannonville rubber before Jerry Hill came on to put out the fire in the seventh. Mortimer fanned four and passed three while Hill whiffed a single batter.

Orly Glass and Don Harris topped the Latta club at the plate with a double and single apiece. Frank Ray, Howis Berks, Wayne Gow, Stan Reid and Jack Empson divided the other safeties.

Shannonville hitters were B. Empson, G. Will, Les Reid and Mortimer.

Rugs Athletes By Millions Vie for Trials

By VINCENT BUSIET

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Millions of athletes in villages and cities in all parts of the Soviet Union are competing for the honor of taking part in the second Spartakiad of the nations in Moscow Aug. 8 to 19.

The Spartakiad, a domestic "Olympic Games" for athletes from the 15 Soviet republics, is being organized on a big scale. The preliminaries are said to have involved everyone who can run, jump, swim or throw.

It will be held in Lenin Park in Moscow, a huge complex of stadiums and sports fields which includes the Lenin Stadium with accommodation for 100,000 people.

27 EVENTS

Qualifying competitions for the 27 events, including the traditional Russian games gorodki, a variety of skittles, and lapta, which has a slight resemblance to baseball, began as long ago as last fall.

In the Russian federation alone, 12,000,000 persons are said to have competed in the preliminaries. Altogether, 17 teams will take part in the Spartakiad.

Nikolai Romanov, chairman of the nearly-found Union of Sports Committees said in an interview here his union hoped to get at least 20,000,000 athletes on the books of various clubs and societies by 1965. He put the present figure at 30,000,000.

Women Take Over Spotlight At Wimbledon Net Tourney

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (CP)—The women took over the main stages at Wimbledon today to find a successor to retired singles queen Althea Gibson.

The top three women seeds, England's Christine Truman and Angela Mortimer and America's Darlene Hard, were the crowd pullers in two rounds in the morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Helene Sladek of Montreal meets Miss Lea Pericoli of Italy in the first match on a big stadium court Monday.

Miss Truman, 18, is Britain's hope that after a dearth of 22 years Britain will be able to provide a Wimbledon singles winner. A blonde tot-footer, she won the Italian, Swiss and French championships.

Miss Mortimer, 27, is the second favorite. She lost in the finals last year to Miss Gibson, the first Negro to win at Wimbledon.

CANADIAN LEADER

The only other Canadian entry, Paul Willey of Vancouver, bowed out Monday in the men's singles as play got under way in the 12-day tourney. Gerald Oakley of England knocked him off 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

One upset marked the first round of men's competition among seeded players, but it was a major one.

Fifth (Budge) Buchholz Jr., American Davis Cupper who is just 18 and holds virtually every amateur championship for the mentioning, stunned an overflow crowd of 12,000 by trouncing Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy, third-seeded, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Buchholz, who says he wants to be a professional like his father who was known for his terrific cross cramp in his left side and within less than six weeks after his discharge.

STEAMING SERVES

Considered a master of the volley and hair - volley and skilled position player, and probably is Europe's best player. But he never could get fully up against the steaming serves and the flat ground - strokes that Buchholz produces.

"Buchholz played some fantastic shots," Pietrangeli said. "Whenever I played what I thought was a great shot he'd winner. Buchholz pulled-out an even better one."

The one-two seeds scored easy wins. Alex Olmedo, U.S., polished off a rugged Australian, Warren Woodcock, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3. Aussie leftlander Neale Fraser, No. 2 seed, crushed France's Pierre Darmon 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

TOP SEEDS WIN

Barry Mackay, another American Davis Cupper and seeded fifth, volleyed to beat Ian Vermaak, South Africa, 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, twice Wimbledon finalist, had his troubles but won over Martin Mulligan, Australia, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Bobby Wilson (No. 4) of Britain defeated countryman Ian Warwick 6-3, 6-0, 6-4; Luis Ayala of Chile (No. 6) whipped J. Javorsky of Yugoslavia 6-4, 6-0, 6-2 and Roy Emerson (No. 8) of Australia romped over W. Alvarez of Colombia 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

John Douglas caught Budge Patty, the American veteran, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0. Gardner Mulloy, 45, U.S. veteran, won over statistics Antoi Janeso 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Andres Gimeno, 21, Spain, ousted Sweden's Ulf Schmidt 7-5, 11-9, 8-6, and India's Davis Cup star, Ramanathan Krishnan, who last week upset Olmedo and won the Queen's Club tournament, needed only 25 minutes to defeat South Africa's Tim Heckler 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

Jaroslav Drobny, 37, who won the singles in 1954, put up a furious two-hour battle, but lost 6-4, 3-6, 10-8, 8-6 to Britain's Alan Mills.

White Leads National Bats Kuenn Tops American League

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals has 38 points on batting leader Hank Aaron of Milwaukee with a .350 performance last week that carried him into the National League's runner-up position.

White, for whom the Cards gave up Sam Jones, their ace pitcher of 1958 in a whiter trade with San Francisco, collected 12 hits in 34 trips. This boosted his average 21 points to .350. Aaron lost 17 points to .291 with 10 hits in 34 tries.

White was pressed for the batting honors by Vally Moon of Los Angeles. Moon, who has hit safely in his last 14 games, moved into fourth place with a 15-for-31 showing that increased his average 30 points to .323. Moon only four points behind San Francisco's Willie Mays, the No. 2 batter. Cepeda gained one point to .336.

Bobby Burgess of Pittsburgh, in second place a week ago, dropped to fifth. He was hitless in eight attempts and fell to .321. Johnny Temple of Cincinnati advanced to sixth place at .320 on a 12 point gain. Temple had 11 singles in 36 trips.

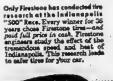
KUENN TAKES LEAD

In the American League, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit took over the batting lead from teammate Al Kaline. Kuenn was the only one among the leaders to gain points. He pulled up four points to .359. Kaline tailed off six points to .351 before suffering a fractured cheekbone in Thursday's game against Boston.

Pete Runnels of Boston slumped four points to .333, Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox is fourth place, lost 14 points to .328 and Gene Woodling of Baltimore went down nine to .326. The leaders ended Sunday's games.

Harmon Killebrew of Washington continues to set the American League pace with 14 home runs and runs batted in. He had three homers and seven RBI last week to lift his total to 24 and 53, respectively.

Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Aaron gained ground on Ed Mathews of the Braves in the National League home run competition. Aaron had three homers last week and Banks slammed a pair. This gave Banks and Aaron 12 apiece while Mathews, who failed to connect, has 22.



Banks is the runs - batted - in leader with 67, six more than Aaron.

"There's a BIG difference in tire quality and Firestone makes the difference!"

Motorists who lose sight of the word "quality" are underestimating the critical importance of their tires. Because your safety depends on your tires, it doesn't pay to take chances with tires of unknown quality.

Firestone's fifty years of tire leadership is your guarantee of superior tire quality. Longer mileage and maximum safety are the dividends you receive from this long history of leadership.

Only Firestone has conducted tire research at the Indianapolis "500" Race. Firestone is the only tire that's won these races three times—and only Firestone has the engineers study the effect of the heat, speed and load of Indianapolis. This knowledge is used to make tires for your car.

Exclusive Firestone Tire Building Machines are the result of Firestone research. For example, Firestone "500" Rayon Cord is made to overcome the principal cause of tread cracking. New Firestone Tubeless Tires are a new kind of tread rubber—given for longer tire mileage.

Ten Marksmen To Compete

MONTREAL (CP)—Ten shoot-ers are to compete July 11-12 in Hamilton for the three positions on a smallbore rifle team at the 1959 Pan-American Games.

The 10 were picked out of a field of 22 who entered regional trials in Lennoxville, Que., Orillia, Hamilton and Halifax, said an announcement Monday by Frank M. McCormick, president of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen.

WANTS OPEN TENNIS

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Talbert, former Davis Cup captain, suggested Monday that American officials "start a revolution in tennis to get an open tournament." Amateurs now are not permitted to play against professionals. Talbert said the United States should take the initiative in approving open tournaments even against the will of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

Schmeling Gives Swede Chance

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Germán ex-world champion Max Schmeling said Monday he expected not being able to fly to the U.S. for the "fight of the century" against Ingemar Johansson and his Swedish challenger Ingemar Johansson.

"I was definitely planning to be at the ringside for this bout," Schmeling said. "But I just can't get away from my business what with the weather starting so early this year."

Schmeling owns a Hamburg firm producing soft drinks.

Schmeling said that Johansson has a good chance to win the 15-round bout, "hard hitting as he is."

None Left to Carry On Traditions of Barrymores

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The passing of the last of a great generation of America's first family of actors. The acting traditions goes back to the 1700s in the Barrymore-Drew Line. The question arises as to who can carry on that tradition.

Lionel left no progeny. Ethel had three children, Sammy, John and Ethel Barrymore Colt. All have made stabs at the dramatic art but without impressive results. Young Ethel has had some success as a singer.

The best chance for upholding the dynasty appears to lie with the children of John. Diana, his daughter by actress Michael Strange, had great opportunity as a young actress. But, as she titled her autobiography, it was a question of Too Much, Too Soon. After having her career in literary and movie form, she has lately settled down to serious acting with some success.

John had a son and daughter by Dolores Costello. Dolores did not pursue an acting career but John Jr. leaped into the profession at 17. At 27, he is still acting and has yet to break through the star barrier. Constance, of the constant comparison to his father, he adopted the name of John Drew Barrymore. And he points out that his age was 40 as he began receiving greatness as Hamlet.

IRONIC TWIST

It's ironic that relations were strained between the two acting lopes of the Barrymore family that their aunt Ethel during the last years. She was aghast at Diana's public confessions of promiscuity where they cast aspersions on Ethel's beloved brother Jack. Ethel had long decided to countenance her brother's didoes, preferring to remember him as the dashing young Adonis of the theatre. She disliked Gene Fowler's account of John's roistering days in Hollywood. Good night. Sweet Prince. One of the reasons she wrote her own autobiography was to counteract the impression.

Then actress was estranged from young John in recent years. The rift became public when he walked out of an eastern stage engagement in a dispute with the managers. Ethel told the press that no Barrymore had ever done such a thing before.

Dick Clark's Special Show Loaded With Singing Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Clark, who at 29 has carved his own special television empire, will make a bid now for a bigger audience.

Already the darling of the teenage crowd, Clark now is aiming at all the music lovers who are just a little too young for Lawrence Welk.

The plot will be revealed with a special hour-long show next Sunday night — a live documentary liberally larded with singing stars concerned with the last 10 years in the phonograph record business (8:30 p.m., CBS-TV, ABC).

The documentary will be something of a departure from the type of show that has been a bountiful provider for Clark in the last few years.

He can open the after-school crowd weekday afternoons with a show that is classic in its simplicity and that has been copied widely. It is sort of a disk jockey show—he plays the top tunes, popular singers often appear to pantomime the words as the records play, and the teen-aged audience dances on camera.

His Saturday night show is just about the same except that guest stars are likely to be of greater stellar quality such as Pat Boone, Sal Mineo and Tony Bennett.

"Actually the show is angled toward the teenagers and young adults," Clark says. "But I'd like to extend it to, say, the under-45 audience. They are the ones that go for popular music and buy the records—rock 'n' roll, country and western, folk songs and a small amount of jazz, although the older they get the cooler they are to it."

TIN SOURCE

Rich deposits of tin provide the bulk of the export trade from Bolivia in South America.

AT THE BELLE—Doris Day goes on a shopping spree and brings home a parking fine ticket for anguished hubby, Richard Widmark, to pay. It's a laugh scene from MGM's "Tunnel of Love", one of the finest and funniest adult comedies to hit the screen in a long time. Co-starring Gig Young and Gia Scala, "The Tunnel of Love", is playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle, preceded by a new Tom & Jerry Cartoon comedy.

AT THE PARK — Tony Curtis, Cara Williams and Sidney Poitier sit down to an unrelaxed meal during a brief respite the two men take in their effort to elude a posse. They have escaped from a chain gang. "The Defiant Ones", produced and directed by Stanley Kramer showing today and Tuesday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "King Creole" starring Elvis Presley.

AT THE McCARTHY and BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN THEATRES —Ava Gardner and Anthony Francisca dance the Flamenco in this scene from the romantic drama, "The Naked Maja". The Unitel Artists release, filmed in Technicolor and Technirama, playing tonight and Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-in Theatres.

Evangelist Taken To Task by London Writer

LONDON (Reuters) — Malcolm Muggeridge suggested in his Sunday newspaper column that evangelist Billy Graham should have another look at his own back yard instead of sounding off about the notorious couples in London's parks.

Graham's suggestion two weeks ago that New York is more virtuous than London is "utterly deflecting," Muggeridge said.

The goings - on in London's specious parklands, Graham had indicated, are like nothing he'd ever had seen in New York's Central Park.

Muggeridge retorted in his London Sunday Pictorial column that Graham's reference to Central Park "cannot but be highly diverting" to anyone who has lived in New York.

HEES DENIES

This brought Mr. Hees to his feet to say:

"I have no recollection of any conversation regarding the Malton valuations with a Mr. White, and moreover I can definitely did not take place between me and anyone at any time."

Mr. Hees said no minister can sign executives of payments until the payments are authorized by treasury board, no agreement can be made to accept Mr. Clare's valuations, he signed no valuations and the treasury board and he had no intention of submitting any valuations by Mr. Clare to it or anyone before they were examined by the treasury board's civil service staff.

The minister said he agreed completely with Mr. Pallett that the "outstanding regarding the Clare valuations" may have come from Mr. Pallett believing Mr. Hees said he would refer them to treasury board and from Mr. Hees using the words treasury board staff.

Automation in the Bakery

More Bread for More Canadians

With Canada's population constantly spiralling upwards, the need for more bread, more economically produced, becomes a challenge and a problem undreamed of in grandmother's day. The delights of home-made bread, baked in picturesque old-fashioned ovens will ever be a cherished memory for many but the demands of modern living have witnessed the steady march of automation into a variety of fields, including recently, the bakery.

Three Canadian cities now feature electronic equipment which controls bread-making operations from start to finish. Blending of ingredients, mixing, shaping and panning are all controlled from central switchboard.

Automation assures that every loaf is identical and of uniform quality. Electronic controls eliminate the possibility of variation and human error.

Strong Rebel Force Attacks Algerian Port City of Bone

ALGIERS (AP) — A strong rebel unit smashed into the outskirts of the East Algerian port city of Bone today in a pitched battle with thousands of French soldiers. It was the first rebel military assault on a major Algerian city.

The rebel attack began at 4 a.m. The rebels took positions a orchards and homes between the Bone airport and the Mediterranean. Shortly after, the blast of grenades and machine-gun fire wakened the city of 80,000.

At 10 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT) French headquarters in Algiers said the battle was continuing. All communications with Bone were under tight military control.

The French deployed thousands of steel-helmeted troops. Hundreds of armored cars to cordon off the city.

Planes from a nearby air force base strafed rebel positions.

Army authorities said they would try to determine the size of the rebel group. But they said the area it occupied and the resistance it was offering indicated a large band" armed with modern automatic weapons.

French armored columns poured in on the rebels and planes swooped down on strafing and bombing runs.

The city of Bone is the Mediterranean anchor of the fortified and electrified defenses along the Tunisian frontier and in the rugged no-man's land inland riff belt lies been frequent.

French headquarters admitted that after six hours of fighting the rebels held a solid area between the Bone airport and the city.

Initial communiques indicated no losses but the evident surprise gained by the rebel force indicated French losses may have been substantial.

Big CBC Upheaval Blamed On Administration Weakness

TORONTO (CP)—Former program executives were blamed for the biggest upheaval in CBC history on Commentary, which touched off the upheaval, as "simply a sort of focal incident which has temporarily because people see weak and uncertain leadership," Fred Jamieson said.

By day's end Tuesday, 28 program and executives had officially resigned here because the administration's decision to drop five-minute radio opinion series on News of the Northwest.

In Montreal three more had resigned.

Some said the administration had "bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting" by making a shabby compromise which threatened the production of all opinion programs. But it was apparent that a long-standing feud between producers and the administration was a part of the cause.

Gerard Weaver blamed some of the trouble on personal idiosyncrasies of CBC Acting President Ernest L. Bushnell and H. G. Walker, director for Ontario and Quebec regional networks.

The same theme was echoed by Frank Peers who as supervisor of talks and public affairs developments had led the dissident group.

He charged Mr. Bushnell cancelled the program because he objected to its "political interference," and then refused to discuss it with the talks department chiefs.

Mr. Bushnell had dragged off earlier criticism and charges of political interference.

The CBC information decision had been his. Newspaper men who had expressed their opinion on the radio program had not had time for sufficient preparation.

Mr. Bushnell announced plans for a new report for Preview Committee to review broadcasting.

Attempts were made by Mr. Peers both in Ottawa and Toronto Tuesday to change the decision to drop Preview Commentary.

When the CBC directors at their regular meeting broke up an attempt to change the decision, the top officials of the radio talks and public affairs department agreed to quit.

At 1 a.m. Tuesday, Mr. Peers and his assistant, Hugh Gills, and Bernard Trotter, supervising producer, announced their resignations.

The stream of resignations soon went into double figures and by mid-afternoon the CBC had unexpectedly cancelled two television programs produced by the de-

HERTER'S STAND ON BERLIN GETS CONGRESS AID

Secretary Gives News on Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP) — (State Secretary Christian A. Herter's stand against yielding the freedom of West Berlin found overwhelming support today in the United States Congress.

American diplomats said they hoped the expressions of solidarity would help impress in Communist minds the need for a change in Moscow's policy if there is to be a peaceful solution to the German crisis.

Herter spoke privately Tuesday night in reporting on the six weeks of deadlock at the Geneva foreign ministers conference on Germany. The negotiations recessed last Saturday until July 13.

In a 15-minute radio-TV speech, the American foreign affairs chief called on the Soviets to abandon their drive "to add more than 2,000,000 free West Berliners to the captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain."

CRITICAL QUESTION

"This is the critical question," he said. "If the Soviet Union can hold to this nonexistentist design, then obviously the arrangements on Berlin consistent with the honor and interest of all our countries."

The Russians touched off the Berlin crisis demanding as in the post-war Allied occupation that West Berlin become a city and the United States refused to pull out of the Communist - encircled city without an arrangement guaranteeing its freedom. Britain and France also back the Western offers.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, voiced hope that Herter and Soviet Premier Khrushchev "will take the hint and start working in diplomatic privacy toward some solid proposals to be offered when the foreign ministers talks are resumed in Geneva."

Jacob Republican leader, Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said the American people will applaud Herter's "firm resolution and firmness of Secretary Herter in his determination to stand up for the liberties of the people of West Berlin."

HERTER HEARTENED WORK

Many other members of Congress similarly supported Herter's stand. But many praised his performance at Geneva.

On the other side, there reported the negotiations had:

1. Produced a possible approval of the Western powers' plan for solving the Berlin problem, and the plan has been heralded Germany, through a practical negotiations between Germany with Berlin as the capital.

2. Demonstrated a high degree of unity among the Allies.

3. Revealed possible means of peaceful settlement with the Communists on Berlin.

GLASGOW, Scotland (Reuters) —Quads born Sunday to a 32-year-old housewife have been moved from incubators, Glasgow maternity hospital said Tuesday.

Commons Group Decides To Probe CBC Resignations

Broadcasting Committee Disturbed by Charges

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons broadcasting committee decided today to investigate the recent wave of resignations in the CBC over complaints that the publicly-owned corporation is yielding to political pressures.

All but one member of the committee supported a motion by Liberal J. W. Pickersgill to invite three senior employees who have resigned from the CBC talks public affairs branch. Others could be invited too, to appear "at the earliest possible convenient time."

The three named in Mr. Pickersgill's motion were Frank Peers, supervisor of talks and public affairs; Hugh Gillis, his assistant, and Bernard Trotter, supervising producer of television public affairs.

They were among the first of 32 CBC employees to quit the corporation following the CBC's decision to cancel the radio opinion program Preview Commentary.

Mr. Pickersgill's motion said the committee should "hear evidence concerning their charge that clandestine political influence was brought to bear on CBC management."

AGREES WITH PCs

He agreed to suggestions by Progressive Conservative members that the committee's report "be unhurried." His motion, which meets in private afternoon, would not change the meetings. The steering group would have power to invite other former CBC employees who had recently resigned.

The hearings at which the former employees appear will be in public.

Committee chairman G. Ernest Halpenny (PC—London) said that CBC management should also appear at the hearings. Committee members agreed.

Frank M. Pierrepoint, MP for Bonavista-Twillingate, said it is hard to believe the CBC employees have grounds for their charge of political interference since they have shared their economic livelihood on their decision.

SHOULD BE HEARD

"The public will expect us to deal with this serious matter promptly," he said.

The only committee member to oppose the hearings, Jack Horner, tech (PC — Swift Current-Maple Creek), said that if the committee hears CBC employees a precedent could be tagged with political influence charges "every time a decision is made by the CBC management."

Robert McGregor (PC—Halifax) said the employees' charge of political influence reflects on the dignity of every member of the house.

"That, to me, is the important consideration," he said.

Mr. McIntosh said the employees' charge "is serious and we must accept it as such."

"The air is pretty clear," he added.

Six Killed, One Family Being Wiped Out, as Train Hits Car

WINONA (CP) — A train-car crash near here took the lives of six persons Tuesday night, wiping out one family of seven, four and killing two members of another family. Three of the victims were children.

Dead are Walter Ukrainec, 29, and his wife Mary, 27; their son George, 8, and daughter Anne, 5; Michael Kish, 40, Stoney Creek and his son Stephen, 8.

Only survivor of the accident is eight-year-old Terry Papish, who is in only fair condition at Hamilton General Hospital with internal injuries.

Police at the scene of the crash — one of the worst accidents in this district in years—said they believe the driver of the car became confused by the flashing lights at the crossing.

The 1955-model car in which the three adults and four children were driving, was believed to have been driven by Mr. Ukrainec, police said.

The accident happened on No. 50 sideroad, was hurled from the level crossing by a freight train on line by a westbound diesel passenger train.

Impact from the collision with the 50-mile-per-hour train threw the flattened, ripped and mangled vehicle 87 feet into a grassy ditch beside the railway embankment.

Police found the grass around the crash demolished with deep ruts with shattered bodies.

Atom Spy Klaus Fuchs Still a Red But Bears Britain No Resentment

WANDLITZ, East Germany (Reuters) — Atom spy Klaus Fuchs said today his nine years as a British jail had not changed his views about communism and he now wished to become a citizen of East Germany and help "build a new socialist state."

Fuchs, released Tuesday from Wakefield prison and immediately flown to East Germany from country, met me on the doorstep of her father's home here.

"I am still a Marxist," he said. But he refused to answer questions about his espionage activities or the reasons behind them.

The 48-year-old scientist, pale and unshaven, still wore the rumpled prison suit and thick-rimmed steel-trimmed spectacles issued to him in prison.

Fuchs was arrested and tried as convicted in 1950 of betraying nuclear secrets to the Russians, in the United States his betrayal was widely regarded as one of the chief factors in enabling Russia to catch up with the West in nuclear weapons.

The German-born scientist lost his British nationalization and was sentenced to 14 years in prison. He was released early as a result of good-conduct remissions.

Fuchs flew here on a Polish plane and spent the night at the home of his father, an 83-year-old professor of theology.

He was whisked away from Schonefeld airport, near East Berlin, in a black Russian Zis limousine minutes after his airliner touched down from London.

Fuchs said he held no resentment against Britain and agreed he had been treated decently in prison.

He said he was very pleased to have arrived in the German Democratic Republic but that so far he had no definite plans.

Asked how it felt to be free he said: "It is such a big change, not only being free but being in quite a different country. I suppose it will take some time to get used to it."

Fuchs was born, in Frankfurt,

Gas Enables Prison Guards To Put Down Riot by Insane

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Sixteen hours of rioting in the state's overcrowded mental medical centre here left a legacy of its own mantle, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said Tuesday.

"This was sure did the trick," said 35-year-old Leonard Appleby.

For the last 19 years Appleby has been a guard at the state prison hospital, where 60 per cent of the inmates are the criminal sis who have been judged insane.

Monday at 9:35 p.m., Appleby said, the Britannia, a 1,000-ton ocean liner, was "steaming up the prisoners' mail."

Appleby said, "Before I knew it, this guy had a knife in his hand," Appleby said, "Before I could defend myself, he had cut his knife under my throat.

"I put my hand up and I'll kill you-right here," Taylor said, he quoted.

In the next few minutes, Taylor and 105 other prisoners in the "D" ward cell block on the first floor took Appleby and four other guards as hostages.

"All was pretty quiet," Appleby said. "The inmates tore down offices and records there and loaded up on tranquillizers and the anesthetic.

"We didn't really get scared until after Warden (Russel O.) Sellers arrived and started to the men. He asked them what they were up to and what Taylor had no plan at all. The whole thing was senseless. He never had any real terms.

"They just set out to stretch out the line as far as they could. It made no difference to them if it stayed there or not."

Sellis and other officials worked out a plan of attack and the prisoners were given a deadline to surrender.

Five hundred picked guards put on the masks and armed themselves with clubs made of bars from cell doors, blackjacks and two-foot lengths of one-inch pipe.

At 12:35 p.m. Tuesday they moved into "10 North" — five wards, hurling tear gas grenades before them. A bulldozer ripped bars from a window as a battering ram.

One of the five hostages was found in the head when bones made knives started flicking as the siege forces moved in.

Victoria For Birds

VICTORIA (CP)—The very British city of Victoria and its land publicity bureau shook Tuesday when Publicity Commissioner George L. Warren received an angry protest sticker reading: Victoria is for the birds. Come to Harrison Hot Springs.

The sticker takes off on Victoria's long-standing publicity theme: Victoria is for birds to Victoria.

Mr. Warren has begun investigating the source of the sticker.

Early Uranium Prospector in North Drowned

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Uranium an early uranium prospector in the Blind River area of Northern Ontario who was up to his neck in uranium properties here before the billion-dollar lode was established, has died. He have been drowned in the Montreal River June 18.

Provincial police said Gunterman was on a prospecting trip with Theodore Aime Breton, 24, John Hough of Toronto when their canoe overturned in the fast-flowing river about 80 miles north here.

Hough reached the shore but Gunterman disappeared.

An unknown man, probably a prospector, in 1949 provided a hint to Gunterman and partner, Sault Ste. Marie lawyer Aime Breton, that uranium was in the Blind River area.

But their find, which eventually started a claims rush comparable only to the Klondike gold rush, believed to have yielded them nothing.

NO INTERFERENCE IN CBC AFFAIRS SAYS GOVT.

Nowlan Says Pearson Charges 'Unfounded'

OTTAWA (CP) — The government in effect denied Tuesday in the Commons allegations of political interference in affairs of the publicly-owned CBC.

Opposition Leader Pearson raised the matter by attempting to bring about an urgent debate on the charge raised by resigning CBC employees.

Finance Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament for the corporation, said he has "made no representations, either directly or indirectly at any time or at any place with respect to any program of the CBC."

Justice Minister Fulton said the facts in the situation had been established and that the charge of clandestine political influence referred to in Mr. Pearson's motion was "unfounded."

MOTION RULED OUT

Eventually, Speaker Roland Michener ruled the motion out of order on the ground that it did not charge the government with interfering with CBC management, which was responsible to Parliament and not the government.

Mr. Pearson's motion referred to a claim by resigning CBC employees that "clandestine political influence" had been brought to bear on the CBC management.

Before resignations swept the CBC talks department, one of the corporation cancelled the radio program Preview Commentary from Ottawa. The four-minute program following the 8 o'clock news on the CBC's Trans-Canada Network five days a week comprised opinion by parliamentary reporters on developments in Parliament.

Spokesmen for resigning CBC employees, who included senior executives, said their action was in protest of "unprecedented surrender to political pressure" by the CBC management.

INTEGRITY AT STAKE

Mr. Pearson said "surely the fact of resignations of this kind forced on us brought about by clandestine influence will have an unfortunate effect on the integrity and the independence of the CBC."

In another point he said "only by the immediate and reassuring statement from the government on such a matter can we stop the deterioration in the morale of the CBC and the very serious reflections of this kind be halted."

CCF Leader Hazen Argue, supporting Mr. Pearson's motion, said "interference by the government with the management of the CBC is . . . something of very great concern to the people of this country."

Mr. Fulton quoted a statement by Mr. Bushnell, acting CBC president, that the corporation categorically denied the charge or implication that substitution of Preview Commentary by a five-minute CBC news report of parliamentary activities was due to political interference.

Quebec Welcomes 'la Reine du Canada' With Uninhibited Display of Gallic Pride

QUEBEC (CP) — French-speaking Canada's capital city staged one of its most uninhibited expressions of pride in its Gallic origins Tuesday for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

At the same time the premier of the province and a French-Canadian military unit created during the First World War pledged unswerving loyalty to the Queen.

Hundreds of school children shouted "Vive la Reine du Canada" and police estimated upwards of 50,000 persons lined streets to watch the royal couple past.

The descendants of the small French colony captured by Britain 200 years ago created the image Queen of the conquering nation in the language of their ancestors. And the Queen addressed them in their mother tongue.

BOOK AT WOLFE'S COVE

The royal yacht Britannia docked at Wolfe's Cove, where England's soldiers landed under cover of darkness in 1759. A 100-man Royal 22nd Regiment guard of honor, in red coats and bear caps, marched briskly to the tune of the 22nd Canadienne (Long Live the Canadian Girl).

On the wharf were Premier Duplessis, Roman Catholic Archbishop Maurice Roy and Lady Dollard Menard.

At City Hall Square hundreds clauded and saw the Queen and her husband meet the civic fathers.

BROOCH FOR QUEEN

Thousands saw the Queen at a colorful ceremony during which new colors were presented to the Royal 22nd. Mrs. Alfred Georges Vanier, former ambassador to Paris, presented the Queen with a gem-studded brooch with the regiment's crest in amid remembrance speeches that he might be chosen Canada's next governor-general.

At a reception for the press aboard the Britannia, the Queen and her husband mingled with reporters and photographers.

Later the Queen left her yacht, five, wearing a tiara of diamonds and pearls, motored with Philip to the Chateau Frontenac for a state dinner for 238 guests.

Some 3,000 roses filled the ballroom and there were more flowers arrayed at the entrance, a total cost of $4,000.

In a toast to the Queen, Mr. Duplessis said Quebecers, whatever their religious attachments and racial origins "are happy and proud to assure of their sentiments of respect, loyalty and affection . . . "

He announced establishment by the Quebec government of a $250,000 heart disease research foundation to commemorate the Queen's visit.

Replying in French the Queen described Canada, and Quebec province in particular, as bridges of the Commonwealth of Nations.

Early today the Britannia carrying the royal couple slipped out of Quebec harbor for Trois-Rivieres, 75 miles upstream. They are to be greeted there by Mr. Duplessis.

The Queen's visit to the premier's home town coincides with St. Jean Baptiste Day, day of the patron saint of most French-speaking Canadians.

Across Canada Hiker Passes Through City

With approximately one third of his cross-country hike completed a slim 27-year-old hiker with an ancient Plaidwear is enroute walking from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was on his way today at noon after stopping here briefly for refreshments.

The thousands of Toronto said he had left Halifax 35 days ago and expected to reach the Pacific coast around the end of September. Reason for his long foot journey was given as being fed-up with the way of life in Toronto.

Dressed in khaki shorts and shirt the long distance hiker carries a heavy haversack containing his personal requirements. And apparently a razor is not one of his needs judging from the heavy growth of black whiskers adorning his face and chin.

The hiker's journey is being sponsored by a shoe manufacturer who provided transportation to Halifax and started him in his way.

the approaches to Trois - Rivieres was almost capsized. She experienced relief to her staff when the ship was all secured for the night.

The incidents were quickly forgotten as the Queen and prince stepped down the gangplank to greet by Premier Duplessis, Duplessis. The premier is a native of Trois-Rivieres and was introduced to the royal visitors by the city in the legislature.

On a terrace a short distance away were gathered thousands of happy holiday makers, cheering the royal visitors.

From the dock, the royal couple drove to the heart of the city where the site of the Flambeau, a towering column topped by a gas flame which Trois-Rivieres is especially to the city's founding, to be unveiled and also to the city's youth.

The Queen unveiled a plaque commemorating the 350th anniversary of the founding of Trois-Rivieres and was introduced to prominent personalities including Msgr. Georges - Leon Pelletier, Roman Catholic bishop of Trois-Rivieres.

Refreshments were set up so the crowd could hear the introductions. Mayor Jean Lefebvre formally welcomed the Queen and assured her of the loyalty of the city.

The Queen left the boat wearing a Canadian tuque, mauve and candy pink suit of fine wool with blouse of pink-spotted organza and on her left lapel a spray of pink-spotted orchids and on the left shoulder a sprig of lily-of-the-valley.

The Queen and Prince Philip, in the royal party, dined and refreshed after their overnight cruise up-river to Quebec City, left the Britannia to 10:08 a.m. EDT and were greeted on the dock by Premier Duplessis.

Trois-Rivieres, with a population of 30,481, is a thriving proof of its historic background. In the early days, the city was occupied at different times by the French, British and American troops. It was the first town in Canada to be totalled during the French Regime. Pig iron installations established in 1737 and records show they operated until 1845.

Trois-Rivieres is known mainly as the world's largest newsprint production centre. Newsprint from its mills is sold throughout North and South America. Some of it is also sold in Europe.

Students Find 'Summer Jobs' Scarce This Year But Employment Much Improved

Students desiring temporary employment for the summer months are finding "summer jobs" scarce this year.

This survey undertaken by the Ontario Intelligencer regarding the local student employment now that the schools are closed by guidance directors at the local high schools.

They stated students are experiencing more difficulty this year in securing employment than in previous years. This fact was also corroborated by the local office of the National Employment Service.

An indication of how hard-pressed Belleville students are for summer jobs was shown over the week when the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment observed its 45 coming for its summer course. A total of 180 applied, however, only 45 were chosen when the local Coca Cola Ltd. sent out circulars for drivers for the summer and 60 boys applied.

There has been little difficulty, however, in securing permanent positions, and between 80 and 90 per cent of the city's commercial and industrial grad 12 graduates have been placed in sales, guidance and commercial directors report.

They state the number of employers contacting the schools seeking graduates for permanent positions has increased this year compared with last year.

Mr. Ross Hall, guidance director F. Marchand reports the school's placement service has received several vacancies which cannot be filled.

Mr. Ralph Hall, manager Cecil Hiuser stated although the student employment situation is not as good as we would like it to be", it is definitely brighter than it was last year.

He explained the 40 per cent of the graduate jobless has resulted in a proportionate rise in student permanent employment. He stated that 70 per cent of those are seeking grade 12 graduates, and approximately 30 per cent of the banks in Hastings County have vacancies.

The employment service total of 99 students, 44 of them seeking permanent employment, are currently registered at the NES office. Of those seeking permanent employment, 14 (10 boys and four girls) have been placed and more than 35 students seeking summer employment only, a total of 12 have been placed. Many of the latter are awaiting confirmation from employers.

NEED SUMMER JOBS

Mr. Hall's effort to help summer job-seekers the local N.E.S. office has established a "summer job" category in industry, to hire students for the summer months.

They explain some somebody requires summer jobs to help finance their education.

"We are also trying to encourage students without jobs get to register with us," Mr. Hiuser said.

To encourage student registration, Mr. Hiuser and Mr. Gord Crawford, supervisor of the employment branch, visited the local high schools recently for talks with boys and girls on vocational opportunities. This is a general NES program which has been operating for the past two years.

"We don't guarantees them a job by registering, but we do try to help them realize they have a greater opportunity of success if they leave their name with us," Mr. Hiuser said.

Mr. Hiuser emphasized that grade 12 students should continue their education as far as possible so they will be qualified to fill existing vacancies for university graduates.

"The greater number of unemployed have a flair with the hand education," he said.

Commenting on the scarcity of summer jobs Mr. Gord Leslie, Consumer Public Relations Officer Quinte Secondary School guidance director stated: "Most students will probably find summer jobs eventually by trying several times but they are definitely more difficult to secure this year."

Mr. Lockin suggested students still without summer jobs but who have been working part time through the year to try to persuade their employers to allow them to continue in their jobs for the summer.

He reported seven of the school's eight commercial course graduates have already been placed in permanent positions.

PERCENTAGE PLACED

Mr. F. Marchand, guidance director at B.C.I.V.S., reports 80 percent of grade 13 grads have been placed to date in permanent positions.

"Of the 60 industrial 13 students, over 20 have secured jobs in their specialty or in banks," he added.

He added the grade 13 general course graduates have shown little interest in obtaining permanent jobs, and only a few have been placed. The majority are either entering Grade 13 or the nursing or teaching fields, there are continuing their education at Ryerson Institute of Technology, Toronto.

Mr. J. A. Snetsinger, head of the commercial department of Belleville Collegiate, said out of a total of 37 regular and special commercial graduates a total of 35 have already been placed, for this typical, five-year period. He added a third boy is entering Kemptville Agricultural School and a girl is entering the nursing profession, bringing the total of graduates placed to 37.

"Employment for girls has been better this year than last, but for boys, it hasn't been too good," Mr. Snetsinger stated.

There is no permanent placement problem at St. Michael's Academy High School. The principal, Sister Mary Leona, reports all 19 graduates are continuing their education. Some are going on to university, others to Teachers' College or entering the nursing field.

Sister Mary Leonore added the school had received a few requests for students from local industries.

NOT TOO MANY JOBS

Concerning the summer job situation Mr. Marchand pointed out "there doesn't seem to be too many summer jobs this year. However, the number of students who are working at the Canadian Gypsum Company, who have been employed by the Recreation Commission as playground supervisors, swimming instructors and camp directors and counsellors, principally at Bonisteel Camp.

The Recreation Commission has also been employing about this year Twenty-three students (all of whom are attending or attending Teachers' College) have been hired to supervise the city's 23 playgrounds. The other six have been hired as swimming instructors and life guards at the Kinsmen Pool.

The Canadian Canners Ltd., Trenton, which employs a total of 44 students, personnel manager George MacDonald reports. Out of a total of 127 male employees, approximately 40 are students, and out of a total of 34 female employees, four are girl students. All were hired for employment, are on file in the office. The plant commenced operations on Monday.

Mr. MacDonald added there was a possibility more male students will be hired if 127 male the corn packing commences. Pea packing is now in operation.

Other seasonal jobs employing students include fruit picking on farms, summer resorts, particularly in the Muskoka's and Georgian Bay district supplier industries such as soft drink companies.

Ditching Work On West Hill Nearly Complete

The Belleville Department of Public Works has been quite active over the past week. Ditching work on the West Hill has been almost 90 per cent completed with the exception of a section of Bleecker and Oak streets.

Sewer maintenance and ditching is also being completed on both the West and East Hills with both tankers in operation every day. Some maintenance work is also being carried on around the Lower Bridge approaches.

The province of a street sanitary signal is a minimum cost is now about half completed by the Public Works Department.

Due to an active weed inspection and cutting program conducted recently, several weeds have been greatly reduced. Since this program started about two weeks ago during which time about 80-90 notices have been given.

Some sewer maintenance has been going on in the eastern end of the section of the city and investigation work is being conducted concerning some storm sewer trouble at the corner of Pinnacle and East Bridge streets.

Several items of new equipment have recently been received by the department. Two trucks, two three-ton trucks, and a back hoe and loader have been delivered. There is still one tanker to come

Turner School Pupils Visit Plants in City

Education consists of many things and one of the most important is experience and knowledge of a first hand nature. This was the type of education which 34 pupils of Turner Public School, near Halloway, received yesterday on a trip to Belleville arranged by their teacher, Mrs. Foster Hall.

The students managed to cover a lot of ground in seeing things which were new to them.

Their trip of experiences started with a conducted tour of The Ontario Intelligencer Ltd., where they had a first hand look at the process of printing out a daily newspaper. Following this they visited the studios of radio station CJBQ to view the workings of the staff and equipment there.

These two experiences took up the major part of the morning's activities and a time out was taken for the group to enjoy a picnic lunch at the East Hill playground.

In the afternoon the group started out with a visit to No. 2 Fire Hall of the Belleville Fire Department, where Chief Jack Rums showed them the equipment which the firemen employ. With the assistance of Fireman Al Vance the students were given a first hand demonstration of the operation of the hook and ladder truck which they greatly enjoyed watching.

VISITED HOSPITAL

Following this stop the group proceeded to the Belleville General Hospital, where Miss Margaret Kilpatrick, assistant dietitian, guided the students around various sections of the hospital. They visited the kitchen, the laundry, the operating room, a few of the wards and finally the dining room, where they enjoyed milk and cookies before the trip to the city.

The final point of interest for the grades one to four students from Thurlow township was the Provincial Experimental Farm of the Federal Department of Agriculture. Superintendent Ken Hunter and Mrs. Tom Sloveit took them on a tour of the main building, where they were given a talk prepared by some of the special equipment which is available in the various departments, especially the sterilization equipment, the microscopes, the animal photographic and sound equipment. The pupils also saw a cage of grasshoppers collected from their own area, the library, the refrigerated room, the museum and the reference collection of all insects kept at the museum, a story as well as the various types of butterflies, moths, beetles, and bees.

TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED

With the above visit the public school board concluded their study's activities and returned to transportation provided by Mrs. Wilson, the teacher, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Folliwell and Mrs. Ralph Donaldson, parents of some of the students.

This was the first such visit which has been undertaken by the students of Turner School and a great interest was shown of having a field day. Needless to say many memories and experiences which they would not usually have come in contact with were enjoyed.

IN MEMORIAM

SWENOR. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Swenor, passed away June 24th, 1954.
Sweet memories are all I have,
To bring her to our minds;
Of her we loved so dearly,
Are very hard to find.
Time can never cause us to give,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To have her with us, dear mother,
Come smiling at the door.
Sadly missed by Mary and Band.

SWENOR. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lloyd Swenor, who passed away June 24th, 1952, and daughter and sister, Mary Ann, who passed away May 8th, 1956.
Little did we think that soon,
The angels would bring
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
To part with those we loved so dear,
To know we never said goodbye,
Still adds to our sorrow.
But the hearts who loved you dearly
Think of you today and always
Sadly missed by wife and family.

NEW LOOK FOR MILITIA

The new role which the Canadian militia units have been called to fulfill in the civil defence organization across the country should prove to be most beneficial in stimulating an organization whose effectiveness, in a number of communities, has been rather low. Citizens have not taken too readily to the idea of civil defence in many areas; some through total indifference, others through open derision of the concept of the system.

Perhaps indifference is due to a feeling of well-being brought on by the prosperity of the post-war years; perhaps it is because of the refusal to have anything to do with supporting or accepting something, the very essence of which is based on the possibility of a devastating conflict in the future and preparing to meet the results and predicaments which such an event would occasion; but the fact remains that a civil defence organization is required.

The new concept is, we feel, a good one. - Organization of local civil defence units is now left to the militia unit concerned. This provides an organized basis for future development in the hands of people who have proven ability at organizing the complicated processes which may be required should ever evacuation and supply lines, manning order, or other moves of a basically military nature be required.

The importance of having the insurance of a properly organized civil defence system can surely not be argued against. It is senseless to suggest that the regular Army or any other branch of the armed forces should handle the situation should it arise. The armed forces must be left entirely free of handling any possible evacuation and emergency control measures so that they can mobilise for the purpose of actual defence free of any encumbrances.

This new role for the militia units across Canada should, we feel, enhance their value to the community as well as to the nation as a whole. Naturally those who are familiar with the layout of a community and the district around it and the people in it can more effectively cope with any emergency situation which might arise. Those involved with the implementation of such action as might be required will know how to deal with the people involved, where they can look to outside of their own militia group for effective assistance, and where they can obtain locally such supplies as may be necessary but with which they are not normally equipped.

One very excellent attribute of the "new look" for the militia is the fact that training which the units will receive can be put to good use no matter what the emergency may be. It can be just as useful in peacetime as in the event of war. This, we feel, is a very good use of the militia.

ALONG THE WAMPUM TRAIL

Indians, or rather the lands belonging to Indians, are once again in the news. We see that some cottagers on islands in the Kawartha Lakes north of Peterborough have been advised that after this summer they may find they do not own the land which they have been living on and may have to pay up or vacate.

Apparently these lands are owned by the Mississaugas who, in 1885, surrendered the lands to the Crown with the agreement that the islands would be sold for the tribe's benefit. At long last, apparently, the wheels of officialdom have ground into action and many people, who thought they owned the property, will find their deeds invalid in the case of Crown lands, which can only be surrendered by patent rights.

It has been suggested that the Indian Affairs Department that these people might have an option to buy the property they have been using, together with an account for back rental for the time they have used it. This should prove to be an interesting issue involving the rental rates, the rights of squatters, and the allowances of credit towards rental for the improvement and upkeep of the Crown lands concerned.

We seriously doubt, however, if these transactions will involve the millions of dollars which have been bandied about concerning the sale of Indian lands around Sarnia. Unless, of course, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has a yen for islands.

THE WISDOM OF YOUTH

By EDGAR A. GUEST

She has only turned eighteen,
Not a tear her cheek has stained;
By no sad and tragic scene
Has her happy heart been pained.

But she'll tell you what to do
In the best and fit of strife,
Just as though she really knew
All there is to know of life.

She has studied Greek and Latin,
She has read philosophy;
But her heart has known no sorrow
Nor met
With the heart ache of the stricken
In the sunshine and the sweet
May she read her Book of Life.

And she tells them what to do
With their troubles every day;
Just as though she really knew,

And they pray from day to day
That she'll never know the
Of life's sometimes troubled
Or complain of its rebuff.
And they pray she'll never
With the heart ache of the
In the sunshine and the sweet
May she read her Book of Life.

New Puzzle For Lawyers

Pembroke Observer

Britain now has an honest-to-goodness flying saucer. In appearance, it actually looks more like a cup and saucer, but it has been successfully flown. And its inventor says it is believed it has passed a fine problem in deliberation: for the authorities, who are to decide to which category of craft the flying saucer fits.

The saucer, however, the new type of craft so far is the "Hovercraft." It is an apt name, as in the recent tests, it moved above the ground, moving to and fro, on a cushion of air between it and earth. The model which has been successfully tested is about 30 feet long, 24 feet wide, and weighs two tons. It is supported above the surface of earth or water on a cushion of air which is generated, and forced down wards, by an engine-driven fan. The weight of the machine is transmitted through the forced air cushion, and is borne by the ground or the water immediately below it.

Its builders foresee a great commercial future for the Hovercraft when it has been developed to commercial size. Its backers point out that it can be developed to operate as a ferry between Britain and the Continent at a speed of 100 miles an hour, and even trans-Atlantic flight on an enlarged model is not considered improbable.

With the successful testing of the Hovercraft, however, interesting legal questions have been raised as to the regulations under which it should be licenced. Because of its nature, supported by the ground and the cushion of air which it has set between it, the same sense as an aeroplane, which is sustained in flight by the aerodynamic lift of its wings or an airship. Presumably, therefore, the Hovercraft will be covered by the Air Navigation Act.

Nevertheless, it does not run wheels which touch the surface of the earth, it cannot be considered as a vehicle properly speaking in the sense of a motor vehicle. It is not a ship, because while over water, no part of it touches the surface.

The body who is testing the hovercraft is Peter Lambe, chief test pilot of Saunders-Roe Company. One problem is whether he should have a sailing master's certificate when he operates it over water.

Presumably it would be possible to drive 'the Hovercraft through a built up area on land. Even if it is restricted to a speed limit, a question which would arise is whether the car driving licence would be endorsed, or whether he would be summoned for driving.

So if the Hovercraft reaches commercial production, it is likely to do, these problems may call for the passing of special legislation to cover them.

Fate of Plane Real Mystery

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

An air traffic mystery of the Libyan desert may outdo that most famous sea mystery of the Mary Celeste. Both are baffling and the Libyan one is intriguing.

In 1872 the brigantine, Mary Celeste, was found in mid-Atlantic by a crew of five, abandoned but in good condition. Last week a Libyan Air Force transport, missing for 16 years, and also in good condition, was found in the trackless sands 150 miles south of Benghazi. In neither case was there any evidence of the fate of the persons concerned.

A British ship, stranded by the sands, found a deserted American ship, boarded her and found the blood group as well as certain articles needed for navigation. The last entry in the ship's log was two weeks old. She had no gas, mainly barrels of alcohol, and intact. There was no apparent reason for abandoning ship. Twenty persons who had been on board had vanished. Search failed again.

Some of this, Conan Doyle and other fiction writers have woven into stories. It is odd mingling of mystery with about this 20-day ship than any other ship of tragedy

Argentine Hero Issues Demand President Quit

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Rear-Admiral Isaac Rojas, a hero of the revolt that toppled Argentine dictator Juan Peron, issued a defiant call during the night for the resignation of President Arturo Frondizi. The government replied that Frondizi will not quit.

Rojas sounded a virtual call to arms to the country's increasingly rebellious armed forces.

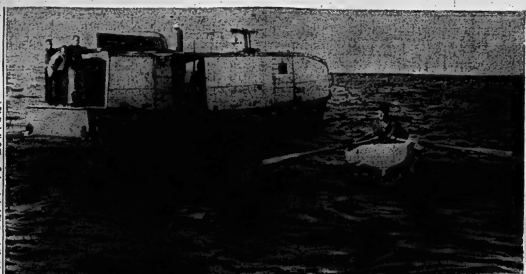
Branding the Frondizi administration "tarnished and illegitimate," Rojas warned the president he faces military ouster if he does not heed the ultimatum to resign.

Interior Minister Alfredo Vilela, the president's staunchest defender in the present crisis, retorted in a post-midnight reply that the military would commit subversion if it rose up. He said the government will meet the threat of revolt with all its power.

BOLDEST DEFIANCE

The sudden development clearly drew the lines between the government and rebellious factions in the armed forces. Rojas' denunciation was the boldest defiance Frondizi's harried regime has faced in the 12 months it has been in office.

Vilela's sharp answer made it clear that Frondizi is determined to cling to the presidency—to which he was elected overwhelmingly—even if it means a showdown with the armed forces.



It appeared extremely doubtful that Frondizi would be able to work out any compromise. The only question seemed to be whether the military leaders have enough strength to force the president out if he bows to his refusal to resign.

Rojas' ultimatum was delivered to a late great conference after a hectic day of conferences between Frondizi and political leaders. The president sought to piece together a new cabinet in hopes of appeasing the military men who have accused him of ineffective economic policies and of coddling the Communists and Peronists who helped elect him.

Frondizi's entire cabinet resigned Monday under pressure from the military, which demanded sweeping changes in the regime.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

A NEW LOCAL ASSOCIATION

At Stirling recently, 35 committee men and leaders met with the objective of forming a Local Association.

Field Commissioner Art Jackson was in the chair and explained exactly what a Local Association is. The obligations are to govern local groups, set up District Commissions, etc., and generally promote Scouting in all its phases. A L.A. was started in 1952 with Campbellford, Stirling, Marmora and several other groups. It was found that the organization became too large and unwieldy to administer properly, therefore it is desired for mutual benefit, to split and reorganize a smaller district. The groups that will be invited to join this L.A. are: Madoc (chairman R. C. Jackson), Marmora (J. Van Volkenburg), Stirling (W. N. Heath), Centenary (R. Edmondson), Bayside (C. R. Miller), Tweed (Harold Long) and Foxboro (Chris Leggat).

The first annual meeting of the Moira Valley L.A. will be held at Tweed on October 7th, when the president and officers will be elected. A nominating committee of group chairmen will meet in September to draw up a slate of officers.

Field Commissioner Jackson congratulated Cubmaster Jim Churchill of Foxboro on being awarded a Bronze bar to his long service decoration.

Chairman R. H. Woodward of Batawa group requested that this L.A. attend an "Open House" of the Bata Shoe Co., that will be invited to join this L.A. sery. Cubs and Scouts will parade with colors. Everybody will be made welcome to this grand affair on Saturday September 5th., at 1.00 p.m. Several groups accepted the invitation and will have their boys in the parade. Will group chairmen please contact Rudy Woodward for particulars. Let us make this another success for our Cubs and Scouts and make a point of attending with our families and friends. We can be sure of a wonderful day.

14th LIONS GROUP

A group committee and Boy Scouts Auxiliary (ladies please note change in title), was elected at a well attended meeting in Hillcrest school. Officers of the auxiliary are: president, Mrs. T. S.M. Art Steenburg and S.M. Phil Stewart invested Scouts Larry Woodcock, Thomas Heiner, Garry Scriven and Jack McCoy, into the 14th troop.

The Scouts will attend camp at Thomasburg July 18 to 25.

Cubs, Scouts, leaders and fathers and mothers had an enjoyable wiener roast with ample supplies of cokes and watermelon to which the boys did full justice. This was the closing meeting. They will meet again in September.

Congratulations to Scouts Don Little, Harold Elliott and Larry Woodcock who attended the camporee and got "B" ratings.

Will Represent Salvation Army

PICTON — When Queen Elizabeth is in Toronto next Tuesday, one of the places she will visit will be the Arthur Meighen Salvation Army Lodge on Davisville Avenue in that city.

For this occasion, a guard of honor will be provided by members of the Army. Each corps is being asked to send an officer and a soldier. Representing the Picton Corps will be Lieut. Don Randall and Stirling Martin.

County Student Wins European Trip in Contest

PICTON — A sixteen-year-old youth had won a trip to Europe as a guest of the Royal Canadian Air Force as a result of national model aircraft contest sponsored by the RCAF. He is Michael Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Williams of Big Island, ten miles northeast of Picton. The Grade 11 student at Prince Edward Collegiate spent two months building a flying model of a "jenny" biplane, one of more than nine thousand entries from across Canada in the contest marking the 45th anniversary of the RCAF. Michael Williams' model won one of the top awards.

He is one of fourteen boys whose award will be a trip overseas by RCAF Comet Jet transport, a two weeks' tour of Canada, NATO Air Division in Europe and a weekend visit to London, England, as a guest of the RCAF.

It is understood that this and other models will go into a museum to record the history of flight in Canada.

Williams declared himself as surprised and thrilled at his good fortune and is awaiting details of the trip. He has been a flying enthusiast for some time and last Sunday made his first solo flight. His parents, both of whom are licensed pilots and own their own Taylorcraft plane, gave him the course in flying at Prince Edward Flying Club here as a Christmas gift. His father was president of the Flying Club for two years. Both share their son's anticipation of a trip, which had been even beyond his dreams.

Bay of Quinte I.O.O.F. Lodge Signally Honored

PICTON — Bay of Quinte Lodge No. 143, Independent Order of Odd Fellows has been signally honored this year. Members of the local lodge this year will fill the positions of Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, District Deputy Grand Patriarch of Grand Encampment and District Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of I.O.O.F.

Ralph W. Hubbs of Picton is the Grand Patriarch and succeeds Walter Lee of Welland in that office. Starting in September, he will visit all Encampments in the province. He is the second member of the local lodge to receive this honor, the other being the late E. C. Garbutt, who held this office in 1905. The local Encampment was revived seven years ago and it is considered a special honor that it should have chosen from its ranks the Grand Patriarch. Mr. Hubbs holds the rank of Brigadier - General in the Canton (Patriarchs Militant), being in charge of the Second Brigade which covers all Canton from Toronto to Cobalt and east. He is a Past Noble Grand of Bay of Quinte Lodge and treasurer of the local Cancer - Polio - Tuberculosis Committee.

Grand Patriarch Hubbs was installed with impressive ceremony at the sessions held in connection with Grand Lodge of Ontario held in Toronto last week.

Elected as District Deputy Grand Patriarch is Ross Jeffery who succeeds Morley Tanner, of Consecon. He is a Past Patriarch of the local Encampment No. 72 and a Past Noble Grand of the Bay of Quinte Lodge.

Elected as District Deputy Grand of Bay of Quinte Lodge, ward Bolston, a Past Noble Grand of all yof Quinte Lodge. He succeeds George MacDonald of Belleville.

Both DDGM's will be installed at the meeting being held Wednesday night in the Odd Fellows' Hall here. The retiring DDGM's will be in attendance and the public is invited.

Dr. Arliss Denyes, Tweed, Queen's Biologist Studies Mystery of Hibernation

The mystery of hibernation—how an animal can reduce its body temperature by—within a few degrees of freezing, maintain this temperature for a period, and then return to normal with no ill effects—is one of the fascinating research problems under study by Dr. H. Arliss Denyes, assistant professor of biology at Queen's University, Kingston.

Hamsters have been used for several years by Dr. Denyes in his experimental work in the biology laboratories of the Old Arts building at Queen's. These are brown and white rat-like animals which have cheek pouches for carrying food. She uses about 100 hamsters in her experiments each year.

To study the hibernation process, Dr. Denyes keeps the hamsters in cages in the cold room of her laboratory. The temperature is constant at about 41 degrees Centigrade, or 42.8 degrees F. After 12 weeks in the cold room the animals start to hibernate. They stay in the hibernating state for three or four days, and then come out to eat. Having satisfied their hunger, they go back into hibernation for three or four days to repeat the process.

In studying the state of hibernation, the hamsters reduce their body temperature about 90 degrees in a few hours, to a point of a few degrees above freezing. In the natural state they are able to survive several days to a week at temperatures from 0 to 5 degrees C.

Watching the animal come out of hibernation is a fascinating performance, says Dr. Denyes. At first the hamster is cold to touch and apparently lifeless. As the body temperature slowly rises, the animal's breath is very rapidly, breathing is faster than normal, and the legs twitch violently. In a warm room the hamster's body temperature rises about 30 degrees in an hour. In a cold room it takes about three hours.

Dr. Denyes' particular interest is cellular metabolism. She studies how metabolism occurs in the hamster as it prepares for hibernation, and what happens when it comes out of hibernation.

Metabolism is the process by which the living cell or the organism takes food and builds it up into living matter, and also how living matter is broken down into its chemical elements.

The metabolism of a single cell is so complicated that it is impossible in one thought to describe of its many integrated operations," said Dr. Denyes. Instead, she has to take different parts of metabolism, work them out separately, and then try to fit them together into a scheme."

Dr. Denyes is starting a new series of experiments in this field. She is using radioactive isotopes in order to find out more detail about intermediary metabolism. These isotopes are tagged atoms whose conversions in the hamster's tissues can be followed by use of a geiger counter.

Dr. Denyes' work in cellular metabolism is supported by grants from the National Science Foundation of the U.S.A., the Ontario Research Foundation, the National Research Council and Queen's University.

Born at Tweed, Ont., Dr. Denyes was brought up in Kingston. She is a graduate of Kingston Ladies College, Toronto and Queen's University, graduating in 1945 with the honour B. Sc. in biology. University of Michigan awarded her the M. Sc. and Ph.D. She taught for six years at Florida State University before accepting an appointment to Queen's University in 1956. Assistant professor of biology, Dr. Denyes is keenly interested in research as well as in teaching.

Queen Dresses Too Much for Age Says Designer

LONDON (AP) — American dress designer Don Loper said Tuesday that Queen Elizabeth is a well-dressed woman but "dresses too much her age."

"It's probably not her fault," he added. "It's the fault of those who dress her. Why, at times she looks like 50."

A reporter noted that her majesty was 33.

"That's just my point," he snapped.

Loper asked Princess Margaret's clothes, Loper replied: "The Princess is not an ringone to dress. This is because of her size."

Loper said he has deep sympathy for the royal ladies and their clothes.

"Everyone's looking at them all the time and they look with a critical eye.

"They're on (on stage) from the minute they wake until they go to bed. And don't forget, because of their great activities—standing around at ceremonies and walking through factories and such—they've got to be comfortable, too."

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We just can't get away from the subject of strawberries; last week it was the picking of wild berries in former years, this week it is local and more timely and useful information about the present tasne crop. That heavy, much - needed rain, which broke the heat wave a couple of weeks ago and was followed by cool weather, may have slowed the strawberry crop slightly but we are told this rainfall in a better quality fruit, well worth waiting for.

It is a berry, however, to know just what to expect. From one or two sources we heard that the berry season was going to be very short, but the official word is that this year's crop is expected to be of average size and good quality. That sounds as if we should have an ample supply both for table use and for strawberry shortcake unlimited.

Local berries are unsurpassed for flavor as attesting by the many strawberry socials enjoyed by many groups throughout the district in the spring, the imported berries look appetizing and taste in good stead for an advance treat, but it is only ripe, fruit we mean, when we think of strawberries and cream, or real strawberry shortcake "the finishing Prayer," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Theodore Armstrong Read, was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of white silk embroidered net taffeta with tilted bodice having three-quarter sleeves, and picture neckline appliqued with motifs of quipure lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. The voluminous skirt was gathered at the back by matching lace motifs, falling into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a Juliet cap of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Douglas Grace, of Montreal, as matron of honor, was gowned in pale blue crystallette fashioned on princess lines. The bridesmaids, Miss Mirabelle Read, cousin of the bride; Miss Jessie Knapp, and Miss Gail Biggs, were gowned alike in crystallette fashioned on princess lines in shades of yellow, gold and pale rose. They wore matching hats and carried nosegays of Sweetheart carnations matching their gowns.

Mr. William Perrin of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Frank Bradford, and Kenneth Read, Montreal, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Elizabeth Salon in Mount Royal town hall, where the bride's mother, receiving, wore embossed French silk, two-tone pink lace and taffeta gown of pink roses, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue chiffon over taffeta with white accessories, and corsage of yellow tea roses, assisted in the receiving line.

For travelling, the bride chose a printed silk shantung with pink accessories.

Guests present from Belleville, Toronto, Ottawa, and other out-of-town points. Among those present were the bridegroom's grandmothers, Mrs. Frederick Simmons and Mrs. Frederick Cory of Belleville, and his great-aunt, Mrs. Rhoda Anderson of Calgary, Alberta.

Veal Cutlets with Herb Stuffing. Try this Continental idea for serving veal with herbs in the stuffing and gravy.

Veal Cooked With French Finesse

by Mary Moore

You may have noticed that I have been avoiding the subject of veal the reason being its shamelessly high price.

I hope by the time this reaches print that cattle raisers, calves and their cow mothers and meat packers or whoever is responsible have come to their senses and lowered the boom on high cost of veal.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY
(Perch Dinner)

Assorted Cold Cuts: Corned Beef, Jellied Tongue, Bologna or Liverwurst and Cheese Loaf; Sandwich Loaf (see Tuesday); Tossed Green Salad; Ice Cream with Strawberries; Iced Tea.

I want you to try a delicious recipe I have for Breaded Veal Cutlet, and consider calling for whole veal steaks (cutlets) with a Herb Stuffing between.

VEAL STEAK, LATIN STYLE

2½ cups fine crumbs (or could be a packaged crisp breakfast cereal if desired), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1 1-2 pounds veal steak, ¾-inch thick, 1-3 cup oil, 3 eggs, slightly beaten, 4 garlic cloves, 1-3 cup water.

Combine fine crumbs with salt, pepper and cheese. Cut steak into serving pieces; dip into 1-4 cup oil, then roll in crumb mixture. Dip again, this time in the egg, then again into the crumb mixture. Brown the garlic in the remaining oil that has been heated. Remove garlic. Brown the meat in the garlic oil; add the water and cover. Simmer about 45 minutes or until tender. Serve with parsley-buttered rice, or buttered noodles with chopped chives. Will serve six.

VEAL CUTLETS WITH HERB STUFFING

3 veal round steaks, (2 to 3 pounds, cut ¾-inch thick), ¼ cup flour, salt and pepper to taste, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, 4 cups fresh bread crumbs, ½ cup currant jelly, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon of pepper, ¼ teaspoon powdered thyme, 10-oz. can beef consomme, 1 bay leaf, water, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard.

Pound ¼ cup flour into steaks until they are thin. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Heat butter or margarine in heavy frying pan. Add onions. Stir and cook over low heat until onions are tender. Add bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon thyme. Spread stuffing over one of the steaks. Top with the other steak. Hold steaks together with wooden tooth picks and then tie. Brown both sides in frying pan. Add 1-3 cup of consomme and bay leaf. Cover tightly and cook over low heat about 1 hour or 'til tender. Add more consomme if necessary. When done remove to serving platter. To make Herb Gravy, combine meat drippings, remaining consomme with water to make 1¼ cups. Mix with a little of the liquid 3 tablespoons flour, then add to balance of liquid. Cook and stir over low heat until thick and smooth. Add French mustard and jelly, mix well. Serve over steaks and stuffing.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: THANK FOR SPECIAL FEATURES

People will sparkle with gracious thinking, have trained themselves to thank for special features of a gift when they write their thank-you notes . . . to thank for special features of a visit when they write their bread-and-butter letters . . . to comment on a special feature or special features of a party or other entertainment. This is not going in appreciation . . . in delightfully mending the point of view of the other person . . . in enthusiasm . . . in important social graces. Delights the friend, the giver, the hostess.

ON BEHALF REPLY TO RECEPTION INVITATION

Dear-Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle the "serious" discussion we (and several of our neighbors and friends) are having, will you please tell us how to word the shortest and simplest form of acceptance and regret to a formal invitation to a church wedding and reception? Thank you. C. E.

The shortest and simplest form for the formal acceptance to a formal, engraved invitation to the reception is:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith accept with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Clark
for Tuesday, the fourth of August at five o'clock

And the regret:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith regret that they are unable to accept the very kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Clark
for
Tuesday, the fourth of August.

Notes: (1) A formal, engraved invitation to a church ceremony does not require an answer. It is the invitation to the reception that requires an answer. (2) The couple's names are always personal writing paper, or on plain white or gray, and in general it follows the style and spacing (as indicated above) of the invitation. (3) The kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Clark" is better form than "Mr. and Mrs. Clark's kind invitation." (4) In the regret it is considered more polite to write "the very kind invitation of —." (5) In the regret it is not necessary to repeat the hour.

WEDDING GIFT SHOULD BE SENT TO BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The son of our dear and longtime friend is to be married this Fall. I have never met his future wife, who lives in a province some distance from the province in which he lives. Should I send my wedding present to my friend's son, the bridegroom-to-be, or to his bride-to-be? — M.H.

You should send your wedding present to the bride-to-be's home address. And this is the correct procedure whether or not you have met her.

YOUR DAUGHTER can make a swing for her favorite doll. Fasten a hole in each corner of a box which will hold the small passenger.

To keep sidesaddle from the holes in the tops of two chairs set just far enough apart to allow free swinging.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychologist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edward M. — My wife doesn't like children.

Carol M. — I would do my best for her.

Edward M. — My wife and I have been married three years and we are both in our mid-20's. Our problem concerns raising a family.

Before we married we talked of a family, naturally. But ever since we have been married Carol wants to hear nothing about it. She says why hurry, but I would like to start a family now. Carol says she will if she must — just to please me. But I don't want to have children on such a basis.

I'm crazy about children and have the greatest time when we visit friends and relatives who have children, but Carol can't will to get away.

Carol M. — I try to like children — honestly I do. But the truth is that I don't find anything cute in them. They are smelly and messy and constantly coming down with some awful trouble.

Of course I wouldn't deprive my husband of children, but I can't see why we have to hurry. I would like to have another year or two of freedom.

I would do my best to bring up my children right, but I must admit that I'm not very good with kids. Whenever I get involved with nieces and nephews or friends' kids something awful happens and they wind up bawling.

The Council: Luck has been with this couple's unborn children so far. We'd hate to think of a tiny creature being dutifully tended by Carol. Poor child! Poor Edward. Poor Carol!

Carol won't like this, but we must give it to her straight. The reason she doesn't like children is that she is a child herself. The natural "messiness" of children holds no terror or horror for the adult who feels completely in command of himself.

When he sees a child's strong efforts to understand and control his environment, he is filled with wonder at the miracle of life and growth. He is moved to give of his strength and understanding to bring this new life into fuller development. Only an insecure person is disturbed by helplessness.

The fact that Carol apparently does not, consciously or unconsciously, to hurt or frighten the children with whom she comes in contact suggests no hostile resentment against them. We'll hazard a guess that she is somewhat jealous of the fact that the child is allowed to be as messy as it unconfined as he pleases. Nothing is expected of him and everyone loves him no matter what he does. He gets loads of attention without even having to try.

Carol evidently makes some effort to be grownup and accept her responsibilities, but for some reason her emotional development hasn't kept pace with her years. She'll have to find a way of growing out of the Peter Pan stage and she may need professional help to do it.

Retiring Teacher Honored By S.S. Board, BCIVS Staff

On the occasion of her retirement from the teaching profession, Miss Mildred Macpherson was honored by the Bay of Quinte district Secondary School Board and staff of BCIVS at a dinner Tuesday evening in the Tabernacle United Church.

Mr. Arnold Orr, principal, was master of ceremonies and Mrs. John Boyd gave three enjoyable numbers accompanied by Mr. Clifford Templer.

In appreciation and, as a token of esteem for 35 years of loyal and useful services given as teacher of Household Arts, Miss Macpherson was presented with a beautiful camera and a typewriter.

Speaking on behalf of the board, the chairman, Mr. James Durant, paid high tribute to the proof of her worth expressed in the high esteem which all her pupils have had for her during her long term of dedicated service. Giving unstintingly of her talents and having an unusual gift of interest in and understanding of her pupils, Miss Macpherson has enjoyed a more than average degree of success as a teacher.

FURTHER TRIBUTE PAID

Miss Hilda MacLaren, speaking on behalf of the staff, paid further tribute to the value of a colleague whose genuine, loyal and warm-hearted friendship have been so highly cherished by all who have worked with her.

During the First World War Miss Macpherson spent four most interesting years under the DSCR teaching Occupational Theraphy in Hospitals at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Hospital Duval and at Christie Street Veterans' Hospital, Toronto.

Speaking for the several retired teachers who were present, Miss Nell Merry commented on the encouraging rewards of teaching and in particular on the great value of the Home Economics course under the direction of Miss Eric Grout to the many students of this city who have taken advantage of it.

Summer White

By ALICE ALDEN

The beauty of white comes to full flower in summer costumes that have an urban air about them. Vera Stewart makes a beautifully shaped, sleeveless dress of patterned white cotton fabric. It has a deep rounded neckline. Topping the simple frock is an opulent sweater of white cashmere with a waist-length collar of white fox.

Bus Trip Enjoyed by W.I. Ladies

WELLINGTON — A bus load of ladies, mostly members of the Wellington W.I., motored to Peterborough on Thursday where they enjoyed the day touring three different plants: the Quaker Oats, the Canada Packers and the Wesleiox companies, which were all interesting.

A picnic lunch at noon in the park was also enjoyed, as was a trip to the "lift locks."

Later in the afternoon all did a little shopping in the numerous stores, and after supper proceeded home, tired but happy.

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

MADOC — Trinity United Ladies' Club held its final meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. George White. Perfect June weather and a spacious lawn attracted many of the members and several guests.

A bounteous pot-luck supper was served buffet style adding greatly to the success of this popular event.

Later in the evening the guests took part in an amusing and original program arranged by Mrs. J. McGowan and Mrs. S. R. Beatty.

A farewell gift was presented to Mrs. Drinkwalter who has been a valuable member of the club for some years. Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwalter and Douglas will take up residence in Port Hope.

NIGHTINGALE'S SONG

Fine Musical Concert Presented By Pupils at Alberta College

UNITED CHURCH W. A.

By MRS. GLADYS WARD

Little girls in their prettiest dresses and little boys in their polished best joined with the young adults to present a fine musical concert on Tuesday evening at Memorial chapel when the Albert College Conservatory of Music held its annual recital. These were all the piano and vocal students of Mr. Egerton Boyce, and the excellent performances were a tribute to their instructor.

Principal of Albert College, Dr. A. E. MacKenzie gave welcome to the pupils, their parents and guests in the first in a series of three closing exercises by the Conservatory. Dr. MacKenzie spoke of Miss Bessie Handley, who had been a teacher of music for many years and who would be in the thoughts of many who were present. Although still in hospital in Toronto, Miss Handley was making a good recovery.

Bonnie Rowe, who was heard in a vocal duet and solo was announced as the winner of the Albert College award at the festival of praise in Stirling.

The presentation of those taking part was arranged with the performers entering at stage right instead of from the auditorium as at previous recitals. For some it was a first public appearance but those who had studied and appeared before, showed the improvement in the mastery of more difficult techniques. The audience participated too, in singing a verse of a hymn with Francis Rose at the piano and Mr. Boyce at the organ.

Those taking part in the program were in the following order:

PROGRAM

Oldest Incorporated City Boasts Mayor With Longest Record of Public Service

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Canada's oldest incorporated city can also boast a mayor with one of the longest records of distinguished public service.

After 22 years of public life including 13 as lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, the longest term in the province's history, 65-year-old D. L. MacLaren was prevailed upon to become a caid'date for the Saint John mayoralty in July, 1958.

He polled more than double the votes of his nearest opponent and took over the post in which he had previously served from 1936 to 1940. As the city's top executive he has been active in a variety of ways and devotes full time to his work.

"Work is my hobby," says the rugged - featured but pleasant mayor. "I just have to keep busy."

LONG CAREER IN PUBLIC SERVICE — D. L. MacLaren, 65 year old mayor of Saint John, N.B., has spent 22 years in public life, 13 as lieutenant governor, the longest term in New Brunswick's history, and nine as mayor of St. John. He was elected mayor in 1936, leaving in 1940 for war work. He was lieutenant governor from 1945 to 1958 when he ran for mayor a second time polling more than double the votes of his nearest opponent. The loss of his right leg above the knee at Vimy Ridge in 1917 prevents him from taking an active part in sports and the little time he spares from work goes into his collection of British war medals, considered to be the finest on the continent. (CP Photo).

STUDIES AMALGAMATION

He was appointed to represent Saint John on a municipal fact-finding committee studying the possibility of amalgamating the city and its adjoining areas with a total population of more than 80,000. Saint John itself has a population of about 53,000.

The appointment was criticized in some quarters as contrary to the original idea that the committee be made up of "private and impartial individuals" rather than elected representatives.

Mayor MacLaren replied he had advocated amalgamation for years and he intended to stay on the committee. That was nearly six months ago and he still is a member of the body.

Mr. MacLaren ended his first stretch as mayor by retiring in 1940 to devote himself to war work in New Brunswick. In April, 1945, he was appointed minister of national revenue by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King but was defeated in Saint John-Albert in the general election held two months later, in November, 1945, he was appointed lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, holding the post until 1958.

SAINT JOHN NATIVE

Born in Saint John in 1893, David Laurence MacLaren joined the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1911 and, except for three years war service, remained with the company in his native city until 1936 when he was transport assistant.

Serving in the the Royal Canadian Artillery, he was wounded at Vimy Ridge in 1917 and his right leg was amputated above the knee.

This disability prevented him from playing golf or taking part in other sports, but he devoted some time to accumulating what is considered to be the finest collection of British war medals on this continent. The collection dates from the Peninsular War of the early 19th century to the South African War.

He particularly prizes the Victoria Cross won in the Crimea by a Scotsman, James Davis, of the Black Watch. With the medal is displayed a photograph of the soldier and his discharge papers.

Mounted on an easel, the medals have been shown in various centres in Canada and the United States.

AIDED WAR EFFORT

Mayor MacLaren backed Canada's war effort in the Second World War serving as chairman of the New Brunswick division of the National War Finance Committee and civil defence director for the province. He was also New Brunswick vice - president and director of Canadian Legion war services and acted as head of patriotic campaigns and organizations.

In 1955 he received the freedom of Saint John in recognition of his long years of service to the city and province.

Like many men in public life, Mayor MacLaren has a pet complaint. It's about people who criticize governments but refuse to take an active part in public life themselves.

He also has his own simple philosophy about his work as mayor: "All you can do is your best."

Loans Available To War Veterans Will Be Doubled

OTTAWA (CP) — Loans available to war veteran farmers to enlarge their farm holdings will be more than doubled under legislation passed by the Commons Monday night.

The government bill amending the Veterans Land Act provides for maximum loans of $20,000 instead of the present $9,000 for full-time veteran farmers. The repayment period is being extended to 30 years from 25.

The measure was sent to the Senate with general approval of all parties.

However, James M. Forgie (L—Renfrew North) expressed some doubts about government plans, still undisclosed, to overhaul the system of federal mortgage credit for farmers generally.

Mr. Forgie said no one quarrels with the element of subsidy in loans to veteran farmers. But he forecast that the proposed government bill amending the Canadian Farm Loan Act will provide for subsidies as well.

replied Art Smith (PC — Calgary South).

Mr. Smith said the charges are serious "and some reply should be expected from the witnesses concerned."

CAN BE SUBPOENAED

Mr. McCleave said if the employees decline to come to the committee they should realize they can be subpoenaed to testify.

Mr. Pickergill protested that "we shouldn't, at this stage, guess until we see whether they are going to come."

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said he supports the motion though he does not like the idea of bringing people to substantiate their statements. The committee was not a court to decide facts.

He also said he fears the committee "is going to be pilloried by certain elements in a way it doesn't deserve" is being a factor in any witch hunt."

The committee's hearings of the CBC employees likely will interrupt its current questioning of officials of the Board of Broadcast Governors. Only Tuesday, the committee made a flying visit to Toronto, which was arranged some weeks ago, to tour CBC broadcast facilities there. They arrived shortly after the storm over the resignations blew up.

Minister Denies Allegation of CCF Member

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees hotly denied Tuesday that Capt. Leighton Crawford was appointed pilot of the royal yacht Britannia for the Port Welcome-Sarnia section of the voyage through the St. Lawrence system for his alleged strike - breaking activities.

Capt. Norman S. Johnston, member of the board of examiners for pilots of the Port Weller-Sarnia district, has said in a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker:

"It would appear that Capt. Crawford is being rewarded for the second time by the marine services branch for the appointment of transport for leading a strike-breaking group last year against the Great Lakes Pilots' Association."

DENIES ALLEGATION

Mr. Hees said there is "no substance whatever" to the allegation. He was replying in the Commons to Hazen Argue, CCF House leader.

The minister said the appointment was made for competency and for no other reason.

Mr. Argue then asked why the job had not been given to the pilot with the highest rating in the pilots' guide.

Mr. Hees said Capt. Crawford was "the most deserving."

The minister also said why the best qualified pilot had not been appointed to the Britannia.

Mr. Hees said Capt. Crawford was most competent for the job.

"Because he was a strike-breaker," shouted back Mr. Argue.

"Because he is competent," shouted back Mr. Hees.

Canada's Wheat Surplus 'Not as Large as People Think' Committee Told

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Wheat Board is beginning to see daylight through wheat stocks which in recent years have accumulated in worrisome quantities.

W. C. McNamara, board chairman, Tuesday night estimated Canada will have a carryover of 500,000,000 to 550,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year July 31. This compares with a record 729,000,000-bushel carryover last year.

Canada's wheat surplus is "not nearly as large as some people think it is," he told the agriculture committee. In order to maintain the country's position as a year-around supplier to world markets, available stocks should not drop much below 300,000,000 bushels. He said Canada's total wheat surplus therefore is only about 200,000,000 bushels.

The surplus may be reduced further in the coming crop year with the prospect of a relatively small harvest, perhaps smaller than 1957-58's 275,000,000 bushels.

Mr. McNamara said he is worried about the crop this year in eastern Canada, main wheat-producing province. "In many areas, since 1952 we have had an average crop, some of the producers are going to suffer hardship because they have a little grain to market."

Mr. Argue said Capt. Crawford was most competent for the job.

"Because he was a strike-breaker," shouted back Mr. Argue.

"Because he is competent," shouted back Mr. Hees.

Two Montreal Men Arrested for Possessing Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Montreal businessmen were arrested Tuesday on warrants charging possession of a total of $42,000 in government bonds stolen from a trust company and three banks.

They are Laurent Bourgeon and Lucien Delisle, both garage owners.

The bonds allegedly were stolen during a two-year period from the Brockville Trust and Savings Co. and from Banque Canadienne Nationale branches in Marieville, Que., Notre Dame de la Guadeloupe, Que., and from a Montreal branch on Cote des Neiges.

SAYS HE LIED

Meanwhile, a youth already facing a perjury charge said in court Tuesday he had lied when he testified against a man accused of bribing him to give false evidence, Raymond Galarneau, 19, said police had beaten him into lying about the charge.

The youth was the principal Crown witness at the trial of Henri Samson, 46, charged with conspiring to falsify evidence by bribing Galarneau.

Both men are implicated in the multi-million dollar theft of stocks and bonds from a trust company in St. Catharines last year.

Mr. Justice Ivan Rand in session Galarneau testified that Samson had paid him $500 to give false evidence at an earlier trial.

ABOUT FACE

In the afternoon Galarneau recited his evidence saying "I would rather go to jail than commit perjury. I know who is not guilty."

Crown prosecutor Jean - Paul Ste. Marie asked for a postponement to "find out what's true and what's false."

The charge against Samson was laid after the provincial police investigation by Det.-Sgt. Edouard Stepanoff, found guilty of possessing bonds stolen from the St. Catharines firm. Stepanoff is still to be sentenced.

AFFEARS JUNE 30

Galarneau later charged with perjury for his testimony during Stepanoff's trial. He is to appear at voluntary statement June 30 on the perjury charge.

Galarneau had appeared as a defence witness and testified he had delivered $9,000 worth of stolen bonds to Samson in the request of Kea (China Boy) Windorf, who later was slain gangland style in a north end Montreal alley.

He said Samson had paid him $500 to give the evidence. But later Tuesday he said he had been told what to say at the direction of Montreal policemen who beaten him into giving them lies.

He said the police threatened to pin a 10,000,000 robbery on him if he implicate him in Windorf's shooting.

JOHNNY DID FREED

NEW YORK (AP) — John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, labor racketeer convicted in 1957 of plot for extortion, Tuesday won a reversal of his conviction. The appellate division of state supreme Court voted 4 to 1 to set aside the conviction and sentence of Dio and John J. McNamara, a Teamsters official. The two had been convicted of extorting $4,700 from two corporations and sentenced to prison for 15 to 30 per peace. They were sentenced Jan. 8, 1958.

Baptist Says Christianity Becoming Minority Movement

KINGSTON (CP) — Many among North America's boasted church memberships are pseudo-Christians squeezed into conformity with the easy going, approach pf Baptist minister.

Rev. Dr. P. P. W. Ziemann, general secretary of the Ontario-Quebec Baptist convention, Tuesday night told the convention that 422 churches that Christianity is becoming a minority movement in Canada and the United States.

The demarcation line between nominal Christianity and a pleasant civilized paganism had almost vanished.

He quoted Rev. Sir George MacLeod of the Iona Community as saying that Christianity in secular history began has the church had less effect on the conduct of state affairs than it has today.

There is a great resurgence of cultist religions, secularism, humanism, said Dr. Ziemann, and many of them are missionary minded.

On alcoholism, Dr. Ziemann said statistics show drinking drivers are involved in 30 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents.

About 1,000 lives a year would be saved if drinking drivers were prosecuted, but instead are subjected to pressure to increase the number of liquor outlets."

Organized Labor Suggests Inflation Threat Has Been Exaggerated by Management

OTTAWA (CP) — Organized labor — countering the views of management — suggested Tuesday that the inflation threat has been exaggerated in Canada.

In a statement signed by President Claude Jodoin, the 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress maintained that wage increases have played no significant part in post-war inflation and that "unions are not responsible even for all the wage increases that have taken place."

"We believe," said Mr. Jodoin's statement, "that there has been a general tendency to exaggerate or overstate the current inflation.

"We do not wish to minimize the importance of inflation but we feel that the kind of inflation psychosis that has been built up in this country in the past year or more is not justified by the facts."

His 6,000 - word statement was read before the Senate finance committee now studying the inflation problem. Eugene Forsey, labor CLC research director who appeared as a witness, suggested the government opposition may have had something to do with exaggerated fears that unions "impose" on Canadian industry the higher wages prevailing in the United States.

The association urged that government spending and wage demands be restrained to reduce inflationary pressures. The labor movement Dealers Association of Canada which also appeared agreed that federal spending should be curtailed to help curb the inflation threat.

Earlier, the Canadian Metal Mining Association, representing the $1,000,000,000 mining industry argued that inflation is one of the country's most serious problems and that one factor is the wage demands of major unions occupying a "monopolistic position" in Canada. The association's vice-president, W. C. Wansbrough given careful scrutiny with a view to balancing government budgets.

The CLC officials argued that certain industrial monopolies may have been responsible for inflationary pressures. The congress said there are "strong suspicions" that some industrial prices are set artificially "to achieve certain policy goals of the corporation concerned."

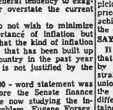
SAY RESTRAINT DESIRED

It was an "illusion" to conclude that inflation could be controlled by labor and management restraint in wage bargaining. If a union took less than it could get, the employer would pocket the difference, the congress maintained.

A union leader who adopted the policy of "restraint" would not be a union leader long for "someone else with more common sense will soon take his place." The same would happen to the employer.

The railway brotherhoods in a brief read by their economic adviser Jack Weldon of Montreal agreed that some recent fears of inflation "indeed seem to have been exaggerated."

"It hardly seems likely, for example, that we can price ourselves out of world markets on the basis of international trade in anything like the levels of 1924-1929."



Senator T. D'Arcy Leonard (L-Ontario) asked Mr. Weldon whether labor leaders would be content, in demanding wage boosts, with just sharing the productivity which would be agreement providing prices remained steady.

Mr. Weldon indicated that labor would be satisfied not to share "far beyond" that concept providing prices remained steady but he didn't think labor should be tied to a fixed formula or a rigid pattern in seeking higher wages.

Anglican Bishop of Arctic Feels Eskimos Being Pushed Around by White Neighbors

TORONTO (CP)—The Anglican Bishop of the Arctic is worried about the fate of Canada's Eskimos.

Since Bishop Donald Marsh went into the Arctic in 1935 as a missionary to a church at Eskimo Point on the west shore of Hudson Bay, he has watched over the Eskimo and his spiritual future.

Today, as the administrator of the 2,250,000-square-mile diocese, the bishop feels Canada's 8,500 Eskimos, some 7,000 of whom are Anglicans are being pushed into a position of undignified dependency.

The white man is trying to "mould the Eskimo in his own image," he says. "But it won't work, because the Eskimo is an Eskimo.

"Just because an Eskimo can drive a tractor doesn't mean he understands everything about the white men."

BIG PROBLEM

The resettlement of the Eskimo, from far-flung settlements to government-supported towns, today presents one of the chief problems of the Anglican church in the north.

"The Eskimo is experienced in living off the land and the sea. But he cannot live in towns where his language is not spoken and there is not work for him."

As an example of the ever-increasing problem, the source of which Bishop Marsh finds in the thousands of white men who have come to the Eskimos that they be settled in civilized centres, is Lake Harbour on the southern tip of Baffin Island.

Three years ago the settlement numbered about 400. Today, as the Eskimos are encouraged to move south to the Frobisher Bay, there are scarcely 100 left.

The result: the Eskimos find themselves without work among people who do not understand them.

NEEDS HELPING HAND

"You take an Eskimo and put him on relief, and what have you done?" asks the stocky, energetic bishop, "You have made him a bum.

"What we must do is give the Eskimo a helping hand to help himself."

But for the Anglican church and its century-old mission among the Eskimos, the picture remains bleak.

The church century claims 82.5 per cent of Canada's Eskimos in the diocese which stretches north from the prairie provinces, west to the Yukon and east to northern Quebec and Labrador, in the great area Roman Catholic priests outnumber Anglican clergy four to one.

Bishop Marsh says that the Roman Catholic missions have not been very successful in the Arctic, possibly because they have tried to force the Eskimos to accept their beliefs rather than bring to win them by love.

"But all his life the Eskimo has fought nature," said the bishop "to try to make him do something more, is not centred around a single act that can be performed only by a priest. By means of lay-preachers and catechising he ordained preachers—the Anglican church can reach the Eskimo all year around.

NOTABLE EVENT

The diocese was passed recently with the ordination at Rankin Inlet of Armand Tagoose, 24, who will probably become the first Eskimo Anglican deacon in the Arctic to be made a full priest.

Meanwhile, Bishop Marsh continues his plunge in the far north and northland, alternating between his offices in Toronto and flights into every part of the Arctic.

Hanging opposite him in his Toronto office is a huge relief map of the Arctic, studded with pins representing churches and missions.

After 23 years among the Eskimos, Gosnell - born Bishop Marsh is more concerned than ever with preserving the individuality of the Eskimo—his courage, humor, independence and cheerfulness.

For, while he believes that the wrong kind of "civilizing" can ruin the Eskimo, he has not doubt as to what has made him what he is.

"The Eskimo was a pretty tough nut back in the early days," he said, "and he had to be tough to live and murdered. Now all this is rare—thanks to Christianity."

Careless Smoking Suspected as Cause of Blaze

STALHEIM, Norway (CP)—The careless smoking of a Norwegian guide today was suspected of causing the Stalheim resort hotel fire in which 25 vacationers are known dead or missing. Two Canadians are reported among the possible victims.

The fire—at 4 a.m. questioned through most of the night by police in nearby Voss, the police spokesman refused to give his name but said there is reason to believe the guide started the fire through carelessness in cigarette smoking.

After questioning, the guide was released but was told to keep within the vicinity of his where abouts.

Investigators did not discount the possibility that some of the missing might still be found alive. Of the total 147 guests—of 130 of them Americans—scattered in the mountain areas after the fire levelled the stately old wooden building early Tuesday. Eleven bodies were found and 18 persons were reported unaccounted for. Six others and the other 17 were admitted to hospital at nearby Voss but none seriously ill.

The Red Cross issued a list of 147 names but officials said the names were incomplete and no hometown addresses or nationalities were given.

One unconfirmed report said 21 of the dead were Swedish and American tourists, two were Canadians and one was British.

A Canadian known to have been staying at the hotel was Mrs. Ethel Bland, 70, of Toronto. Mrs. Bland said in Toronto that he had received an official word that she was among the victims. There was no identification of the other Canadian thought to be missing.

Kerala Situation Presents Unhappy Choice for Nehru

By JOSEPH McEWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The anti-Communist campaign in Kerala has presented Prime Minister Nehru, currently visiting that Red-ruled Indian state, with an unhappy choice.

It will be that the urbane prime minister, while content that the Communist state regime has given a good account of his views about.

Investigators did not discount the possibility that some of the missing might still be found alive. Of the total 147 guests—of 130 of them Americans—scattered in the mountain areas after the fire levelled the stately old wooden building early Tuesday. Eleven bodies were found and 18 persons were reported unaccounted for. Six others and the other 17 were admitted to hospital at nearby Voss but none seriously ill.

Nehru's Congress Party is in power not only in the central New Delhi government but in 14 of the 14 Indian states except Kerala. The Kerala state government is a combined opposition forces trying to bring down the Communist government of E. M. S. Namboodiripad.

But Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Congress Party president and Nehru's daughter, has stated that the state party contained is acting on its own, without authorization from the national headquarters.

TWO DECISIONS

As the real power in the National Congress Party, it will be a decision on whether the Kerala subversion campaign will reach scale backing. As prime minister, he must decide whether conditions in Kerala warrant federal action by the central government to restore order.

The Communists won power in a reasonably free election two years ago and have since been in command in office until at least 1962 when the next election is scheduled.

But opposition political parties, backed by a Christian-Hindu alliance, are demanding that the Communists be put out now. The main spark of their "non-violent" rebellion is the education bill that would increase the government's control over private schools and colleges.

Other factors, including an unemployment roll of 2,000,000 in a population of 14,000,000, are adding to the unrest. The opposition charges that the bill is justified by the time-honored methods of passive resistance to bring down a Communist government even though it was elected in a legal way.

But some sections of the National Congress Party are said to fear that for the central government to take such action would set a dangerous precedent for constitutional government in India. They say the Communists would retaliate in kind in other states.

Nehru may also be reluctant to move against a Communist government, elected democratically, now because of possible reactions from outside India. Red China is still smarting over India's role in the Tibetan affair.

The opposition groups are using some of the techniques of Mohandas K. Gandhi but observers say they lack the saint's charisma, who preached a passion-less approach in his struggle against the British.

Nehru, the non-violent character of the campaign, which has killed 12 demonstrators since March 15, is a formidable opponent. Some factions have indicated that they would welcome Nehru to intervene, abolishing the state government and calling new elections.

Disaster Fund For Fishermen Lost Is Climbing

ESCUMINAC, N.B. (CP)—Fishman Geoffrey Richard and his son Louis will be buried today from the Richard home in nearby Baie Ste. Anne, as the search goes on for others missing after the violent weekend storm in Northumberland Strait.

The bodies were found by boats Tuesday for six of the 11 fishermen whose bodies were recovered.

Meanwhile, Transport Minister Hees announced the government has a full report on weather forecasting in the Prince Edward Island-Quebec Baptist convention, Tuesday night.

Mr. Hees said the Atlantic coast forecast issued at 5 p.m. last Friday did not indicate the severity of the storm that caused such heavy loss of fishermen's gear. A gale warning had been issued at 8:45 p.m. Friday but by that time most of the fishermen had left port. Their boats were not equipped for the storm.

The New Brunswick Fishermen's Disaster Fund had climbed to $20,000 by Tuesday night. Premier Flemming of New Brunswick said he has been informed the fund the provincial government donated $5,000 to the fund.

The Senate sent an expression of sympathy to bereaved families Tuesday night.

RCMP and 15 New Brunswick forest rangers are combing the shores of Miramiche Bay, a fisheries patrol boat is being used to carry passengers to the area and clotting the bay. The search was to go on indefinitely.

Indians Want Federal Vote Without Strings Attached

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal vote for the Indian without any strings attached was urged Tuesday before the joint Commons-Senate committee studying Indian affairs.

Edward F. Garlow, elected chief of the Six Nations Council near Brantford, said Christopher Columbus found the Indian in North America when he arrived. Yet the Indian today had to waive treaty rights if he wanted to vote federally while immigrants could obtain the vote after a short time.

Chief Garlow said he "refrained from voting provincially—as Indians are allowed to do in Ontario—because he was afraid he would jeopardize his standing as an Indian.

"I'd be tickled to death to vote federally," he said amid committee applause. "We want to play our part."

The voting question—Indians in the Yukon and Northwest Territories are allowed to vote without strings—was among a number raised by Chief Garlow and Councillor Bill Smith, elected chief.

Other concern voiced was that members of the Six Nations tribe who decide to leave the reservation become eligible for payment of a sum of money as their share of treaty moneys held in trust.

But the fund would go broke if this kept up at the pace of $2,000 or $3,000 a year. One problem was that an Indian girl could leave the reservation, collect her money, marry a Six Nations Indian and become eligible for another slice of the fund.

They also complained that a Chief must be born with Indian blood land without permission. Indian affairs officials said they will check this.

While Citizenship Minister Fairclough listened attentively, the two spokesmen also complained that the Indian Act fairly bristles with phrases indicating wide-scale powers are held by the minister.

"We know you wouldn't do anything to use," Councillor Hill said who keep grain on their farms rather than let terminal elevators get all the gravy," he said the ads might lose support also if it didn't keep large stocks at terminal points. Payment for farm storage would greatly increase board costs and the wheat would not be as readily available for export orders.

Some have asked for "a substantial increase" in the interest rate charged on board borrowings, now at four per cent under a government guarantee. The board and banks now are negotiating when the increase will take effect. He did not say what the increase will be.

5. One reason for this year's decline in export wheat sales is that Canada no longer has stocks of low-grade wheat to take advantage of the available market for such grades.

6. He would oppose any change in grading standards, even though the top grade — No. 1 Northern — represented only 52 per cent of producers' deliveries in the last crop year. No. 2 Northern was recognized as the quality wheat of the world, and by calling it No. 1 "you wouldn't be kidding anyone."

7. After heavy production in the years 1952, 1953, 1954, 1956 and 1957, Canada now has about three years' supply on hand while the world wheat supply has narrowed.

8. George at Churchill, Man. terminal is adequate. The export market could not absorb more than 20,000,000 or so bushels Churchill now has capacity for in the short summer shipping season of Hudson Bay.

9. Disposition of grain permit books, Mr. McNamara said problems such as attempts by some farm families to get duplicate special government payments for sons, wives and even daughters by splitting up land among them are almost getting beyond our control."

City Commercial Softball League

Mens-Sportsmen tightened the race for top spot in the City Commercial softball league last night when they shaded the Sports Centre 1-0 in a thriller at Victoria Park.

The winners scored the game's lone run in the second inning when they picked up their only two base hits of the contest. A walk to Worship paved the way and LeRoy McBrien followed with a base hit to send the lead runner to third base with two out. Thompson then beat out an infield single to short, as Worsley raced across the plate.

Al Adams toed the rubber for Sports Centre and lost the decision while allowing just two singles. He fanned four and walked two.

"Bunk" Young toiled well on the Mead hilltop and gave up four hits over the distance. He whiffed three and issued two free passes to cop the victory.

Doug Murray, Phil Bennett and Bob Brooks hit doubles in defeat with "Shaker" Baker getting a single.

Foes of Reds Continue Fight Nehru Is Told

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP)—The leader of one of the major factions seeking the resignation of Kerala's Communist government told Prime Minister Nehru today his group will continue the struggle.

Mannathu Padmanabhan said he told the prime minister that whatever stand was taken by the Indian government the "liberation movement" will continue until the Communists are removed.

Padmanabhan appealed to Nehru to bring peace to the south Indian state, presumably by using the central government's powers to oust a state government.

The prime minister flew to Trivandrum Monday for a 2½-day personal investigation of agitation against the government.

Nehru later met Patton Thanu Pillai, chairman of the Kerala People's Socialist party. Thanu Pillai had said agitation will continue regardless of Nehru's recommendations.

Machen, Stadium Seek Damages In Courts

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight Eddie Machen of San Francisco and the Chicago Stadium Corporation filed a $1,250,375 damage suit in federal court Tuesday against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, challenger Ingemar Johansson, three other individuals and two corporations.

Machen, a first-round knockout victim of Johansson last September, lost a federal court bid June 9 for an injunction to bar the Johansson - Patterson title match Thursday night. The court ruled, however, he could sue for monetary damages if he felt there were grounds. Machen claimed he had a written agreement for a rematch with Johansson before the Swedish contender boxed anybody else.

Now Machen has asked $50,375 from each of the seven defendants and Chicago Stadium seeks $115,750 from each.

On Hook Once, Not Again Says Archie

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)— Since last December, light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, 42, has seen himself knocked down about 120 times.

"But that won't happen again —not if I can help it," he said as he made preparation to depart by plane tonight for his July 15 title rematch with Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. in Montreal.

Moore came back, after being knocked down four times by Durelle, to knockout the Canadian challenger in the first match in December.

He has watched and studied the movies of the fight about 30 times — accounting for the 120-knockdowns — at his training camp here.

"Last time, the fisherman had me on the hook," he observed, "and let me get away. As any fisherman knows, that was a mistake."

Durelle Arrives In Montreal, Says He's Fit

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Durelle arrived in Montreal Tuesday announced himself fit, and began final preparations for his second crack at the world light-heavyweight boxing crown.

Champion Archie Moore, who licked Durelle in 11 bloody rounds here last December, is to arrive Friday and starts final workouts Monday.

Durelle, weighing 183½ — 7½ pounds on the fish-heavy limit — was accompanied by his trainer Charlie Goldman who once handled Rocky Marciano.

The fight in July 15 in the Montreal Forum.

The Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., fisherman said he never felt better in his life.

Pinhey, voted to the Little All-America team in his final year at Muskingum College, Michigan, six seasons ago, has played all his professional football with Rough Riders.

He will be replaced at St. Pat's by Ray Shubet, Hamilton-born graduate of St. Joseph's College, Remington, Indiana, who will also join the Rough Riders as a guard.

TICATS SIGN TWO

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union have signed quarterback Corky Sekul, 24, and centre and linebacker Dick Johnson, both of Mississippi Southern.

Those named by Spencer are: Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que.; Geoff Black, Montreal; Don Fontana, John Blasegh, Jr., and Harry Fasquier, Toronto; Rider Gets, Vancouver; Francois Godbout, Waterloo, Que.; Jim Landis, Winnipeg; Yves Leblanc, Marieville, Que.; Andre Goupin, Montreal; David Woodworth, Halifax.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)— Don't be surprised if the Davis Cup goes back to Europe this year in the hands of the young British team, Lew Hoad warned Tuesday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

North Africa, to the movie-scenario writers of several generations and now to the scripters of TV, invariably is a place of exotic romance featuring a dark-eyed glamor gal, preferably veil-wearing.

Not there has ever been much of the same stuff as boxing story with the name Chokah-tye Sam-my only she is not in a role of "foster-mother" to Alphonse Halimi, world bantam champion.

Hamili, in a title defense fight on July 8, against Mexico's Jose Becerra of Los Angeles, will give the yarn topical interest that evening by having her as his ringside guest.

The first chapter goes back to Constantine, one of the pitifully poor outlying villages of Algeria, where Alphonse was one of many children in a large Jewish family.

There was neither enough food or clothing for the brood, and this wiry independent youngster left home at the age of seven. Miraculously he made his way to Algiers, 100 miles away, through strange communities without harm.

In Algiers the tough-fibred little one luckily met a 19-year-old girl named Marcelle Faty who was moved to pity for him. She took him to her home and this boy, who had never known family life, got tenderness and understanding of the finest type.

Marcelle taught him to read and write in French. She raised him in the tradition of her church, Roman Catholic, but was careful to keep him aware of his Jewish origin.

Whatever her earnings were, she was employed by a garage, she set aside a portion for his apprenticeship in a trade which, if he became old enough as quality, Alphonse went to work as a tailor. But he had other skills with his hands, the skill of boxing, and on off days from the shop he frequented a gym in Algiers.

He couldn't have weighed more than 90 pounds in those days, yet he grew better than he took from bigger boys. By the time he was 21 he had grown into an 118-pounder and that year won the French amateur title for the class.

He repeated in 1954 and 1955, also winning the Mediterranean title in the latter year. In his amateur career he won 150 of 180 by knockouts. Later that year under Phil-lipe Filippi he turned pro.

Marcelle continued to be "mother" to the grown-up boy. He saved to make them for trips to Algiers to visit her. When unavailable, he wrote her.

His pro career whirled in early success. He scored first-round knockouts in his first four starts, then knocked out three more foes in a row. He kept going at a fabulous clip, for his 16th fight he had 14 KO's in an undefeated record.

A week later his manager told him he thought he could get a fight with Mario D'Agata for the world title. Halimi looked at him quizzically. His manager was startled. "Aren't you ready for him?" he asked.

Halimi smiled. "I was wondering if I could bring 'mother' to the first from Algiers."

Filippi's reply was prompt and effective. Hamili's fight was an epic of hustle as he outclassed D'Agata in fifteen rounds.

When it came to the trip to Los Angeles on November 6, 1957, to fight Paul Macias, the Mexican titleholder, the manager didn't wait for the question. "Marcelle will come, of course," he told Halimi whose defeat of the Mexican in 13 rounds was a thriller.

Alphonse is now training for Becerra in Los Angels but the ticket for his attractive three-year-old "Mom" already has been bought and mailed. Come July 8, she'll be there to lend comfort and encouragement.

Now you write a better fiction story.

Over three-quarters of a ton of pashydorm-on-the-hoof will ballast Memorial Arena Friday night. The biggest dent in the ring canvas will be supplied by Farmer Blumsberry, a mere stripling of some 650 pounds, who is taller lying down than Big writer standing up, and who will battle the Great Bolo, who resumes his hideous facial disguise after being unmasked in Toronto some weeks back. Why the powers-that-be do this we cannot fathom. Fans in this neck of the woods have learned to read and the most of 'em have television sets. However, that's the headline attraction. Missing from the mat scene for some time is the huge Don Leo Jonathan who was quite a favorite here some years ago. He now weighs 290 pounds, He meets the popular 237-pound Mike Valentine. Opening the show will be newcomer George MacArthur and popular Wally Sieber.

Righthander Clips Giants As Braves Whip Cardinals; Tribe, Tigers, Kansas Beaten

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Okay, so one game doesn't end a slump. But give Ted Williams one game in Detroit's Briggs Stadium and the slumper is The Thumper again.

The 40-year-old Williams, back in Boston Red Sox line-up after being benched for weak hitting for the first time in his 20-year career, repped'k single and home run in three at-bats Tuesday night as Boston drowned Detroit 10-4.

It was only the fourth time this season that Williams, who topped his average 13 points to .302, has managed to hit in one game.

YANKS BEAT As

The loss, their fifth in seven games, plunked the Tigers in fifth. The New York Yankees took fourth, belting Kansas City again, 10-5, and moving within two games of first-place Cleveland. Cleveland Indians lost 5-3 to Baltimore while Chicago's second - place White Sox moved within one game of the top by defeating Washington 4-1.

The Red Sox broke loose for five runs on-three homers in the last two innings. Williams' third of the year, the 485th of his career, and Frank Malzone's 10th scored in the runs in the eighth. Then Jackie Jensen counted three in the ninth with his 16th. Ike Delock (4-4) was the winner with a five-hitter. Paul Foytack (5-7) was the loser.

PAPPAS WINS

Young Milt Pappas (7-3) handed the Indians their fourth defeat in six games with a five-hitter. The third - place Orioles had 10 hits, belting Gary Bell (6-7) with two runs in the third. The Indians scored on Woody Held's 12th home run in the eighth.

Early Wynn (10-5) got his 258th career victory with an eight-hit job backed up by Sherm Lollar's two-run homer and a pair of two-out, RBI hits from Earl Torgeson. Bill Fischer (4-3) lost it.

The Yankees made it seven out of nine with an 18-hit barrage that featured a pair of two-run homers by Bill Skowron (18) Hank Bauer (4) and Gil McDougald (3). Southpaw Whitey Ford (7-4) was the winner with a five-hitter. Rip Coleman (3-5) was the loser.

Shannon Flows With 2 Homers In Wings' Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus Jets have been hitting more than their share of woes with Rochester Red Wings during the past four days in the International League. They can put most of the blame on Rochester second baseman Wally Shannon.

Shannon powered the Wings to their fourth triumph in the five-game set as he blasted two home runs and a double Tuesday night to account for all the runs in Rochester's 3-1 victory. It was the only game scheduled.

Shannon collected four home runs, a double and four singles plus six runs batted in, in the five games which helped keep Rochester only 1½ games behind league - leading Buffalo, and a game out of second place.

Shannon's homers, his 11th and 12th of the season, came in the second with none on and in the fourth with Luke Easter on base to help relieve Jimmie Lee Hilland (1-0) get the victory. Hilland relieved starter Cal Browning with the bases loaded and none out in the second inning and walked in Tony Bartirome with Columbus' only run.

Starter Lynn Lovegrath, who has lost six of his last seven decisions since May 11, now is 7-7 for Columbus.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching — Milt Pappas, Baltimore, struck out five batters in one and gave up just five hits in 5-1 victory over first place Cleveland.

Hitting—Del Crandall, Milwaukee, drove in four runs with a double and homer for 9-5 victory over St. Louis.

Scene Turns To Men's Play At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—With virtually all of the seeded field of men and women intact, the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships switched to the men's second round of singles today.

The bulky field hasn't got down yet to the essentials where the stars start knocking off each other, but a few interesting matches were on tap. The first of these, seeded man, Alex Olmedo of Peru and Australia's Neale Fraser, were paired against mediocre opposition.

Most of the men had a rest Tuesday as the women singles got under way.

Christine Truman, the six-foot British girl, and American stars Beverly Baker Fleitz and Sally Moore had to work hard to win. Miss Truman is the favorite, with Mrs. Fleitz rated third.

The other seeds who advanced to the third round are second-seeded Angela Mortimer of Britain, American Darlene Hard (No. 4), and South African Sandra Reynolds (No. 5), Maria Bueno of Brazil (No. 8) and-Briton Ann Haydon Jones.

The Canadian entry, Mrs. Miriam Bradet of Montreal, got a bye through the first round but lost 6-2, 7-5 to Lea Pericoli of Italy in the second.

STAR LOOKS POOR

Miss Truman was a disappointment as she squeaked by little-known Shirley Waters of Britain 6-4, 7-5 in the second round after a first-round bye. The blonde girl's demise of Wimbledon played in the centre court before 15,000 fans.

Mrs. Fleitz shook off early wildness for a 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Renee Schuurman of South Africa in a first-round match while Miss Moore fought her way to a 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 victory over Australia's 5-7, 8-6, 6-4.

Miss Hard also crushed Mrs. Maria Weiss of Spain 6-0, 6-0 in the second round.

Farmer, Bolo Head Card Friday Night

Farmer Humphrey will holst 630 pounds of wrestling lard into the ring Memorial Arena Friday night and the Great Bolo, mask included, will attempt to render lard in unusual size.

Tossing a third of a ton of wrestling beef-on-the-hoof is no cinch for anybody without a derrick and Bolo will have his work cut out to lower the man-mountain to the canvas and pin him with a balancing act.

Dynamite is illegal and there are no tanks available, so how Bolo intends to pigonstick Humphrey will be well worth watching.

Don Leo Jonathan who now tips the scales at 300, was popular here a few years back and will make his seasonal debut Friday against Mike Valentine. Well up in the "like" list of the faithful here.

George MacArthur also makes his Belleville debut in the opener against the up-and-coming Wally Sieber, a protege of Whipper Watson.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Women tennis players were in great form Tuesday at the Wimbledon Championships on the 100th anniversary of Gussie Moran's lace pants.

Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., obligingly pulled up her skirt and displayed for all to see—not the gold panties for which she is famous but pale, white ones.

Pat Ward, a British girl, turned out in a champagne pink wig which she had great difficulty keeping on her head as she bounded about.

There was a shocking affair when Beverley Baker Fleitz of Santa Monica, Calif., and Renee Schuurman of South Africa both decided to wear their pedal-pus dresses on the same day.

Miss Schuurman prevailed and were here while Mrs. Fleitz obligingly changed to another costume.

BIKINI SHORTS

Lea Pericoli, a tall, shapely Italian girl, set a Wimbledon record — the experts say — in the brevity of her shorts. The old record was set in 1949 when worn by a French girl whose shorts were so tight she had to duck into the dressing room and change.

Lea's pants were made of shiny crey satin and from hip to hem they couldn't have been more than 6 lon aine inches which is near bikini size.

Behind the girls did carried the shock effect of 10 years ago when Miss Moran produced one of the great moments in women's tennis.

She went onto the centre court wearing lace pants under her tennis skirt and she said it so everyone could be a party to the historic occasion.

CROWD GASPED

There were gasps from the crowd and groans from the Church of England, But Gussie, her lace panties and her medicore tennis game, live forever in history.

London fashion designer Teddy Tinling was asked where all this would lead to? What would the ultimate be?

He quietly recalled that the great French star of the 1920's, Suzanne Lenglen, once said that the only way to play tennis was in a brassiere and panties.

Writer Predicts Patterson Will Knock Out Johansson In Explosive Opening Round

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will knock out Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in the first round of explosive, bloody battle at Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

This is the prediction of the writer after a study of the two fighters in their training camps, deep research of their careers, a look at a crystal ball and a consultation with a witch doctor.

Johansson's only chance appears to rest with his "thunder and lightning" right hand. "Blood and thunder" is the way Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, describes his mighty right.

UNDER WRAPS

Ingo has kept the mighty right under wraps in training. There's not much question that he has it's power, as evidenced by his first - round knockout of Eddie Machen, then the No. 1 contender, at Goteborg, Sweden, last Sept. 16, and his fifth-round kayo of Britain's Henry Cooper at Gothenburg, May 19, 1957.

Both Machen and Cooper, however, are standing fighters, from both box in the classic style Johansson is accustomed to. Neither can touch Patterson for speed.

Johansson, too, is a standup fighter who operates with a straight orthodox left jab and follows with a straight right hand. In training, Ingo has shown he's floundered like an amateur when he was pressed.

BIG CONTRAST

Patterson is completely different. In his mode of fighting. The 24-year-old champion bobs and weaves, holding both gloves in front of his face in a peek-a-boo style. His forearms protect his body.

Floyd moves quickly from side to side. Once in a while he shifts to a lefthanded stance. He is hard to hit squarely. Once, he has been knocked down in title fights by Pete Rademacher and Roy Harris. But he got up quickly and fired away faster.

Floyd still leaps in with his "gazelle" right—a punch thrown while he springs into the air with a catlike motion. But most important of all is his devastating combination, especially to the body.

The 24-year-old champion lets loose with hooking flurries of 10 to 12 punches at times. Those blurring-fast combinations to the body—something Ingo never has had to cope with—will be his undoing.

FASTEST OF ALL

Patterson probably is the fastest-punching heavyweight champion of all time. That's on the say-so of such longtime experts as Nat Fleischer, Barney Ross and Charlie Johnston, among others.

This observer believes Patterson will move right in on the unbeaten European champion seconds after the opening bell. He probably will bang away at the body to bring down Johansson's hands and then shoot for the head. He may get nailed in this all-out assault.

If he does, and goes down, the story could be different. I think Patterson will be too close to his opponent to get hit by such a punishing blow.

GATE MAY SOAR

Promoter Bill Rosenson said advance sale Tuesday was $450,000 and he predicted a gate of more than $600,000. He said he needs $500,000 to break even.

With predictions of fair weather for Thursday night, the gate may even hit the $700,000 mark. Receipts from closed - circuit TV, movies and radio may add an additional $...250,000.

Patterson still held as a 3½-1 favorite to win, and a 2-1 choice to score a knockout. It was 6-4 that Johansson would not knock out the champion.

Two Head List of Likely '20' Winners

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco head the list of likely 20-game winners in the major leagues as the season approaches the halfway point with reliever Elroy Face of Pittsburgh having been the most consistently effective pitcher.

Burdette is considerably ahead of his 1958 pace when he won 20 games for the first time. On likely date a year ago, he had a 5-5 record. His current mark is 11-3.

Antonelli has won 10 games. The Giants' left-hander was a 26-game winner in 1954 and 1956.

Face, who has relieved in 27 games, has won all 11 of his decisions while yielding only five earned runs in 47 1-3 innings for an 0.86 earned run average. Precedent is against Face, however, because no full-time relief pitcher has ever won 20.

SPAHN HAS CHANCE

Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's star southpaw, has a good chance of winning 20 for the 10th time despite an unimpressive 5-8 record. Spahn had only nine victories at this time a year ago and he went on to win 22. He holds the National League record for most 20-game winning seasons by a lefthander.

Other nine game winners are Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox, Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore and Vinegar Bend Mizell of St. Louis. Wynn, 39, is a four-time 20-game victor.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh and Bob Turley of the New York Yankees, the latest Spahn and Burdette in the 20-game category last season, are almost certain not to repeat. Friend has won only three games against nine defeats. Turley, who was 10-3 a year ago, now is 6-7.

CEPEDA GETS ROOKIE OF YEAR AWARD — Giants' first baseman Orlando Cepeda, named National League Rookie of the Year for 1958, wears a big grin as he holds plaque presented to him by Bob Stevens, right, president of the San Francisco chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. The presentation was made just before the start of Sunday's Braves-Giants game. (AP Wirephoto).

REDS MAKE TRADE

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Reds traded first baseman Walt Dropo Tuesday to Baltimore of the American League for Whitey Lockman.

Lockman, 32, who plays either first base or in the outfield, formerly was with New York Giants, St. Louis Cards and San Francisco. Dropo, 35, starred for years in the American League. Like Lockman, he has seen little action this season.

The Reds also said they have signed Larry Dovel, 19, from Lamar, Va., "for a very large, undisclosed bonus." Dovel, a right-hander was assigned to Nashville in the Southern Association. With Luray High School he had three no-hitters this year and struck out 140 batters.

United States Wins First Pro-Amateur Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — The U.S. pro-am golf tournament but because of outstanding play by Vancouver pro Stan Leonard and Kitchener amateur Gary Cowan, it took a sudden-death playoff to decide it.

Ed Meister, Willoughby, Ohio, amateur, sank a 12-foot birdie putt on the first hole of the sudden-death playoff to win for the U.S.

The 16 players in the 18-hole best-ball tournament, four pros and four amateurs from each country, were tied 6-6 after regulation play.

SCORE MAXIMUM

Leonard and Cowan scored the maximum three points by defeating new crowned Canadian Open champion Doug Ford from Paradise, Pla., and Meister over 18 holes.

Under the scoring system, one point is awarded each team winning the most holes in each nine and an additional point to the winner on an 18-hole basis.

At the end of nine, Canada led 5½ points to ½.

All Balding pro at Markham, Ont., amateur Nick Weslock of Windsor, tied with U.S. PGA champion Dow Finsterwald of Phoenix, Ariz., and Ed Tuttle of Charleston, W. Va. They each finished with totals. Canada won the first nine, the U.S. the second and the match ended all even at 9 holes.

MARTELL-CASTAJOR LOSE

The biggest American margin was registered by pro Paul Harney, and Bob Shave. They defeated Henry Martell of Edmonton, Canadian PGA champion, and Bruce Castator of Toronto, 1958 Canadian amateur champion this season.

Six of 69 Writers Pick Swede to Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Only six of 69 boxing writers participating in an Associated Press prefight poll predicted Ingemar Johansson would upset heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in Thursday's title fight at Yankee Stadium.

Of seven Swedish writers who came over to cover their fellow countryman's most important bout, three picked him to stop Patterson. Four thought he would lose. Of the four, one expected him to be stopped in the ninth round. The others thought it would go the 12 rounds.

Although predictions on Patterson's victory ran all the way from a first-round knockout to a decision, the most popular round was the eighth. Eleven of the 63 voting for Patterson figured it would end in the eighth round.

Seeing Same Commercials Over and Over Is Boring

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—An almost say devoted television viewer his pet gripe about his favorite evening pastime and he's likely to complain about seeing the same commercials over and over and over.

Some commercials, he'll concede, were entertaining at first—but repetition of even a funny one loses its charm.

But filmed commercials are definitely necessary, say the experts, for a variety of reasons. One theory of successful television selling is based on heavy hammering on the viewer's consciousness.

The viewer may not like it but the message has sunk in—like a harpoon.

One major advertising agency, in fact, is dedicated to the proposition that all the key words should be repeated three times during each message.

Another reason commercials are repeated is to catch viewers who missed it the first and second time around.

But, undoubtedly, the most popular reason for frequent repeats is economic: Filmed commercials are expensive to make, ranging in time from six seconds to 2½ minutes each and at cost from $5,000 to $30,000.

There now are a number of companies who do nothing else but produce film commercials. One of the largest, MPO, last year turned out about $5,000,000 worth of sponsors' messages. Marvin Rothenstein, a company vice-president who directs many of the short films, says it has been his experience that most sponsors are interested in upgrading and—de-irritating their commercials.

"Very few sponsors today are trying to get viewers to rush out of the house and buy their product," says Rothenstein. "Mostly they are interested in getting the identity of the product so firmly in the viewer's mind that the next time he's buying cigarets or she's buying food at the supermarkets, they'll ask for or reach for the sponsor's brand."

department—Tabloid, a 30-minute interview session seen in Toronto) Montreal and Ottawa at 7 p.m., week-nights, and Viewpoint, a brief opinion program which follows the 11 p.m. national news report.

Producers of both programs, Ted Pope and David Walker, were among those who resigned.

Several of those who resigned put some of the blame on pressure by some MPs to cancel planned shows. They said the interference was not confined to any political party.

Mr. Weever said his group believes that some person or persons outside the Board of Commons but high in party politics had complained to Mr. Bushnell and he had hastily cancelled the program.

From then on, he said, it had been impossible to talk to the acting president. When Mr. Dunton was president, he defended the staff.

He said there was a general loss of confidence in the administration.

The Toronto Association of Television Producers Tuesday night supported the action of those who had resigned and said the CBC must alter its decision on Preview Commentary but did not say what action if any the association contemplates.

The CBC board of directors held an evening meeting Tuesday night but it was restricted to routine discussion of engineering and finance.

Mr. Bushnell said much of today's meeting would be devoted to discussion of the resignations. He said on a CBC TV interview Tuesday night that he was willing to meet anyone to discuss the dispute.

So far the CBC has not accepted the resignations.

Bette Davis and Husband Will Make 10-Week Tour

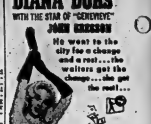
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — People want live entertainment, says Bette Davis, and she and husband Gary Merrill are going to give it to them.

"Five years ago, we were all intrigued by that little box in the living room," the actress said of TV. "But the novelty has dimmed. People have had enough of sitting around the house; they want to get out. They're tired of staring at that four walls."

She and Gary are going to provide eastern folks with an excuse to leave their television sets. Starting in October, they will make a 10-week tour in readings from the works of Carl Sandburg. They'll play mostly one - night stands at college towns and in auditoriums of the bigger cities.

As with all Davis projects, she is embarking on it with vast enthusiasm. This is the first time she has toured, though she recalls acting in a few plays out of New York in her pre-movie days.



"Gary and I will travel by car and none of the hops will be more than 120 miles or so," she said. "If the tour is a success, we will play other areas as well. We figure it would take us three years to cover the entire country.

"I firmly believe that the movies have priced themselves out of the market," she said. "Prices have been hiked up and up until movie entertainment is out of the reach of a great number of the population. People no longer have the movie habit.

"I think it would be a smart move for the industry to drop its admission charge to 50 cents for a year or two. Then people would get back in the habit of going to films, and the movie business would be bigger than ever."

AT THE BELLE — Doris Day and Richard Widmark as the suburbanites who adopt a baby, with mistaken complications, in "The Tunnel of Love", which begins Sunday. Comedy-romance, co-starring Gig Young and Gia Scala, playing tonight for the last times at the air conditioned Belle Theatre.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Thursday, June 25

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You are full of inspiration in A.M. and know exactly how to surmount the obstacles that made it impossible to reach certain aims before. Then you can think out other ways of increasing revenue, too. Be broadminded and alert.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An intimate and several good pals today offer ideas that will be successful if you follow them. Once they are convinced of your loyalty, they give you support to a very great extent. P. M. be very sociable, friendly and charming.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you have not consulted with those blueprints and financiers who can help you to advance materially, now is the time to do so. Later, discuss matters with client of his and you find they give you backing and moral support, too.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Many inspired thoughts occur to you now, and you will find other good ones in your paper as well as by conversing with new friends. Bring all of these down to a workable level and start the ball rolling in the right direction.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Excellent hunches you have now should be followed, so it behooves you to stop procrastinating and pressing about. You can make your future much brighter. P. M. work out a plan that will make the coming weeks ahead very lucrative.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Long talks with all associates and having a straight from the boulder conversation with the competition will result in getting backing instead of back talk and criticism. P. M. study your appearance and improve same.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Use own good common sense in getting your environment as you best like to have it. Look after health, too. P. M. get your personal problems ironed out with speed and efficiency.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Be certain to look up those people you love and do something tangible to prove your loyalty and devotion. You can then let P. M. meet interesting people and start a whole new uptrend in all of your affairs. Advance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Be as fundamental as you can right now, particularly in P.M. Impress closest of kin with your loyalty and give support where most needed. Then you will get favors from those who have power over your affairs. Grow.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Your attitude and the success you have in handling other persons reveal the quality of your mind. If there is room for improvement, concentrate on the matter of principle and you can rectify matters very quickly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day and evening for concentrating upon putting your real estate and other holdings in better condition so that beauty and value will be increased. Impress important persons in your life with your good, practical sense.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day for being very friendly and attending to own personal affairs. Also, a good opportunity is afforded you by the advice of a good comrade, which should be accepted and followed. Work together.

If your child is born today ... The sensitive child born today will be very spiritual and therefore it is necessary that you always see to it that only the finest types of individuals surround your progeny, for the wrong kind could mean illness and weakness to this delicate nature. This will bring out the great potential in this chart, for the fine ecclesiast is here, also the hero or heroine of tomorrow.

Try to Identify Watch Found In Shark's Belly

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man's wrist watch was found in the second of three stomach cavities of a 12½-foot white shark mid-Monday in the 22-mile channel between Catalina Island and southern California. Attempts are being made to identify it.

Shark fishermen said they couldn't determine how long the watch had been inside the 750-pound shark. It was found immediately eaten by stomach acid.

Robert Pimperis was killed a week ago Sunday by a shark at La Jolla, 85 miles south of where the shark was killed Monday night. His attacker at first was identified as a white shark—but then, later, marine experts decided it had been a requiem shark, the species that attacked Pimperis.

Riflemen on the vessel Comanche spotted a school of about a score of sharks Monday and killed the 12½ - footer, biggest among them.

Four other sharks were spotted off southern California beaches during the weekend. Thousands fled the water during shark alerts.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Ships have brought nearly 100 times as much cargo—27,300 tons — from foreign ports to Buffalo so far this year than they did all last year, Harold R. Becker, customs collector, said Monday.

UNREQUITED LOVE

PARIS (AP) — More French women kill themselves because much cargo of unrequited love than men, the National Health Institute said Monday. The institute's latest statistics show there were 7,184 suicides in France during 1958.

Flags Hung Out With Wash To Greet Queen and Prince In Old Sections of Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The Queen and Prince Philip stepped ashore on Montreal Island today in beautiful June weather for a busy day of drives and civic ceremonies.

About 600 persons — mostly women and children — watched H.M.C.S. royal couple debark from the yacht Britannia and begin a drive to the city hall.

The Queen wore a dress and jacket in thunder blue and pink shadow-printed taffeta, a small hat in matching tulle trimmed with velvet, and white accessories. Prince Philip wore a grey Lounge suit.

A bluish heat haze still lingered over the city as the royal party drew away from the red carpet after the Queen had been piped ashore by the bosun's whistle at 10:06 a.m. EDT.

It was an informal setting along Notre Dame Street in the old commercial section of Montreal. Flags hung with the wash on the royal party rode by. Old buildings rocked on the pavement while children played and youths in uniform stood at attention for the royal couple.

Work continued during the docks On Laurier pier, seamen from the big government ice-breaker d'Iberville lined up. The ship's band sails shortly for her usual summer duties in the Arctic.

Greeting the Queen at the dockside were Postmaster - General William Hamilton and his wife, and Mayor Sarto Fournier and his wife.

The route chosen for the drive through Montreal was designed to include some of the most historical sections of a historic city.

Her first stop was at Place Vauquelin, where statues stand of Lord Nelson and Capt. Jean Vauquelin, French naval commander who stuck with his vessel until she sank in a furious fight with the British in 1760.

She walked across a square to Champ de Mars, adjacent to the city hall, where French soldiers established fortifications against bloody thirsty Indian attacks. Later, British garrison troops used it for a training ground.

At her first ceremony at Champ de Mars, Mayor Fournier presented the Queen with a silver rose water dish and her brief reply—in French and English—called for public speaking of the day.

The welcome today contrasted with a night spent aboard ship, ignoring the brightly - lit city ashore.

ROW OVER RCMP IN NFLD. HEARD AGAIN IN HOUSE

Govt. Attacked From Two Sides

OTTAWA (CP)—Another row in the controversy over government refusal to send RCMP reinforcements to Newfoundland last March erupted in the Commons Wednesday.

The federal government was attacked for not sending additional police requested by the Newfoundland government, and the forces was attacked for alleged brutality.

Justice Minister Fulton, whose department administers the RCMP, came to the defence of both.

J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonavista - Twillingate, charged the government with "a shocking intrusion" on provincial rights in not dispatching reinforcements during the violence-ridden woodworkers' strike.

BRUTALITY CHARGED

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), a member of the Woodworkers' Union, accused the RCMP of brutality, strike-breaking, swearing and provoking violence.

Mr. Fulton said Mr. Pickersgill's charges were "baseless" and "inconceivable."

He told Mr. Peters that law enforcement is essential for the protection of life and that police reserve praise for doing their duty, evne if unpleasant at times. Mr. Fulton said he believes the RCMP during the bitter Newfoundland strike in which one policeman was killed—and at the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford, was an insult to a national police body.

DEMANDS PROOF

He said "something is wrong" in the RCMP and demanded a full investigation so its good name could be "restored."

As he spoke, RCMP Commissioner C. D. Nicholson-Carson was on the floor of the House, advising the Justice department during passage of justice department spending estimates. He was commissioner in charge over Mr. Marchand from L. H. Nicholson, who resigned over the government's refusal to send the Newfoundland requested reinforcements.

Mr. Pickersgill avoided the question of whether the federal government should call a royal commission to probe the police action in Newfoundland.

Newfoundland is suing the federal government in the Exchequer Court for $1,000,000, including discussion of that point from Ottawa.

PROVINCIAL JOB

But Mr. Pickersgill said the federal government during the strike was the province's responsibility, the justice minister—had done a "gross violence" to Canada's constitution. This is the first instance the responsibility for maintaining law and order.

Mr. Fulton said the former Immigration Minister was producing more heat than light. The federal

REFUSED ENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials said Wednesday Justice William O. Cancelled Radio Program Ordered Back On Air

37 Officials Expected To Return to Jobs Today

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC board of directors Wednesday night overruled the corporation management and ordered a cancelled radio program of political comment back on the air.

Most of the 37 CBC officials who had ordered their resignations in protest against the cancellation were expected to return to work today.

Ernest Bushnell, CBC vice-president who is acting president, said the board did not back his cancellation of the program, Preview Commentary, and that it ordered the show back to the radio networks next Monday morning.

The directors said the move was taken "to remove any doubt as to the independence of the corporation."

RETURN TO JOBS

They invited talks department producers and program officials who resigned or threatened to resign over the blowup, worst in the CBC's 23-year history, to return to work immediately. In Toronto, 24 of the 28 who quit said they would return because they felt the principle over which they resigned "now is secure."

Three principals, who have accepted an invitation to appear before the board, are head of Commons committee on broadcasting and they would not make a decision about returning until after the Ottawa appearance. They have been asked to elaborate on their charges that "clandestine political pressure" was brought about the program's cancellation.

The resignations did not seriously affect the CBC's broadcasting schedule.

Lyal Brown, CBC director of information was hopeful normal operations would be resumed by tonight.

FRANCE COMMITTEE

Frank eers, supervisor of radio and television talks, Hugh Gilliss, his assistant, and Fred Trotter, supervising producer, started the affair rolling when they resigned Tuesday. They have announced their willingness to appear before the committee during hearing to elaborate on their charges of "clandestine political interference."

Mr. Bushnell told a press conference that the board refused to back his cancellation of Preview Commentary, a program which features parliamentary Press Gallery reporters, and a broadcast from Ottawa following the 8 a.m. news.

Acting vice-president in place of ailing President Alphonse Ouimet, Mr. Bushnell said: "I made the decision to cancel the program) in consultation with my colleagues here. This is the first time the board has consulted them. They have reversed the CBC management's decision."

QUIZZED ABOUT MPS

Asked whether members of Parliament had ever spoken to him unofficially about CBC programs, he said that a Liberal MP, a reporter asked whether this might be considered political interference. He replied with a chuckle: "I'm not built that way."

Mr. Bushnell said he still thought the original grounds for cancelling Preview—a new program was substituted because the format was considered to be a better job"—were justified. He admitted the method of dropping it had been "unfortunate."

He said there will be no change in the program's format.

SERIOUS ISSUES ARE DIVIDING FRANCE, U.S.

Leaders Undecided Where to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and President Charles de Gaulle of France, who would like to sit down and talk, are embroiled in a polite diplomatic tug of war over how to arrange a meeting.

Neither, because of prestige and other reasons, appears to be willing to make a special trip to talk to the other. Meanwhile, serious problems disturbing France - American relations continue to pile up.

Both sides appear convinced Eisenhower-de Gaulle conference will be arranged, but both are vague about when.

Chief reason:

De Gaulle has made it known he would be happy to play host to Eisenhower—if the president would fly to Paris for a few days. Ike says he's too busy to consider a trip to Washington.

Eisenhower would be happy to talk things over with de Gaulle in Europe, he told a press conference last week, but only if he was going to Europe anyway on some other diplomatic errand.

Most foreign leaders would have no hesitation in accepting an Eisenhower invitation to fly to Washington. But de Gaulle is believed deliberately holding off lest it appear he is going hat in hand to talk with Eisenhower.

The aloof French general is seeking to restore France to its former position of world prestige.

Eisenhower and state department officials have informed themselves for a series of de Gaulle demands for a greater voice for France in Allied councils ever since the French leader took office as president. None de Gaulle is going just that.

In recent weeks, de Gaulle has (1) Renewed his proposal for setting up a U.S.-British-French "super council" which would mastermind important foreign policy decisions around the globe; (2) Demanded a voice for France in any U.S. decision to use nuclear weapons to defend Europe because France spends in the world including use of bombs by the French; and (3) Removed French soldiers and warships from control of the Atlantic pact Mediterranean fleet in the event of war.

Half of Metro Service Station Operators Ready to Close Up

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan chairman Fred Gardiner warned today police will be used to "protect the public's right" to buy and sell gasoline if a strike of service stations materializes and there is subsequent trouble.

Police will not interfere with peaceful picketing of any service stations remaining open, Mr. Gardiner said, "but if there is any breach of the peace, then the police will protect the public's right to buy and sell gasoline."

Wednesday night more than half the Metropolitan area's service operators voted to close their stations in effects of a 30-man committee to negotiate a settlement with oil companies over the spocalled gasoline price war are unsuccessful.

The gas drought which would virtually cripple Toronto motor traffic became a possibility when 299 of the estimated 1,200 dealers voted on the move.

A lockup could spread to other stations because the operators, members of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Association, would picket stations which remained open.

In the event of a strike only doctors, ambulance and funeral agencies, police and fire department vehicles would be allowed to buy gas.

DEALERS' DEMANDS

The dealers want oil companies to stop subsidizing chosen dealers against competitors when a price war breaks out in the area; and giveaways such as beach balls, steak knives and other inducements to the public and ban direct sales at service stations other than those registered on the pumps.

In Hamilton a poll of the area's 250 operators revealed 96 per cent in favor of a closure, with about 11 replies still to come in.

The result was released by William Reise, director of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Association in the area.

"It is clear almost every operator in the area supports and is in favor of lockup action," he said. "Now the big oil companies could prevent it."

FLOT SMASHED

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)— Several leaders of the opposition Liberal party were reported under arrest Wednesday night and pro-government sources said a plot to overthrow President Alfredo Stroessner had been uncovered. A radio broadcast said a heavy accumulation of weapons had been found on the Paraguay-Argentina border.

Italy Requests NATO Parley Ere Talks Resume

ROME (CP)—A foreign office spokesman announced today that Italy has asked for a meeting of Atlantic pact foreign ministers before the East-West talks resume in Geneva July 13.

The spokesman said Italy also has proposed that, if the Western foreign ministers were unable to meet in the short time available, then the permanent representatives of the pact nations should hold a discussion of Western policy before the talks start in Geneva.

In London, a British spokesman said the Italian request is being considered by the 15-power permanent council of NATO in Paris. Diplomatic quarters in London said Britain believes the consultations should be held within the council rather than by the NATO foreign ministers or at a western summit meeting.

OF SMALLER ALLIES

Italy's action taken in conjunction with Belgium, was in line with frequent Italian demands that Britain, the United States and France should take the opinion of smaller allies before negotiating on behalf of the West with the Russians.

CNR Main Line Blocked After Cornwall Wreck

LANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — Twenty-three cars of a westbound Canadian National Railways freight train were derailed Wednesday night, tying up traffic on both tracks of the CNR's main line between Toronto and Montreal until this morning.

No one was injured in the wreck, believed to have been caused when a wheel assembly on one of the train's approximately 60 cars developed trouble.

The derailment occurred about one-quarter of a mile west of this village, 13 miles east of Cornwall.

One of the tracks was cleared this morning for eastbound traffic from Montreal. The overnight passenger train, from Montreal to Toronto was reported running five hours behind schedule because of the mishap.

Today's Cluckle

The biggest trouble with a cross check days is that its recipe is just about the same as that for having a nervous breakdown.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An enormous mass of warm humid air which moved up the Mississippi and Ohio valleys has moved into the Windsor area this morning. Thunderstorms are over the lower lakes for the next 24 hours will include sunshine, cloudiness and some rain.

Nuclear Testing Underground to Be Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John A. McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Wednesday the United States will have to go ahead with underground nuclear testing on its own if the Russians do not join in an agreement to participate in such tests.

McCone told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee such action would be necessary to insure U.S. methods of detecting nuclear explosions. He said the AEC is planning preliminary underground testing sometime this summer with non-nuclear high explosives.

Meanwhile, a joint congressional atomic energy subcommittee studying the effects of nuclear war was told that an H-bomb attack on the U.S. now could kill or disable more than 1,000,000,000 people of future generations.

Dr. James V. Neel of University of Michigan medical school drew that picture, which he conceded was an extreme one based on rough estimates and overhanding stores of data on biological changes caused by radiation.

SURVIVAL POSSIBLE

Could the human race survive? Neel answered: "It is my opinion, which cannot be backed up by any careful calculation, that we can survive."

The subcommittee has imagined that an enemy attacked the U.S. with H-bombs delivering the equivalent of nearly 1,500,000,000 tons of TNT. Bombs would range up to 10 megatons. A single megaton equals the force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Dr. Hardin B. Jones, assistant director of the University of California's Donner laboratory, in giving his appraisal of such a nuclear assault, based it on the premise that there would be 50 per cent of the population survived but absolutely nothing radiation to cut their lives by 11 years.

Jones said there also may be "a very serious genetic problem for U.S. residents from radiostrontium."

ROUND UP ALGERIANS

LYON, France (Reuters)—Police rounded up several Algerian terrorist suspects Wednesday and seven Algerians were found shot to death and their throats cut, from ear to ear. Police believe the seven and the killers were members of rival Algerian nationalist organizations. The killers seemed to have held some sort of "trial" before the killings.

Grandma Brings Home 3rd Hubby, Held for Drowning Second in Tub

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police were waiting when Mrs. Helen Babin Bartlett, a 53-year-old grandmother, returned home with her newly-acquired son-in-law her third husband.

They arrested her Wednesday on a first-degree murder charge and accused her of drowning her second husband in the bathtub in 1956.

Insurance policies totalling more than $100,000, obtained or applied for on her third husband, Alvin J. Bartlett, prompted they said.

A signed statement was obtained from Mrs. Bartlett after her arrest. Police said she admitted she killed Alfred J. Babin by pushing his head under water. She said he had been drinking.

A certificate of accidental death had been issued. Police said she received $20,000 to $30,000 from insurance policies on his life.

Bartlett, 69, a partially disabled First World War veteran, had been a roomer at the home of his present wife before their marriage March 11. Babin had also been a roomer before he married the woman in 1955.

Mrs. Bartlett's first husband died in 1940 of tuberculosis.

Canton Said City of Terror But Main Dikes Still Holding

HONG KONG (AP)—The South China city of Canton was reported to converse with the Tung (East) River system and flow to the South China Sea through the Pearl River estuary. The rains in the reported confluence of the Pearl watershed Wednesday but the Tung was said to have begun dropping.

Details on the situation were sketchy and contradictory. But they show China is still vulnerable to age-old natural calamities.

Since Communist power in 1949, the Chinese Communists have begun vast projects to curb floods. But the rains and floods that over the centuries have meant the difference between starvation and plenty for China's poverty-stricken Chinese peasant.

Women Wary of Questions About Earnings of Husbands

OTTAWA (CP) — Housewives apparently don't mind talking about their fertility but some are wary about answering questions about illness and their husbands' total earnings.

So the census-takers found as they went from door to door in typical central Canadian communities—Galt, Ont., and Joliette, Que.—in two weeks of trial tests to prepare for the next big 10-year census in 1961.

Some of the questions tried out in the complete dress rehearsal, intimately into Canadian family life, such as asking the housewife the number of times she has been married and how many babies she has had.

Federal census men who launched the trial census on Monday June 1 through the use of 100 local enumerators — recommended by local Rotary clubs — found that fertility question was asked only of married women.

Federal observers in the two communities were relieved to find there was no resistance on the part of housewives to answer the fertility questions.

And so that question is sure to be asked right across the country for 1961, officials said.

But the observers found that housewives were wary of the next little suspicious when the census-taker asked whether any member of her family had been ill the previous day and whether they had been prevented from work or play.

What did the census-taker mean by ill ?A headache? A cold? And did the census-taker mean ill only during the day, or did he also want to know about those suffering from arthritis?

Another eyebrow-raiser was the question of how much the husband earned, and whether he had any sources in the last 12 months. Housewives may not know how much their husbands earned from regular salaried jobs, but wonder at times if they them knew what their husbands made on the side.

Many a breadwinner shook his head as he mentally tried to figure out the census question. Possibly there was suspicion that the census-taker was trying to check up on him.

The census men have repeatedly stated that all information obtained is in confidence.

Horse Thief Makes Wrong Choice of Steed

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Vernon, 28, felt a powerful urge to take a horseback ride. But he picked the wrong steed.

Vernon, seeing a horse standing with empty saddle on a downtown street, leaped on the back and went cantering off.

But before you could say "giddap" or "whoa," the regular rider, city policeman Edwin Waddell, burst from a nearby store and gave chase, soon as he went clop-clopping down an alley.

Vernon was charged with being intoxicated.

Sommers, Gray Lose Appeal to Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today unanimously dismissed the appeal of Robert E. Sommers and H. Wilson Gray, convicted of conspiracy and bribery.

Sommers, 48, former British Columbia Minister of Lands and Forests, and Gray, 46, a Vancouver real estate executive, have been serving five-year terms in Kingston Penitentiary. In addition, two of Gray's companies were fined a total of $19,250.

Sommers was found guilty of accepting bribes from Gray. The latter was convicted of conspiring in paying the bribes in return for favorable treatment in obtaining forest management licences.

Their appeal was narrowed to two points of law. That the charges were laid too late—after the two-year limit from the date of the alleged offence, and that Sommers was improperly charged as an "official" of the government.

'Oh, This Is the Nicest' Says Queen in Accepting Gold Case

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto photographer Gilbert Milne told how he presented a small gold photograph case to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip at Government House Wednesday night.

Mr. Milne, who photographed the Royal Family at Windsor Castle during the coronation tour for The Canadian Press, said the purse-sized case held four brief glimpses of candid photographs of the Royal Family enlarged from a photo taken in the castle grounds.

He said the Queen appeared particularly pleased with pictures of Prince Charles and Princess Anne in the case of the three-inch - long case. He said she remarked: "Oh, that's a darling photo and remarked: "Oh good, you can't even see her chicken pox."

Princess Anne had just recovered from chicken pox the day Mr. Milne took the family portraits.

Mr. Milne had the photo case made up in Toronto by his son, Peter, a student at Upper Canada Bullet, the Queen's secretary, suggested Mr. Milne make it in time for the press reception Tuesday aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

"The Queen and Prince Philip were very interested in where my father as I have met anywhere," Mr. Milne said. "I thought they were the nicest people I've met."

He made the presentation on behalf of the photographers trav-elling with the tour.

"I really got my biggest pleasure later," Mr. Milne said. He saw the Queen glance at the photographs in the case on a dressing table and Princess Anne slipped it into her purse.

ON PLAINS OF ABRAHAM — The Queen stands in a jeep as it is driven across the Plains of Abraham in Quebec City where she presented colors to three battalions of the Royal 22nd Regiment of which she is colonel-in-chief. Seated in rear (at right) is Maj.-Gen. Georges Vanier, honorary colonel of the Van Doo. Gen. Vanier's meeting with the Queen led to renewed speculation he will be named Canada's next governor general. (CP Photo).

Flags Hung Out With Wash To Greet Queen and Prince In Old Sections of Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The Queen and Prince Philip stepped ashore on Montreal Island today in beautiful June weather for a busy day of drives and civic ceremonies.

About 600 persons — mostly women and children — watched the royal couple debark from the yacht Britannia and begin a drive to the city hall.

The Queen wore dress and jacket in bluish mauve blue and pale shadow-printed taffeta, a small hat in matching tulle trimmed with velvet, and white accessories. Prince Philip wore a grey lounge suit.

A bluish heat haze still lingered over the city as the royal motor drew away from the red carpet after the Queen had been greeted ashore by the bonun's whistle at 10:08 a.m. EDT.

It was an informal setting along Notre Dame Street in the old commercial section of Montreal. Flags hung with the washing as the royal party rode by. Ole ladies rocked on their doorsteps and children played and mugs while children played and youths in open shirts waved for the royal couple.

Work continued along the docks. On Lasalle quay seamen from the big government ice-breaker d'Iberville lined up. The ship also sails shortly for her usual summer duties in the Arctic.

Greeting the Queen at the dockside were Postmaster - General William Hamilton and his wife and Mayor Sarto Fournier and his wife.

The route chosen for the drive through Montreal was designed to include some of the most historic sections of a historic city.

Her first stop was at Place Vaugueln where statues stand of Lord Nelson and Capt. Jean Vaugueln, French naval commander who stuck with his vessel until she sank in a furious fight about the British in 1760.

She walked across a square to Champ de Mars, adjacent to the city hall, where French soldiers established fortifications against blood - thirsty Indian attacks. Later, British garrison troops used it for a training ground.

At the city hall she met Champ de Mars, Mayor Fournier greeted the Queen with a silver rose water dish and her brief reply—in French and English—was the highlight speech of the day.

The welcome today contrasted with a night spent aboard ship, ignoring the brightly - lit city ashore.

Half of Metro Service Station Operators Ready to Close Up

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan chairman Fred Gardiner warned today police will be used to "protect the public's right" to buy and sell gasoline if a strike of service station attendants and there is subsequent trouble.

Police will not interfere with peaceful picketing of any service stations remaining open, Mr. Gardiner said, "but there is no say breach of the peace, then the police will protect the public's right to buy and sell gasoline."

Wednesday night more than half the 800 metropolitan area station operators voted to close their stations in effect of a 24-man committee to negotiate a settlement with oil companies over the sporadic gasoline price war as unsuccessful.

The gas drought which would virtually cripple Toronto motor traffic became a possibility when 620 of the estimated 1,300 dealers voted on the move.

A lockup could spread to other stations because the operators, members of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Association, would picket stations which remained open.

In the event of a strike only doctors, ambulance and funeral agencies, police and fire departments would be allowed to buy gas.

DEALERS' DEMANDS

The dealers want oil companies to stop subsidizing chosen dealers against competition and set a price war breaks out in the area; and gimmicks such as beach balls, steak knives and other inducements to the public and ban price cards at service stations other than those registered on the pumps.

In Hamilton a poll of the area's 250 operators revealed 96 per cent in favor of a closure, with about 12 replies still to come in.

The move was also opposed by William Reise, director of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Association, who said in Toronto:

"It is clear almost every operator in Metropolitan Toronto is in favor of lockup action," he said. "Only the big oil companies could oppose it."

Italy Requests NATO Parley Ere Talks Resume

ROME (CP)—A foreign office spokesman announced today that Italy has asked for a meeting of Atlantic pact foreign ministers before the East-West talks resume in Geneva July 13.

The spokesman said Italy also has proposed that, if the Western foreign ministers were unable to meet in the short time available, then the permanent representatives of the pact nations should hold a discussion of Western policy before the talks open at Geneva.

In London, a British spokesman said the Italian request is being considered by the 15-power permanent council of NATO in Paris. Diplomatic quarters in London said British believe the consultations should be held within the council rather than by the NATO foreign ministers or at a western summit meeting.

OF SMALLER ALLIES

Italy's action, taken in conjunction with Belgium, was in line with frequent Italian demands that Britain, the United States and France should take the opinion of other allies even before negotiating on behalf of the West with the Russians.

CNR Main Line Blocked After Cornwall Wreck

LANCASTER, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-three cars of a west-bound Canadian National Railways freight train were derailed Wednesday night, tying up traffic on both tracks of the CNR's main line between Toronto and Montreal until this morning.

No one was injured in the wreck believed to have been caused when a wheel assembly on one of the train's approximately 80 cars developed trouble.

The derailment occurred about one-quarter of a mile west of this village, 13 miles east of Cornwall.

One of the tracks was cleared this morning, permitting eastbound traffic to move through Montreal. The overnight passenger train from Montreal to Toronto was reported running five hours behind schedule because of the mishap.

Today's Chuckle

The biggest trouble with success these days is that its recipe is as apt to call for baking a nervous breakdown.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An enormous mass of warm humid air which moved up the Mississippi and Ohio valleys has moved into the Windsor area this morning. The weather elsewhere for the lower takes for the next 24 hours will include sunshine, cloudiness and some rain.

Nuclear Testing Underground to Be Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John A. McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Wednesday the United States will have to go ahead with underground nuclear testing on its own if the Russians do not join in an agreement to participate in such tests.

McCone told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee that action would be necessary to improve U.S. methods of detecting nuclear explosions. He said the AEC is planning preliminary underground nuclear testing this summer with non-nuclear high explosives.

Meanwhile, a joint congressional atomic energy subcommittee studying the effects of nuclear war was told that an H-bomb attack on the U.S. now could kill or disable more than 1,000,000,000 people of future generations.

Dr. James V. Neel of University of Michigan medical school drew that picture, which he conceded was an extreme one based on rough estimates and oversimplifications of data on biological changes caused by radiation.

SURVIVAL POSSIBLE

Could the human race survive? Neel answered: "It is my opinion, which cannot be backed up by any careful calculation, that we can survive."

The subcommittee has imagined that an enemy attacked the U.S. with H-bombs delivering the atomic energy 1,500,000,000 tons of TNT. Bombs would range up to 10 megatons in power. One megaton equals the force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Dr. Harold B. Jones, assistant director of the University of California's Lawrence laboratory, in giving his appraisal of such a nuclear assault, based it on the people who died from five per cent of the population survived but absorbed enough radiation to cut their lives by 11 years.

Jones said there also may be a long-term genetic problem for U.S. residents from radiostrontium."

ROUND UP ALGERIANS

LYON, France (Reuters)—Police rounded up several Algerian terrorist suspects Wednesday night and early today in a search for shot to death and their throats cut, front car to car. Police said the dead men and the left cars were members of rival Algerian nationalist organizations. The killers seemed to have held some sort of "trial" before the killings.

Grandma Brings Home 3rd Hubby, Held for Drowning Second in Tub

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police were waiting when Mrs. Helen Babin Bartlett, a 53-year-old grandmother, returned home from a honeymoon and with her third husband.

They arrested her Wednesday on a first-degree murder charge and accused her of drowning her second husband in the bathtub in 1956.

Insurance policies totalling more than $100,000, obtained or applied for on her third husband, set off the investigation, they said.

A signed statement was obtained from Mrs. Bartlett after her arrest. Police said she admitted she killed Alfred J. Babin by pushing his head under water. She said he had been drinking.

A certificate of accidental death had been issued. Police said he received $30,000 to $50,000 from insurance policies on his life.

Bartlett, 69, a partially disabled First World War veteran, died two months after the drowning of his present wife before their marriage March 11. Babin had been a roomer before he married the woman in 1953.

Mrs. Bartlett's first husband died in 1940 of tuberculosis.

Canton Said City Of Terror But Main Dikes Still Holding

HONG KONG (AP)—The South China metropolis of Canton was described today as a city of terror. Its 1,500,000 people facing what may be its most catastrophic flood in a century. But the city's main dikes were reported still holding at midday.

Communist and anti-Communist sources here both painted a picture of chaos in the delta region below Canton's Kwangtung province, across the border from Hong Kong.

The independent newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao said Canton is in the grip of terror under the worst of the most disastrous flood in its history. More than 400,000 people are living in constant dread of being drowned or starved to death. The paper said the Pak (North) River cave in."

Torrential rains have swollen the Pak and Hsi (West) rivers that converge with the Tung (East) to above Canton and flow to the South China Sea through the Pearl River estuary. The rains have continued unabated in the Pak watershed Wednesday but the Tung was said to have begun dropping.

Details on the situation were scarce and reports contradictory. But they show China is still running to age-old natural calamities.

Since assuming power in 1949, the Chinese Communists have begun vast projects to curb floods. But they have not been able to overcome the centuries have meant the difference between starvation and survival for the poverty-stricken Chinese peasant.

Women Wary of Questions About Earnings of Husbands

OTTAWA (CP) — Housewives apparently don't mind talking about their fertility but some are a little puzzled when it comes to questions about income and their husbands' total earnings.

So the census-takers found at least one woman who refused point blank to give information on her husband's earnings.

Another housewife wrote in the two communities were relieved to find there was no reference to their part of housewives to answer the fertility questions.

And so that question is sure to be asked right across the country in 1961, officials said.

But the observers found that interviewers were puzzled and a little suspicious when the census-taker asked whether she or any member of her family had received ill the previous day and whether interference with normal work or play.

Others did the census-taker mean by ill ?A headache? A cold? And did the census-taker mean ill only people who are so serious as to require hospitalization, or also those suffering from arthritis?

Another eyebrow-raiser was the question of how much the breadwinner had earned from all sources in the last 12 months. Some were puzzled as to whether much their husbands earned from regular salaries, but apparently not many of them knew what their husbands made on the side.

Many a breadwinner shook his head as he mentally tried to figure out the answer. Possibly there was suspicion that the census-taker was trying to check up on income tax.

The census men have repeatedly said that all information obtained is in confidence.

Horse Thief Makes Wrong Choice of Steed

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Vernon, 35, felt a powerful urge to take a horseback ride. But he picked the wrong steed.

Vernon, seeing a horse standing with empty saddle on a downtown street, leaped on the back and went canter-ing off.

But before you could say "he went that a - way," the regular riders, city policemen Edwin Waddell, burst from a nearby saloon and gave Vernon as he went clop-clopping down an alley.

Vernon was charged with losing his mount.

Sommers, Gray Lose Appeal to Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today unanimously dismissed appeals by Robert E. Sommers and H. Wilfrid Gray, convicted of conspiracy and bribery.

Sommers, 58, former British Columbia Minister of Lands and Forests, and Gray, 46, a Vancouver businessman, were each fined a total of $19,250.

Sommers was found guilty of accepting bribes from Gray. The businessman was found guilty of paying the bribes in return for favorable treatment in obtaining forest management licences.

Their appeal was narrowed to two points of law: That the charges were laid too late—after a two-year time limit from the date of the alleged offence, and that Sommers was improperly charged as an "official" of the government.

ROW OVER RCMP IN NFLD. HEAD AGAIN IN HOUSE

Govt. Attacked From Two Sides

OTTAWA (CP)—Another row in the controversy over government refusal to send RCMP reinforcements to Newfoundland last March erupted in the Commons Wednesday.

The federal government was attacked for not sending additional police requested by the Newfoundland government, and the forces was attacked for alleged brutality.

Justice Minister Fulton, whose department administers the RCMP, came to the defence of both.

J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonavista - Twillingate, charged the government with "a shocking inaction" on provincial ranks in not dispatching reinforcements during the violence-riddled woodworkers' strike.

BRUTALITY CHARGED

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), a member of the Woodworkers' Union, charged the RCMP of brutality, strike-breaking, rowdyism and promoting violence.

Mr. Fulton said Mr. Pickersgill's charges were "deplorable" and "inconceivable."

He told Mr. Peters that law enforcement is essential for the protection of society and the police must have the courage to do their duty, even if unpleasant at times.

Mr. Fulton said he understood the RCMP during the bitter Newfoundland strike-period that a policeman was killed—and at the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford, was an insult to a national police body.

DEMANDS PROBE

He said "something is wrong" in the RCMP and demanded a full investigation as its good name could be "restored."

As he spoke, RCMP Commissioner C. P. Nicholson sat over on the floor of the House, advising the justice minister during passage of justice department spending estimates. The new commissioner took over in March from L. H. Nicholson, who resigned over the government's refusal to send the Newfoundland requested reinforcements.

Mr. Pickersgill considered the question of whether the federal government should have taken contract for police service with the island government.

Newfoundland is suing the federal government in the Exchequer Court of Canada, including discussion of that point.

PROVINCIAL JOB

But Mr. Pickersgill said the federal government had specifically the justice minister—had done a "gross violence" to Canada's constitution, which gives the province responsibility for maintaining law and order.

Mr. Fulton said the former immigration minister was producing notes in that regard. The federal

REFUSED ENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials said Wednesday Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. Supreme Court has been refused permission to travel through Communist China for reasons as a newspaper man because the jurist could not qualify as a full time journalist. Douglas had said the National Geographic Magazine commissioned him to write a story on the Chinese mainland.

'Oh, This Is the Nicest' Says Queen in Accepting Gold Case

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto photographer Gilbert Milne told how he presented a small gold photograph case to Queen Elizabeth at a press reception at Queen's Park and got the reaction:

"Oh, this is the nicest!"

Mr. Milne, who photographed the Royal Family at Windsor Castle in 1951 and was assignment for The Canadian Press, said the purse-sized case held four head-and-shoulder colored photographs of the royal Family enlarged from a photo on the castle grounds.

He said the Queen appeared particularly pleased with pictures of Prince Charles and Princess Anne in the case. She threw her lock - long case. He said she looked at the princess' picture and remarked: "Oh good, you can't even see her chicken pox."

Princess Anne had just recovered from chicken pox the day Mrs. Milne took the family portraits.

Mrs. Milne had the photo case made up in Toronto by his son-in-law, and the inscription, Edmond Butler, the Queen's press secretary, suggested Mr. Milne present it himself at the press reception Tuesday aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

"The Queen and Prince Philip are as devoted a mother and father as you could imagine," Mr. Milne said. "I thought they were the finest people on the tour with photos of the children they love so much."

He made the presentation on behalf of the photographers traveling with the tour.

"I really got my biggest pleasure from the Queen," he said. "I saw the Queen glance at the photographs in the case on a bouquet of flowers and then close it and put it into her purse.

Cancelled Radio Program Ordered Back On Air

37 Officials Expected To Return to Jobs Today

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC board of directors Wednesday night overruled the corporation management and ordered a cancelled radio program of political comment back on the air.

Most of the 37 CBC officials who had ordered their resignations in protest against the cancellation were expected to return to work today.

Ernest Bushnell, CBC vice-president who is acting president, said the board did not back his cancellation of the program, Preview Commentary, and that it ordered the show back to the radio networks next Monday morning.

The directors said the move was taken "to remove any doubt as to the independence of the corporation."

RETURN TO JOBS

They invited talks department producers and program officials who resigned or threatened to resign over the blowup, worst in the CBC's 23-year history, to return to work tomorrow. Of those who quit Wednesday, 24 of the 28 who quit said they would be back today, leaving but the principle over which they resigned "now is secure."

Three principals who have accepted an invitation to appear before the board are Maj. Rosser of Commons committee on broadcasting and Mr. Bushnell to clear up on their charges that "clandestine political interference" was brought about the program's cancellation.

The resignations did not seriously affect the CBC's broadcasting schedule.

Lyal Brown, CBC director of information was expected normal operations would be resumed by tonight."

NO PACE COMMITTEE

Frank eers, supervisor of radio and television talks, Hugh Gibbon, his assistant, and Fred Trotter, supervising producer, started the affair rolling when they resigned Tuesday. They have announced their willingness to attend the Commons committee hearing to elaborate on their charges of "clandestine political interference."

Mr. Bushnell told a press conference that the board refused to back his cancellation of Preview Commentary, a program which features parliamentary Press Gallery reporters and a broadcaster from Ottawa, following the 8 a.m. news.

Acting vice-president in place of ailing President Alphonse Ouimet, Mr. Bushnell said the decision to cancel the program) in consultation with my colleagues on the board. It was the first time the board has consulted on a matter involving the CBC management's decision."

QUIZZED ABOUT MPS

Asked whether members of Parliament had ever spoken to him unofficially about CBC programs, he said that Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether this might be considered political interference. He replied with a chuckle: "It might be." Mr. Bushnell said he still thought the original grounds for cancelling the program—a news program was substituted because "we thought we could do a better job"—were justified. He admitted the method of dropping it had been unusual.

He said there will be no change in the program's format.

SERIOUS ISSUES ARE DIVIDING FRANCE, U.S.

Leaders Undecided Where to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and President Charles de Gaulle of France, they would like to sit down and talk, are embroiled in a polite diplomatic tug of war over how to arrange a meeting.

Neither, because of prestige and other reasons, appears to be willing to make a special trip to talk to the other. Meanwhile, serious problems disturbing France - American relations continue to pile up.

Both sides appear convinced that Eisenhower-de Gaulle conference will be arranged, but both are vague about when.

RED MENACE

De Gaulle has made it known he would be happy to play host to Eisenhower at the president would fly to Paris for a few days. There is also talk he'd love bury to consider a trip to Washington.

Eisenhower would be happy to talk things over with de Gaulle in Europe, he told a press conference last week, but only if he is going to Europe anyway on some other diplomatic errand.

Most foreign leaders would have no hesitation in accepting an Eisenhower invitation to fly to Washington. But de Gaulle is believed deliberately holding off lest it appear he is going hat in hand to the United States.

The aloof French general is seeking to restore France to his former position of world prestige.

Eisenhower and state department officials have let it be known themselves for a series of de Gaulle actions that have incensed the French allied councils ever since the French leader took over as president. Now de Gaulle is doing just that.

In recent weeks, de Gaulle has (1) Renewed his proposal for setting up a U.S.-British-French "super council" which would masterminded important foreign policy decisions around the globe; (2) Demanded a voice for France in any U.S. decision to use nuclear weapons anywhere in the world including use of bombs by U.S. planes based in Britain or French soil, and (3) Removed French warships in the Mediterranean fleet command and the Atlantic pact Mediterranean fleet in the event of war.

Holiday Period Time to Relax Motorists Told

Local residents were urged today to relax, and be sure to forget about being on time, when they take to the highways for their vacations this summer.

Mayor Gerald Hyde, issuing a statement in support of the "Slow Down and Live" drive sponsored by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, pointed to the "burning desire to get there as fast as possible" as one of the major causes of summer highway disasters.

"From here on in, there may be a very short distance for those careless drivers who are not fully aware of their responsibilities when they take their families along on vacation trips," he said.

The mayor declared that he found it almost unbelievable that there are people willing to gamble their own lives and future, and those of their families, at any time, is possible saving of a few minutes.

"This is a time of year when they should forget about being on time. They should slow down, relax and keep their minds and eyes on the highway. That way they'll be sure of reaching their destination safely.

"These are some of the most effective ways of staying alert and alive," he said. "Let's hope that everyone in our community adopts them, and more than back safely from his holidays."

Distinguished Service Award Made To Prominent American Geologist

Signal honor has been paid recently to Dr. Harold Bannerman of Washington, D.C., who is known in Belleville through his occasional visits to the city. He has demonstrated remarkable ability to identify and analyze the various problems in this large research organization.

He has most successfully maintained liaison with state geological organizations, private industries, advised government organizations in Puerto Rico and Brazil on geological programs. Dr. Bannerman has achieved high stature as a research geologist in the study of mineral deposits, chiefly in the Canadian Shield and in the Appalachian mountain geology of New England.

For his outstanding contributions to the Federal Government and the national welfare, the Department of the Interior is proud to present to Dr. Bannerman its Distinguished Service Award.

Frederick A. Sexton,
Secretary of the Interior.

Are Over Top In Red Shield Campaign Here

The Belleville Salvation Army's annual Red Shield campaign is "well over the top."

Campaign chairman Frank Donnerico termed it "the most successful Red Shield campaign ever held in the city."

"Our objective was set at $10,000 and we are well over that figure and climbing to a new all-time high," he added.

Although the House-to-house canvass is completed, donations are still coming in the campaign headquarters at the Citadel on Bridge street.

"It was most gratifying to note the spirit with which the Salvation Army appeal is being received," he said. "Many called-campaign headquarters to say that they would not be missed by canvassers."

Mr. Domenico said the highlight of the campaign was the enthusiasm and zeal the canvassers were received. Some 200 canvassers participated in the house-to-house canvass.

The campaign's organization was enlarged this year to take cars of the larger area of the city into consideration, he explained. Major Victor Grenwood explained. The city was divided into different units such as business, industry, and professions with a team and team captain for each.

Major Grenwood expressed appreciation to the citizens of Belleville for their "tremendous response" to this worthwhile cause, and to all campaign workers, particularly campaign chairman Frank Domenico, for their excellent work in carrying out this year's campaign.

Anyone still wishing to make a donation may leave it at the campaign headquarters, Salvation Army Citadel, Bridge st., or phone with Major Victor Greenwood, 43 Sidney Street.

Campaign treasurer is Mr. Tom Simpson, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Cottage Sites Are in Demand

TWEED — The past week has resulted in a heavy influx of inquiries for summer cottage sites in this district — by letter, telephone and personal inquiry.

At present, five subdivisions comprising 53 salable lots have been surveyed on Mink Lake, township of McClure, northwest of Bancroft. This lake is accessible by public road.

On Papineau Lake, Wicklow and Dungannon townships, there is a very limited number of parcels still available and accessible by public road.

Lots still remain open on Pringle Lake, township of Angeles, and may be reached from highway No. 41, on the Dacre Lake road which is under municipal jurisdiction.

In connection with the above areas, full details may be obtained from the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed, Ont.

Instructions have been issued for the surveying of registered Crown subdivisions on Kamina-kog and Baptiste lakes in Bangor township, Skootamatta Lake in Angleses township; Masinaw-kake in Ashprge and Sherwood townships, Kashwrakmak Lake in Barrie township and White Lake in Darling township.

No applications will be accepted on these lakes prior to the registration of subdivision plans. However, if flowered a site can be interested in acquiring a site thereon, his name will be placed on a waiting list and he advised when a particular area is opened.

Scrutineers Find Another Set of Ballots in Box

Strange things happen at polling booths sometimes, it isn't often that ballots for federal and provincial nominations get mixed up in the same ballot box.

But just this happened at Madoc on Friday as Progressive Conservatives in Hastings-Frontenac met in the Madoc Armouries to choose a candidate to contest the federal bye-election scheduled for July 13.

With four candidates in the field yesterday it was inevitable there would be a lengthy matter, but not quite as lengthy as the time it turned out to be on the first ballot.

Scrutineers were out about an hour after they returned with results of the ballot. Then the reason for the unexpected delay was revealed.

When scrutineers opened the ballot box to count the ballots they not only found the day's ballots but also those used in the previous provincial PC convention also held at the Madoc Armouries.

So in addition to votes for yesterday's four candidates, the scrutineers had to sort out the ballots for Clarke T. Rollins and Lloyd Price, nominees at the East Hastings PC convention some weeks ago.

OPP Booklet Can Be Obtained At Any Office

The story of the Ontario Provincial Police with an outline of the forces many and varied duties, is contained in a recently published booklet "Yours For Safety" now available at any provincial police offices throughout Ontario.

The booklet contains a foreword by Hon. Kelso Roberts, attorney general in which he states that the Ontario Provincial Police Force is one of the largest in the world and of which Ontario can be justly proud.

It has grown from a small group first assembled 34 years ago from which has gradually emerged a modern and efficient law enforcement organization competent to perform its many and varied duties, stated the head of the O.P.P. is Commissioner W. H. Clark.

The province is divided into 17 police districts with each district broken into areas patrolled by detachments, each of which is made up of the number of officers required for law enforcement in the area.

A police radio network maintains contact between more than 60 fixed stations and 350 radio equipped vehicles and a number of watercraft.

TRAFFIC PATROL

The chief effort of the force is concentrated on traffic patrol and the problem of highway safety with motor vehicles being checked at the rate of 700,000 per year. Checks are made for driver worthiness. Warnings are given to close to a quarter of a million drivers each year and charges are laid reach nearly the 100,000 mark.

Despite this upwards of 30,-000 accidents are investigated each year.

"Yours For Safety" lists four major duties of the O.P.P. as: To maintain traffic patrol on all the Queen's Highways. 2. To police all rural Ontario. 3. To enforce the provisions of the Liquor Licence and Liquor Control Acts, and 4. To maintain a criminal investigation branch.

Each of these four major duties of the Force, together with other activities are outlined in the booklet available in residents and tourists at district nuries in the province.

Outboard Motor Power Keeps Pace With Boats

PETERBOROUGH — The favorite all-purpose boat of the North American public, which in recent years has been the 14-footer, is losing ground to the larger and better appointed boats, according to an industry-wide survey.

The popularity of lengths above the average is increasing sharply, while shorter boats are slowly losing their relative position in the totals. Statistical research figures indicate that 31.6 per cent of the boats purchased in 1958 were more than 14½ feet in length, while in 1954 only 18.7 per cent fell in that category.

This is despite the fact that the average length of all outboard boats purchased during the past four years has increased only 0.5 of one foot. Interestingly, the average horsepower of outboard motors sold during that period has increased by almost seven horsepower per motor.

CHANGE IN TREND

What, then accounts for the trend among purchasers of motors to greater horsepower when the average size of boats has increased somewhat? The answer is there a growing tendency among boat-owners to overpower their boats with motors of greater capacity beyond the limits of safety?

"Not necessarily," declared Marcel Brier, chief engineer of Outboard Marine Corporation, Peterborough. "The average horsepower of motors has increased primarily because more people are using their boats for family recreation such as cruising and water skiing. Another factor is that only a few years ago very few fishermen owned motors of more than five horsepower, today many fishermen are purchasing the smooth-trolling larger motors. Another purpose power to be used not only for fishing, but for cruising and water skiing as well. In addition, we believe the purchase of 15 and 18 h.p. boats adds a greater safety to all forms of boating."

What are the practical limits of motor power that can be made available at more and more people purchase larger and better appointed boats?

ADEQUATE POWER NOW

"Outboard motor power is limited only by the production model boats available on which this power might safely be mounted," Brier asserts. "We have raised our top horsepower model from 25 to 50 in the last five years, whether or not a proportionate increase in power will be made within the next five years depends strictly upon the availability of boats to which this power might be safely attached.

"Right now we feel we have adequate power for any production model boat being made today. If the manufacturers begin construction of heavier boats of greater length and beam, with transoms which can safely withstand the terrific thrust exerted by greater horsepower, we will be able to prove any needed increase in power.

"Remember, we are primarily interested in boating safety," Brier concluded. "Overpowering a boat is one of the major violations of safety on the water. We intend to keep our horsepower ratings within the safe limits, as determined by the Department of Transports standards for boat horsepower capacity, for the boats currently available."

Court Upholds By-Law Against Fee-Splitting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today upheld unanimously a Hamilton, Ont., hospital's bylaw against fee-splitting.

The Victoria Hospital's bylaw was attacked by three London doctors—Harold Henderson, J. H. Spence and Donald B. Ferguson —who previously lost their bid in the lower courts in Ontario to have the fee-splitting prohibition declared invalid.

Their argument, while it opposed the "vicious" practice of fee-splitting, was based on the view that the hospital board of trustees has no authority to regulate the morals of the medical profession.

TRACTOR BURNS

TRENTON — Firemen were called out again yesterday afternoon to the Hinde and Dauch Paper Mills in Trenton where a tractor working in the yard had caught fire. Men at the scene had managed to get the burning tractor under control before the firemen arrived and they returned to the fire hall after a short stay. It was not too long after the fire department had been called out to the paper mill when a bearing on one of the giant machines had caught the rolls of paper and floor on fire.

CAR TURNS OVER

Delores Arthur of Quebec City was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for examination following an accident yesterday afternoon on the 401 Highway just east of the Sidney Street cut-off. According to police the woman was alone in the car and driving west towards Brighton, when the tire on the left front wheel blew out causing the car to swerve onto the grass line between the two lanes, turn over several times and come to rest in the lane for east-bound traffic. The Trenton Ambulance was called and the woman was taken to the hospital but it was not believed her injuries were serious. The car was a complete write-off. The Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated.

LIKES WATER NOW

Jim Page, manager of the Quaile Utilities Commission in Trenton said yesterday he received one of the best compliments on Trenton water since he took over his present position when he asked an unknown woman called him on the telephone and informed him that the drinking water in north Byron Street has shown very great improvement. The Byron Street Plant water is used for this area.

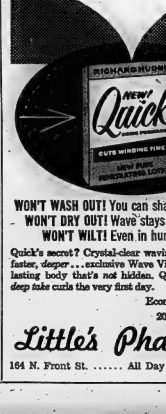
Steel Firms Serve Union With Ultimatum

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelworkers union leaders meet today to decide whether to call a strike next week or agree to continue work for employers firmly against granting any wage increase.

The strike choice seemed inevitable. But meetings of the union's executive board and wage policy committee will chart the course. They were called into session by union President David J. McDonald.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice-president of U.S. Steel Corporation and leading industry spokesman, made two things clear Wednesday.

One was that steel firms are agreed they won't increase present labor costs. The other was that they are willing to negotiate indefinitely. Meanwhile, bargaining talks are opened with nothing scheduled pending the outcome of the union sessions.



The steel companies called for a continuing delay of any July 1 strike. They proposed extending present contracts from their Tuesday midnight deadline expiration until such time as either side gives a 10-day advance extension notice.

McDonald declined to say what course he would recommend to fellow union leaders but he noted there was no guarantee under the industry - conciliation-arbitration proposal that any gains that might be negotiated would date back to Tuesday's expiration.

Cooper served a virtual ultimatum on the union. He said that unless the contract extension was accepted it was his opinion "you would have to start shutting down Friday.

machinery of the company needed for the Trail plant has the remainder of the street blocked off. Men on the job there have been under pressure because of the many water, sewer and other pipes they must disconnect before they can dig through. However all the work undertaken by the Consumers Company in Trenton is being completed as quickly as possible to eliminate tying up streets too long.

NOMINATE REEVE

MADOC (CP)—Rod A. Welsh 29-yearold Norpworth Township Wednesday was nominated Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal by-election in Hastings-Frontenac riding. The by-election was made necessary by the death of External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith. No date has been set for the vote.

Newly-Named Cobourg Judge Will Travel

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario said today the appointment of an Ontario judge without a specific district to fill a vacancy will enable "modernization" of the provincial district and county court system.

"I wish the last six judges appointed in Ontario had been appointed with this capacity," he said.

He was referring to the appointment Wednesday of Arthur R. Willmott, 64-year-old Cobourg lawyer as a judge of the Ontario county and district courts without a specified district.

Mr. Roberts said a committee is at present studying the relationship between the administrative and judicial parts of the county and district court system.

He said that he had not been able to persuade Federal Justice Minister Fulton to give the six Ontario judges named in 1958 the same capacity as Judge Willmott.

Appointment of provincial county and district judges is made by Ottawa.

Mr. Roberts said Judge Willmott would travel to various areas in Ontario where a judge was needed because of illness on a backlog of cases.

TWO VIEWS ON SPEED LIMITS

"If you happened to be travelling at 31 miles an hour in a 30 m.p.h. zone and were arrested for speeding, wouldn't you be annoyed?"

That is the question which the Windsor Star asks.

Almost every motorist, if he or she is honest, will answer that query with an emphatic affirmative.

We are not so sure, though, that this practical unanimity of opinion amongst motorists proves the validity of the Star's contention that a motorist should not be arrested for breaking the speed limit by one mile an hour.

The Star was supporting Magistrate A. D. Barron of Kitchener in a dispute with Magistrate C. O. Bick, chairman of the Toronto Metropolitan Police Commission. Magistrate Barron told a seminar of police constables at Hamilton that some consideration should be given motorists in borderline cases where a motorist happens to be travelling three or four miles over the speed limit. Magistrate Bick contends that "if the Legislature says that the speed limit is 30 or 50 miles an hour, then it's up to the police to enforce it."

Now in theory there can be no dispute about the correctness of Magistrate Bick's contention. In practice, though, as everybody knows, few policemen charge motorists who are exceeding the speed limit by only a couple of miles or so.

The difficulty in this system of allowing some leeway is that there has to be a line drawn some place. If consideration is given to a motorist driving three or four miles an hour over the speed limit, as Magistrate Barron advises, why is such consideration to be denied to a motorist who is going only one mile an hour faster than them? And if this motorist driving five miles an hour too fast gets consideration, why should the man driving six an hour over the limit be charged?

And so on. Obviously there comes a point at which the speeder must be charged if caught. And, by the system advocated by Magistrate Barron, this point is not decided by the province's democratically-elected lawmakers but by some police officer, who has absolutely no legal right to make any such decision.

There is only one remedy which, in our opinion, would satisfy the advocates of both the practical and the theoretical schools -- set the speed limit so high that nobody would feel any sympathy for the motorist who exceeded it, even by one mile an hour. Then those motorists whom the police indorsed were driving at a speed impending others, although below the limit, could be charged with dangerous driving and the courts could decide each case on its merits. This system would be much the same as that in effect in areas which have no speed limits.

The advantage would be that motorists would know that there was a set speed exceeding which would be considered dangerous driving, in every case. The obvious disadvantage would be that many motorists might tend to regard the maximum limit as permissible under all conditions. On the whole, the no-speed-limit system might be safer. It may be argued that this, in effect, is what we have today, when police follow Magistrate Barron's advice and greet some consideration" to motorists exceeding the limit by a few miles an hour. The difference is that, if charged with speeding, the motorist has no adequate defence. He is speeding and that's an end to it. It makes the policeman, rather than the court, the real judge of whether he should pay a penalty. And that is a situation to be deplored.

PREMATURE

The Unemployment Insurance Commission has sent out some notices of increases in unemployment insurance rates.

The bill authorizing these increases has not yet received the approval of Parliament.

This has irked Murdo Martin, CCF member for Timmins, who has charged that the government is showing arrogance. Labor Minister Starr has replied that it was not the Commission's intention to circumvent Parliament, that the mailing of notices of the increase was a mistake.

We believe Mr. Starr.

But that does not alter the fact that the notices were prepared before the bill was approved; Mr. Starr freely admitted as much. Could not this prove an expensive practice? No private industry would spend money on printing a sales notice before a decision had been reached to hold a sale.

Photographs of scientists taking fish from a New York City reservoir by the electric shock method reminds us that some years ago a youth out the Bathurst Line was sent to the pokey for doing exactly the same thing. In the latter case, the culprit had tapped a power line running close to the Ottawa river. (Ottawa Journal.)

Hats Protect Motorists

Winnipeg Free Press

Motorists should wear hats, according to an English doctor. The doctor is not so much concerned about fashion or the effect of the sun. His point is simply that in the event of an accident, a hatted head is less likely to get bashed in than a bare one. Should a cracked windshield come into sudden and violent contact, a hat in between would be of small account, how the. The cap that the doctor himself wears when he is driving (he tested it) can absorb 40 per cent of a 4,000 pound impact.

Now, out here by the rink. How many Canadian motorists wear caps? A cap, certainly, you have a sleek little sports car to go with it, is passe. The chaps at the office would snicker. And how in the world are you going to wear a cap in the car? Unless you're driving an antique, the faithful benny would be mashed around your ears before you got to the end of the block.

Then a hat is out for the "long, low look," for the "car of the future." The contrivers for men, it is said, have set figures out on what men should wear, could, of course, be improved upon, but that would probably be pointless. Ever since the days of the man dreads more than a caved-in skull it's a change in the way of hats. Only the "soft" is the only one satisfactory solution.

The cars must change. Since convertibles and cars with sidebrack roofs are for most people too impractical, it's clear that why not make the cars with a suitable top, a sort of scenic dome over the driver's seat? Then the motorist who feels like wearing a hat can do so in luxury hat, in christie stiff or a stove pipe — and do so with safety, dignity and ease.

Think Radar 'Angels' Birds

Scientific American

With the advent of more powerful radar sets employing higher wavelengths, radar operators have been bothered by "angels". Clouds of dots that from time to time appear on the screen and sometimes become thick enough to obscure what the operator is trying to see.

Just what causes angels has been a matter of mystery. Some scientists have suggested that meteorological atmospheric conditions may be responsible, but others have observed that this explanation is not satisfactory, for angels usually move faster than the wind.

After independent studies, three British workers have concluded that angels are flocks of radar pilot birds of migrating birds, chiefly small shorebirds. They presented this evidence:

Angel activity is at a peak near the coast in spring and again late in October. Small birds migrate over Britain at just these seasons.

There are daily peaks in angel activity at 9:30 p.m. and 3 a.m. Most small migrating birds feed during the day and start flying soon after dark. Others, including crows and starlings, fly at dawn.

Angels are more prevalent on clear days, especially after a stretch of stormy weather. Migrating birds tend to weather storms by staying on the ground then resume flying on the first good day.

If angels are indeed responsible for angels, there seems to be little that radar operators can do to keep their screens clear. On the other hand, radar may be an invaluable tool for ornithologists, who up to now have had no reliable way to observe nighttime migration.

Lot Buyers Form Queue

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

The spectacle of some 90 prospective home-owners lining up to get a choice in buying lots at bargain prices in the Parkway Heights subdivision developed by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had its humorous side. But it does point up how rising land values have become a basic consideration in the building of new homes.

Here was an opportunity to open up for priority for the most desirable location in the new subdivision at about half of the cost of servicing included in the selling price of the lots at savings of $1,000 or more.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

AGASSIZ, BRITISH COLUMBIA

This name was bestowed by Capt. L. N. Agassiz, an ex-officer of the Royal Welch Fusiliers who, tired of the army, sold his commission and settled on Prince Edward Island and then to Brantford, Ont. In the early 90's he moved to Victoria, B.C., to San Francisco thence north to Victoria, B.C., and thereabouts by land as far as the Cariboo, and in 1893 brought his wife and four children to the Pacific Coast. The name AGASSIZ was not applied to the district until the coming of the C.P.R. It was suggested by J.W. Trutch, then federal government representative in the area to honor the first settler.

Englishmen's Other Side

Hamilton Spectator

Before leaving London for a short visit to Moscow, Dr. Hilly Graham, the evangelist, had two memorable experiences. He went to tea with the King at Buckingham Palace and he went for a stroll in a London fog.

The first he found "quite delightful"; from the accounts, he collided in crooked dimness. London parks, he found, were "like bedrooms".

Unconsciously Dr. Graham had discovered a paradox in the English character that has puzzled foreigners for nearly three hundred years. On the foreign mind there is a persistent image of the English people as conservative, shunning anything that might "make a scene in public" and wedded to the status quo ante.

In one sense this is true, but in another it is fantastically false as anyone knows who has lived in England. Dr. Graham, in scantily-clad thousands lying out in the sun in London parks, or, unlike Dr. Graham (we are certain) has attended vaudeville in the East London theatres and heard the jolliest humor that sets soberly-dressed Americans and Canadian matrons roaring with mirth.

This is the paradox that makes the French gasp with astonishment on first acquaintance with the English, that is the fascination and the English the reality. It is usually forgotten that Paris got much of its risque reputation from Englishmen and from the Victorian era, remembered fondly for long weekends in France.

Dr. Graham's was the strange contradiction in English national character if found in history. In the Civil War, the conflict between the gay Royalist cavaliers and Cromwell's grim puritans, is still being fought. The English people are drawn alternately to one or the other.

Dr. Graham is not the first to observe this paradox. We can hardly be shock of having to discard opinions he had long taken for granted.

THE PACKSACK

Among the things we can count on in the next ten years are these:

Private motor vehicles will not be allowed inside the down-town region of any city. The delivery of merchants will battle against public opposition. They will want to come down-town, you take a bus, taxi or subway. Downtown streets will be far more space than any one individual is entitled to, and that is to be parked at an uptown parking lot.

Commercial trucks will be permitted to make delivery to shops, warehouses and places of business, but not to private homes, restaurants, between 6 am and 9 pm. All delivery at such hours will fall jobbies of truckers unions, merchants, banks, trust companies, and other bodies interested in keeping down-town property values up. It will fight like tooth and nail. But people must

New Style Insurance

By T. R. B. in the New Republic

Years ago this reporter bought $20,000 of life insurance which at present living costs would be worth about $10,000. The value of gold or silver has risen in a comparable rate of about 2 per cent a year, economists say, over 60 years. It is time to do something to do so. People put expensive dollars into life insurance and their heirs take out cheap dollars.

Now a revolution is promised. The dollar may be brought up to it yet. The giant Prudential Insurance Co. of America, which is in New Jersey (over the opposition of the Metropolitan Insurance Life Insurance Company) to sell variable annuities. What a re here before mentioned. To the cost of living index through the agency of the fluctuating market price of selected common stocks (stocks rise as the dollar sinks, because it is a gauge of inflation).

This is a striking development. Sales of ordinary life insurance reached the huge sum of $42,000,000,000 in the U.S. last year. Life insurance assets are now about $37,000,000,000, mostly in fixed obligations (bonds, mortgages and loans). Should the dollar fall, these will enter the stock market.

It will be life insurance wedded to a kind of investment trust. They will be new risks it will safeguards. Almost certain we are seeing the start of a financial revolution.

THE FAT OF ENCOURAGEMENT

Watching a recent baseball game, one of the pitchers got into trouble and Manager Davis had to replace him, but the better idea won out, the discarded man left the field and gave that pitcher words of encouragement — and one that gets there pats of understanding from its master, and that wagging tail tells many a story of love and loyalty to us all.

Those who distribute the fat of encouragement are many — Mothers, Teachers, Triggers of animals, for nobody can do their best without better patting their babies, and babies interpret it and some wag more.

Every one of us invites those fat pats of encouragement. A story of encouragement and appreciation is a worker gets that makes him a better worker. I've often read that Richard Harding Davis formed the habit of sending a note of congratulations whenever he read a story that he liked by a writer. Ear Lardner lifted me of the wire that Davis sent him for writing a baseball story — "Molly," I think it was called.

Most of us trace our inventions to the fact that people as a rule like to praise a writer or artist. It makes him set akin to such inspiring people.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

URINALYSIS CAN REVEAL MANY SYMPTOMS

"Dear Dr. Molner: What are crystals in the urine? What about cloudiness?—Mrs. F.S."

The urine, a waste product of life, is a very useful indicator of health. I'm sure that most readers are aware that laboratory analysis is very useful to us for detecting diabetes and other conditions. Now short of a book I couldn't undertake to outline all of the useful aspects, but I think the following will give an idea of what can be discovered from an educated look.

The color, naturally, is normally yellow, the yellowish varying in proportion to the water content. Or, to word it the opposite way, the concentration of other materials which are being carried away by the water.

The more dilute, the lighter the color. In summer, when we lose more water by perspiration, the color tends to be darker yellow. In winter, the reverse is true. And, of course, keep this in mind: The color may be lighter or on a day when (other things being equal) we drink more water, regardless of whether the added water is in the form of beer drinks, plain water, a great deal of milk, etc.

Now what about cloudiness and crystals? Usually the urine will be clear when freshly voided; it allowed to stand (as when you are taking a sample to your doctor) it may turn cloudy. This is because some of the contents will crystallize, or turn into tiny particles of solid material. In time the particles will tend to settle.

ALKALINE OR ACID

What is in these crystals depends on whether the urine is acid or alkaline. Phosphates will form a heavy precipitate, or crystallization, usually following a diet high in fruit and vegetables.

Acid: Crystals of oxalates, or of uric acid. These are materials which are found in solid meats.

Now suppose the urine remains in the bladder overnight. Then some of this normal crystallization (or cloudiness) can develop into a heavy precipitate, or sediment.

A dark greenish color (the bile) may indicate jaundice. The presence of bile in larger-than-usual quantities. Usually this will be accompanied by a pale stool, or yellowish color, in the case gave him attention. Also the gall bladder may be troublesome.

Offered $100 For One Fish

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

For real angling excitement it would be difficult to imagine anything surpassing a catch made on the Restigouche river, when Ed. Redford went at Flatland by Pat Irvine of Campbellton the other day.

His prize; a 50-pound Atlantic salmon, exceeding the previous red record on the ten-pound stream by four pounds.

It was reported that the triumphant fisherman turned down an offer of $100 for it—while with one hand he held the firmest angler, because a memorable catch is worth more to him than the money. Others were offered at the extraordinary price of two dollars a pound for the whole fish.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

YOUR BUSINESS AND MINE

There is a beautiful story in the Bible of how the parents of Jesus brought him, when he was a ten-aged boy, to the temple in Jerusalem. As they started back on their way home to Nazareth, they discovered that the boy Jesus was not with them. They returned to Jerusalem and found Him seated in the temple, discussing with the religious leaders of that day. He was talking with them and asking them questions. When in their anxiety they rebuked Him for having caused grief while they went on their journey, His reply was, "Why are you disturbed about my Father's business?"

What is your business and mine? Are we a businessman, a housewife, a manufacturer, a teacher, a farmer, a professional man. No, that is not your business. That is not your calling. That is your everyday employment. There is a business far different and more significant than any of these things. And you and I are definitely commissioned by God to attend to this business.

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself how important your real life is? Don't be discouraged if you could answer to be against you. The important thing is whether or not you are sincerely and sincerely trying. Are you as a Christian sincerely trying to attend to "My Father's business" or is that something on the side? Have you caught the importance of this matter. It is up to every follower of Christ to view it with a life seriousness.

Victory smiles are flashed by Rod Webb, Norwood reeve, and Mrs. Webb, following yesterday's PC nomination at Madoc when Mr. Webb was named candidate for Hastings-Frontenac.

Rod Webb, Norwood Reeve, Choice of Conservatives at Madoc Nomination Meeting

Forty - eight - year - old Rod Webb, reeve of Norwood village and electrical contractor in that centre, was yesterday chosen standard bearer for Hastings - Frontenac Progressive Conservatives when they named him candidate at their nominating convention held at Madoc armouries.

Mr. Webb defeated three other nominees who allowed their names to stand, defeating Vera McMurray, Gilmour general merchant, by a close margin on the final ballot.

The Norwood reeve will carry the party colors into the federal bye-election to be held this fall to select a representative for the riding, which was left vacant by the sudden death last spring of Hon. Sidney Smith, minister of external affairs.

Close to 400 delegates crowded their way into the Madoc armouries for the convention which was hotly contested by the four nominees allowing their names to stand. Two others were nominated but withdrew from the field.

Contesting the convention besides the successful nominee and Mr. McMurray, were Bruce White, Madoc lawyer and son of Senator George S. White, former representative for the riding for many years, and Nelson Kennedy, Camden Reeve.

Also nominated were Wilfred Spencer, former Rawdon Reeve, and Reeve William J. Davis of McLure, both of whom withdrew.

TOOK ALL AFTERNOON

With four candidate- in the field the convention took up the entire afternoon with the new candidate not being chosen until five thirty. The meeting got underway at one o'clock.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Minister of Northern Affairs, and party member for the Saskatchewan riding of Qu'Appelle. He was introduced by Senator George White and thanked by J. W. Baskin, federal member for Renfrew South. Pressure of duties at Ottawa prevented the scheduled speaker, Hon. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice, from coming to Madoc.

The new Progressive Conservative candidate for Hastings-Frontenac led all three ballots with Mr. McMurray whittling down the lead as the balloting progressed and then just failing to make it on the final one as Mr. Kennedy was the first candidate to drop out with Mr. White dropping out after the second ballot.

"Thanks for the trust in me," said the successful candidate to the cheering assembly as he expressed his appreciation to his supporters following the vote. "But the battle has just begun. we still have to fight to win the election."

But before thanking his supporters the energetic Norwood reeve introduced his wife Rosalie to the assembly, declaring that she was in no small measure responsible for a great deal of his success.

The new candidate for Hastings - Frontenac told the convention that one of goals which he would work for was the restoration of the old Hastings-Peterborough riding. The present riding of Hastings - Frontenac, stretching from Norwood to Kingston and north up the limits of Hastings was "far too big" he said.

Mr. Webb was born in Tuvonto and moved to Norwood in 1914. He served four years with the RCAF, one at Canada and three in London at RCAF headquarters there.

He has served on Norwood council for 13 years, the last two a reeve and a president of the Hastings-Frontenac (Federal) PC Association, and 1st vice-president of both the Peterborough county (provincial) PC Association and the Hastings-Frontenac (Federal) PC Association.

Association president Ralph Neal presided over the convention. Secretary-treasurer Fred Northey of Northbrook accepted the nominations and read them to the convention.

SEVEN TIMES DEFEATED

Guest speaker for the occasion was the Minister of Northern Affairs, the Hon. Alvin Hamilton. In his opening remarks the seven-times defeated candidate (prior to 1957) remarked that the ridings in the west had always looked to such riggina as Hastings-Frontenac for faith in the future when the tides of the Conservative party were at ebb-tide in Saskatchewan.

The guest speaker then seized upon the theme of "one nation—one Canada" and enlarged upon the Prime Minister's policy to uplift those parts of Canadian society which are behind others with a program based on the use of agriculture as the cornerstone of a diversified economy.

This was followed by an examination of the government's national development program, which, the Hon. Minister felt, would provide Canadians with a goal to be strived for over the next 75 years. The careful development of the estimated 75 to 80 per cent of Canada's natural resources and the development of power necessary to a modern industrial nation will provide Canadians with the opportunity of building a great nation, enthused the speaker.

KNOW TAXES HIGH

It was pointed out that the United States will be depending to an increasing degree on her neighbors to the north and south of her for the natural resources to keep her industries operating and to preserve her way of life. This factor gives Canadians the chance to become a truly great nation if her natural resources are properly developed — as they will be under a Diefenbaker government, stating the Hon. Mr. Hamilton.

"The government knows the taxes are too heavy," continued the member from Qu-Appelle and are hoping to relieve the burden being thrust upon the provinces and the municipalities through an outward-looking policy to bring into Canada new wealth to help ease the taxpayers' plight.

INCREASE TOURIST TRADE

Commenting on the tourist industry, Canada's third largest dollar earner, the Minister of Northern Affairs stated that the federal government is working on plans to get the provinces to meet the needs of the tourist so that more will come to Canada to stay for their vacations. The tourist comes to spend his dollar without depleting any of Canada's natural resources — coming only to spend his money on relaxation and recreation, added the cabinet minister.

The establishment of the National Energy Board to handle the development of natural resources and to see that the Canadian people have the opportunity of sharing in the country's wealth with no more profiteering or skullduggery is but one of what promises to be "a long list of achievements as John Diefenbaker is driving the government," concluded Hon. Mr. Hamilton.

Norwood electrical contractor Rod Webb and Mrs. Webb (left) accept congratulations from J. W. Baskin, Renfrew South, and Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Minister of Northern Affairs (right), following yesterday's Hastings-Frontenac nominating convention at which Mr. Webb was named party candidate. Mr. Webb won over three other nominees.

Hereditary Chiefs Want Question Settled Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—William Smith of the Six Nations Indian Confederacy at Ohsweken, near Brantford, said Wednesday he hopes it won't take "another 35 years" to settle the question of who rules the band.

Mr. Smith was one of six confederacy representatives, two of them dressed in buckskins and one in feathered headdress, who appeared before the joint Commons-Senate committee studying Indian affairs.

The committee shied around questions about constitutional issues involved in a legal battle between the hereditary chiefs and the elected council of the 7,226-member band.

A court decision now is pending on the constitutional position of the chiefs and the council.

Mr. Smith said a 1924 order-in-council to abolish hereditary chiefs and set up an elected council was done without the chiefs' knowledge and had never been supported by chiefs.

"We have had to wait 35 years to be heard on the issue and I hope it doesn't take another 35 years to settle it," Mr. Smith told the committee.

He said the constitutional question was the basis of the group's representation to the committee and asked to appear before the committee after the court judgment is made. He was given committee assurance that the group would be given an opportunity to appear at some later date.

In a documented history of the Six Nations Indians, Mrs. Ella Workington of Toronto, representing the hereditary chiefs' solicitor, Mr. Peter Montgomery, said that although the "British transferred their interests in Indian affairs to Canada in 1867, "there is some doubt as to what the Six Nations' civil rights were at the time of Confederation."

She also said there originally was a basic difference between the Indians' concept of land tenure and the white man's idea when Indians surrendered land.

Mrs. Workington, who described herself as a student of Indian affairs, said the Indian thought only in terms of land and regarded land surrendered to whites as a loan. Land was not regarded as property, but was something for the tribes, as tenants and trustees, to

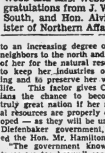
Direct Dialling On Long Distance Calls Coming

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Trends in the social climate challenge the ability of management, an employee relations expert told the Canadian Telephone Association today.

C. R. Armstrong of Montreal, assistant vice-president of employee relations for Bell Telephone Company, said the industrial manager of the future who is insensitive to factors at work in the social climate may make decisions causing irreparable damage."

"More people than ever before are looking over the shoulders of management and appraising their actions in relation to what they consider to be social good. Among the most important of these are politicians, bureaucrats and union leaders."

DIRECT DIALLING



Fred W. Davidson of Montreal, Bell's general accounting supervisor in charge of mechanization, predicted Wednesday that Ontario and Quebec telephone users will by 1963 be making 20 per cent of their long distance calls by direct dialling.

Telephone users in Toronto, Windsor and Guelph already are doing direct distance calls to many parts of Canada and the UNITE States, he said.

Next year, Montreal and Valleyfield in Quebec, Cornwall, Fort Erie, London, St. Thomas and Stratford in Ontario will be added to the direct dialling system.

Designers Back To One-Piece Bathing Suit

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters) — The one-piece bathing suit is the latest fashion in France.

French women, renowned individualists in the matter of dressing, have dropped scanty Bikini this season in favor of one - piece models. Jacques Heim showed only one Bikini in his beachwear collection, compared with 19 last year.

The prevailing French view is that it is more alluring to adopt a covered-up look. Heim and other Parisian couturiers are featuring sleek, one-piece lastex suits with wide shoulder straps and deep round or oval necklines plunging low at the back. Some models even have wide berths collars and short capped sleeves.

Sun colors and deeper seaweed shades are being shown. Broad awning stripes are popular, worked horizontally in graded widths across a purple and white satin lastex model. Madras cotton also are featured at Heim, draped symetrically in the manner of the Hawaiian sarong.

Tiktiner, a well - known manufacturer here, goes all out for the one-piece suit in his summer collection for French customers. But he emphasizes Bikinis in his more recent Miami collection destined for export to the United States in time for the mid-winter resort season.

The summer collection emphasizes a black and white theme. In a typical model made of striped toweling, black stripes are grouped on a white ground through the midriff of the figure-molding suit and matched in the lining of a solid-toned, white pique jacket.

Wigs also have gone to the beach this summer. Jacques Heim showed amusing raffia and straw wigs created by Alexandre, the hairdresser.

WEDDINGS

HICKSON — LOCKHART

Pink gladioli and white snapdragons adorned George Street United Church, Peterborough, on Saturday, June 20, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Patricia Margaret Lockhart, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Lockhart, was united in marriage to Stuart Hickson, also of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hickson. The Rev. Dr. Harry Hutchinson officiated.

The wedding music consisted of the "Wedding Hymn," and the "Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was radiantly lovely in a ballerina-length bridal gown of white chiffon over taffeta fashioned with a softly-draped fitted bodice and fully-boutfant skirt over many crinolines, a floral Ambing Sweetheart roses mingled with white stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Lorna Reid, of Peterborough, and the bridesmaid, Miss Clare Gillespie, also of Peterborough, were gowned alike in ballerina-length gowns of powder blue nylon chiffon over net and taffeta, fashioned with shirred bodices and cap sleeves. They wore powder blue picture hats, white gloves and shoes, and carried white baskets of white chrysanthemums, pink carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. Malcolm Hickson, of Lindsay attended the bridegroom while Mr. Vaughan Pague, and Mr. Morris Hill, both of Lindsay, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Empress Motor Hotel where the bride's mother received the guests. For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Lockhart chose a printed silk in royal blue, with white accessories and corsage of white and pink Pinocchio 'mums. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Vincent Hickson wearing light green dacron with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

For the wedding trip through the Laurentians, the bride donned a two piece powder-blue linen ensemble with shirred bodice and pencil-slim skirt, beige pictures hat with beige accessories.

Guests attended from Toronto; Oshawa; Lindsay; Peterborough; West Hamlingdon; Foxboro; Ida; Ormstown, and Brantford.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, at a shower given by Miss Clare Gillespie, and at a dinner given by the girls of the Bell Telephone Company at Camp Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickson will reside at 218 Carlisle Avenue, Peterborough.

YARDY — CRAIGHEAD

CAMPBELLFORD—The Rev. David Stiles of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Brighton, officiated at the double-ring wedding ceremony on Saturday, of Sarah Millicent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Craighead, Campbellford, to Harold Victor Yardy, son of Mrs. John Yardy and the late Mr. Yardy, Brighton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina-length gown of Swiss dotted organza with slipped-in bodice, rounded neckline delicately ruffled at the back with velvet streamers and emphasized with tiny puffed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with a wide trumpet pleat and narrow velvet ribbon. Her chantilly-lace circular veil was caught to a white velvet Juliet cap and she wore white wrist-length gloves.

Mrs. Ronald Evoy, sister of the bride, attended her, identically gowned in a gown of blush pink, and wearing a corsage of white carnations with a slight blue tint.

Mr. Jack Bellamy, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception was held later at Riviera Inn, Campbellford, where the bride's mother received in a powder blue American lace sheath with a matching duster, blue hat and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother also received in a medium blue lace sheath with matching duster, pink and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For a wedding trip to points east, the bride wore a blue sarnel dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Yardy will live at 336 Stewart St., Peterborough.

ON REPLYING TO PARTY INVITATION FROM FRIEND OR RELATIVE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A says that when a formal (third person) invitation to a church wedding and reception comes from a close relative or intimate friend, it is not at all necessary to write a formal reply — that you would simply tell or telephone the relative or friend and say whether or not you were coming to the reception. But B doesn't at all agree with this, insists that since the invitation is a formal one (that is, in the third person) a formal (third person) reply must be written and mailed. Who is right about this, A or B? (We have a bet on this!) — A and B

B is right. (I hope you're B!) Not only is it polite to "answer an invitation in kind" (that is, a formal reply to a formal invitation), but in this case it is most practical. For the hostess of a formal wedding and reception expects to have at hand all replies so that she can conveniently file the answers under either "acceptances" or "regrets," and then she can plan how many guests to provide for.

WHEN TO USE "R.S.V.P." ON INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to give a large buffet luncheon at our house at the beach on a Saturday soon. I am going to write notes of invitation, so I can enclose a map my husband has prepared with the how-to-get-there directions. Because of having to plan for foods and beverages, it is, of course, most important that we receive answers to the invitations. So would it be correct for me to write "R.s.v.p." at the end of my notes, under and to the left of my signature? — Hostess

No. "R.s.v.p." is correct to use only when the invitation is worded in the third person, as on visiting-card invitations. When you write a note of invitation and wish to ask for a reply, you add a sentence to the body of the note. For example, "We will be home looking forward most eagerly to hearing from you very soon that you can come to our party on Saturday, the first." Or, "Please do tell us soon, 'Yes, Bill and I will be there on Saturday, the first.'" Or, "Please do tell us you can come. That will be happy news!"

HILLIER W.I.

HILLIER SOUTH — The Hillier W.I. held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Boyle, Wellington, with an attendance of 16 members and eight visitors.

Due to the absence of Mrs: H. Weese, Mrs. T. A. Wannamaker presided and welcomed members and visitors and thanked the hostess for inviting the members for the June meeting.

Correspondence was read.

Mrs. Wannamaker called on Mrs. S. Foster to introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. Haig (Harriet Stevens). Everyone listened intently as a discourse of most interesting matters were related, bringing information about so many important reports and phases of work.

On behalf of the ladies, in showing their appreciation in a tangible way, Mrs. Jordan presented Mrs. Haig with a gift to commemorate this date, June 16th. Mrs. Boyle was also presented with a gift in recognition of the faithful services given to the W.I. group.

The bus trip of August 11 and 12 was mentioned and other matters arranged.

The group assisting Mrs. Boyle served a dainty lunch and a social time as enjoyed.

Raspberries and Cherries Make Good Jam

by Mary Moore

The mother of a family going camping this summer asks for a recipe for first-time campers and adds: "We will be gone for the entire cherry and raspberry season so our neighbors are going to pick and can ours and will give us half."

To some city dwellers like herders and youngsters, July means "School let out". To some mothers and fathers it means the kids will be away at camp and the house strangely quiet but empty.

To our reader it means raspberry and cherry time, albeit in absentia. Hundreds of Canadians have raspberry patches (and scratches!) and cherry trees that have been sprayed robin-proof. They eagerly save the surplus.

It is my joy to give you the standard methods of making jams and jellies to stock your pretty cellar shelves. Follow their directions carefully so that come winter you can proudly display the fruits of your labors without apprehension.

RASPBERRY JAM:

About 3 quarts ripe red raspberries — 4 cups when crushed, 6½ cups sugar, ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin.

Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts washed fully ripe raspberries. If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan, and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over high heat and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into jelly glasses which have been sterilized by boiling submerged in kettle of water 20 minutes. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

RASPBERRY AND RED CURRANT JAM:

1 pint box red currants (about 1¼ cups when crushed and stemmed), ¾ cup water, 8 cups washed raspberries; 3½ cups sugar. Wash and stem red currants. Crush slightly, add water and cook, covered, until currants are soft and mushy, about 10 minutes. Drain through a moist jelly bag. Combine raspberries, currant juice, sugar. Bring to boil and boil uncovered for 10 minutes. Add sugar, bring to boil and boil uncovered for 10 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses. Cool slightly and seal. Makes 6 eight-ounce glasses.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura M. — I hate Eva's hand-me-downs

Mrs. J. M. — She doesn't even look at them.

Laura M. — I am 15, going on 16, and I am having a terrible time with my mother because she thinks I should wear hand-me-downs.

My cousin Eva is a year older than I am and just about my size and her father has piles and piles of money. She has enough clothes to fill all the closets in our house. At the end of each season her mother just takes a load of these dresses and sends them over to me.

Well, Eva may have money, but, her taste is just awful! She wears clothes I wouldn't be caught dead in — crazy colors with stuff hanging all over. Eva has awful fits and tries to hide it by wearing all these doodads that distract from her face. But my mother is sure with these clothes and thinks I'm so lucky to be able to have them.

Mrs. J. M. — Laura is simply ridiculous on the subject of these clothes. All her cousin's dresses happen to be very expensive, in good taste and scarcely worn. Laura hardly looks at them, but she immediately starts screaming about her aunt sending her "all their old junk."

I can't afford to get Laura anything nearly as good as these clothes and my sister realizes this. She has always wanted to do things for Laura, but I won't let her buy expensive gifts and then Laura sends over all her "junk." They are so new they can't really be called hand-me-downs.

I feel that Laura is jealous of her cousin and this hurts. She prefers to wear the same sweater and skirt every day. She won't even try on these clothes, but gives them away to her friends.

The Council: Clothes are an extremely personal matter and we don't think any individual — no matter how young — should be forced to wear something he doesn't like.

The reasons for not liking the garment may seem silly or wrong, but this doesn't change the principle involved. Clothes, to all of us, are the extensions of our own bodies or personalities. For this extension we choose exactly what we want to show the outside world. We can't feel right if the extension doesn't please us.

In Laura's case, it is possible that she doesn't see the clothes objectively because of some jealousy of her cousin. A more secure and self-confident girl might be able to look at the clothes and evaluate them for what they are worth to her. But a girl who has doubts is likely to react strongly against hand-me-downs.

Forcing or urging a girl like Laura to wear clothes she can't like won't do her any good. It won't help give her any confidence and it won't help her overcome her jealousy of her cousin.

We think Mrs. J. M. should tell her sister to forget about the clothing or she should accept it and let Laura distribute it as she likes. The girl is much better off in the sweater and skirt she likes.

WOMAN MAYOR HOSTESS TO QUEEN — Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, 51-year-old mayor of New Westminster, B.C., will be the only woman mayor in British Columbia who will host in her own city to the Queen. British Columbia's other woman mayor, Mrs. Carrie Jane Gray of Prince George, will be presented in Kamloops. Mrs. Wood met the Queen when, as Princess Elizabeth she toured Canada in 1951. At that time she was a freshman alderman. (CP Photo).

Mayor of Westminster Was Freshman Alderman When Queen Visited in '51

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Wood was a freshman alderman here in 1951 when Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh visited British Columbia during a tour of Canada.

At the time, the Princess was heard to remark:

"What! You are the only woman alderman, Wel!"

Today, Mrs. Wood says she believes that Queen Elizabeth will be pleased on their next meeting —when the Queen and Prince Philip arrive here July 15.

Mrs. Wood, now mayor of New Westminster, is the only woman mayor in British Columbia who will be host in her own city to the Queen.

"I believe this is a unique position," Mrs. Wood said in an interview, "and I think the Queen will be pleased."

Mrs. Wood, 51-year-old mother of two who sat as an alderman for nine years, became mayor here last December, defeating Frederick (Toby) Jackson, who was mayor in 1951 when Elizabeth and Philip on their visit to the coast.

Today Mrs. Wood is one of two women mayors in B.C.—the other is Mrs. Carrie Jane Gray of Prince George who will be presented to the royal couple in Kamloops.

British Columbia's lieutenant-governor today is Hon. Frank M. Ross who succeeded Clarence Wallace in 1953. Premier Bennett was a backbencher in 1951, becoming head of the government the following year.

Only five present members of the 52-seat legislature were in the House in 1951 and Walter Hardman of Revelstoke is alone among the mayors of centres on the official tour list who still holds his office.

The Queen and her husband, however, will see a familiar face at the University of British Columbia. Dr. Norman MacKenzie, UBC president since 1944, was their host at a university visit in 1951.

Mrs. George Burkitt thanked the quartet and presented them with a donation.

A dainty luncheon was served with coffee and tea. A birthday cake made by Mrs. D. Wood and beautifully decorated and topped with candles was lit and presented to Mrs. Lawson who made a wish, blew out the candles and gracefully placed a piece in the cake.

A social time was enjoyed by all, and many more happy birthday wishes were expressed to Mrs. Lawson.

Sun-dappled lawns and fragrant breezes laden with the perfume of roses greeted the guests at "Alameda," spacious home of Mrs. George K. Graham Trent Road, for the dainty tea spon-sored by the two groups of St. Andrew's Guild, yesterday afternoon.

Inside the airy rooms were adorned with pink, white and wine-colored peonies; little containers of bright-faced pansies in all their manifold shades, graced the tables, with tall spikes of pink and white and yellow gladioli adding their complement to an already delightful setting.

The guests were received by Mrs. George K. Graham, Mrs. D. D. McLean, wife of the pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. R. G. McKay and Mrs. Gordon Robertson.

Mrs. Andrew Williamson received the fees, while Mrs. W. N. Poutos invited the guests to the tea room with its exquisite Georgian period furnishings, and blue-toned willow fernery filled with multi-colored Sweet Williams. The tea table was daintily appointed with a lovely, lace-edged, cutwork linen Madeira cloth, centred by an arrangement of orange blossoms and small red flowers in a pyramidal-type holder surrounded by silver containers of orange blossoms and flanked by tall red candles in silver holders.

The dainty lemon pumpkin, cherry and apple pies; short breads; taffy and cherry bars; chocolate drops; nut squares; two-bite little cream cup-cakes, and date and nut loaves, and coconut squares soon found eager purchasers, and were very well as good as they looked.

A delightful tea bringing appreciative comments, made more so by the graciousness of the hostess, Mrs. G. K. Graham.

ATOM POWER FOR INDIA — The steel-domed Canada-India atomic reactor and its 400-foot chimney near completion at Trombay, an island in the harbor at Bombay, India. Financed by Canada and India under the Colombo Plan, the $19,500,000 reactor is expected to go into operation by mid-1960.

India's Atomic Reactor Due To Open Next Year Showpiece Of Canada's Plan Projects

TROMBAY, India (CP) — The glistening steel dome of the Canada-India atomic reactor symbolizes India's quest for scientific progress.

The $19,500,000 reactor, due to go into operation in mid-1960, is the showpiece of Canada's Colombo plan projects in terms of international prestige. Its potential value to India as a research tool in implementing an extensive nuclear power program is far greater.

As industrial expansion is stepped up under India's five year plans, the country faces an acute shortage of conventional thermal and hydro - electric power. To meet the crisis, India has embarked on an experiment, unique among the under - developed nations of South Asia, to harness atomic energy.

ROLE OF REACTOR

In Bombay Dr. Homi J. Bhabha, chairman of the Indian Atomic Energy Commission, outlined the projected role of the Canada-India Reactor in a visionary program to build atomic power stations across the subcontinent.

"India must have atomic energy for power," said the 50-year-old physicist, president of the first Atoms-for-Peace conference in Geneva in 1955. "The Canadian reactor may accelerate our development program by perhaps two years."

Experiments in the Canada-India Reactor would help develop a prototype India-designed nuclear power reactor. CIR is also expected to meet most of the country's requirements for radio-isotopes and to serve as a research laboratory for India's young atomic scientists.

Dr. Bhabha said a proposal for 1,000,000 kilowatts of atomic power by the end of the third five-year plan in 1966 has been put to the planning commission. Construction of a 250,000-kilowatt atomic power station between Bombay and the textile centre of Ahmedabad would begin next year and would be in operation in 1964. A further two stations were planned for the Delhi and Madras regions.

MAJOR POWER SOURCE

By the 1980s atomic power would be the major source of all new power development as thermal and hydro resources diminished and it became uneconomical to transport coal hundreds of miles to industrial sites. A target of 10,000,000 kilowatts of atomic power was proposed for 1986.

Although India's nuclear development program is still in its infancy, it has made rapid strides. Most of the work is centred at Trombay, an island in Bombay harbor about 19 miles from the heart of the city.

Besides CIR, a small, Indian-built "swimming pool" research reactor, Apsara, is in operation at Trombay and another reactor, Zerlina, is under construction. Fuel for these reactors is to be produced at Trombay's thorium and uranium metal plants.

The Trombay site also includes India's first radio - chemistry laboratory for handling plutonium and fissionable materials; an electronics workshop, where women assemble geiger-counters with Indian - made components, and laboratories for studying the effects of radiation and fallout from nuclear weapon tests. An intensive program to train Indian nuclear scientists and technicians is also under way.

OUTSTANDING PROJECT

The most spectacular project is the Canada-India Reactor. Some 2,500 men and women, working three shifts, are engaged in its construction.

M.R. Prasad, the 31-year-old manager of the project, supervises construction and installation will be completed by next April.

"Our tempo is much faster now," he said. "We are happy with the progress we are making and hope to start testing pump systems, pipelines and power circuits this November."

Work began in 1956 on the CIR, a high-flux reactor modelled on Chalk River's NRX reactor, faithfully there were serious delays, caused partially by strained relations between the Indian and Canadian staffs, ascribed principally to the latter's inexperience of local conditions. The project was also hampered by shortages of skilled labor, particularly pipefitters, and slow delivery of building materials.

PROBLEMS OVERCOME

Most of the snags have been ironed out. Today the reactor's steel shell is nearly complete and awaits its bronze coating. A 3,200-foot jetty, recently completed, will pipe water from the Arabian Sea to cool the reactor and a 400-foot chimney to disperse radioactive gases is going up at the rate of six feet a day.

The CIR project is jointly financed by Canada and India. But while costs of Canadian capital equipment have been held close to the original $5,000,000 estimate, the total budget has risen from $14,000,000 to $19,500,000. Construction is supervised by the Shawinigan Engineering Company and installation work is in the hands of the Foundation Company of Canada.

The Canadian government is represented by Dave Wallace of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, who acts as liaison officer with the Indian engineers. Comparable CIR with the NRX reactor at Chalk River, he said:

"From technical aspects, CIR will be one of the best reactors in the world for experimental purposes. Ten years' experience and knowledge accumulated at Chalk River is going into this project."

Canadians will also assist in the testing and running of the reactor for the first four to six months.

At present, Canadian personnel at Trombay number about 30. They live at hotels and quarters in Bombay, many of them with their families, and commute to work six days a week.

Even before its completion, the project has had many distinguished visitors, among them Prince Philip, Indian President Dr. Rajendra Prasad and Canadian Finance Minister Donald Fleming. At least once a year it is also inspected by Prime Minister Nehru in personal charge of India's atomic energy program, who said:

"This close collaboration in a highly complicated field between the scientists and engineers of two countries geographically as far removed as Canada and India has become a symbol of the manner in which the world has shrunk through modern technology."

Fashion Model Elaine Bedard

Tops in Her Trade

Canada's highest paid model, whose picture has appeared in fashionable magazines throughout Canada, the United States and Europe, petite Montrealer Elaine Bedard, has made a successful career in a profession which each year attracts more and more young Canadians to try their luck at fame and fortune in the exotic world of haute couture.

Good health is as important as good looks and Elaine keeps herself in trim with her favourite sport—horse back riding. Miss Bedard appears frequently on Canadian television programs both as a model and as an actress.

Canada's top fashion model, Elaine Bedard demands and gets up to $50 an hour for her modelling services. Much of her wardrobe is designed by Canadian couturiers although she purchases originals from Paris and Rome. Plans for the forthcoming season include a fashion show in Japan. National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Elaine's delicate features and slim silhouette make her a favourite with Canada's top commercial photographers. In addition she possesses that indefinable and elusive quality known to the trade as "flair", without which no model can make her way to the top.

A career as strenuous as it is glamorous, the work-day of a successful model would make the training schedule of many an athlete look like a stately minuet. Elaine Bedard is often called upon to do 3 or 4 fashion shows in a day, n. The ability to look cool and composed under immense pressure is a prerequisite.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1959

Poet Laureate, John Masefield, Hails Royal Visit to Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—The voice of John Masefield, 81-year-old poet laureate, hailed the Royal visit today in a poem broadcast before the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The 96 - line poem, commissioned by the CBC and entitled "Lines by John Masefield on the occasion of Her Majesty's visit to Canada, 1959," was recorded by the poet laureate in England. It reads:

"The greatest single land under the sun.
The planet's greatest hope," her friends believe,
Here, those, who once were foemen, have begun
A building that others must achieve.
So short a time ago, her vastness lay
Uncharted, nearly peopled, all unploughed.
Her ice untrodden in the Arctic bay,
Her unhewn forests gleaming like a cloud.
Her mountains like a wall, the lakes like seas,
The rivers in their fury and their foam.
Her people, warriors, gliding among trees,
Men's scalps their prizes, huts their only home.

Her Voice, the avalanche, or water falling,
Or, in the mooned night, the wolf-packs calling.

So, recently, her undiscovered vast
Endured the passing of the hunter's extremes.
The migrant geese and bison came and passed.
Frost strangled, and the sun released, the streams.
The ashes of a few campfires at most
Were all the written history of her men.
The rushes of her Winter had no ghost,
The marvel of her Autumn moved no pen.
Her people, warriors, gliding among trees,
Her changing weather swung no weather-cock.
Her Spring-time brought no plough across the whins,
Her unsailed waters lapped unknown shores.

Her voiceless vast no human language spoke,
The glaciers spilt, the frozen branches broke.

The green leaves yellowed in un-numbered years,
Her torrents thundered from forgotten snow,
But change impended still in pioneers,
As Earth tells time a little while ago.
Then, after struggle, battle and anony,
From Nature's strength to develop in man,
The vastness was the scene of new employ,
The chaos ceased and Canada arose.
Her chaos made the enemies unite
In effort for her worthy of their stocks;
Her untamed elements were theirs to smile,
The forests and the rapids and the rocks.

The jungle to annul, the spires to raise,
A century's sleepless nights and weary days.

Today, this Nation offers to mankind
This moment, when the passion in old foes
Is blest and sublimated and combined
To give Man's unexpended best to man known.
She opens up a pathway to the sea
From inmost harbours, making wide the gates,
This, but a foretaste of the works to be;
Promise of happy change that Man awaits.
Does not this forfeit a hideous time
When men will work together with a will,
Not blasting Earth with every devilish crime,
That dreflry can prompt or hate instil?

Is not a Hope for Man here budding green?
Who would not help it under such a Queen?

Over this way will come the hosts unknown,
Canada has to be, by wise strong hands
The mighty realm will come into her own
Queen of the North, the wonder of all lands.
The marshes and the mountains crossed by roads;
The summer pests of insects made to cease;
The statehood prize gained with the heads
Of the great; soils incredible increase.
The torrents making light; the riven rock
Yielding its treasure and its strength to man.
Above, beside the rapid, the ship's lock;
Across the cataract, the bridge's span.

And in Man's thought, already, the device
The dreamed-of Key, the conquest of the ice.

All Man's imagined good awaits the will.
His Paradises are his will there-to,
What is man's spirit dream, he can fulfil.
What he alone dreams he alone can do.
What one man does another will attempt,
Another, better, and the many share;
And Canada, the Splendid, the dream dreamt,
Will be the Star, your birthright everywhere.
For, in the toil that never seems to end,
When all is spent and hopeless in strife striven,
Man's earth-will meets his unlikely Friend,
The boiling on the iron door is riven.

The light is flung that never yet made blind
The world's new way, salvation to mankind.

Here a path opens to a world not ours,
Not ours, as yet, but Nature's in her strength.
Here a field opens to a Nation's powers,
Here a Hope opens into breath and length.
And She, our Consecrated Queen, Whose hand
Sets open here this continental gate,
By Her, unseen, the travel-labours stand,
By Her, all Beauty, Power and Order wait.
She, here, the Radiant Symbol of the Mind,
Divinely guided hither, as elsewhere,
Shows divine purpose to these lands and seas,
Her hand placed where starry guides prepare ...

Prepare that Order, Power and Beauty be

Adenauer Shows Inconsistency Completely Foreign to Character

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A question that occurs to every-one-a-traveller, and his wallet one, but that nobody likes to ask outright, is one of the many imponderables in Germany's solid-fnb-bowl political crisis.

Is Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, at 83, finally beginning to show signs of age? Is he losing his political touch?

It is a delicate point on which few would venture a dogmatic reply.

From the evidence available it is possible to argue that Adenauer, in his apparently impulsive decision to merge the chancellorship to the presidency and later to his surprising reversal of that choice, showed an inconsistency completely foreign to his character.

Other eyebrow-raising factors are Adenauer's open criticisms of economics minister Ludwig Erhard, the man who hoped to be Adenauer and Erhard—now apparently patched up for the time being—note that some German observers, including independent newspapers, are asking whether the chancellor is losing his grip.

WARPED JUDGMENT

Terence Prittie, in the Manchester Guardian, says one comment in Bonn is that age and exactness of temper have "begun to warp" the chancellor's judgment. Sebastian Haffner, writing in The Observer, says cautiously the point may not have been reached when Adenauer's own party will be ready to recriticize past, namely Adenauer, for his inconsistency and ignore "any discomfort caused to individuals."

Other correspondents close to the heart of the struggle between Adenauer's personal capacities at 83."

Le Gros Bill, Sam the Rifle Find Prince Philip Knows Much About Their Activities

MONTREAL (CP)—A slightly scarred royal yacht brought a lightly tanned royal couple to Canada's giddy island metropolis Wednesday night.

The Queen and Prince Philip stuck to their help and timed with 47 guests including a husky hockey player and a Canadian football quarterback from New Mexico.

Mayor Sarto Fourier visited the Queen at 6 p.m. for seven minutes and then arrived at 8 p.m. for dinner. Among the guests were a Roman Catholic Cardinal, an Anglican bishop, a Jewish rabbi, a university chancellor and a university rector, an ex-politician, a labor leader, several business men and others.

With them also were big Jean Beliveau, all-star centre with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, and Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, quarterback of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

Both were impressed with the prince's knowledge of their particular sports.

"He told me hockey was a lot like polo," said Beliveau, "and he asked me all about the difference between amateur and professional hockey. I think they're more used to amateur hockey over here."

Etcheverry admitted his tuxedo was rented, "but my wife bought the three week trip to Mexico trying to decide what kind of dress to buy."

He said the prince asked him what position he played and when he replied "quarterback," the prince said, "Oh, then you like to throw the ball."

"I guess he doesn't know I don't do much running," said Etcheverry, who much prefers passing.

Mayor Fournier, who sat at the Queen's right during the dinner, described Elizabeth as French as "elegant" and her eyes as "heaven blue."

Sliding around a U-shaped table, which had as a centre-piece a silver bowl given the Queen as a wedding present by the people of Canada in 1947, the guests ate oysters claire au sherry, duchesse de burbot St. Laurent, filet de boeuf charon, choux de bruxelles au beurre, pommes Laurent, salad, rocher de glace, bananas and biscuits.

While they ate, pleasure craft swooped close by the royal yacht and several hundred spectators kept a vigil at the wire fence at the foot of the pier, several hundred yards from the Britannia.

ISLAND TOUR TODAY

Today the royal visitors are to see another part of the island, travelling through the historic old parts in the morning, meeting children at a ball park, driving on an over-the-mountain road.

Later they will attend a civic luncheon and in the evening go to a civic banquet and ball.

On Friday, the Queen and President Eisenhower meet to inaugurate the St. Lawrence Seaway before the Queen travels up the new water highway to the inland lakes.

Eastbound Tourist Traffic Taking up Slack of Ocean Europe to Canada Travel

LONDON (CP) — Canadian tourists flocking to Europe this summer in record numbers are travelling at the right time for transatlantic shipping companies.

University students, business executives and elderly couples bound for the London-Paris-Rome circuit, are partly making up for a slump in ocean travel from Europe to Canada.

In the post-war "battle of the Atlantic," shipping lines based their expansion plans on the expectation of a British emigration boom. The slogan was Westward Ho! How the tide of emigration has eased and eastbound tourist traffic is taking up some of the slack.

"It's too early to say definitely, but this could be our best year for eastbound traffic," said a spokesman for Atlantic shipping groups.

Egone Rudmann of Graz, Italy, staff captain on the liner Homeric, said the decline in the British emigration boom has meant a considerable loss for home lines in westbound passengers.

A reporter, travelling on the Homeric's 53rd eastbound crossing, found that university students from Toronto and Montreal, holiday-bound for Europe, made up the biggest group among the 1,000-odd passengers. Most seemed to relish the sentimental atmosphere aboard the 26,000-ton reconditioned liner.

"It's a wonderful preparation for the continent," said Alex Bible of Montreal, a Devon-born Canadian on his way to a three-week holiday at the home of his uncle at Weston-Pinn. His companions at deck tennis, George Wilson of Toronto and two University of Montreal students, Lise Prevost and Helene Boissonnault, nodded agreement.

Older passengers included Pakistan-bound Tom Wise, formerly of Edmonton, one of the first breed of industrial economists seeking to discover the best way to enable under-developed countries to become developed countries. Vancouver lumber broker F. W. Tucker Battle, winner of the masquerade ball, in a homeward guest's outfit; Toronto advertising executive A. McDonald Robertson, twice a bingo winner at odds of 24 to 1; newlyweds Dr. Jean Francoeur and his wife, both of Quebec City, headed for a European honeymoon, and pretty Nadia Pavlychenko, a McGill University graduate from Saskatoon, whose devastating Charleston appeared close to professional standard.

Life aboard ship could be pretty hectic, with blonde hostess Lucienne van Overloop of Antwerp gently goading passengers into Apache dances. But for those who found the dance-to-dawn call irresistible, there was always the afternoon to relax next day on the sun-deck.

Anglican Church in Canada Will Get Revised Book of Common Prayer Late in 1962

TORONTO (CP) — A revised Book of Common Prayer may come into use in the Anglican Church of Canada late in 1962, if alterations have been made that would imply any change in doctrine.

After 18 years of intensive study, a draft prayer book has been completed for submission to the general synod of the church which meets at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Sept. 1-8. If adopted, the book must await confirmation by the 1962 general synod before coming into general use.

In the meantime, 3,000 copies of the draft book have been published for study by Anglican lay persons.

The object of the proposed revision, the first since 1918, is to "set forth an order which the people may use with understanding and which is agreeable with Holy Scripture and with the usage of the primitive church."

QUICKLY OBVIOUS

For the man in the pew the most noticeable change will be those in the services of morning prayer and evening prayer and holy communion. In the main these have been made for the sake of clarity and brevity and reticence.

But revisions are general throughout the book. Church leaders have referred to them as conservative.

In a radio address last year Bishop Howard H. Clark of Edmonton said: "It is interesting to notice that the bishops at Lambeth suggest all the chief changes that may be found in our draft prayer book—indeed the Lambeth conference (1958) was more radical than our committee in Canada; and suggested some changes that we hesitated to introduce."

A new table of lessons for morning and evening prayer, virtually the same as the new one in use in the Church of England, is provided. The psalter, presented in a revised translation at the 1955 general synod, has been further changed with the help of a committee of church musicians. Changes have also been made in the services for the baptismal and burial services from the prayer book of the Church of England in 1939.

The rubric-directions for the conduct of services — have been thoroughly modernized. Students of the revised book will miss the quaint archaisms with which old rubrics are studded.

"DECENT BASON" OUT

For instance, the parish is no longer required to provide a "decent bason" for the collection. Nor the echo of Victorianism urging Anglicans to bring not only their children but also "servants and apprentices" for instruction in the catechism has disappeared.

The new draft book replaces that submitted to the 1955 general synod held in Edmonton. While it met with general approval it was referred back for correction and revision.

Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec and acting primate, is chairman of the revision committee of 25 which has major responsibility for the work of revision.

More than 3,000 letters containing suggestions and criticisms have been received and considered. There are 1,500,000 Anglicans listed on Canadian parish rolls.

DESERONTO

Members of Parliament Give Views on Bridge at Meeting

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the Lake Ontario Development Association was in the form of a dinner meeting at the Tyrone Motel on Thursday night. The guest at the head table included: Mayor Burnett of Deseronto; Charles Rollins M.P.P. for East Hastings; N. Whitney, M.P.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox; Les Grills M.P. for South Hastings; Clarence Milligan M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox; Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton; Mayor Sweetman of Descronto; J. Yanovec; Tim Turnbull and Ald. Jack Ireland of Belleville who acted as chairman.

After Mayor Sweetman welcomed the guests, the meeting seemed to turn to a discussion of the long-talked-of bridge between Prince Edward and Hastings counties across the Bay of Quinte.

Mayor Burnett of Cobourg, however, spoke of the progress of The Lake Ontario Development Association and said that it had come a long way since it was organized four years ago. Mr. Kingdon in his report said the membership had increased from 37 in 1955 to 46 this year. Through the efforts of the Association the Aluminum Co. have located in Lindsay and another industry has begun construction in the district. There have been 3,700 inquiries from people who intend to visit this locality this year.

After his introduction to the gathering by D. Dawson of Deseronto, Mayor McFarland of Picton said that there should be some results concerning the causeway because Hastings and Prince Edward ridings both have Conservative members and there are Conservative governments at both Toronto and Ottawa. He advised that there is an industry ready to locate in Prince Edward county if the bridge is built and this industry would spend twenty million on construction. The reason they want the bridge is because they would need the labor forces from Hastings as well as Prince Edward. Mayor McFarland said that it is just as important to have a new bridge here as at the Soo, where Mr. Frost promised one during the election. He also said that the usual practice is to promise the bridge before the election and forget about it afterward. His contention was that for very little more than is spent on unemployment in the coming winter the bridge could be built and keep the men at work. He closed with the statement that we want the bridge now and not another promised.

Les Grills, M.P. for South Hastings, was introduced by Sid Brown of the local Conservative Association. He claimed that Harvey McFarland was not using a whip he was using a club on the elected members. He advised that he had not made any promises on the bridge question and was not here to win votes. He agreed that the bridge was a worthwhile project, but asked the crowd not to expect the four members present to do it all because it was public money that would be spent. He said the matter should be a provincial matter because it would be a highway artery and would have to be maintained by the provincial government. He has discussed the matter with both the Department of Public Works and the Department of Transport and could assure 100 percent co-operation from the Federal Government. He said if the community did not get it to come back and tell him, but in the meantime to keep the pressure on.

AT ONE TIME ASSURED

Norris Whitney, M.P.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox, told the gathering that the bridge was assured under the U.F.O. government but because a Picton delegation travelled to Toronto to protest, the matter was forgotten. He said he had the assurance of the provincial government until the federal government demanded a 300-foot swing span. Those requirements are now changed to a 100-foot swing span. He asserted that the provincial, Minister of Highways had an independent firm make a survey sost last winter. The minister stated that he does feel that a causeway is justified and will come. Mr. Whitney felt the difficulty was to prove the necessity for a bridge as it was not necessarily a political matter.

Mr. Clark Rollins, newly-elected M.P.P. for East Hastings, said that there must be complete harmony between the two counties. He intimated that the lifting of restrictions regarding the swing span shows there is definite interest in the causeway but he is in no position to say what could be done. He affirmed that he had not promised the people of Deseronto anything but to work to the best of his ability. He felt that the possibility of another new mine in the township of Madoc would have a bearing on the subject under discussion.

ONLY SERVANTS

Clarence Milligan, M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox, said that he and the others were only elected as servants of the people and could only accomplish those things the people wanted done. He said, "I have very little to say because I want to know what the people are thinking." The first move is to decide where the bridge is to be built and the type of bridge to be built. He felt that the sites at Cole's Ferry, Glenora and even the bridge at Belleville should be considered because it was to the interest of the whole community and not just one section.

Following the politicians Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton vehemently advised that he would like to have permission to raise the money to build a toll bridge. He said, "If the government will build an access to Highway 401 I will raise the money to build the bridge."

The meeting then unanimously passed a motion that Zone 3 of the Lake Ontario Development Association approve this causeway and that the resolution be forwarded to the other zones for their endorsement and the county councils concerned.

Clayton Metcalfe of Deseronto, moved that the causeway be built from Green Point to the Deseronto shore. He advised the members of parliamenta that they had asked for support and they definitely had it. "What else do you need?" he asked them.

Norris Whitney then advised the meeting that the cost of a bridge at Glenora was too high and the investigation showed that there was only one suitable location, which was at Deseronto. He felt that such a causeway would eventually lead to a bridge at Glenora.

Mr. Grills then introduced the problem of dredging at Telegraph Light and Mr. Milligan said the department will bear part of the cost of the dredging. Here Mayor McFarland suggested that the Department could do the dredging and use the rock removed for the causeway thus saving considerable.

George Marcels of the Tyendinaga Indian Council, also spoke briefly, and said the bridge was badly needed.

Record Field May Leave Post In Historic Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP)—The luck of the post position draw may play an all-too-important part in next Tuesday's 100th running of the Queen's Plate, historic horse racing classic for Canadian three-year-olds.

The three divisions of the Plate Trials were run off Wednesday before a big crowd at Woodbine but there still remains a possibility that the largest field ever will parade postward for the $75,000 stakes.

Thirty entries raced in the Plate Trials. The second was won easily by Winning Shot in 2:08 4-5 for the 1 1-16 miles.

NEAR RECORD

The time was four-fifths of a second behind the track record and two-fifths faster than the winners of the other two divi-sions, stamping John S. Evans' thoroughbred as overwhelming favorite.

The eligibility deadline passes this weekend. Owners who intend parading their silks before Queen Elizabeth will have to pay a final $200 with their entry.

The largest previous field was 22 in 1933. Observers say the possible field of 24 could be handled as the stretch is the widest on the continent.

Other favored horses are Conn Smythe's Major Flight and Mrs. R. S. Chris' Theo Geo, winners of the other two Plate Trial divisions.

Several famed jockeys will not be riding in the Plate.

Johnny Longden was to have ridden Activer but his 10-day suspension in the U.S. is honored by

Angler Claims World Record For Sharks

MONTAUK, N.Y. (AP)—A world record was claimed Wednesday when an angler caught a 189 - pound blue shark on a 39-pound test line.

James French Baldwin of Locust Valley, N.Y., landed the fish from a boat after a battle of one h.ur and 40 minutes. The fish measured eight feet, 11 inches.

Willie Shoemaker, Howard Grant, Bill Hartack, Robert Ussery, Chris Rogers and Eddie Arcaro are expected to ride.

Arcaro to ride as E. P. Taylor horse again.

Though he suffered a concussion two weeks ago in a spill, he rase after a fishing trip at Smiths Falls Wednesday night:

"I'm in as good shape as I could be."

On the Tracks

BOSTON (AP)—Air Pilot won the $75,000 Massachusetts Handicap—New England's richest race—Wednesday when a foul claim by Jockey Johnny Leonard was upheld by the Suffolk Downs stewards.

Leonard claimed Henry Moreno on Day Court grabbed him on the leg as they passed the one-sixteenth pole early in the race. After studying films of the 1¼-mile race, the stewards agreed Air Pilot had been fouled.

Day Court, a 15-to-1 shot, finished first by a neck but was placed second. Bald Eagle was third.

Air Pilot returned $14.40, 7.20 and $5.00. Day Court paid $12.40 and $8.00, and Bald Eagle $6.60. The time was 2:02 2-5.

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Ussery became the wunderest jockey of the New York season as he drove Jchn M. Schiff's Bell Hop to a track record in capturing the $29,400 Bowling Green Handicap at Belmont Park Wednesday.

Bell Hop was timed in 2:14 3-5 for the mile and three furlongs, cutting four-fifths off the record set by Andrew Alan Oct. 16, 1958.

It was the fourth winner of the day for Ussery and gave him 32 for the season, one more than Eddie Arcaro who hasn't ridden since his painful spill on Black Hills in the Belmont Stakes.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Defending champion Moe Norman of Kitchener shot a seven-under-par 64 Wednesday at the St. Catharines Golf Club in a practice round for the Ontario Open. He was just one stroke off the course record set in 1955 by Bill Kosak of St. Catharines. Earlier, Mrs. Muriel Harper of St. Catharines shot a hole-in-one on the 130-yard par-three 15th hole, using a No. 4 iron.

Haddix Taking Bumps After Record Effort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Harvey Haddix has been taking his lumps lately. But those 12 innings of perfect baseball he pitched against Milwaukee aren't to blame.

"That was just another ball game," the little Pittsburgh lefty declared Wednesday. "The only effect it had was to bring on some ribbing from the guys."

The unequalled feat occurred May 26 in a game Haddix lost in the 13th, 1-0.

His next time out, June 2, he shut out the Cardinals 3-0 on eight hits.

Then the trouble began.

Chicago beat him 4-2 June 7. He was shelled in Los Angeles June 12 but didn't figure in the decision, and lost June 17, again to the Cubs, 5-2. Last Sunday, the Cardinals beat him 5-1. Hafey gave up seven hits, three of them homers.

Though his record is 4 - 6, Haddix' earned run average is a respectable 2.97. The Cubs beat him four times.

What's behind the losses?

"Nothing," the 23 - year - old southpaw said. "There's no reason. I'm not doing a thing different. I just got bombed in St. Louis, and lost a couple of tough ones in Chicago."

Two crucial errors helped beat him in the June 7 game. And you don't have to be a mathematician to note he only got five Pirate runs in those three losses.

Durelle Sharper Than Before Says Sharkey

MONTREAL (CP)—Yvon Durelle, sharpening up for his boxing crack at Archie Moore's light-heavyweight boxing title, boxed five rounds Wednesday night with three heavyweights.

The hulking fisherman, who arrived here Tuesday, floored Montreal heavyweight Benito Favoto three times in the first round and referee Jack Sharkey stopped the bout.

He knocked down Leslie Bourdon, an other Montreal heavy, three times over two rounds and went two more rounds with his sparring partner Larry Zerulis of New York.

The bouts took place in Montreal Forum where Durelle is to meet Moore July 15 for the world title. Moore, decked three times in the first round of their meeting in December, knocked out Durelle in the 11th.

"Durelle is a much sharper, much more polished performer than in his last fight against Moore," referee Sharkey said Wednesday night. "He isn't using those round house swings any more. He's punching straight."

Royals, Aces File Entry to American League

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The American Hockey League has received formal applications for franchises from Montreal Royals and Quebec Aces.

The league board of governors, which opened its annual meeting here Wednesday, is expected to decide on the application today or Friday, secretary - treasurer James Ellery said.

The board re-elected officers for another one-year term. Chairman is John B. Sollenberger, Hershey; president, Richard F. Canning, Providence, R.I.; vice-presidents, John D. Chick, Windsor, and C. H. Day, St. Thomas, and secretary-treasurer, Ellery.

Western League To Operate as Lone Circuit

CALGARY (CP) — The seven-team Western Hockey League voted Wednesday to abolish its prairie and coast divisions and operate as a single circuit.

League president Al Leader announced after a meeting of league directors that agreement had been reached on a 70-game schedule.

Directors temporarily gave up their search for a referee-in-chief. Leading candidate for post, Red Storey, former National Hockey League official, informed the WHL that business pressure prevented him from accepting the league's offer.

BIG DOUBLE

STANTON, Del. (AP) — The daily double at Delaware Park paid $2,020.80 for $2 Wednesday. Fifty-six $2 tickets and one for $10 were sold. Mr. Brown ($71.20) and Miss Cullen ($36) paired for the payoff, highest of the current meeting.

Harness Racing

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Jerry McGregor, owned by John Barron of Brantford, paced the fastest mile of the day in winning the first heat for non-winners of $2,500 as the New Hamburg Turf Association experimented with a one harness race meet Wednesday. The time was 2:10.

McGregor also won the second heat.

The class for non-winners of $700 saw two heat winners. Imperial Lee, owned by the H and B Stables of Norwich, won the first heat and Lexie Herbert, owned by James Lampman of St. Catharines, won the second.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Harmony Hy, a three-year-old filly long shot from Petrolia, which paid $88.40 in winning its qualifying heat Wednesday night, will wind up one of the favorites in the running of the Madawaska Mile Saturday, the season's $7,810 feature at Connaught Park harness track.

Hy 2:12 1-5 time was the best mile run in six qualifying races. Harmony Hy is owned by John Merthy and was driven by Cecil Stone.

Another favorite will be Les's Lod, who won his heat in 2:12 3-5. He is owned by Wesley and John Scheel of Arnprior.

Dr. John Findley drove Blue Volo, a six-year-old first-time starter from Pembroke, which placed in trot heat behind Prince George, a four - year - old newcomer from Kingston, whose time was 2:24.

Other qualifiers include Single C., owned and driven by Clint Gordon of Oshawa; Rapid Fire, owned and driven by Curt Baker of Iroquois; and T.E.M. owned by T.D.F. Stables, Pembroke.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—James F. Hitchcock, all-American halfback at Auburn in the early '20s and member of the Alabama Public Service Commission, died Wednesday following a heart attack. He would have been 48 next Sunday.

Ninth-Inning 3-Run Basecleaner Gives Point 4-2 Win Over Trenton

BY GARRY ALEXANDER

Jack Elliott Jr.'s three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth gave the Point Anne Cementmen a 4-3 victory over Trenton Garretts in a B. and D. softball tilt this night that saw the Cementmen nearly give the game away half an inning earlier.

Al Carkner on the Oz-Point mound, carried a 1-0 lead into the top of the last frame only to trail 3-1 minutes later on his own mistakes. Austin beat out an infield single to open the ninth but Mitts popped out and pinch-hitter Howard Cole went down swinging.

LeRoy Wannamaker popped one up halfway between first and home. First baseman Chuck Kingston came in for the ball but Carkner tried for it too and farred it out of Kingston's hands. Seconds later Don Cole singled the tying run home and Carkner's error on Smiths' infield ball made it 3-1 for Trenton.

But the Cementmen roared right back in their half with three runs after one was out. Batsbeior hit safely and Green singled to right with Austin's overthrow giving the runners second and third. An argument took place as to how far the runners could advance with Mike Whalen ejecting Dave Jones in the heat of verbal battle. Elliott stood at the batter's box and Carkner gave up five hits to collect his third victory. He fanned three and walked a pair. Ron Wannamaker went the distance for the losers, giving up eight hits, whiffing two and passing one. Both clubs had a double play.

Trenton had a good scoring chance in the first when Alexander doubled. Drake sacrificed Austin was hit hard in the fifth with a pitch and Mallett walked. Carkner bore down, however to snap the next two batters and strand all three runners. Austin played the remainder of the game despite a badly bruised cheek bone.

The Cementmen took their 2-0 lead in the third on Goyer's towering triple and Dave Jones' shot single to left field. That concluded the scoring until the wild and exciting ninth, both Pt. Anne ABR H Po A E

Fans, Players Stage Brawl at Softball Game

TIMMINS (CP)—A 15 - minute brawl involving both fans and players erupted Wednesday in a Timmins fastball game between the Schumacher and Moneta teams.

Sparked in the eighth inning when Duke Kolacz of the Moneta's, who had popped up near the plate, bumped pitcher Luke Lefevre as he was about to make the catch, the riot spread until players from both teams and about 25 fans were milling around.

First of an estimated 12 separate fights began between Duke Lacz and Greg Hicks of the Schumachers at first base. Hicks, when playing for the Chicoutimi Seagulls last year, was voted the most gentlemanly player in the Quebec Hockey League.

The score was tied 7-7 at the time of the uprising, but in the blow of the Schumacher team hit a two-run homer for the victory.

clubs playing errorless ball until then.

No batter on either side had more than one hit. Elliott's homer and Gary Goyer's triple were Point Anne's extra-base clown. Singles went to Dave Batsbeior, Pete Green, Doug Sousa and Carkner.

Doug Alexander doubled for Trenton while the other safeties were one-baggers by Roger Drake, Guy Austin, LeRoy Wannamaker and Gary Goyer's triple.

The victory gave Point Anne a .500 for the first time since the opening week of the schedule. They have a five-and-five record. Trenton has won two and dropped nine.

Krishnan, Olmedo Meet Again In Wimbledon Third Round

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—Ramathan Krishnan and Alex Olmedo meet again today—this time in the honored centre court at Wimbledon—and the lanky No. 1 player from India will be out to prove that his easy victory over them a week ago was no fluke.

The third - round match was squeezed into a schedule including some 30 second-round pairings postponed from Wednesday when rain wrecked the intricate two-week playing table of the All-England Lawn Tennis Club championships.

A victory for Krishnan would mark the major upset of the tournament that started Monday and winds up July 4.

UNSEEDED

Krishnan, unseeded at Wimbledon, defeated the top-seeded Olmedo in London last week for the Queen's Club championship. Olmedo, a Peruvian, is the man who almost stole even the Davis Cup for the United States in Australia last December.

They've got nothing left to lose," the Indian Davis Cupper said. "I'm going for everything and I might beat Olmedo."

There have been two upsets in date, one of them between showers Wednesday when Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, twice Wimbledon finalist and seeded seventh, beat 10-8, 6-4, 7-5 No. 8 Ian Lavery of Australia in the second round.

The other came in the first round Monday when Earl Buchholz Jr. of the U.S. eliminated Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli (No. 5) despite a strained stomach muscle.

BRIGHT PROSPECT

Buchholz, at 18 one of his country's brightest prospects, also survived the second round by defeating Gordon Forbes of South Africa 3-6, 7-5, 12-6, 11-9.

Biblical Epic Shattered By Death of Tyrone Power

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — King Vidor is back from directing the toughest film of his long and colorful career—a biblical epic shattered by the death of Tyrone Power.

Vidor, director of such films as The Big Parade, Northwest Passage and War and Peace, has returned briefly to the Hollywood home he has seldom seen in recent years. The reason is that he has gained a reputation of being able to film epics overseas.

None of his many movies was as difficult as Solomon and Sheba, to which he now is adding the final touches.

"We had established a point of no return, when we would be unable to finish the location scenes in Spain because of bad weather," he recalled. "That was Nov. 12. We had two months of exteriors to film, so that meant we had to start Sept. 15.

"We were right on schedule and had just about finished the extension. Then on Nov. 15, Ty died."

WANTED ALL TRICKS

The director said that his first reaction concerning the film was to use all his film-making tricks —employing doubles, playing the closeups on co-star Gina Lollobrigida, using shadows, and so on.

"I could have done it if we had shot the film in reverse," he said. "But we had left all the love scenes and intimate stuff for the last."

Yul Brynner was signed to replace Power and the company resumed filming after a week's delay. Except for a few extreme longshots, none of Ty's footage remains in the picture.

Vidor said that the script was changed little with Brynner's advent, but the interpretations were widely divergent.

"Ty was more introspective, more sensitive; he was more convincing in the intimate scenes," the director said. "Brynner is the character he played in The King and I. Again he was playing a king, and he was more convincing in the scenes where he commanded troops."

Galt to Play In Senior 'A'

GALT (CP)—Galt hockey officials have completed plans for the city to return to Ontario Hockey Association play in the 1959-60 season with a Senior A club, it was announced Wednesday night.

Dr. Eric Berkeley, president of Galt Terriers of the Inter-County Baseball League senior series in 1956, was elected president of the yet-unnamed hockey team.

Officials plan a competition this summer to determine a name for the new Galt entry.

Club general manager is arena manager Les Gaudette. No coach has been named.

Three More TV Stars Leave Screen for Summer Recess

By CYNTHIA LOWERY

NEW YORK (AP)—Three more hard-working television stars are leaving the screen for their summer vacation.

Pat Boone, with Mitzy the Good Lord bless and Keep You on his lips winds up his season tonight immediately followed, on another network, by Tennessee Ernie Ford. Garry Moore still has almost another week to go, but his Tuesday night show ship will suspend too.

Ford's time will be filled by a new flat's right, new-dramatic series called St. Beacon Street, starring Dennis Morgan, who also happens to be one of Ernie's guests tonight. Moore's departure means the arrival of singer Andy Williams, who has been making something of a career out of summertime TV shows.

And Pat Boone's time — last year filled by Andy Williams—this summer goes to reruns of last winter's Leave It to Beaver series.

Some viewers may feel that there are more repeats and reruns this summer than ever before but actually the situation seems a shade better than last season.

Still, you have to keep a steady hand on the channel selector if you want to steer clear of familiar sights.

During the so - called prime viewing hours from 8 p.m. through 10 p.m. week day nights on the three major networks, reruns range from five—on Wednesday night—to 12, on Friday. On Monday and Tuesday there are 10 during these 3½ hours; on Thursday nights 11, not even counting shows that are mixing up new shows with old ones.

Panelists on CBS' Last Word Sunday were split even on usage of the word "cop." Two thought it degrading—as does FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, whose letter raised the question. Appreciably there is, semantically speaking, a strong anti-cop sentiment among policemen. Several seasons ago Drapeau's Sergeant Friday replaced his statement, "I'm a cop," with "I wear a badge."

ANCIENT GAME

Still populer, polo was first played in the northern parts of Persia about 600 BC.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

HODGE-PODGE

Where were the Toronto sportswriters when this happened? . . . Dan Parker says Jim Norris, big heart attack man of the IBC, tried to take a poke at Stafford Smythe of Toronto at the recent meeting of the NHL. Muzz Patrick, Parker writes, who could lick both with one hand, stepped between them . . . Why doesn't Patrick mind his own business? . . . Sugar Ray Robinson is running out of publicity blurbs, so he's cooking up a newspaper fight between himself and Floyd Patterson . . . Just in case the Arizona Chamber of Commerce is miffed, this column apologizes for its recent statement that the Judd brothers, Ray and John, hail from Oklahoma. Funny, a guy from Texas put us right . . . Charlie Treverton and our old fishing buddy Fred Croft, who-ts hale and fish-hearty at 79, tempted the finny beauties in West Lake off Wellington the other day and came out with five nice pike and a brace of wall-eyes.

The Sports Centre is starting an Anglers' Club for youngsters between the ages of six and 16. There is no membership fee, just drop around and join. Should provide a lot of fun for the fishing moppets . . . It all depends on how you work it. Million dollar corporations spend millions yearly on coast-to-coast advertising. Jerry Davidson uttered one sentence—and got the same results.

Point Anne is holding its big outing on July 1st with a mighty attractive program. The fun starts at 10 a.m. and there will be something for everybody, especially the kiddies. There are prizes galore, all kinds of field events, softball games, special events, euchre and dancing. It looks like a great day for the Ox Pointers and their families with the capable Earl Anderson in charge . . . Better drop over and enjoy.

There is no home television for the Patterson-Johansson fight tonight, but a lot of city fans are trekking to Kingston to watch the brawl on a theatre screen . . . Bob Temple's Bob-Tabbies and Phil Lott's Point Anne Cementers hook up in what should be a tidy softball battle at the Point Park tomorrow night starting 6.45. The Pointers are still smarting from the 3-0 Judd-out at the hands of the Lakefield Charltons' mound ace, and their bludgeons will be ready for revenge at the expense of the Temple twirlers. However, the Cats are hot, man, and they will have something to say about it. Should be quite a diamond scrap.

The largest entry in the history of the Ontario Open Golf Championship will compete for the Seagram Trophy at St. Catharines tomorrow and Saturday. At closing date 195 were entered, 35 of whom are Americans, 19 pros and 16 amateurs . . . Bap Guidolin is home for a Kingston softball team . . . The 27 miniature golf is making a comeback. Belleville's new course, the Bay Breeze, two miles east of the hospital on No. 2 Highway, opens on Saturday . . . and speaking of new plugs remember the Quinte Driving and Riding Club's opening meet at the Fair Grounds on July 4. There will be three races, six heats, with some of the fastest horseflesh in the district competing. Gets under way at 6.45 p.m.

Eddie Lubanski of Detroit, bowled two perfect ten-pin games in a row in an exhibition show in Miami the other night . . . Aren't the Yankees about to give a fat bonus to a 240-pound, six-foot-four lad named Dutch Leonard who, in secret workouts at the Yankee Stadium, has been hitting Mantle-like homers into the bleachers . . . Peeve remarks the reason the Yankees' hit so many pop flies last Sunday was because it was Father's Day . . . And Paley "Pat" quips, all those hits Ted Williams is getting, what with a $100,000 salary, must be Taxes Leaguers.

News room "westerns" are a daily occurrence in this office. "Chief" Tice sends his Indians on the warpath and "Colonel" G. Alexander trots out the Yankee cavalry to meet 'em . . . It's a war of words, everything talks but money . . . Everything is blissfully quiet on the golfing front this week. The links lads are being extremely nice to their spouses, while the gals are getting the meals on time. For Sunday is the day of the big "Mr. and Mrs." tournament at the Bay of Quinte Country Club . . . The Lands and Forests Department at Tweed informed this corner today that the bass-fishing season opens in this area on July 1 and not June 28 as announced by that television station.

Birds Half-Game Shy of Top After 7-4 Win Over Tribe; Dodgers Shooting for Lead

By E DWILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

It begins to look as if the Dodgers finally have forgotten cozy Ebbets Field and have accepted the Coliseum, their freakish ballyard, as a home.

Ebbets was no model of what a major league ball park should be, of course, but the Brooklyn baseball fan loved the place like a Bardot sweater. It was there that they put away their best string of pennants, winning four in five years from 1952 through 1956. They led the National League in home-park won - lost percentages while winning three of those years.

Last year they shifted to Los Angeles and barely played .500 ball (39-38) in the Coliseum while finishing seventh.

LOOKING UP

That was last year. At the moment they're 22-16 at the Coliseum for a .579 percentage that ranks second only to Milwaukee's .636 (21-21), and the Braves are the team in the league to worry about.

The Dodgers made it eight out of 11 on their current home stand, which they started in fourth place, and swept their third straight from Philadelphia Wednesday night, 9-6. That tightened their grip on third, just a game behind San Francisco and only three short of first - place with a bunch of Cincinnati whipped the Chicago Cubs 5-0.

MOON STILL SLUGGING

A two-run homer by Wally Moon, extending his hitting streak to 17 games, broke a 6-6 tie in the sixth inning for the Dodgers, who got blown a 6-1 lead. Don Demeter drove in three runs with a bases - loaded double, triple and his 15th homer. Roger Craig, now 2-0 since his recall from the minors last week, was the winner with Clem Labine's help. Wally Post and Volmy Thomas homered for the last place Phils.

Del Rice, Milwaukee's young righthander, gave up eight hits while three walks, but gained his first victory since May 19 after Hank Aaron belted his 20th homer with two on in a four-run first.

Righthander Jim Brosnan (2-3) blanked the Cubs on four hits by giving up nothing but singles. The Reds backed him with a four-run first against loser Dick Drott (1-2) after two were out. Ed Bailey's two - run homer capped it.

A bases-loaded error by centerfielder Bill Virdon, whose single had given Pittsburgh a 3-3 tie in the top of the frame, gave the Giants the winning run in the ninth. Virdon dropped a bloop fly by pinch-hitter Leon Wagner after colliding with second baseman Bill Mazeroski, Mike McCormick (5-5) was the winner, with Ronnie Daniels (4-6) the loser, both in relief. The Bues' Dick Stuart and San Francisco's Willie Kirkland swapped 400-foot-plus home-run circulars, Johnny Antonelli and Bob Friend.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Jim Brosnan, Cincinnati blanked Chicago Cubs 5-0 on four singles, for first complete game in more than a year and first shutout in three seasons.

Hitting—Don Buddin, Pete Runnels, Boston Red Sox, each had three hits and each had an RBI single in two-run seventh inning that beat Detroit Tigers 6-2.

There's something about a Baltimore bunt that makes Cleveland's Tribe dead lnjuns.

Remember when the Orioles gained a share of the American League lead two weeks ago? They did it when the Indians goofed twice on a bunt that scored three runs.

The Orioles were at it again Wednesday night. They jumped into second place, a half-game behind the front - stumbling Indians, when an error on a bunt gave them three innings - long turns for a 7-4 victory at Cleveland.

FOUR SOLO HOMERS

It was the fifth defeat in seven games for the Indians while Baltimore, scoring its first four runs on solo homers by Gus Triandos, Chris Dropo, Billy Gardner and Bob Nieman, leap - frogged Chicago White Sox with its sixth victory in eight games.

The White Sox skidded to third with a 4-2 defeat by Washington Senators, Kansas City Athletics beat New York Yankees 4-3, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers in fifth place, handing the Tigers their fourth straight defeat with a 4-2 win.

The Orioles opened their seventh - inning rally with a single by Gardner and pinch-hitter Gene Woodling that chased southpaw Herb Score. Both scored when reliefer Dick Brodowski threw wild after fielding a bunt by Don Boyd, hitting for winner Hector Brown (5-2). Boyd went to third on the error and scored on a sacrifice fly.

THROWS SEVEN-HITTER

The Athletics stopped the Yankees behind the seven-hit pitching of southpaw Bud Daley (4-5). Dick Howser drove in all the Kansas City runs, hitting a two-run homer in the fifth against loser Jim Bronstad and singling for the clincher in the seventh-inning rally and scored in the first, counted the other Sox run with an inside-the-park homer.

Don Buddin and Pete Runnels each had three hits for Boston in a twilight two - run seventh against loser Don Mossi (5-3). Mike Fornieles' perfect 2-2-3 innings saved it for Jack Harshman (2-6).

Leafs, Royals Each Win Two; Wings Move Up

By JACK CLARY

The key to moving around in the tight International League race these days is to win the doubleheaders.

Rochester Red Wings moved into second place, a game behind the league-leading Buffalo Bisons, Wednesday night with 2-1 and 7-0 victories over Havana Sugar Kings. Montreal took a pair from Richmond 5-2 and 18-5, dropping the Vees into third place, two games out of first.

Toronto took a 6-5 victory in completing a game of May 24, then won a second game 5-4 in 11 innings. The Leafs still stayed in last place with the double victory but dropped Columbus to seventh as Montreal skipped to sixth with its double victory.

Buffalo defeated Miami 2-1 on Bob Hackey's three-hitter in the other game.

Bob Miller (8-7) gave seven hits in the opener and Howie Nunn (2-1) tossed a six-hitter for the finish in the nightcap. An unearned run in the sixth inning off Vince Amour (3-5) gave Rochester its first game victory as shortstop Leo Cardenas threw away a potential doubleplay ground-ball. Bill Harrell's homer got the other run.

Harrell also doubled in two runs in the nightcap as Ted Wieand took his seventh loss in 13 decisions.

Montreal unloaded 24 hits off loser Bob Weisser (7-6) and two relievers in the second inning. Nine batters got 10 doubles and two-run homers by Clode Parris and Bob Bowman and an inside-the-park homer by Curt Roberts that drove in three runs. Ed Rakow (6-6) had an easy time with this support.

Montreal had a home run in the first game as the Royals loved it with four runs in the fifth inning off loser Ed Dick (4-3). Angel Scull had a double and single in the first game and five-for-six in the second, including three doubles. Roberts had an RBI for the doubleheader. Bill Harris (5-6) won the opener.

Jim Lee Hawkins' fifth home run of the year, with time running out in the 11th inning, did the job for Toronto and Pat Scanlebury (4-4), who also got credit for the second game victory. Paul Giel (2-6) was the loser, giving up 14 hits, including three to Larry Raines.

Bob Wilson's sacrifice fly in the last of the ninth scored King with the clincher in the suspended game.

Hacke struck out 10 and gave up one run to Norm Zauchin, a double to Foster Castleman and a single to Ed Bucha. Ruben Amaro also homered for Buffalo which handed Hay Byrd his fourth loss in 10 decision.

City Bowlers Give Ten-Pins Unanimous OK

The city's first ten-pin bowling league finished last night and the consensus was — an unqualified success.

Four teams, the Lugs, Mugs, Thugs and Bugs, were organized to give the game a test-run of three nights.

The players, the most of them veteran five-pin bowlers, gave the game their unanimous stamp of approval. All were in favor of operating during the next winter season.

Ten-pin facilities at the Bowl-O-Drome, Belleville, are limited but after a discussion of the possibilities, efforts will be made to "squeeze" a four-team league into five-pin activities next year.

The league which operated for three consecutive Wednesday nights, was won by the Lugs with a points total of 21. Next came Thugs with 17; Mugs, 7, and the Bugs zero.

Scores last night were: Lugs (7) 1979; Bugs (0) 1643; Thugs (7) 1863 and Mugs (0) 1678.

High scores were: Cec Hardwick, 452; R. Vandevoort, 426; L. Rumleski, 425; H. Hurst, 424; W. Dever, 423; W. Bateman, 410 and C. Hart, 408.

Patterson 4-1 Favorite To Retain World Crown

Champion Said Razor Sharp Swede Puts Trust in 'Right'; Expect 35,000 to See Bout

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, grimly determined to win the public's full acclaim, said Ingemar Johansson, just as eager to become Sweden's first world boxing champion clash tonight in their long-awaited title fight.

The 26-year-old New Yorker, marking his fifth defence of the crown, was a 4-to-1 favorite today to beat back the challenge of the undefeated 26 - year - old European champion in the 15-rounder before 35,000 at Yankee Stadium. Starting time is 10:30 p.m. EDT.

The bout is outdoors, making the weather the main concern of the principals as they headed for an 11 a.m. weigh-in ceremony. The forecast: increasing cloudiness and a chance of showers in the afternoon and evening. If a postponement is necessary the fight will be held Friday night.

LONG WAIT

"It will take a helluva downpour for me to put it off," promoter Bill Rosensohn said Wednesday. "I've been waiting for nine months to put this on and I want to get it over with."

Rosensohn expects a gate of more than $500,000.

"We went over the $500,000 mark (his break-even point)," he said. "And I'm confident we'll go over $600,000."

With the closed-circuit telecast to theatres and arenas, coast-to-coast radio and the movies thrown in, Patterson figures to make between $400,000 and $500,000 and Johansson from $300,000 to $200,000. The CBC will broadcast the fight on its Trans-Canada network.

The financial reports made Johansson, a businessman with various interests, happy but he was more concerned with his ring business with Patterson.

NOT DISMAYED

The lopsided odds, the picks of most of the experts for Patterson and criticism of his unique training methods—he didn't unleash his "thunderbolt" right once—apparently haven't dismayed Ingemar.

"If I hit him with my right—and I am confident I will—he will go down and out," said the optimistic Swede.

"I haven't been as eager for any fight since I knocked out Archie Moore (in five rounds in 1956) to win the title," said Patterson. "He is the No. 1 contender and I want to beat the best."

The champion was vicious and sensational in his workouts. Johansson was tame and dull.

"He's razor sharp," said Patterson's trainer Dan Florio. "He's 100 per cent better than he was against Brian London."

Patterson knocked out London, a burly Briton, in the 11th round at Indianapolis last May 1. He has stopped 18 of his last 17 opponents and his record is 35-1 including 26 knockouts.

Johansson has been idle since he flattened Californian Eddie Machen in the first round at Goteborg, Sweden, last Sept. 14. That made his record 21-0, including 13 knockouts.

Even if he has a good night, Ingo may have trouble landing it squarely against the elusive champion.

DIFFERENT STYLES

Johansson, a strong, 198-pounder, is accustomed to fighting the standup, classic style of fighters of the British-European scene. They don't go in much for body punching.

Patterson's style is vastly different. He holds his gloves in front of his face and his forearms protect his body. From that position he strikes out with great speed.

This observer believes Patterson will cut down his rivals with these punishing body blows in one round. They will be using the thin, six-ounce gloves instead of the eight-ounce. Patterson used against London.

Patterson probably will spot his rival 24 pounds, 184 to 198. They're accustomed to that.

What wagering has been done was mostly on a knockout. It was 2 to 1 that the fight wouldn't go the route, 2 to 1 that Patterson would win by a kayo and 6 to 1 against Johansson stopping Patterson.

TORONTO (CP)—Peterborough Mercuries came from behind to defeat Long Branch Dixie Castroe 9-7 in Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A action Wednesday night.

Soden's 3-Hitter, 5-Run Outburst Mark Juniors' Win Over Cannifton

A fourth-inning five-run explosion behind the three-hit hurling of Larry Soden gave the Belleville Juniors a 6-1 victory over Cannifton at the CNRA Park last night.

Cuffar Noakes youngsters found their batting eyes to pound out seven hits to cop the win and retain the top spot in the South Hastings Baseball League.

Soden had the village crew sailing out of his hand over the nine-innings route. He struck out fifteen, walked one and smashed out a single to help his own cause.

Veteran hurler Gordon Oliver went the distance for Cannifton. He was nicked for hits in every inning but one, four in the fourth when the Juniors erupted for their quintet of runs. He struck out eight and issued but one free pass.

The teams battled scorelessly for three innings then the Junior bats broke out in their rash of hits. A triple by Jim Lloyd, singles by Bill Monzon, Glenn Clarke, and Larry Mavety and a Cannifton bobble sent five Belleville runs across the plate.

They added the other in the fifth coming on Gord St. Louis's single, Keller's double and two village miscues. Oliver tamed them over the rest of the route. Cannifton scored their lone marker in the sixth on back-to-back singles by Ricky Locke and Len Harvey and Forsythe's long fly. The only other hit they got off Soden was Forsythe's single in his opening frame.

It was a direct reversal of last Saturday's game when the Belleville youngsters could do nothing with the shoots of lefty Lyle Bradshaw. Soden hurled masterful call whiffing the side in the second and third innings.

Gordy St. Louis powered the winners with three singles, Jim Lloyd had a triple and single while one-baseers were collected by Rusty Followell, Bix Monzon, Glenn Clarke, "Red" Kellar, Larry Mavety and Soden. Locke, Harvey and Forsythe singled for Cannifton.

Cannifton:	Trudeau,	Locke,	Harvey,	Forsythe,	Petrie, Sheffield, Cole, O'Connor, Clapp, Oliver.
Belleville:	Lloyd,	Followell,	Latchford,	Westfall,	Monzon, Clarke, St. Louis, Kellar, Mavety, Soden.

ROW OVER RCMP

government had not tried to interfere with the activities of the force in Newfoundland.

Mr. Peters, discussing the Auditor General's report that the RCMP had been lax and unconscious and knocked down women during a clash March 19 at Sydney, Nfld., said nobody had denied it.

Mr. Fulton said he had denied it.

"I don't accept that as evidence," the disarming manner said.

QUOTES SENATOR

Turning to the Six Nations incident, Mr. Peters said Senator James Gladstone had stated that women and two men were beaten on the reservation and homes had been invaded without warrants.

The minister replied that there had been a dispute between two groups of Indians over local government on the reservation and the RCMP had acted with much restraint and patience as possible on the part of the RCMP.

Member Not Impressed With CBC Program

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Fisher, a member of the House of Commons committee on broadcasting, said Tuesday the cancellation of the CBC program "Preview didn't worry him because "I didn't think it was a good program."

The CCF member for Port Arthur and the only opposition member of the committee to tour CBC's Toronto facilities Tuesday said:

"I thought with the rare exception, the commentaries from Ottawa were not very perceptive."

He described as "superficial" comments made by members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery.

The money earned by reporters on the program amounted to a government subsidy.

Committee chairman George Halpenny, Progressive Conservative MP for London, Ont., speaking for the committee, declined comment on Fisher's outburst except to say the committee had talked with the Misses Susan, Shirley and Sally Schmidt, while their parents attended the naval review at Hamilton, over the weekend.

Stricken Liberian Freighter Sinks In Lake Huron

29 Crew Members Saved After Collision in Fog

ALPENA, Mich. (AP)—A radar death watch by the 29 rescued crew members of the collision-battered freighter Moronovia ended today when the stricken vessel went down in fog-covered Lake Huron.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported that the freighter Norman W. Foy lost radar contact with the doomed Liberian ship at 2:15 a.m. EDT, more than 11 hours after it collided with the Canadian freighter Royalton in heavy fog Thursday.

The Foy, which picked up the Moronovia's crew from their rowboats, steered the collision area after losing contact and reported heavy debris in the water. There was no sign of the Moronovia.

The Foy is owned by Thunder Bay Island in northern Lake Huron, was the first major shipping accident in the Great Lakes since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The Royalton suffered only slight damage in the collision, cause of which has not been determined.

The Canadian vessel, under Capt. G. B. Albinson of Courtright, Ont., was due to dock at Detroit real with about 410,000 bushels of grain from Duluth, Minn.

The Royalton was instructed by its owners, F. Scott Misener Steamships of Port Colborne, Ont., head for Sarnia, docking there if damage warranted a delay. It carried a crew of 32.

The Moronovia, carrying a cargo of steel out of Antwerp, Belgium, was headed for Chicago and Duluth.

The Moronovia's hours - long struggle for survival was watched from the Foy's radar, and reports of her condition were relayed to crew members brought aboard after the accident.

RESCUED QUICKLY

Fast action by the Foy, which ignored fog dangers, resulted in the rescue of the Moronovia's crew only 20 minutes after an order to abandon ship was flashed. No injuries were reported.

The Moronovia suffered deep gashes in her starboard bow. Her engine and boiler rooms and two holds flooded quickly. Her refusal to sink within a few minutes of the lakers seamen aboard the Foy.

Capt. John Gillies, skipper of the Foy, owned by Browning Steamship Lines of Detroit, said Syracuse Engineering Moronovia's captain, and part of the Greek crew refused to use its stricken vessel for a time to take off papers and documents.

Rescued Crew In 20 Minutes Says Skipper

Capt. Alex Gillies, skipper of the freighter Norman W. Foy, ignored heavy fog, and dashed to pick up 29 crew members of the Liberian freighter Moronovia, mortally damaged in a collision in a narrow Lake Huron Thursday. Here is his story as told The Associated Press via ship-to-shore telephone.

ALPENA, Mich. (AP) — "We were just five miles away when our wireless told of the collision which got the Monrovia. We messaged we were on the way, and got there in 20 minutes."

With these words, Capt. Alex Gillies, skipper of the freighter Norman W. Foy, told of his smooth, efficient rescue of the captain and 29 crew members of the stricken Liberian freighter Moronovia.

Gillies and his crew ignored near-zero visibility in a heavy fog to race through the dark to the stricken freighter.

"By the time we got there, they were already in their boats and then they saw us, they rowed over and we got them aboard," Capt. Gillies said.

ROUTINE RESCUE

"It took about 40 minutes before they got aboard. It was a routine rescue.

"Shortly afterward we gave them hot coffee and ladies freighter dinner and they were all right."

Asked if he gave any thought to the fog during his run for the Monrovia, Gillies said, "I relied on signals and visibility which at times cleared to 300 feet."

Gillies, of Buffalo, N.Y., said he would like the rescued crew members—mostly of Greek nationality—to return and prove to "show them some more of Great Lakes freighter hospitality."

PLANS TO AVOID STEEL SHUTDOWN MEET REBUFFS

Industry and Union Proposals Rejected

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry said today the Steelworkers Union broke off negotiations after a two-hour bargaining session this morning.

NEW YORK (AP) — A flurry of industry and union proposals to postpone a strike shutdown of the steel industry flunked out Thursday night.

Both sides agreed, however, to resume deadlocked talks this morning with the July 1 strike deadline still in effect.

Prospects seemed gloomy that a walkout next Wednesday could be averted. The industry started banking furnaces.

The steel industry, told by President Eisenhower that the U.S. economy cannot stand new increases in steel prices, said it cannot afford higher labor costs.

David J. McDonald, Steelworkers union president, said the industry can increase wages and other benefits out of profits. Steelworkers averaged $3.39 hourly earnings in April.

McDonald said other industries including steel-owned coal mines, already have granted handsome pay increases in 1959.

The industry proposed a strike postponement and called for an indefinite extension of present contracts, scheduled to expire at midnight Tuesday.

With agreement by the union's wage policy committee, McDonald proposed a 75-day extension—provided the industry made any contract gains back to July 1.

It was on this retroactivity feature that the industry disagreed. The industry said it implied steel companies would eventually grant concessions they have no intention of making.

(British sources pointed out that if nuclear arms have been supplied to Iraq, they must have come from the Soviet Union. But the would make nonsense, they said, of Premier Khrushchev's proposals for an atom-free zone in the Middle East.)

Prince Proposes Another Study Parley in 1962

MONTREAL (CP) — Prince Philip met 38 Canadian industrialist and union leaders aboard the royal yacht Thursday to discuss the holding of a second Commonwealth study conference in Canada in 1962.

The first such conference was held at Oxford, Eng., in 1956 with Prince Philip as president.

Those present Thursday decided to set themselves up as an independent council to sponsor the conference. They formed a steering committee to consult with their opposite numbers in other Commonwealth countries and report back at a second meeting this year.

Among those present were N. R. Crump, president of the CPR; William Dodge, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress; Jean Marchand, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor; F. G. Notman, president of Canadair, Limited; E. H. Walker president of General Motors of Canada; Rhys Sale, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada; and D. W. Carmichael president of Albiuh Power and Paper Company.

Nuclear Arms Said Supplied To Iraq's Army

BAGHDAD, Iraq (Reuters)—Iraq's army has been completely re-equipped with new weapons, including nuclear arms, the president of Ife people's court said Thursday.

Fethel Abbas Mahdawi, the court president and a cousin of Premier Kassem, said that the new equipment includes radar and Russian - built jet fighters as well as other "secret arms" procured since the overthrow of the monarchy last July.

(In London, officials expressed surprise and scepticism at the statements.

For First Time Monarch Will Join In Canada's Birthday Celebration

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada will have an extra-special guest on her 92nd birthday next Wednesday when Queen Elizabeth will celebrate Dominion Day in the capital.

To mark the first time a reigning monarch has been in Canada on July 1, the Queen will spend most of the day in Ottawa with 100,000 Canadian subjects on a national radio and television network from Ottawa.

In the afternoon, the Queen and Prince Philip will take part in the unveiling of a memorial to members of the British Commonwealth air forces killed in the Second World War and have no known graves. Later she will present Queen's and regimental colors to three Canadian regiments before going to Government House for an investiture ceremony.

In most areas, no formal ceremonies were planned and Canadians will be pouring out of cities and towns to spend the day at lakes and resorts.

Railways and airlines report heavy bookings with many travelers going to the United States.

No special accident prevention campaigns have been put into effect for the mid-week holiday. During last year's four-day Dominion Day holiday a record 111 lives were lost, 52 in traffic mishaps.

Sports events of all varieties will occupy many of the stay-at-homes.

Bugles Blare, Guns Roar, Bells Ring, Sirens Screech For Queen And Eisenhower

Seaway 'Magnificent Monument' To Enduring Friendship Says Queen

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway today was officially opened by Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower in one of the greatest displays of color and pageantry this country has ever seen.

The formal opening came at 12.03 p.m., EDT, when the royal yacht Britannia nosed through ceremonial gates near the entrance of the new 185-mile seaway. That was the signal for the sounding of trumpets, the firing of naval guns, the launching of fireworks, the ringing of bells of more than 300 churches and the blasting of ships' horns and sirens. Amid the din the shouting of an estimated 20,000 onlookers could scarcely be heard.

All about the Seaway Plaza in suburban St. Lambert there was color. The Canadian Ensign, the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes flew from flag posts mounted in blue and white boxes built like a ship's prow.

Near the ceremonial site flew the flags of 20 other Commonwealths using the seaway of the St. Lawrence, a magnificent liquid corral waterway leading from the Atlantic to the inland seas of the Great Lakes.

QUEEN'S TRIBUTE

In an inaugural speech, Queen Elizabeth termed the seaway a "magnificent monument to the enduring friendship of . . . two nations and cheers before the Queen was to appear outside the Mount Royal Hotel.

The bowl, in a wooden box, was being taken by two white-clad sailors from a car and placed in the vehicle's trunk.

The box flopped open and the Queen's gift bounced to the pavement. The sailors scooped it up and put it back into the bowl, placing the box into the car's trunk.

It was not known immediately whether the gift was damaged.

Montreal's Gift To Queen Fell On Pavement

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal's gift to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, an engraved silver rose water bowl, clanged to the pavement like a hub-cap Thursday.

The incident occurred on Peel Street, seconds before the royal party

The bowl is a replica of one of the great military leaders who brought the free world through. "For in the reasonable resolution of the acute international problems of our time rests the single hope for world prosperity and happiness in peace, with justice for all."

The Queen twice broke into French in her 1,000 - word address. President Eisenhower spoke more briefly and confined his French to a single sentence.

GREAT LEADER

The Queen paid personal tribute to the president as "one of the great military leaders who brought the free world through. He now serves crisis of modern times."

It was with the warmest feelings of friendship, tinged with special pleasure implicit in a great event, that she could welcome Mr. Eisenhower to Canada for the first time, on behalf of the Canadian people, herself and her husband.

Today events marked victory of another kind, a combined operation ranking as one of the outstanding engineering accomplishments of the age, she said.

Rescuers Fight to Reach Thousands Marooned When Canton Dike Breaks

PEIPING (Reuters) — Rescue teams battled today to reach several thousand people in Hopei, marooned by flood waters when a dike broke near Canton, the capital of the Communist China province of Kwangtung.

Three-quarters of the 40,000 peasants in the flooded area, which includes more than 4,000 acres of farmland, were evacuated before the dike collapsed Wednesday.

Most of the others have since been rescued, the Communist party newspaper, the People's Daily, reported.

In Taipei, Formosa, Nationalist relief organizations were contemplating sending supplies to flood-stricken Kwangtung province.

Nationalist Air Force planes dropped leaflets "over certain areas" carrying rice cakes for Chinese on the mainland when the Communist began shelling Quemoy last June.

New Satellite Fails to Orbit

VANDENBERG BASE, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force says its latest Discoverer satellite, loaded with secret gear, failed to go into orbit.

Experts were trying to learn why.

The weight of the rocket's space capsule—more than 300 pounds—caused speculation that it might contain some type of scientific equipment. The air force was silent on this.

The space capsule was about twice as heavy as that which carried the mice a Bit beneath and returned up in t. e atmosphere after failing to achieve orbit.

For entertainment, they had 20 trumpeters who mounted the bow of the Britannia for 5,000 special guests and began to practice the fanfare they were to sound to greet the Queen and President Eisenhower on arrival. Then they watched other last-minute preparations, too.

TWELVE RED BALLOONS

Twelve red and white balloons were to be released as symbolic gates in the seaway channel between Victoria and Jacques Cartier bridge. When the Britannia moved through the gates—with a total 19 feet to spare on each side — the seaway was to be opened formally.

The draft system waters of the 27-foot-deep channel directly across from Montreal were among the most. like a mill pond. Only a light ripple disturbed the surface.

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway stands as a "magnificent monument to the enduring friendship of . . . two nations and to their partnership in the development of North America," the Queen said today in opening the seaway officially.

In reply, President Eisenhower called the mammoth project a "magnificent symbol to the enduring spirit of the achievements possible to democratic nations peacefully working together for the common good."

"May this example be never forgotten, or, may it never be ignored by others," he declared.

"For in the reasonable resolution of the acute international problems of our time rests the single hope for world prosperity and happiness in peace, with justice for all."

The Queen twice broke into French in her 1,000 - word address. President Eisenhower spoke more briefly and confined his French to a single sentence.

Fire Destroys Interns' House Near Hospital

All equipment of the Belleville Fire Department was turned out to answer an alarm at the Belleville General Hospital yesterday evening at 11:06 p.m. The fire turned out to be in the interns' quarters, located on the east side of the hospital grounds lot. Although little damage is visible from the exterior of the building, the fire, which apparently started in the basement of the building was put out by the attendants through the sidewalls of the building.

Firefighters had to break through the ceiling in order to enter the attic and quench the flames. Naturally some water damage occurred to the lower floors, although the fire was extinguished in short order. Fire Chief Gerald Ellis estimates the damage to be in the neighborhood of $2,000 to $2,500. The personal belongings of the four interns were removed without loss.

Kenneth Fox, superintendent of the hospital, has stated that the building, a wood frame structure of some years of age, was not worth repairing and that the hospital would be disposing of the building. Meanwhile the interns are being housed in an older section of the main hospital building.

Although only one truck was required once the nature and extent of the fire was determined all equipment of the Fire Department is turned out to any alarm from the Hospital. This is as an extra safeguard in the event that if a major conflagration has occurred every facility is available and man on duty is there to render immediate service.

County Holstein Breeders Impressed With Fine Pastures

Visiting your fellow worker's farm cannot only be interesting but very rewarding and educational. This the Hastings' County Holstein Breeders and their guests found. Members once again proved when they visited seven Holstein herds in Victoria and Ontario Counties recently on their annual bus tour.

Leaving early in the morning from the homes of farmers, their wives and friends left to enjoy themselves and to see how some of their fellow Holstein breeders and crop men operate. Their first stop was with Llewellyn Hicks at Easboro in Victoria County. Here while a mist dotted down over the acreage, Mr. Fleming Bros. showed them the high producing herd, the young bull, and their pastures and grains. Everyone was interested in the Conformation Plan. Fleming Bros. were able to get from the herd two sires to be presented to see the difference that good legumes can make on the following dozen acres. Half the field of grain was being grown on legumes while the other half was on corn ground. That which was growing on the legume sod had a much heavier, richer color due largely to the release of nitrogen. The legume crop had fixed in the soil.

From there they went to the Dunsford Dairy Farms of Geo. McLaughlin's, Beaverton, to see one of Ontario's better herd of Holsteins. In the absence of Mr. McLaughlin, who was attending a meeting at Elgin House that weekend, Mr. Harold Dunsford, manager, heartedly welcomed the group and showed them the herd of Yorkshires and Holsteins. Those who had inspired with the large, dairy type cattle saw even more impressed with the pasture fields. Here Mr. McLaughlin pastures 75 head of milking cows on 50 acres for the complete pasture season, with the exception of the last couple weeks in the fall when they are removed to let the legumes store up food and strength ingredients for the winter.

He has a large mixture of legumes and grasses and uses rotational pasturing. After the cows have moved to a new section, that section that they were on is clipped with a rotary mower so that the plants are not cut too closely to the ground and chain harrowed. The whole pasture is heavily manured in the spring, with phosphate and potash added in the fall and early summer. In order to get a proper legume, grass ratio, little nitrogen needs to be added to this pasture as the manure supplies sufficient with that of the legumes.

The last Holstein farm to be visited was that of Orvan Chamberlain's Way Brook Dairy Farms. Mr. Chambers has a smaller herd than that of McLaughlin's but a herd of equal quality. Their pastures are very good, and 12 good plus — none lower. He, like the others, gives much attention to the quality of pastures and quality hay. He feels that quality hay is the first priority in obtaining and maintaining high production.

Great interest by the men present was in hay stem crusher or conditioner which is in operation at Dunrobin Elmcroft Farms. Both Mr. Chambers and Mr. McLaughlin have high praise for this machinery in helping them to get hay cured faster and so get more quality hay stored in the early season when the protein content is the highest.

The final visit was to the Nelson Smith Farm at Oshawa where they saw some of the finest horses and young colts. Here also they saw a great deal to pictures as the horses must have a good deal of legume hay and plenty of it.

All the farms visited were strikingly in common factors: hays and pastures, but to have pastures that are good they must have the sod properly prepared, must have used the proper seed mixture and must have given it the management it needs. Once again it was shown that we can learn much from our fellow worker.

The pool opening will be on Saturday morning June 27th.

Mrs. Ena Corke Just Missed Winning Team

A Bay of Quinte Country Club lady golfer yesterday came within an ace of qualifying for the Ontario team that selected the best golfers New York State and Quebec could produce.

At Kingston for the tenth year in a row, Ontario produced a four-woman team that won the International Field Day held at the Kingston Catarequi Club.

Two Toronto golfers, a Kingston entrant and a Napanee girl were on the winning team. These were Mrs. W. C. McKay, Toronto, who led the field with an 83; Mrs. Ian Robinson, Kingston, 87; Miss Lou Evans, Toronto, 86 and Barbara Kimmerley, Napanee, 94.

Mrs. Ena Corke of the Quinte Club tied Miss Evans with a 96 and lost out on the back nine.

Eight Bay of Quinte ladies took part in the tournament play with Mrs. Doris Bradford and Mrs. Ena Ryan coming home with course prizes.

The Ontario team won the Whig - Standard Trophy. The 16 low gross finishers in the opening day's play continues today in the Eastern Provinces tournament. At stake is the CKLC trophy.

This fish is believed to be the biggest lake trout ever caught in Loughborough Lake, north of Kingston. Roland Belanger of Foxboro, and Gaila Cranston, the Sportsman Store here, are seen with a 21 lb. 4 ounce beauty. The fish was 37½ inches long and had a girth of 23 inches. Roland and "Bat" Ducette of Foxboro had been trolling for about an hour and a half when the big fellow was hooked. Belanger landed the fish in about 20 minutes. Assistant fish holder Gaila sold the bait used by the lucky fisherman.

Learn to Swim In Eight Lessons, Get Certificates

Summer days at the beach are going to be safer and more enjoyable this summer for 24 women who learned to swim in eight lessons in the June "Learn to Swim" program at the Belleville YMCA.

Every Tuesday and Thursday evening throughout the month of June, these ladies faithfully came out to learn the art of swimming. They ducked; bobbed, floated, kicked and swung their arms but not in vain as they can all swim now.

Last evening following their regular class, they gathered in the YMCA auditorium for a social get-together. Kay Homan, Women's and Girls' Secretary and instructor of the class presented the swimming certificates.

Nine ladies passed the National YMCA beginners' certificate which is to jump in the water and swim 25 feet, turn around and swim back: They were: Audrey Mountney, Ellen Pound, Rae Prentice, Irene Batley, Rosalyn Rogers, Agnes Thompson, Irene Turnbull, Eileene Vanner and Miriam West.

Those passing other swimming awards were: Alice Boyle, Barbara Brown, Helen Brown, Zula Fenten, Jone Jarrell, Sheila Keegan, Sylvia Lazier, Pia Parsonen, Kay Putman, Laura Richardson, Helen Rogers, Anne Rogers, Mary Valchar, Eleanor Wilson and Verna Wright.

Many of these ladies are planning to return to the fall for the regular ladies' gym and swim classes. Swim instruction will be available this fall for any ladies wishing to learn to swim.

Madoc Art Centre Opens Season

The Madoc Art Centre opened its season last weekend with the annual June sketching weekend at which Controller Jean Newman, who cuts a wide swath in Toronto municipal politics, made some equally bold strokes —but this time with a brush on canvas.

John A. Hall, OSA, of Toronto, was present to give instruction to some 20 students, who were present for the opening event. The school, which provides instruction in painting and ceramics during the course of the summer, will have Mary Schneider as its resident instructor from June 27th to September 1st.

This coming weekend Charles Wakefield will be the guest instructor. Others will include Don Fraser (July 13th to 20th); Jack Pepper (July 27th to August 3rd) and John A. Hall, OSA (August 10th to 21st.) Anyone interested in the activities of the school may contact the Madoc Art Centre at Actinolite, Ont. Classes continue throughout the entire summer.

"I see in the achievement of the St. Lawrence Seaway a significance that surpasses the subsequent economic advantages," she said, returning to French.

The seaway was a new chapter in Confederation's history, establishing new ties between Canada's two oldest races. Moreover, it marked success in the co-operation between two states.

"This partnership is most agreeably symbolized, Mr. President, in the fact that you and I have joined together to perform this ceremony today."

President Eisenhower replied that he welcomed this opportunity to express again the "lasting respect, admiration and affection" of the citizens of the United States for the Queen and for Canadians.

Then he added in French what he described as a "single halting sentence of my western Prairie brand of that language:

"I am very happy to find myself back among you in Canada where a year ago I had such a happy stay."

The seaway was the culmination of the dreams of thousands of individuals on both sides of the border. It is the latest event in a long history of peaceful progress, he said.

A notable spirit of co - operation still animated both nations today, reflected in the largest volume of reciprocal trade between any two countries in the world, in the close-fine of citizens and a boundary that has "known neither gun nor fortress in over a century."

"There have been and still are problems to solve between us," Mr. Eisenhower said. "But in the past, as now, we have never faltered in our conviction that these must be settled by patient and understanding negotiations never by violence."

Judge Suspends Sentence for 2-Year Period

Appearing for sentence on charges of breaking and entering and of being in possession of stolen goods, Raymond Turcotte of this city was given two years suspended sentence this morning by Judge G. F. Smith.

Turcotte was tried earlier at the General Sessions of the Peace and was remanded until today for sentence.

He was charged with breaking and entering the Uptown Tire store on Pinnacle Street two months ago when eight tires were stolen. Turcotte was also charged with being in possession of stolen tires.

Raymond Woods, 35, of Mountain View, was further remanded on a charge of armed robbery. He appeared before Judge Smith a week ago and had his case enlarged to enable him to be provided with legal aid during his trial.

Woods is charged with the armed robbery of the cashier at the Cash and Carry Dairy. Police said that about $15 was taken after a sawed-off shotgun was allegedly pointed at the cashier.

DIVIDED GERMANY - - A THREAT TO PEACE?

Christian Herter, the new U.S. Secretary of State, delivered a quietly reasoned address on the Geneva Conference and the Berlin situation on Tuesday evening. For many of his listeners, it was their first opportunity to see and hear him on TV and the majority, we should think, would be favorably impressed by his obvious sincerity and the complete absence of hysterics in his calm outline of the crisis and the attempts of the foreign ministers to solve it.

With most of what he said, the vast majority of his listeners, in both Canada and the United States, would surely be in complete agreement.

There was, however, one phrase, used near the commencement of his address almost as an aside, as if it were a simple statement of a fact which everybody recognizes, which deserves further examination.

Mr. Herter asserted that as long as Germany is divided this division will constitute a threat to the peace of the world.

He made no attempt to buttress this assertion by argument. It was obviously an opinion which he not only held firmly himself, but was also convinced was held as firmly by the majority of his listeners.

In his view of the opinion of the majority of Americans, Mr. Herter may be correct. But if this is the common opinion on this continent, it is certainly not the common opinion in Europe. Indeed, in much of Europe exactly the opposite opinion must be held with equal tenacity, with the division of Germany regarded as a safeguard to peace, rather than as a hazard.

It is fundamental divisions like this which promote misunderstandings, both within an alliance like NATO and between NATO and the Communist bloc. As such, the proposition that the division of Germany is a threat to world peace deserves some examination.

Whom does this division annoy? It obviously does not disturb the Russians, who are in complete up service to the ideal of the eventual unification of Germany, but take every possible step to prevent it becoming a reality. The only unified Germany which Russia would be willing to accept without extraordinary counter-measures, perhaps even as extreme as a resort to war, would be a Germany which she could dominate, a unified Communist satellite.

You will go a long way, we feel sure, before you will find many Poles or Czechs who feel menaced by the fact that Germany is divided into two parts. . Nor can we convince ourselves that there is any strong feeling, amongst the rank and file of the common people in Norway, Denmark, Holland or Belgium that a united Germany is essential to their safety. The French may be different; as one of the world's most sophisticated people, they will be more impressed by the arguments of experts that a united Germany is essential to the economic health of Europe and that a prosperous Europe is a necessary prerequisite of a stable peace. But even in France, and increasingly in Britain, there exists a body of opinion that is unperturbed by the division of pre-war Germany into two parts.

It is, of course, true that in all the countries of Western Europe, including Britain, there is a profound dislike of the situation in which the eastern part of Germany remains under Russian domination. And even those who are willing to accept this situation as a price not too high to pay for the continued division of Germany would balk at any suggestion that the West turn over to the Communists the great industrial complex which is Berlin.

This, though, is a long way from regarding the division of Germany as a continuing threat to world peace. This is a view which seems to be strongly held by the masses only on this continent and, of course, in Germany.

Mr. Herter may be quite correct in his estimate of the dangers inherent in keeping a nation like Germany divided; but if he is, he must be still to recognize that his opinion is not one universally held.

One wonders what changes might result in the policies of the Western allies if the eventual unification of Germany were not regarded as essential, or even as desirable.

A CREED

By EDGAR A. GUEST

To be content with what is mine,
To make a rough and stony way
And still rejoice in what is fine,
And with a smile complete the day.

To march along with time and men,
Unfaltering and unafraid;
To try my very best, and then
If that fails, be undismayed,

To keep my faith in God, although
In darkness and despair I
To see above the clouds of woe
And misery, the rays of hope.

To bear my share of grief and pain,
Bleeding, when it's understood,
My suffering is not in vain
But thrust upon me for my good, and fat geese, at seven pence, were a penny cheaper in summer.

The absence of forks in medieval times meant that meat or fish had to be held down on the plate with the left hand while it was cut up. "It was considered all-mannerly to use more than the thumb and two fingers to hold down the meat, and downright rude to wipe one's hands afterwards on your hair instead of on the napkin provided." Napkins were an important official, and besides knowing how to deal with any emergency that arose, he had to adapt at arranging his towels and table napkins correctly and in holding out tidbits to the guests on the end of a carving knife held with the thumb and only two fingers, the other fingers and hand being held decidedly crooked.

Except at feasts the food was plain and all elaborate, and even so was strictly regulated according to rank. Mr. Chartton continued. Edward III, for instance, if he were dining alone, could have had a choice of eight dishes, the Black Prince of four, a Duke of three, and a man, three. Meals, at which hundreds might be present, were announced by the "gentle blast of the glorified heap waiter" called the marshall, who carried the scepter and led the procession of servants who brought in the dishes. Before the meal the king was seated under his silken canopy on the low dais with his company ranged around strictly in order of precedence, even the scullions appointed to the kitchen holding generally grouped in "messes" so that each man might have appreciative fellows his own rank. During the meal the king's minstrels played.

In early Tudor times particularly, bowling and tennis were the favorite sports, indulged in while away wet days when hunting and other outdoor sports impossible, Mr. Charlton said. "At Hampton Court, for instance, Henry VIII constructed a long bowling alley and a tennis court. Hampton Court is gone, but his tennis court, the oldest in England, is still used by Royal Hampton Tennis Court club and on that court you can, by paying a fee, see a very special game of royal tennis played with the same complicated rules which held good in the days of Henry VIII."

Poachers Hunt Snails

New York Herald Tribune

The natural history of the snail, while not familiar to most people, is the subject of abiding interest to the French. All that most of us know about snails is that they are among the ingredients of little boys, along with worms and puppy dog's tails and that one particularly succulent dish is often asked to move a little faster by a whiling whose tail was being used upon by a porpoise.

That's not much to go upon, as alice probably thought when she ate the caterpillar perched on the mushroom. But the French have a novel way of looking at these things, have developed their own approach to snails and eat them. Ben Jonson once remarked that the small boys snatched at the snail he hath and garlic, snail in the shell is a delicious morsel indeed.

All this is by way of background to the news that the snail business in France, where snails are at their most flavorsome, have reached such alarming proportions that poachers seeking the succulent mollusks. Henceforth heavy fines will be levied against these intruders, and rightly so. We don't know what the penalties are for acts of snail-hunting may be, but they undoubtedly are sanctified by the traditions and surrounded by rituals which no outsider can observe properly. In this, as in other aspects of human behavior, the old amenities are worth fighting for. To bring the rascals fatly to work perhaps they could be forced to eat the snail raw. That would stop 'em soon enough.

Make Drugs In Bathtub

Vancouver Province

There are now more than 200 synthetic drugs on the United Nations' banned list — drugs which can be used by addicts in place of heroin and morphine.

The man who says so is the UN's top criminologist. Professor Manuel Lopez-Rey. He points out also that at least one of these drugs is very easily made by anyone having a few chemistry training. (We knew that already. A magazine told us about a couple of Quebec university students who whipped up a batch of several tons. They didn't want to go into the business without a good working knowledge.)

But you can see the possible problems.

One hundred synthetic drugs are available for addicts who can't get their hands on heroin and morphine, and new ones are coming every backyard. Bathtub heroin instead of bathtub gin.

Professor Lopez-Rey thinks would have to outnumber the addicts to cope with the illegal traffic, and even then a new factory would pop up for every factory suppressed.

If the logic of making drugs more unprofitable by addicts hasn't penetrated before, it should penetrate now.

Let them have their drugs at the low legal cost. Take the profit out of the business. Cut the ground from under the racketeers. Remove the need for the addict to think of crime. Give them a chance to live a normal unwabbling life.

Medieval Life Complicated

BBC London Letter

"It is surprising how many people regard the Middle Ages as a time of greater simplicity than the present, rather as the life of primitive savages is said to be simple," said Professor John Charlton speaking in the BBC Home Service about medieval court life. "In fact," he said, "just as the life of the average man is more infested at every turn with the most complex technical expedients of today, so life — at all levels of society — was hemmed in by rules and regulations.

The court was particularly subject to this condition and had a long sequence of regulations laying down the details of daily life, of eating and queen down to the humblest kitchen boy. In the Middle Ages there were twenty or so large royal palaces scattered about the southern and midland counties of England, many in open countryside, where the king could provide not only the sport of hunting, but the game needed to feed the host of people at court.

The main group of buildings in these palaces was dominated by the great hall — the centre of court life with the great kitchens at one end and the chapel, usually of two storeys, at the other. There were also suites for the queen, the Prince of Wales and the king's children, and rooms for officers of state, of the household, and the variety of the elaborate organization, and of the professions involved is illustrated by a typical schedule of wages drawn up for the household of Edward II which included falconers, hunters, minstrels, launderers, messengers, carpenters, tailors, watchmen, and paltryemen of which there were five, and the king's "pinpiternen" whose job was to transport the court's baggage.

"The organization of the royal kitchens was typical. There was a clerk of the kitchen with several assistants, said Mr. Charlton. Separate household kitchens laid down in great detail not only the duties, wages and allowances but the perquisites of the whole kitchen staff, but also the number and duties of each of the kitchen was authorized to spend on each item, even to the writing paper he might pay up to twenty pence a hundred sheets of, but no more than fourteen pence. She had been selected as the Burrow Beauty. Anything but the quiet burrow lad carefully guarded by his mother. An impossible stand for the little tyke with braces on her legs. But she should be seen in the thrill of being a queen, some fairy and discerning person asked. Queens of all kinds are chosen and their pictures appear in the papers, on cinemascope, in automobiles, beside airplanes, but not usually on elephants, legged on a burrow as it is led about the ring and the great arena. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At a garden party for new Canadians thrown by a friend of mine who thinks up interesting things to do, I met some of the thirty or forty guests from abroad, mingled with some forty or fifty of my indigenous Canadians.

It was an extremely hot affair, set by the peonies, roses and marigolds in the garden were at their finest. A cool drink and a refreshment had been supper. And the new Canadians, British, Continental and Commonwealth, had a very happy time.

In this speech, my friend made only one derogatory crack about Canada.

"The climate is," he said, "leaves something to be desired.

It will take you a little while, maybe a generation or two, to get used to it; arctic is not a topic in summertime."

So he finished, with applause, his aged father got up.

"Look here, folks," he said, mopping his wet bald brow, "When it's cold, you can always put on more clothes but when it's hot, you can't get cool. I want to tell you, as an old Canadian, that we get a lot more out of this kind of weather. The best Canadian weather is cold. Everybody you hear will bellyache about how cold Canada is but I've got a good reason to remember is this afternoon. And next February, no matter how cold it is, just remember today, and thank God for a hot summer."

One thing is sure: the Canadian climate is always interesting.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

COLLAPSE OF LUNG A FAIRLY COMMON OCCURENCE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you discuss the causes of collapse of a lung in a healthy individual (35 years old) who has never had a lung ailment of any kind? Is this apt to recur? Is surgery usually necessary? Mrs. H.M."

This is a fairly common occurrence and it sounds worse than it really is. It is not to be toyed with, though, and the patient is likely to be quite uncomfortable, at least temporarily. However, recovery is the usual rule.

There may be little blebs, or bubbles in the lungs, usually no trouble unless one of them breaks. Then air escapes into the space between the lung and the ribs the (pleural space) and is trapped there. This is called pneumothorax, or air in the chest. When this happens, the trapped air tends to collapse, which otherwise would let the lung expand.

It used to be thought that tuberculosis lay behind this trouble, but we know now it is not true. Indeed, the victim usually is healthy. A sudden strain from lifting a heavy object, cough or sneeze causes the bubble to break.

The size of the break will govern the amount of air leaking into the pleural space, and the degree of interference with the lung will vary accordingly. There may or may not be a momentary pains at the time the break occurs. There may be a feeling of fullness, but more commonly there is a sudden onset of the lung causes shortness of breath.

Will it happen again? That's hard to say. It is quite possible, since in the case mentioned, it present, there may be others.

Is surgery usually necessary? Very rarely is it not necessary. If the person is put to bed, kept quiet, and avoids exertion, the br ok seals itself. The air that has leaked into the pleural space is absorbed in a matter of several days, and the lung expands to normal size.

TUBAL DRAIN-OFF

If the break does not seal itself, or if it recurs, then of course air will continue to be pumped into the pleural space. In such an instance, it may be necessary to insert a tube into the chest wall to drain off the air.

Incidentally, I might call attention to the fact that artificial pneumothorax — injecting air to collapse a lung deliberately — has been a long time method of treating some cases of TB, since it allows the lung to rest. This form of treatment has largely been replaced by medical and surgical procedures, however.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as a diet of exercises which will improve one's eyesight? If there are exercises how does one go about getting them? L.S.P."

To the first question: No. To the second, yes, for certain conditions but this applies mainly to children, and the only way, the only way to know what exercises is to consult an ophthalmologist (eye specialist). And in this regard I refer to eye exercises, not exercises.

Note to Mrs. S.C.: The new sun-tanning drug pill is producing, at least, two results that you mention, isn't what I'd call a "dangerous" drug as drugs go, but it does need supervision, and for the present it works better than for others. As long as you use it under medical supervision, I won't object. On the other hand, don't expect it to work miracles. I'm going to know more about such experimental days. It doesn't work 100 percent. It doesn't work at all, if is often helpful. It definitely is nothing to fool around with, unless you have medical supervision.

Sell Books In Tea Shops

Montreal Gazette

In the tea shops of Southern India, it is now possible to buy low-priced books. This revolutionary step is the experiment on the part of the Southern Languages Book Trust, and of which it is the technical adviser, Isenberg.

The trust, founded in 1933 by Prime Minister Nehru, has undertaken to further publication in four principal South Indian languages—Tamil, Telugu, Kanarese and Malayalam—in order to "familiarize the people of each language group with the best of literature in the other languages, and thus to foster national integration."

Owing to the extremely limited purchasing power, there has hitherto ventured to produce first editions of more than about 1,000 copies, with the consequence that prices have necessarily been high. Now the trust has timed at making it possible to publish larger editions of cheaper books by means of selling the prices down.

Unless, however, such editions can be "made to sell fast," they will not be worth the trouble. The problem has been how to reach the average workman or craftsman in the country where bookshops are few and possess only an unappetizing appeal. Hence the difficulty. Mr. Isenberg hit on the idea of distributing publications produced by the Trust through the tea shops, which have a mass attendance.

The coming of the written word into the lives of millions who have never known it is not merely a fascinating extension of the frontiers of knowledge. It could be a powerful support to the forces of India's democracy, whose failure would be a disaster for mankind.

CANDIDATES FOR FRIENDSHIP

Strangers have always interested me. They all look the same as those who have been my friends for years — and yet they are. Each one is a book in a bus, or the one who sat at a table beyond where I sit today. Each one has a name, only, as he or she becomes known to me or to you, by friendship. Why should a stranger seem so far away from us, distant, like a specimen of human being?

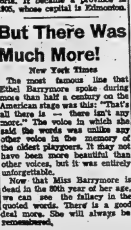
Meeting strangers and getting them into conscious thoughts is a delightful experience. It is the way we meet those whom we choose as friends.

Browse now a possibility!

Most of the people with whom we come in contact from day to day are strangers, and many of them are interesting, even when these strangers can become unkindly friends they equalize life for us, and give to it a golden glow!

Most of the people we speak to are strangers, and of these people whom we meet in all parts of the world, we have no way to know, and could if we worked it out in an intelligent manner, be introduced to them into people who are lonely and actually desire friendship. How many of us can boast a single handful of choice friends? How many applicants for the office of friend (or of perhaps neighbor) how can we engage the opportunity of an all new friend?

We need a variety of people to act as candidates for our friendship. They have often been our salvation. I found western America the more friendly as a section, though I was within a section that was not friendly and



This oil-rich province was part of the North West Territories during the days of early settlement of Canada. Even though it still is not a province, it had received its name in 1883 in honor of Princess Louise, fourth daughter, daughter of Queen Victoria. It became a province in 1905, whose capital is Edmonton.

But There Was Much More!

New York Times

The most famous line that Ethel Barrymore spoke during her half a century on the American stage was this: "That's all there is — there isn't any more." It was what she would say the words was unlike any other line in the memory of the oldest playgoers. It may not have been more beautiful or more witty than many another line — but it was definitely unforgettable.

Yesterday Miss Barrymore is dead in the 80th year of her age, we can see the fallacy in the famous words. There is a good deal more. She will always be remembered.

Queen and Prince Philip Will Worship in Kingston Church

The visit of the Queen to Kingston's Sydenham Street United Church is believed to be the first time she has attended a church service in Canada in other than an Anglican church.

Lieut.-General Howard Graham, Royal Commissioner, said that Queen Elizabeth expressed a desire to attend a non-conformist church service during her visit to Canada.

The Queen will arrive at Sydenham Street United Church at 8.15 p.m. and the church service will begin at 8.15 p.m.

Sydenham Street Church is the mother church of the following Kingston churches: Princess St. Church, Portsmouth Church, Queen St. Church, Depot Church (closed in 1930), and the recently erected St. Matthew's Church.

The church is built of grey Kingston limestone. The top of the spire is 150' from the ground. There is 100' of structure and 80' of spire.

In February, 1791, a young man of 27 was sent by the Methodists of New York to establish a mission in Upper Canada. His name was William Losee. He had only one arm but he proved a fearless rider along the roads of the new frontier, and before long had had established little centres of worship from Cornwall to Adolphustown on the Bay of Quinte.

FIRST CHURCH IN 1811

This far-flung circuit was called "Kingston," but no church was erected in the village of that name until 1811, when a small frame chapel was built. Methodist Bishop Asbury of New York, preached in this chapel on July 10 of that year. This date represents the beginning of the congregational life now carried on in Sydenham St. Church.

In the course of time another chapel was erected on Bay Street for Methodists who had come from England. In 1847 the British and Canadian branches of Methodism united, and in Kingston the Methodists felt that the time had come to build "a church of such proportion that it would accommodate both congregations."

In 1850 land for the new church was purchased, and on Thursday, April 17, 1851, the cornerstone of the new edifice was laid. An old facsimile book says that "the service was solemn and impressive, and the audience large. A tea-meeting was held in the evening in the old chapel on Bay Street."

On March 25, 1852, Sydenham Street Church was opened for worship. The Kingston "Daily News" carried this item: "The new Wesleyan Church on Sydenham Street was, on Sunday last, opened for public worship. The Rev. E. Wood preached in the morning, and the Rev. Dr. Ryerson in the evening, to very large and attentive audiences. The new church is a Gothic style of architecture, is capable of seating 1,000 persons, and occupies a beautiful site in the middle of the city."

RENTED BOX PEWS

In the original Sydenham Street Church the choir occupied seats in the rear gallery. Square box pews were reserved for members. The church was lit with gas and heated by firewood.

The manse was built in 1854. Where the parsonage now stands, on William Street, there was a driving sheds. The parsonage was built in 1884.

In 1886 the young people of the church submitted plans for a Sunday School building. The congregation had grown, and it was decided at the same time to enlarge the church. This work was begun in 1888. The side walls of the original church were moved out, and a circular arrangement of gallery and pews laid out. The Sunday School building still serves the youth of the church.

In 1925 Sydenham Street Church became a congregation in the newly-formed United Church of Canada. In 1938 the last major changes were carried out in the fabric of the church. The chancel was built, and a three-manual Casavant organ installed, together with new pews. In 1948 the entire church plant was renovated and improved in many ways.

REV. RICHARD DAVIDSON

When the Queen and Prince Philip worship at Sydenham Street United Church, Kingston, on Sunday, June 28, they will listen to the sermon delivered by Rev. Richard H. N. Davidson, minister of the church for the past four years.

The minister will greet the Queen as she leaves her car and will escort her to a front pew in the church. The minister will escort the Queen to her car after the service, stopping for a moment at the entrance for the Queen to sign the visitors' book and so that the minister might present his wife to the Queen.

Rev. "Dick" Davidson was born in Toronto, son of Rev. Dr. Richard Davidson, late principal of Emmanuel College, and Mrs. Richard Davidson, of Toronto.

Mr. Davidson attended the University of Toronto and graduated in arts in 1935 from the University of Toronto. He graduated in theology in 1938 from Emmanuel College, Toronto, later studying at New College, Edinburgh. These studies were terminated by the outbreak of the war. He received the B.A. and Th. M. degrees from Victoria University, Toronto. Ordained in 1938 by the Toronto Conference of The United Church of Canada, Mr. Davidson's pastorates included: Clute-Island Falls, Ontario; Pilgrim Church, Hamilton; Grace Church, Brampton, and his present charge.

During the war Rev. R. H. N. Davidson was chaplain in the R.C.A.F., serving on training stations in Canada; later he was attached to the 162nd Squadron overseas. He served in Iceland, Scotland and the Shetland Islands.

He is chairman of the General Council's Committee on Church Worship and Ritual, a member of the General Council's Committee on Christian Faith and a member of the Committee on re-

Water System and Sewage Disposal Plant Operating

FRANKFORD — Frankford's water system and sewage disposal plant are now in full operation.

Both were built by the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Chairman H. Wilmot Rose has issued the following report on the new system:

"Under pressure from various citizens and the fact that industry could be obtained without waterworks, the council started to look into the matter of waterworks.

"The first step was taken on April 25, 1956, when the Reeve, H. W. Rose, and the clerk, J. E. Finnegan, went to Madoc to interview the engineers in charge of the Madoc system. As a result of that interview, Graham-Reid, of a Toronto engineering firm, met the council and suggested that he survey the village for water and sewers at a cost of $950. Provided we did go on with the project the $350 would be absorbed in the overall expense.

From May 18th to 17th, Mr. Reid's engineers surveyed the village. The report came back on June 4th showing an estimated total cost for the whole village of $486,100. The council thought this proposition over and on July 16th passed a motion to go ahead with the waterworks.

At this time, the engineers planned on taking water from the Trent Canal which did not appeal to council. On October 1st the reeve contacted Mr. Dewar of the International Water Supply Company, Oakville. He looked over the village and suggested the best place to drill a well. This is the location where the well was eventually drilled. The overall plans entailed crossing the Trent River and the Trent Canal, which required permission from the Department of Transport in Ottawa. On Oct. 14, 1956, the council went to Ottawa, met with officials of the Department of Transport and obtained their permission to cross the canal at the desired place. A week later council went to Toronto and interviewed Dr. A. G. Berry and Chairman Bedder of the Ontario Water Resources Commission. They in turn presented our case to the Municipal Board.

CHANGED TO WELL

On April 3, 1957, Mr. Reid met council about the water system at this meeting. It was definitely decided to change from the Trent Canal to a well.

On May 25, Mr. Watt and Mr. Hazzet of the O.W.R.C. were here looking over the site and agreed on the location. On May 31, 1957, the International Water Company came to go test drilling and had very pleasing results. The volume of water was ample to satisfy the OWRC. At this time the Ontario Municipal Board informed us that it would be impossible to plan and let waterworks for the whole village, owing to the cost. They advised us to draw our plans to where $570,000 would be utilized to the best advantage. Mr. Reid then revised plans according to what the Municipal Board would grass and reported back to council on September 30, 1957. On October 31, 1957, the clerk received a letter confirming our agreements with the Water Resources Commission for both water and sewers.

PROCEEDS SMOOTHLY

On January 8, 1958, Mr. Lazenby, from the Cornwall of the Water Resources Commission met the new council and briefed them as to what had happened. On February 10th, the clerk received confirmation from the Municipal Board that the waterworks was a sure thing. On April 1, 1958, Lightfoot Construction Company started digging on King Street. The contract went smoothly along during the summer and on Nov. 25, 1958, the official opening was held, although the system was not quite ready. The first water was turned on January 1, 1959 and sewers a few days later.

Up until the present, the system seems to be working satisfactorily to all concerned."

Second Albert College Recital Presented in Memorial Hall

By GLADYS WARD

At the second in the series of recitals by the Albert College Conservatory of Music on Thursday evening, Mr. Egerton Boyes presented his pupils in a pleasing variety of vocal and piano numbers. In Memorial Chapel the parents, grandparents and friends of the young performers encouraged them with generous applause.

Dr. T. C. McMillan, supervising Albert College, made the audience welcome and explained the changes in the printed programs .At the front of the auditorium a basket of red and white flowers tied with a red ribbon was placed on a pedestal. Small palms flanked the platform.

The students showed varying degrees of efficiency, some with definite promise and some accomplished musicians. Most important, all were learning to know and appreciate the classic compositions of the masters, and even those who do not follow through with musical careers will have gained something to add satisfaction and depth to their appreciation of music all their lives. The skill and ability which many displayed showed the careful instruction they had received, resulting in fine interpretations of the feelings for mood.

The last of the concerts will be held on Saturday night at Albert College and it is open to the public.

Those participating were as follows:

Piano duet, Nancy Williams and Janice James; piano, Joyce Wilson; piano, Tommy Cook; piano, Anne Cronk; vocal, Judy Thompson; piano, Douglas Wellbanks; piano, Roy Maddocks; piano duet, Joyce and Catherine Wilson; piano, Maribeth Wellbanks; piano, Marilyn Hurst; vocal, Donna Jean Morrison; piano, Lyle Peverley; piano, Catherine Cole; piano duet, Anne Chambers; vocal duet, Elaine McMillan and Gloria Maxwell; piano, Nancy Williams; piano and organ, Marilyn Eastcott and Mr. Boyer; piano, Janice Jeffs; Vocal, Faye Robinson; piano, Judith Ann Jones; vocal, Elaine McNish; piano, Catherine Cook; piano, Donna Lee Griffith; piano duet, Judith Anne Jones and Catherine Cook; vocal, Gloria Maxwell; vocal, Carolin Bowerbank; piano, Corinne Peverley; vocal, Frances Johnson, Marilyn Eastcott; vocal, Anne McMillan; piano, Caroline James; vocal, Mrs. Vera Rollins; piano, Eleanor Beach; vocal, Mrs. Evelyn Miller; piano duet, Lucinda St. Pierre and Eleanor Beach.

FRIDAY

Chilled Grape Juice; Curried Tuna on Rice or Jellied Salmon Loaf; Cauliflower sprinkled with Grated Cheese; Mashed Fresh Frozen Squash; Lemon Meringue Pie; Tea.

ANSWER:

I think the following recipe for Cream Sandwich Cookies so close to your request that you can adapt it.

CREAM SANDWICH COOKIES:

1 cup soft butter or margarine, 1-3-cup heavy cream, 4 cups sifted all purpose flour, granulated sugar, ¾ cup sifted icing sugar, ¼ cup soft butter or margarine, 1 egg yolk, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix 1 cup butter, cream, flour until well blended; refrigerate until well-chilled. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough ¼" thick (roll only 1-3 of dough at a time, keeping rest refrigerated). Cut into rounds with 1¼" cutter. Transfer rounds to waxed paper covered with granulated sugar. Turn each round so that both sides are coated with sugar; place on ungreased cookie sheet. With fork, prick each round several times. Bake 7 to 8 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Cool. Meanwhile, make filling: Beat icing sugar gradually into ¼ cup butter until light and fluffy; beat in egg yolk and vanilla; refrigerate. To serve, put cookies together in pairs with filling between. Makes about 6 dozen.

QUESTION:

I tried your recipe for Boston Baked Beans and they were simply delicious and was wondering if you might have the recipe for Baked Beans in Tomato Sauce. I mean like those you get in a can . . . Mrs. E. J.

ANSWER:

It is well-nigh impossible to reproduce commercially canned products in the home, but the following recipe makes delicious

BAKED BEANS IN TOMATO SAUCE:

2 cups navy beans, ½ lb. salt pork (scalded, rind removed), 6 tablespoons molasses, 1 large onion, 2 clove garlic, ½ cup tomato juice, ½ cup tomato paste, 3 tablespoons sugar.

Soak beans overnight in cold water. In morning, drain. Save the bean liquid. Put salt pork, parsley, onion, and garlic through food grinder. Add together with tomato juice, tomato paste and sugar to the beans. Cover with fresh water. Simmer 2 hours. Put into 2-quart bean pot — add just enough bean liquid to cover beans. Cover pot. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 4 hours, uncovering during last 1½ hours.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: SAY YOUR PREFERENCE

When the host or hostess is carving at the table and asks you for your meat-preference . . . "Rare, medium, or well-done?" . . . or your chicken-preference . . . "White or dark meat?" . . . state your preference. You won't be a bit of help to him or her by saying a flabbily-indecisive, "Oh, just any piece." This only perplexes the carver, who must decide for you, and unnecessarily delays the serving.

Also, when the host or hostess passes the plate which you are told is intended for you, don't insist on passing on this plate to someone else.

Although you undoubtedly mean to be co-operative, neither of these actions is helpful.

FIANCE AND FIANCEE ARE PRONOUNCED ALIKE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct pronunciation of fiance? I have been told that fiance and fiancee are pronounced the same. Is this really true? — A New (1) Fiancee.

Yes, Fiance (masculine) and fiancee (feminine) are pronounced alike . . . fee-ah-say. (And every good wish to you for that nice "new"!)

St. Andrew's Guild Holds Final Meeting

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held the June meeting last Tuesday evening with a fair attendance, Mrs. H. G. MacKay presided.

The Scripture lesson, read by Mrs. R. Michaud was taken from St. John 16:1-13, "In my Father's house are many mansions." Mrs. W. Mantle prayed at the piano.

Several items of business and group activities were discussed, including the "Rose Garden Tea" and bake sale. A letter from the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants was read by the secretary, Mrs. J. Bly, and it was voted to make a donation to this organization.

Misses Kathy Cook and Judith Ann Jones, introduced to the Guild by Mrs. Pickard, delighted the audience with the following musical numbers: "Little Curly Head March," duet; "Mexicana," Judith Ann Jones; "Rhonda" and "Happy Dance," Kathy Cook.

Thanks, on behalf of the Guild, were extended by Mrs. Pickard to the girls.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Tounsley's group.

This was the last meeting of the Guild until September.

URGE LICENCE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Association of Social Workers has asked the provincial government to make licensing of social workers mandatory.

Mr. and Mrs. James Frank Jeffs are shown signing the register following their marriage in Eastminster United Church, Bellerille. The bride is the former Miss Carol Joyce Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Reid of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles Jeffs of Belleville, and the late Mr. Jeffs. (Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville.)

JEFFS—REID

Lovely blooms of pink and white peonies interspersed with graceful spires Vas Houti adorned the chancel rail in Eastminster United Church, on Saturday, June 6, at 2.00 p.m., for a double - ring wedding when Carol Joyce Reid, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Reid, was united in marriage to James Frank Jeffs, son of Mrs. Charles Jeffs of Belleville, and the late Charles Jeffs. The Reverend Alexander McDowell, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. H. Rennie, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Fisher, of Yonkers, who sang, "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white Chantilly lace over taffeta, in sheath style with empire waistline, with short sleeves and yoke of Chantilly lace having an elongated scalloped neckline. She wore a fulllength bridal veil, edged with sequins and shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion and short gloves. Her flowers were red roses and white feathered carnations.

Mr. Donald Merlon of Belleville attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Jack Grindrod and Mr. Charles Jeffs, brother of the bridegroom, both of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marjorie S. — She makes a doormat of herself.

Eileen J. — I'll wear him down yet. . . .

Marjorie S. — My friend Eileen and I are in our early 30's and work in the same small office. Eileen is head over heels in love with our boss — who happens to be a handsome bachelor in his early 30's.

Eileen works as Jim's private secretary and puts in a lot of overtime and runs herself ragged for him. I think she's nuts because he doesn't really show any appreciation for it. She hasn't had a raise in the longest time and I know for a fact that she could make more money elsewhere.

So far she hasn't gotten to first base with him and I think she is making a big mistake by catering to him. She is an attractive girl and doesn't have to make a doormat out of herself for any man. I think she ought to let him know she's got to have a raise — or else.

. . . .

Eileen J. — It's very easy to give good advice when you don't happen to be as much in love as I am. I would just shout die if Jim didn't give me the raise and I was forced to go elsewhere.

It isn't true that Jim doesn't appreciate what I am doing. He shows his thoughtfulness in many ways. He often takes me to lunch or cocktails after work and gives me extra time off for shopping around Christmas. I know he is attracted to me because he compliments me a lot — both on my appearance and my work.

I feel that Jim is now just fighting to keep things innocent between us. He doesn't want to be attracted to me because he is afraid of letting romance interfere with work. But I expect to wear him down and then he won't let work block romance.

The Council: For he it from us to scoff at any woman's man trap. Strange things are happening all the time and what hasn't worked for scores of women could just happen to work for Eileen.

We will say, however, that romance and work don't mix well when one is used to project the other. The girl who offers her professional abilities as a sacrifice on the altar of love is likely to see little more than her sacrifice going up in smoke — just as the girl who uses her physical charms as a means of hoodwinking employers is likely to wind up with an ability to run around desks as her only job skill.

The answer is — Yes, Eileen — not for the raise if you believe you are entitled to it. We are certain it will in no way handicap your romantic chances. If Jim lets you go for asking for your deserved raise, it means he has been just dying to get rid of you. The hunches and cockalls may be just a sop thrown to exploited labor. If there is anything personal in his interest, Jim will get in touch with you at it. Jim lets you go for asking for your new job.

Sunday School Lesson

When Justice Was Rough

By ROY L. SMITH

Much confusion has resulted in the minds of many people as they read some of the stories of the Old Testament, for they forget that these tales come down to us from a time when justice was rough and when lines were drawn in a fog. Again and again it has happened that the Scriptures have seemed to countenance horrible things, saying they were either commanded of God or done in His name. But this is because the record was written for us by people whose vision of right and wrong was not yet clear.

As a consequence of this tendency, many very terrible actions have been given the approval of the Holy Writ, but as the race progressed in understanding God and righteousness, the standards were gradually lifted, until in the time of Jesus there came the full revelation of the nature of God as it was portrayed in His life and teachings. It can be said, then, that anything in the Old Testament which does not measure up to the standards set by Jesus Christ can be nothing more than an intermediate stage in the development of the Hebrew faith.

PRINCESS AND DISASTER

Omri, one of the kings of Israel, succeeded in marrying his son Ahab to a pagan princess named Jezebel. As a result a splendid port was opened up for Israelite trade, and the export of wheat. As a further result the nation enjoyed a period of unprecedented prosperity. And the people thought it was good because the price of wheat was doubled.

But the coming of the pagan princess was the signal for a pagan invasion of the land which undermined the ancestral faith, this faith having been designed to protect the plain people against the cupidity and the ruthlessness of their kings. And in the end the corrosion extended throughout all the land and all the government.

That which looked like such good business threatened to be the influence that was to destroy justice throughout the nation, and with the going of justice the people who had been paid good prices for their wheat found themselves exploited by their governments which no longer acknowledged any responsibility toward God.

It is impossible to lower the moral standards of a nation without lowering the toll against every citizen in the land.

PLACE OF THE PRIEST

At a critical point in the nation's history the High Priest abducted an infant son of the reigning house, and secreted him in an inner apartment in the temple. Through a period of almost seven years the little fellow lived and grew behind the temple walls.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 28: "Priest and King in Judah," 2 Kings 11 and 12.

Then on an appointed day the priest conceived his coronation, and proclaimed him the rightful ruler of the land. It was all a devious piece of business, that called for a great deal of deception. But in the end the rightful heir was seated on the throne, and a new era began in the life of the nation. The dowager queen, in a last vain endeavor to protect her villainous reign, cried "treason;" but it was of no use. A priest had accomplished her downfall.

It is true, of course, that the chief function of a priest is religion. But there comes times when good religion demands that a priest or a clergyman shall get into the field of politics and provide moral leadership for a nation.

IT'S LAYMAN'S JOB

A funny situation had developed in a certain city. Convinced that none of his laymen were going to act, the pastor of one of the churches finally felt himself compelled to accept the chairmanship of a committee that had been set up to take some kind of action. And the program they laid out for themselves gave promise of taking everyone into a rough and tumble fight.

A leading layman of the congregation appeared at the pastor's study and said, "This is too dirty a business for you. We don't want our preacher mixing in this sort of thing." The pastor replied, "I agree that it is nothing with which I want to have anything to do, but no layman has come forward offering to take over, and until he does I must in honor carry on. Will you take the chairmanship? If so, I will step out." But the layman wanted nothing to do with it.

Preachers sometimes have to step in because laymen will not.

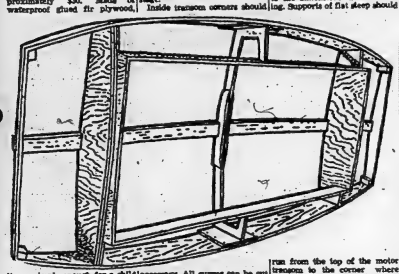
CANADA'S NATIONAL NEWSPAPER

Fir Plywood Punt Takes You Where The Fish Are



Mike Cramond, outdoors editor of the Province newspaper, spent many years searching for the ideal car-top boat. He found and he had to design one himself — an all purpose fir plywood punt — and it has fulfilled all his expectations. In this three-part series, he tells how to build it.

Most boats are not simple to build, and those which are easy are not so simple to handle. They are suited to one or two uses but not to others, and often quite expensive and laborious to construct.

Some of years of stepping into and falling out of hulls, finding those I liked too expensive and those within my means unsatisfactory, forced me to design what I hoped would 'fill the bill.'

It worked out, and cost approximately $30. Made of waterproof glued fir plywood, it was simple enough for a child to build.

The resulting hull can be rowed, punted, outboarded, sailed — or slept in. It will hold 850 pounds. Two men can flyfish from it while a third man rows. It can be successfully used for duck hunting, trolling, or just plain travelling. Because it weighs only 70-odd pounds it can be car-topped or carried a good distance by one man.

With the intermediate frames made solid to form air pockets at the ends it will float a man although filled with water. It can be sat upon when capsized, leaving the occupant clear of the water.

Materials consist of three panels of fir plywood, three pieces of lumber, a half-pound of nails and a pound of waterproof glue. All materials are readily available at lumber yards.

A 10-ft sheet of plywood for the bottom is the only extra-large panel, and it can be 'substituted' by splicing, if not readily available.

Here is the list of materials needed to build the fir plywood punt:

1 pc. waterproof glued fir plywood good one side grade ¼" x 4' x 8'. (Make sides, frames, transom.)

½ pc. waterproof glued fir plywood good one side grade ¼" x 4' x 8'. (Makes decking.)

1 pc. marine grade fir plywood ¼" x 4' x 10'. (For bottom. If not available in 10-ft. length you can splice shorter lengths.)

1 lb. waterproof glue. (Weldwood or equiv.)

½ lb. nails 1" flathead galvanized.

½ lb. nails 1¼" finishing, galvanized.

24 lineal ft. 1" x 1" fir for glue blocks.

1 pc. 1" x 2" x 10' fir, forms keel.

All fir plywood manufactured in Canada and edge branded PMBC EXTERIOR is bonded with waterproof glue. If desired, Marine Grade, which has a solid core, may be used.

Tools required are one hammer, one handsaw, one plane. A square is helpful, but not necessary. All curves can be cut by rainforce with small blocks of scrap wood, fitted to bear on all surfaces. Then fit and glue and nail intermediate frames into position.

The keel is next. It fits into notches cut into the centre and intermediate frames. The ends are bevelled to fit snugly inside the transoms. When fitted, it is nailed and glued in place and the punt is ready for the sides and bottom and deck.

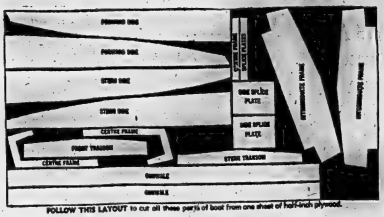
After the framing of the all-purpose fir plywood punt has been completed, and the pieces nailed and glued into place, 24 hours should be allowed for the glue to set firmly. The punt is now ready for "planking."

To make the bottom, saw the 4 x 10 foot panel of fir plywood with any ordinary saw and because joints are held by glue as well as nails no clamps are necessary. Power tools speed up the job but are not necessary.

To start building the all-purpose fir plywood punt, draw out the pieces as shown on a 4 x 8 panel of half-inch fir plywood. As you cut them out, leave a margin for final fitting.

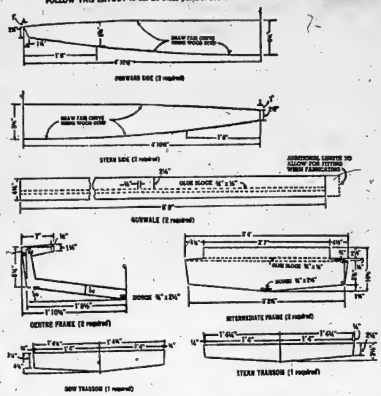
Side pieces are assembled first, being fitted together and held by splice plates nailed and glued to them. Use inch and a quarter galvanized nails, clinching them on the inside.

Then make the centre frame, which is bolted and held by splicing plates, nails and glue. Be careful of measurements here, for an error can spoil the shape of the finst punt.



Bend the sides into place, separated by the centre frame, and fit all touching pieces carefully before gluing and nailing into place. Nops twisted in the form of a Spanish windlass helps hold the punt together at this stage.

Inside transom corners should run from the top of the motor transom to the corner where the gunwales join the intermediate frame.



Sealing in the punt need only be a piece of leftover decking, 24 x 34 inches, placed in the bottom of the boat. Our positions are variable, but should be close to the stern so that the bow will rise slightly when the boatman sits just aft of centre.

The punt is now ready for painting. First seal the fir plywood thoroughly, and then paint to your taste. Decorative strips of hardwood can be laid along the decklins for trim, and a shallow, half-inch outer keel added to the bottom for seaworthiness, if desired.

If on first reading some aspects of this plan seem confusing, don't worry. As construction proceeds, many problems will clear themselves up.

FOLLOW THIS LAYOUT to cut all these parts of boat from one sheet of half-inch plywood.

Youths Conquer Highest Peak In Yukon Range

WHITEHORSE, Y.T (CP) — Canadians have conquered 19,-580-foot Mount Logan from the east for the first time

Six youths who left here 30 days before to challenge Canada's highest peak returned on Tuesday night with news of success. They said they reached the summit June 12.

"You should have seen it," Ron Delasalle of Montreal and Banff, Alta., told a reporter on Wednesday. "We could see the ocean on one side and all these mountains on the other."

Logan's granite peak and great glaciers are in the towering Elias Range of the southwestern Yukon, 60 miles from the Pacific and about 200 miles west of Whitehorse.

The party had bad luck: on the way back. A rubber craft carrying a filmed record of their trip and other supplies was lost on the Donjek River. There were 1,300 slides on the raft. Only pictures saved were those strapped on the back of Hans Gmoser, 26, of the expedition.

Other members were Willy Pfisterer, 33, of Jasper, an Alpine guide; Ron Smylie of Calgary; Don Lyon, 24, of Westview, B.C., and Karl Bieker, 34, of Vancouver.

Queen, Eisenhower Royally Christen Spanking-New Seaway of the St. Lawrence

MONTREAL (CP) — One of man's mightiest marine marvels — the spanking-new seaway of the St. Lawrence—is royally christened today.

It's a big baby, a sprawling, bawling infant of two months, born of a shot-gun wedding six years ago between Canada and the United States after a bitterly long, on-again, off-again 40-year courtship.

Sixty thousand men, hundreds of bulldozers, drills, dredges, cranes and trucks put guts and heart into the seaway baby.

The Queen and President Eisenhower are the godparents. With flags and fanfare and more than 10,000 people watching, it may be the biggest splash in the history of christenings.

ITS MILLES LONG

The seaway stretches from Montreal to Lake Ontario, a 185-mile channel, with seven locks and four canals, that swings from Canada into the United States for 35 miles and then comes back to this country.

It is like a water escalator, lifting or lowering ships 225 feet from the level of Montreal harbor to Lake Ontario, skirting half-a-dozen treacherous rapids that foiled sailors and their ships for four centuries.

Part of the seaway, too, is Canada's Welland Canal, a 27-mile channel with eight locks finished 27 years ago to lead ships from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie, by-passing the tumultuous Niagara Falls.

Together, the two channels open a new era for the five Great Lakes and the people living around them. Land-locked ports become ocean harbors, the lakes become a big lake and a two-way commerce in big lake freighters and ocean tramps becomes real at last.

COSTLY PROJECT

It cost $470,000,000 to build the seaway. Of every dollar, Canada spent 71 cents, the United States 29 cents. Canada's share: two split tolls—71 per cent to Canada, 29 per cent to the U.S. With the tolls both countries plan to pay off the cost of the seaway by 2009 or even before.

To do it, they anticipate 30,000,000 tons of cargo a year once the initial hectic hustle is over.

In May, the first month of seaway operation, 980 ships carried 2,243,450 tons of cargo to and from lake ports—almost a 10 per cent jump over cargo carried in the same month last year through old, narrow, shallow canals.

These 1900-vintage canals, now obsolete, were the big bottleneck in the St. Lawrence River and Lake route to the Head of the Lakes at Duluth, Minn., and Fort William-Port Arthur, Ont.

OLD LOCKS UNWIELDY

Only small ships—300 feet long and 45 feet wide with a draught of 14 feet—could use the old system. And the 1,800 ships that made the gates were slow and unwieldy for fast modern ships.

Now the seven - lock seaway speeds up traffic, despite its size. The locks accommodate ships up to 72 feet wide, 730 feet long with 26 feet of water.

Canada built five locks, four of them within the limits of Montreal and the fifth at Iroquois, Ont. The U.S. erected two locks and a 10-mile canal at Massena, N.Y., across the river from Cornwall, Ont.

Linked with the maritime project is a grandiose power project at Cornwall, a joint hydro-electric project built by Ontario and New York state.

MAN-MADE LAKE

Last July, a new 35-mile-long lake was flooded behind the existing power dam, inundating—seven old riverfront communities and forcing 1,500 people to move to higher ground. Three new communities were built for the flood-threatened people, all of them in Canada.

It took 80 years to get people on both sides of the border together behind the seaway-power vision. With American opposition largely from the railways and eastern ports, constantly thwarting Canadian efforts to get the seaway started, Canada finally announced in 1952 that this country would build the waterway alone.

That did it. The U.S. finally backed the project. But Canada still can create an all-Canadian seaway, merely by building two locks to match the U.S. structures. The cost, however, would be phenomenal.

Once approved, the engineers didn't take long to start digging. In 1954, first sod was turned. By 1958, Canada had excavated more than 50,000,000 cubic yards of earth, and dredged some 20,000,000 cubic yards of river mud to cut channels.

WORK IN WINTER

Canadian crews worked all winter) pioneering new methods of pouring concrete in hording sub-zero blizzard, devising flaming jet of burning fuel to thaw a glacial rock too hard to penetrate with ordinary drills.

They bulk new bridges, modified old canals, blasted and bored through dry land, across an Indian reservation, past 183-century cemeteries and finally let in the water to start the ships moving.

The U.S. locks went into operation last July after the man-made Lake St. Lawrence was created. The full seaway route was first used two months and two days ago—on April 25 when a veteran Montreal freighter moved slowly through the St. Lambert lock at the eastern end of the seaway.

Now the seaway is open to about 80 per cent of the world's ships. The rest are too big to get through the locks.

Jacques Cartier, first white man to see — in 1534 — the rapids of Lachine near here, wouldn't believe it. Nor would Champlain, whose canoes couldn't go, mighty transport ships now serenely sail.

Officials Work To Whittle Down Vessel Backlog

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Ships were reported "canalling normally" Thursday night as transport department officials worked to whittle down a backlog of vessels at the Welland Canal entrance.

"We're working away at them," a spokesman at the Port Weller northern division office said after midnight.

About 20 ships were reported at anchor on Lake Ontario at the Port Weller entrance to the 27-mile inland waterway. Nearly 40 were waiting Thursday night on Lake Erie to enter at the Port Colborne end.

About 15 vessels were in transit before midnight in the canal itself.

Pilots, needed for foreign vessels, were working non-stop to keep the ships moving. Only 20 pilots are available.

PRIORITY FOR ORE

Dominion ships need no pilots and upper lake bulk freighters carrying iron ore are receiving top priority, moving into empty locks immediately upon arrival. Most in line are ships carrying coal, grain and pulpwood. The first-grain priorities was put into effect Wednesday.

Package freighters carrying cargoes which don't rate priority have to wait their turn.

A small fleet of United States naval vessels heading into the Great Lakes require Canadian pilots for the canal trip from Port Weller to Port Colborne. Capt. Langdon Crawford, dispatcher for the pilots, is taking them through personally on their eighth hour. Nine U.S. warships have arrived at Port Weller so far.

MONTREAL (CP)—Delays at the Welland Canal affecting ocean ships passing through the St. Lawrence seaway have had the effect of speeding plans for basic steel production in the Cote Nord region of Quebec, informed sources said Thursday.

The new Steel Company of Canada plant at Contrecoeur is moving completion at a cost of some $10,000,000," with steel pipe production expected to start before the end of the year.

Supermart War In Full Swing In Metro Area

TORONTO (CP)—Two big food chains have countered a coupon redemption offer by Steinberg's Ltd. of Montreal by offering to redeem the coupons at twice their value.

The move came after Steinberg's recently distributed coupons to residents of Willowdale and Lansing, northern suburbs, offering a $1 discount for every $10 worth of food purchased on presenting the coupon.

Another development in the chain reaction set off by the Steinberg action was the announcement today that Power Sopermarkets Limited plans to establish in Montreal in the near future.

Steinberg's, whose stores are located chiefly in Quebec province, recently acquired control of Grand Union - Cherrolly, Limited with seasonal stores between London and Whitby.

The coupon offer, which applies Willowdale, is apparently an attempt by Steinberg's to move into greater competition in the Toronto-area supermarket field.

OFFER DOUBLED

But both Loblaw Groceterias and Dominion Stores Limited have announced they are offering double the $1 redemption value of the Steinberg coupons for a $10 purchase.

Last April the Financial Post predicted a battle for supermarket supremacy would flare up between the two food chains then Loblaw has moved into Quebec and Steinberg into Ontario.

The A. & P. in Canada said they had a policy of accepting coupons of all competitors.

Pearson Wants U.S. to Continue Buying Uranium

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson urged in the Commons Thursday that the government not take so far an answer in asking the United States to continue buying Canadian uranium.

Uranium had become Canada's No. 1 export earner, Pearson said. It was more important than ever, therefore, to maintain exports of coal, grain and pulpwood. The "prime grain" priorities was put into effect Wednesday.

Package freighters carrying cargoes which don't rate priority have to wait their turn.

Queen and Prince Gracefully Bow Out Under Pressure of Huge Crowd at Montreal Ball

MONTREAL (CP)—Thousands of Montrealers danced Thursday night to celebrate the royal visit.

About 10,000 danced under the stars in the working-class district of Pointe St. Charles.

And 1,900 formally attired guests of the City of Montreal danced in the great ballroom of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, creating a terrific crush around the Queen and Prince Philip.

The royal pair gracefully bowed out under the pressure of the huge ballroom crowd, composed of Montreal's most important people.

One important person was not there. Frank Hanley, spirited, raucous-voiced member of the city council and the provincial legislature, entertained his cronies in highly unregal but festive fashion in Marguerite Bourgeois Park.

BALL FOR WORKERS

He said the dance—he called it the "ball of the masses" — was "for the working people to honor Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip." Members of the American Federation of Musicians donated their time to play dance music.

He said he organized it in protest against what he described as the city's "magnificent wastefulness" in paying the shot for its civic ball and banquet.

Mr. Hanley said the city should have charged $10 a plate at its banquet and used the money for worthy causes. "I was invited and I would have gone if they did that," he said.

In the hotel, all went well for the early part of the evening. Guests dined and talked gaily during the banquet.

Then the orchestra played its first piece, a slow foxtrot. Mayor Sarto Fournier self - consciously took the Queen out onto the dance floor.

BAND TANGLED UP

The mayor had his troubles. Somehow his hand got tangled slightly in the Queen's silver evening purse, slung over her white glove arm.

Mayor Fournier was seen signalling behind Her Majesty's back for guests to join in. Most couples only stood and watched.

The first dance ended and the orchestra struck up another tune. The crowd seemed to hesitate, then Prince Philip took the Queen onto the floor. Other couples followed and the crush was on.

RCMP officers who had kept the crowd subdued, withdrew and a mob crowded in toward the royal couple.

Ladies in elaborate evening gowns and men in white ties perched on top of chairs to get a glimpse of the Queen. One lady toppled, sending chinaware clattering to the floor.

Chairs were bowled over, waiters and waitresses were jolted and the crowd kept crushing in squeezing the Queen and prince into a small circle.

APPEAL MADE BY MC

Mounties formed a wedge to keep the mob back and an appeal was made by a master of ceremonies for the guests to retire.

"We couldn't push them as if they were a street mob," one RCMP officer said. "At least they were very influential people."

The Queen and prince finally managed to leave the ballroom. They went to the hotel's royal suite.

Queen Elizabeth didn't seem too disturbed through it all. When she withdrew there was a wide smile on her face. Prince Philip wore a sort of resigned shrug and waved as he disappeared.

"It was the usual example of rudeness and bad manners I've ever seen for a long time," said the wife of an air force officer. "These people are supposed to be the leaders of society in Montreal and they acted like bobby-soxers trying to get a look at Elvis Presley."

At the other ball a different type of crowd enjoyed a 20-minute fireworks display and some Montreal night club acts on a temporary stage.

It was a family affair. Everyone from sleeping two-year-olds to elderly ladies and gentlemen were there.

The bandstand was decorated with a huge picture of the Queen.

'Old Satchmo' Appears Better, Sits up in Bed

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Trumpet man Louis Armstrong sat up in bed today, chuckled over telegrams of good cheer and joked with his doctors.

Doctors even let him walk in the bathroom unaided.

The 58-year-old king of jazz appeared to have rallied strongly from a grave attack of pneumonia Tuesday which was complicated by a strained heart and stretched lungs resulting from 45 years of blowing on his magic horn.

Despite Armstrong's apparent improvement, doctors still were watching closely for any sign of complications. They were cautious about making any optimistic statements.

Thursday, Armstrong's temperature shot up to a dangerous 102. He survived two fever crises. His doctors and his wife never moved from his bedside.

BACK TO NORMAL

Today at 7 a.m. a medical bulletin said he "showed notable improvement."

That was reflected in other reports coming from Armstrong's room.

He was propped up in bed so he could read the hundreds of telegrams pouring in from all parts of the world.

"If this continues without complications," a doctor said, "the 'old man' will be all right in two or three days."

Television personality Ed Sullivan called at the hospital to say goodbye before leaving Spoleto. Armstrong told him:

"Yesterday was the rough day, but now I think pops is in the clear."

WISH HIM WELL

Among wellwishers were Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek and Prince Rainier and princess Grace of Monaco.

Armstrong, whose silver trumpet tone and gravel-voiced song have made him the king of jazz to millions, came to spoleto Monday with his band to play at the Festival of Two Worlds.

He was stricken early the next day.

No Reason to Believe Threat Of Communist Subversion in Canada Any Less Says Fulton

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has no reason to believe the threat of Communist subversion in Canada is any less now than it ever was, Justice Minister Fulton said Thursday.

He made the statement as Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) and other MPs cast a critical eye at certain aspects of RCMP anti-subversion investigation activities during Comments study of justice department spending estimates, which later were approved.

"We have absolutely no information to indicate that we would be justified in relaxing the security precautions . . . with regard to subversive activities in this country," Mr. Fulton said at one point.

Mr. Fisher argued, however, that there is an anomaly in charging the RCMP with a responsibility for anti - Communist measures when it is legal for the Communist Party to run candidates in Canadian elections.

While it was necessary to think of the scarlet-coated Mounties as a "magnificent red shield protecting us from the menace," said Mr. Fisher, "I should like to know more about the menace from which we're being protected."

Mr. Fulton agreed with Mr. Fisher that it would be desirable if a subversive person could be identified and that they should start doing so.

"But the methods of the Communists are so infinitely various, so devious and so skilful," Mr. Fulton said, that it would be virtually impossible ever to come up with such a definition.

Chesley W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) said he is sure Communists have agents planted on the staff of Canadian universities to undermine student confidence in democratic values and leadership.

He said Mr. Fisher shouldn't ask Mr. Fulton to be specific about organizations that the government considers subversive or about what sort of person might be considered subversive, lest the public get the impression the danger from Communist subversive is considered as great today as it was in 1945, when a Red spy ring was uncovered in Canada by Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko.

Mr. Fulton said anti-subversion efforts being made now are as great as they were in 1946.

He added that "we have no information that would justify their being relaxed."

Mr. Fisher brought up RCMP anti-subversion activities by suggesting the force should not be used for making security checks on people seeking citizenship, that security checks should be made by a separate branch of the justice department.

Mr. Fulton said the RCMP is scrupulous not to act as judges of whether a person is a security risk. Their function was to provide facts about the person under investigation from which a government department could decide whether that person was a good security risk.

Mr. Fisher suggested consideration be given to making known what guidelines the police consider Communist - front groups. This would help to protect people from becoming innocently involved in the activities of such organizations.

He said the Finnish Organization, in this constituency, for example, is widely-reputed to be a Communist body. Why couldn't the RCMP say right out that it considered this so?

Mr. Fulton said that as far as he knows the RCMP have never identified or named any organization as Communist and he didn't intend that they should start doing so.

This course would soon render valueless all the information it had collected on subversive activity.

Stanley Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) suggested the RCMP set up a "counter-espionage" to investigate Canadian citizens like himself.

Mr. Fulton replied that Mr. Winch was wrong in saying that any body of men should be set up by the RCMP simply because he was a socialist rather than a Progressive Conservative or a Liberal.

Joining Mr. Winch in a strong condemnation of recent RCMP investigations of individuals, including unionists, Arnold Peterly (CCF — Kootenay East) said if the RCMP are going to keep investigating MPs and others, then perhaps it's time "we did a little private investigating of our own."

He was sure almost all "small and narrow minds" of officials of this nature should be investigated, too.

U.S. Treasury's Gold Stock Dropping Below $20 Billion

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Treasury's stock of gold is dropping below $20,000,000,000 for the first time since 1940. Its high mark was in 1949 when it was worth $25,000,000,000.

At the same time, total payments to foreign nations by the other nations continue to exceed receipts from them. Latest figures show exports equal only imports hold high.

These things react on each other. The record loss of gold last year—nearly $2,500,000,000 worth—was due in large measure to the fact some nations were getting their dollars through the sale of their goods in the U.S. than they were paying out for American goods. So they had dollars they could change into gold to build up their reserves.

To some Americans the situation is alarming — that is, they feel the condition is a continuing one that could drain the gold stock to an embarrassingly low level.

To others it seems healthy—that is, it's a good thing that the country's friends abroad are improving their reserves and getting their currencies back on sound basis.

REASONS FOR DROP

In between lies a body of opinion that the country's international balance of payments will work themselves out in time along normal lines. Even with a loss less than $20,000,000,000 in gold, the United States will still have more than half of the metal this side of Iron Curtain.

The immediate cause for the slip below $20,000,000,000 is a payment due in January to the International Monetary Fund as part of the United States' increased subscription to the fund. The U.S. treasury also will be required to sell $1,000,000,000 of such gold.

The central banks of other nations can buy gold from the U.S. treasury with their dollars. Simultaneous, or private citizens of other lands, cannot.

Their chance to get dollar drop in U.S. gold stocks will continue as long as the balance of payments is unfavorable.

Many reasons are given for the drop in U.S. exports. One is the higher price of some American goods. Another is the rising industrial strength of other and competing nations. Still a third is that Americans have invested in recent years to build plants abroad to make goods for export trade rather than to make them at home for export.

'EMU STRANGLED

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Someone broke into the emu cage at Roger Williams Park Tuesday and strangled one of the huge birds. The dead bird, Henrietta, was found under a tree near the cage. Martin F. Noonan, park superintendent, said the ground nearby looked as if a terrific struggle had taken place.

Big riverbed cleanup job is indicated in the above picture of power shovel and dump truck at work in the Moira River just below the Upper Bridge, but the rock excavation is only incidental to the real object at hand.

Main purpose behind the riverbed activity is to secure on the spot fill for a new gasoline service station lot. 20-foot retaining wall shown in the background requires much fill and loose riverbed rock not only provides cheap on the spot fill but serves the dual purpose of cleaning up the riverbed.

At Wimbledon

Women Adapting Men's Style, Olmedo Eliminates Krishnan

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The revolution in women's tennis is nearly complete.

All the top class women, with one or two exceptions, now serve and rush the net just like the men.

Althea Gibson was one of the first women net rushers and as the 72nd Wimbledon championships went into the fifth day today it was apparent that her man-copying style has supplanted the lady-like technique of baseline hitters. Miss Gibson is in semi-retirement and attending Wimbledon only as a special writer for a London newspaper.

Christine Truman of Britain, the No. 1 seed, is a sit-footer with the reach to cover the net almost perfectly. Little Darlene Hard of the United States bounces up and down just short of the net.

FOLLOWS DOWN LINE

American Beverly Baker Fleitz is a hitter with either the right or left hand and she is going to the net more and more.

Sally Moore, another American, is a big girl with a huge reach and perfect for the net. Maria Bueno of Brazil is about the best volleyer at Wimbledon.

Most of them were scheduled to play today, so was Angela Mortimer of England, the only girl in the upper reaches of tennis who stays back and pounds away.

She is seeded No. 2 behind Miss Truman, whom she has beaten three times this year.

Only four American men remain in the singles unless you went to count top-seeded Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian who starred for the United States in winning back the Davis Cup last December. The four are fifth-seeded Barry MacKay, Earl Buchholz, veteran Gardnar Mulloy and Jack Frost.

ONE DEPARTS TODAY

All are in the round of 18 but one is slated to-day eliminated today since Buchholz plays Mulloy. Both were idle Thursday while Olmedo knocked out Ramanathan Krishnan of India 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 and MacKay eliminated John Leschly, an 18-year-old Dane, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6.

Cobourg Wins 11-8 Over Trenton As Six Homers Feature Slugfest

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Cobourg Merchants and Trenton Garretts engaged in a home-run slugging match at Trenton last night but it took three pesky singles to settle the issue, giving Cobourg a tan-tiring 11-8 decision over the luckless Garretts.

In the bottom of the eighth, Trenton had scored five times to tie the count at 8-8 after trailing from the game's opening pitch. But, following the pattern that had kept them in last place in the B, and D, softball league, the Garretts could not stand prosperity.

Cobourg's Dick Turpin, who gained a six home runs lead off the circuit slammed two of the teeth with a single. A fielder's choice play that failed to get a man and Boyd Hendry's fabled bat brought them home for the out. Chub McIver made it 10-8 with a single and a sweet fast-bagger to cut the feed to 7-3 in the seventh. Mickey Watson followed suit with the sixth homer in the contest with a man on in Trenton's half of the eighth inning. Singles by Alexander, Drake and Austin I. nudged the ledger to 11-8.

Austin, who would have scored the winner later, was called out on an interpretation of the ground rules.

Turpin with two homers and a single paced Cobourg's 15-hit attack. Burke Cleary had a homer, double and single. Alexander, Bogner and single, McIver a triple and double and Ray Bogner had two one-baggers. Bryan Hart, Scotty McSporran and Boyd Hendry also hit safely.

Gary Austin homered, doubled and singled for Trenton. Doug Alexander singled on three occasions. Lefley Wannamaker with a homer and single and Gord Mooney with a double and single also had a lot. Ron Hamlin, Roger Drake, Don Cole and Billy Mitts had a hit apiece.

Campbell pitched the route with three strikeouts and four walks against seven hits. Mickey Watson took over from Howard Cole with the score 6-1 in the fifth. He fanned two but walked seven. Cole walked four and passed two.

City Commercial Softball League

Mead - Sportsmen cut short a late - innings rally to register a 9-8 victory open Belle Cleaners in a City Commercial softball league tilt played last night.

The winners took an early 7-0 lead but had to score twice in the seventh for the decision. Belle Cleaners plated three in the sixth and five in the bottom of the seventh.

Bruno McCurdy batted the big win, allowing only five hits and fanning 13 batters. But control trouble in the late frames, when he walked nine, almost cost him the decision.

Perrodon lasted until Ellis came on in the fifth for Belle Cleaners. They allowed nine hits, whittled five and walked seven.

Doug Young had two hits for Mead-Sportsmen while Don Belnap and Don Kumpf hit doubles. Al Lougheed, R. Morgan, Bill Muirhead, Larry Buckley and Ron Vandervoort also hit safely.

Tracey with a double and two singles and Ellis with one of each took care of all the losers' hits.

200 Tee Off In Ontario Open Tourney

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Bill Morland of North Bay shot a 144 to tie a one-stroke practice round for the Ontario open golf championship beginning today at the St. Catharines Golf Club.

Morland, one of the province's top amateurs, sank the ball off a No. 4 iron shot of the par-three 160 - yard 17th hole. He came in with a three-under-par score of 69.

His brother, Dr. Morland, played the round with him and carded a 75.

More than 200 will start in the tournament which calls for an 18-hole qualifying round today and 36 holer Saturday. Among the late entries was Indian Jack Jacobs, backfield coach for Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football league.

The number in the field of beginning at a record 200 is to will be cut drastically to 60 and ties after the 18 holes, with at least 15 amateurs among the berths for the final 36 holes Saturday.

Last year, the Open at Kingston had only 130 starters. At St. Catharines in 1957, there were 127 golfers in the lineup.

Headed for the large field today is defending champion Moe Norman of Toronto de Havilland. He warmed up Wednesday with a 64 over the par-71 course and shot a 69 Thursday.

The course record is a 63 by Bill Kozak, the Niagara Falls professional which also is considered by many to be the man to beat this year.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Withdrawal of the favored filly, Silver Spoon, Thursday made last Saturday's 19th running of the $100,000-added Hollywood Derby a wide open affair. C. V. Julie Newmar Will Likely Make a Dint on Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "And what's wrong with short men?" demanded Julie Newmar, the Hollywood - to - Broadway - to-Hollywood beauty of amazon proportions.

I said meekly that it might be troublesome to dance with a man no higher than her Adam's apple.

"Pooh!" she said. "Dancing is just one thing to do on a date. I like to do lots of things—to play tennis, to drive. But most of all I like to talk. And I find short men very interesting."

How so?

"They have a great deal more to prove than men. They are more aggressive—they have to be because of their size. When a short man meets me, he is apt to throw his arms around me and give me a kiss.

"Now a tall man, that is different. He is liable to grin and say, 'Hiya, honey.' A tall man is confident; he seldom gets in fights. But he can also be dull.

"The medium-sized man—he is the mystery. A girl has got to watch out for him."

Julie, who is five-feet-10, is superb cast in the film version of 1'll Abner as Stupifyin' Jones, which she did on Broadway. The Los Angeles girl who once danced in films—"Gene Verdon and I finished for all the stars"—currently is on leave from marriage as Nounal. In it she plays Daisy Mae Yokumlin who seeks Charles Boyer as father for a perfect child.

Indeed, it is hard to determine where the roles let off and Julie begins. She is inclined to utter some uninhibited things.

Such as her fondness for nude swimming.

"Love it," she rhapsodized. "Social freedom, such exhilaration! I like to sunbathe in the nude, too. I wouldn't think of getting those white marks here and here by wearing a suit."

Julie is currently clearing up throat, how does she manage to find enough privacy?

"Oh, I go to the beach early in the morning or late in the afternoon," she explained. "And a man walked by, so what? He is not going to be so obvious as to stand and stare. He will take a look and go on his way. It would not bother me."

I have a feeling that Julie is going to make a dent on this town.

Potts Pots 63 to Lead Chicago Open

CHICAGO (AP)—John Potts, a bridegroom of 20 days, celebrated his best golf round Thursday—a seven-under-par 63 that shattered the course record and gave him the first-round lead in the $37,500 Chicago Open.

Potts, who has failed to win a tournament since turning pro in 1957, rocketed drives of more than 300 yards over the sun-scorched 6,350 - yard Glenagles course in fashioning a 34-29, 1 birdies the competitive course record of 64 set last year by Bill Casper and matched earlier Thursday by defending champion Ken Venturi.

In all, the 25-year-old Pott, who registers from Shreveport, La., had nine one-putt greens and total of 27 putts.

Venturi, who rounded out his 33-31—64 card with birdies on the last three holes, held the lead for most of the day as a field of 311 players opened the 72-hole tournament.

Al Balding of Toronto was two under with 33-35—68.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot 36-37—75.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

We might be a long voice crying in the wilderness, but it's getting a bit sickening to read the blasts being put on minor sports coaches by some of the western sports columnists.

It all started with a bulletin issued by the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

The OASA bulletin said in part—"It was the bottom of the last inning with the score tied. The bases were loaded. The first base coach bent at the point of the pitcher with harsh words of abuse. He called on all to witness the pitcher's inability, or that of his father or grandfather before him, to throw a ball anywhere near the strike zone. It was most effective. Completely unnerved the pitcher walked the batter on four consecutive balls, and the game was over. A typical scene at a softball game? Yes. The losing pitcher was a humbled 12-year-old lad, the winning coach a gloating adult."

The bulletin said the above was taken from a sports column somewhere, we forget where. We are not saying it did not happen but it smacks of a hipped-up sportswriter trying to fill space or who had a softball-playing son who lost a game. And if, as the story goes, it "is a typical scene at a minor softball game" the OASA would be better off confining its activities to the upper brackets.

The OASA along with the coach-blasting writers seem to forget that one swallow does not make a Spring. We will go along with them to the extent there are coaches who place victory at any cost above the principle of sportsmanship. But what of the vast majority of fellows, fine men all, who give their time and effort, not to mention private funds, to help minor sports of all categories by acting in a coaching capacity.

The OASA and the sportswriting critics would be doing more to better the situation if they levelled their blast at intervening parents. Many a coach in hockey, softball and baseball has found his fine program besmirched by parents, who believe their offspring are potential Ray Jenkis, Rocket Richards and Babe Ruths are not getting the proper treatment, coaching, and praise due to their worth, have berated the man who is trying his best to give each of his proteges the opportunity to play.

Some of the fault lies with the minor sports organizations. Through lack of sponsors and, get this, lack of coaches, they are forced to crowd teams with many double and sometimes triple the number of players usually needed. How is a softball coach, for instance, expected to give every player a chance as one western writer wrote it, if he has over thirty players on his roster and who turn out for games?

The parents bodies, the OASA, the OMHA, the OBA and others pass this buck along to the local organizations. They have no set rule as to how many minor players can be allotted to a team.

Every year the appeal goes out from minor sports organizations for more and yet more executive of coaches, managers and referees. The response is something short of pitiful. The situation arises in Belleville and it is safe to say in other centres as well where minor sports are played.

The tear-jerking columnist who wrote the story contained in the OASA bulletin said: "Lets say your son took part in that game. Lets even say he was the losing pitcher. And lets say he came to you afterward with the query, 'Why did the coach not that way, dad?'"

Crocodile tears may have dampened the desk of the OASA secretary and the copy paper of the western columnists but it leaves this corner cold, unembused and a trifle squeamish in the abdominal region.

"Glooting adults and heart-broken youngsters" fail to impress this corner because they are rarer than the proverbial day in June. Rather we have seen opposing coaches get together and compliment each other, one proud in victory, the other in sportsmanship.

The blasters would be doing a far finer job for the sport if they occasionally handed out a "bouquet" to the 99 per cent majority of grand fellows who are doing all out to help the youngsters become the stars of the future, than to bring down their critical wrath on isolated cases to the contrary.

New York Yankees aren't the swaggering champs of old, but there's no sign of any meek resignation as they move into Chicago for the opener of a four-game weekend series tonight.

They roll into Comiskey Park in fourth place, just two games shy of the American League lead on an 8-out-of-11 spurt that began with a three-game sweep over the second-place White Sox 11 days ago.

Then they were fifth, five games out of first and four games back of Chicago. Now they're within a single game of the league lead after finishing a fattening four game series in Kansas City with a 9-4 victory over the Athletics Thursday night.

TIGERS, INDIANS WIN

The White Sox managed to win two of three games from Washington Senators, regaining second place Thursday with a 4-3 victory. Cleveland Indians beat back Baltimore's bid for third place by skidding the Orioles to third with a 3-2 win and regaining a one-game lead. Detroit Tigers ended a four-game slump with a 10-6 decision against Boston Red Sox.

Elston Howard and Norm Siebern hit home runs for Yankees scoring the clincher in the eighth inning. Rookie bobby Shantz and Ryo Duren put it away for winner Duke Maas (6-4), who left for a pinch-hitter in the sixth. Former Yank Tom Sturdivant (7-4) lost it.

The White Sox beat t.e Senators behind the five-hit pitching of Barry Latman in his first complete game. The White Sox, who held to five hits, beat Pedro Ramos (7-7) in a two-run fifth. Earl Torgeson hit a two - run single in the inning.

HITS TWO HOMERS

Tito Francona's fourth hit and second home run of the game broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth for Latman (6-1) in relief of Hoyt Wilhelm. Indian rookie Larry Doby had a four-hit shutout until the eighth.

Rocky Bridges' first major league grand slam homer settled things in a five-run third inning for the Tigers. Al Kaline and relief pitcher Don Rudolph also homered. Jim Bunning (7-6) won it although he left after homers by Dick Gernert and Marty Keough in the eighth. Tom Brewer (5-4) was the loser.

Jones, Zalazar Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (CP)—Not many persons know about it but middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Victor Zalazar of Argentina clash in a 10-round television bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The match has been overshadowed by the Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight, originally scheduled for Thursday night but now an actual counter-attraction because of the postponement caused by rain.

Jones, a TV regular, is a 7 to 5 favorite over the competitively inexperienced, 23 - year - old Indian. The 31-year-old Tiger, although he has slowed down in the last year, figures to be too smart for the wildswinging youngster. Zalazar's record is 8-3-1 including seven knockouts. Jones's record is 47-26-5, including 12 knockouts.

Gets Chance With Red Wings

DETROIT (AP)—Real Chevrelis whose failure to keep trade negotiations secret has cost him the National Hockey League, is getting another chance with Detroit Red Wings.

The 27 - year - old left winger was brought through the Boston Bruins' system and later was traded to Detroit for goalie Terry Sawchuk. He went back to the Bruins and was waived out of the NHL last season.

Boston general manager Lynn Patrick said he is willing to give Chevrelis if he makes good on his trial and probably his last chance in the league—with the Red Wings.

Fight May Be Postponed Again

Weekend Weather May Force Cancellation Until Monday; Fighters Take It in Stride

NEW YORK (AP) — Another threat of rain and a ticket-jitterbuch today hung over the once-postponed Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson world title fight, probably the most harassed heavyweight promotion ever.

The fighters and promoter Bill Rosenzohn peered anxiously at the glowering sky, wondering whether the 15-round show would be able to go on tonight at 10:30 p.m. EDT at Yankee Stadium.

The weatherman predicted another warm, humid day with scattered thunderstowers this afternoon and tonight. It was virtually the same forecast that was made Thursday and came true. Rain muddied the field at the stadium, forcing the postponement at 1:05 p.m.

Ironically, the rain stopped in the evening. But the $150 "deluxe, red carpet" customers would have been ankle deep in mud.

Rosenzohn, and Irving Kahn, president of TelePrompter which is running the closed-circuit telecast to theatres, said that if the weather was bad today and the forecast was not optimistic for Saturday, the long-awaited fight might be put over until Monday. Theatres don't need the fight to draw Saturday night crowds.

RELUCTANT TO REFUND

The ticket hassle may come to a showdown today. Rosenzohn refused to make refunds Thursday after the postponement despite an order to do so by Gen. Melvin Krulewich, chairman of the state athletic commission.

Krulewich had said the commission rules required the promoter to make refunds on demand. Rosenzohn said his lawyer's interpretation of the rules indicated he was not obligated.

"I don't want to hurt any people but I've got to protect my promotion," said the weary, hollow-cheeked Rosenzohn.

The commission rule is somewhat vague, but it has been observed by other promoters in part.

If another postponement is required, however, Rosenzohn said the refund policy would be reviewed. He said he is making no funds for hardship cases. That would include Swedish and out-of-towners who had booked transportation for today.

FIGHTERS CALM

The fighters took the delay calmly. After all, this was just one of incidents, the multiple lawsuits and a threat by Patterson's manager to take the fight out of New York.

"I will be stronger," said Johansson who did some shadow boxing Thursday, his first lick of work since last Saturday, his handsome Swede face unleashed his "thunderbolt" right at the shadows.

"Certainly I don't like the delay," said Ingemar, "But I'm sure the delay will not bother me. I feel fine now and I will not lose my edge."

The 26-year-old unbeaten European champion had a steak dinner at his midtown hotel, and topped off the evening by taking in a movie with his pretty fiance, Birgit Lundgren.

Patterson loomed up somewhere in town. Then the 24-year-old champ went into seclusion.

There were reports that the odds favoring Patterson had jumped to 5 to 1 from 4 to 1. Several of the bigger bookies held the price at 4 to 1 but reported light betting.

There will be no home television of the heavyweight scrap. It will be broadcast over the CBC Trans - Canada network starting at 10:30 p.m.

Bay of Quinte Country Club 'Mr. and Mrs.' Tourney Draw

Sixty-four golfing couples will tee off on Sunday when the Bay of Quinte Country Club holds its second annual "Mr. and Mrs." tournament.

An invitation event, the tournament has attracted some 13 couples from district clubs. From Trenton come ten sets of "marital twins." Napanee is sending six and Picton one.

Ladies' division president Mrs. Joy Bowerman says the course is in excellent condition, and weather permitting, the tournament should be productive of some excellent "two-way" golf.

Quinte pro George Balase will get the first foursome away at sharp eleven o'clock while the last pair of pairs will leave the first tee at 2.12 p.m.

Presentation of prizes and awards will be made at the post-tournament dinner in the clubhouse where that smorgasbord maestro Murray Hunter and his capable staff will be at their best.

BUGLES BLARE

Canada's Sunshine Queen was looking good, just as she stepped off the royal yacht Britannia in Montreal harbor at 9.30 a.m. EDT to start her day's activities in the sun began breaking through the overcast.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker joined the Queen and Prince Philip aboard the Britannia shortly after 9 a.m. and then drove in an open car from the pier drive to St. Huberi airport where they were to meet President Eisenhower.

BANDS ARRIVE

As the royal cavalcade crossed Jacques Cartier bridge several bands and a choral group arrived at the airport and assembled on the field.

The U.S. Navy band promptly mounted the wrong bandstand under a five-archway dais and had to be moved to the right one.

There were three military bands, four pipe bands, 16 bugle trumpeters and Le Chanoir des Montfortains de Sherbrooke.

The sun started to burn away the early morning haze.

It was a brilliant and combined English pageantry and American Canadian full fun. The setting was like a rippling rainbow — scarlet Mounties, white sailors, green, red, blue, black, orange flags, party and picnic frocks of every hue.

GRANDSTAND FILLS

The grandstand started to fill about 90 minutes before the Queen was to arrive and people loosened their ties and fanned their faces as the sun started to boil through the overcast.

At St. Hubert, the Queen arrived on schedule at 9:45 a.m. behind a 15-man motorcycle escort made up of khaki-clad provincial police and red - clad Mounties.

She entered a reception tent where guests there until President Eisenhower's plane arrived at 10:30 a.m.

The RCAF guard of honor under command of Flt.-Lt. Marcel Lalonde stood stiffly at attention while the Star Spangled Banner was played.

President and the Queen reviewed the 100-man guard.

CROWD CHEERS

A great cheer broke from the crowd of 2,500 at the airport when the two chiefs of state approached the honor guard, made up of RCAF men in khaki summer uniforms, and air force cadets in their dark blue uniforms.

While they were chatting, President Eisenhower was overheard to say to the Queen that she was being very good weather everywhere. Now we come and spoil it.

Both Prince Philip and President Eisenhower wore dark blue suits. The Queen wore turquoise blue and white and Mrs. Eisenhower wore blue.

The royal yacht Britannia moved across the St. Lawrence River from its Laurier pier berth to the same berth used as the Queen was greeting President Eisenhower at St. Hubert.

It slowly tied up to a temporary dock in the Seaway Canal. Behind it three black-painted barges carefully.

HOME GUARD

Behind the royal yacht was the USS Forest Sherman, an American destroyer. White-clad seamen lined the decks. The American warship was to form a royal escort for the Britannia along with HMCS Gatineau of Canada and HMS Virtue, a British frigate.

An estimated 13,000 persons lined the Seaway Plaza at St. Lambert.

The hall was lined with flags of all shipping companies that use the seaway.

All was in readiness for the Queen and president when it left St. Hubert at 10:30 a.m. EDT for the eight-mile drive to the seaway.

An 11-man motorcycle escort of provincial police preceded the cavalcade.

The road was lined with 18 CF-100 aircraft, also on each side.

The Queen and president arrived at the St. Lawrence Seaway ceremonial plaza at the dot of 11 a.m. They walked to a dais, and the band struck up the Star Spangled Banner followed by God Save the Queen.

EXIT VIA WINDOW

B. J. Roberts, president of Canada Seaway Authority, welcomed the Queen and the president, in the first of a series of addresses preceding the actual opening of the seaway.

Lewis G. Castle, administrator of the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, followed.

The Queen then spoke, in both French and English, and was followed by President Eisenhower.

For the Queen it was the beginning of the 45-day tour of Canada. It was the reason for the trip in the first place.

SEAWAY OPENED

She spent Thursday in this island metropolis, just across the St. Lawrence River from the seaway's eastern gateway at St. Lambert.

She attended nine functions collected three gifts and a florist's handful of bouquets, and inspected.

She talked to three mayors, shook hands with 50,000 people, shook at least 100 hands, saw Mount Royal in the city's heart and then ended a stroke a stunning sight in a fancy silver and blue gown at a state dinner at a black-tie-and-tails banquet and ball.

After almost three hours of dining and dancing the royal party left the ballroom through the darkened and deserted streets of Montreal's industrial east-end to the royal yacht.

They had begun their day at 9 a.m. EDT and ended it almost 13 hours later when they waved in a throng of several hundred dockhand on-lookers as they drove through the gates of Laurier pier where Britannia was docked.

Even after the royal couple had gone aboard a disinterested group was still drifting down to Pier for a glimpse. From 800 yards away at the slab.

OLD CASE WOUND UP

BARRIE (CP) — Donald Aber-crombie, 36, was sentenced Thursday to five years imprisonment after being convicted of a charge of gross indecency with a male. The case was tried six years ago. Jones, former pastor of Orillia Apostolic Temple, was tried on the charge involving a 15-year-old Orillia boy in June, 1953. Judgement was reserved and Jones, released on $5,000 bail, disappeared. He was arrested on a minor theft charge in San Francisco in February.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, June 27

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Rather than go off in search of new outlets, wearing yourself out meeting dynamic people, give attention to matters of health, present security, wardrobe, etc. Tonight is then free for some quiet and delightful social affairs.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A problem that is worrying you could now cause you to do some rather erratic things, such as running off somewhere. Proceed calmly instead and it is solved intelligently. P. M. excellent for fun and pleasures that suit you best.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Don't waste time endeavoring to make a pal turn over a new leaf now. Go out and pursue your own affairs instead since the planets are with you. P. M. dress formally and go out for a charming evening of social fun. Be devoted.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A particular civic affair needs your full concentration for its best performance, or you may lose prestige and money you can ill afford. P. M. endeavor to take to dinner or entertain in some way an influential person who can assist you.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Dashing off to a game of golf, some neighboring town, or other activity that will take you away from duties could result in an accident or the loss of a valuable pooch. P. M. is fine for being with new acquaintance. Strut a bit.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — Take care you do not make embarrassing inquiries of others of a personal nature, and do not invest beyond your ability to do so comfortably. P. M. really be affectionate with romantic tie in P.M. You have a warm nature.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Bullying an associate or being too bossy is just no good today, or there may be a severance you will regret. P. M. is then easier on you and you find that a warm smile will work wonders.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — If you set your labors in a calm, controlled way now, you will accomplish more and will not have waste or damage. Also beat your clock over everything you do. P. M. have fun with fellow worker. Be very entertaining.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Since you are very anxious to have fun today, you could spend far more than you can afford. It is wiser to work hard instead and be kind to co-workers. P. M. then excellent for real relaxation. Be devoted.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You should not lay down the law in any way at home today, else a battle royal ensues. Keep yourself busy putting all in order instead. P. M. tensions ease up and you can have guests in for a delightful evening.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Exercise particular care in motion or driving now, and take care you take the burns out of any conversations. You may lose a valuable friendship. P. M. is then ideal for going about with chosen comrades for a nice evening of fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get all of your work done now and do not invest unwisely, or you lose valuable savings of many times. After the p.m., however, a real authority in your field gives excellent advice just how you can advance wisely and quickly.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will have such tremendous energy that if it is not channeled properly it could be hard on her into a peck of trouble and keep you constantly worried. Hence, put your property in the field of sports early which teach wonderful lessons for living as well. The imagination is very vivid here, too, so your child will be primarily a pioneer. Interesting chart.

Danger Of Steel Strike Wednesday Looming Larger

Union Leaders Meet To Review Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — The Steelworkers Union called its leaders together today to deal with a complete impasse in negotiations for a new contract in the steel industry.

With bargaining at a standstill, neither the industry nor the union could agree on how negotiations should resume.

Union President David J. McDonald summoned his 33-man union executive board into session this morning to "review the entire situation."

The danger of an economy-crippling strike on Wednesday loomed larger than ever.

McDonald balked at continuing talks with a recession-hit industry bargaining team. He said it was pointless and only a "exercise in dilbusters."

Instead, he proposed a meeting with executives of a dozen leading steel firms.

LATEST NEWS

The industry's top brass in turn flatly rejected McDonald's request. The executives said the four-man industry team, headed by R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice-president of U.S. Steel Corp., has complete industry backing and authority.

The industry is sticking to its refusal to improve present steel contracts in any major ground among the crowded villages of Tweed.

People on the ground said they saw the lightning bolt hit over Castellanas. All reported the plane then turned into a steep, flaming descent with only its gas tanks exploding, they said, then hit ground near Marmora, just south of here in the shadow of the Alpine resort country.

BREAKS IN THREE

The plane broke into three pieces. The fuselage slammed into the ground only 25 yards from a farm building where 20 members of a 4-H camping club huddled out of the driving rain.

A wing fell in a field. A blazing engine sheared off a high voltage line, disrupting power in a wide area.

The victims included American, Canadian, British and several other European nationalities.

The flight had originated in Athens but most of the passengers boarded it in Milan.

ENTERTAIN MAYORS

PARIS (Reuters)—Forty mayors and municipal councillors from Canada and the United States arrived by car and dined Thursday by the Paris city council. Among the guests of honor at dinna included R. M. Simpson of Arnprior, Peter Ratuski of Kenora, and Mayor Murray of Wallaceburg, and Alderman John O. Booth of Fort William.

Airliner Crash Carried 68 To Flaming Death

Believed Plane Hit by Lightning

MILAN, Italy (AP) — An armored-car regiment and hundreds of police today sealed off a three-mile zone of scattered wreckage that may hold the secret behind the crash of an American airliner in a furious summer thunderstorm. All 68 aboard were killed.

Witnesses said they saw lightning strike the four-engine Constellation Friday. Aviation experts said it was more likely that the Chicago-bound Trans World Airlines plane was shaken to pieces by the violence of the storm.

Some people on the ground said they heard the plane explode in the air. There was also the possibility that mechanical failure was the cause of the Italy's worst air disaster.

Experts began their inquiry today. Investigators came from U.S. and Italian government air safety agencies and TWA.

GUARD WRECKAGE

Until the investigation is finished not even the relatives of the victims will be allowed near the tangle of blackened aluminum, all that remained of the plane that plowed into a field north of here.

The plane had taken off from Malpensa airport in this industrial city 31 minutes before. It was northbound over the Swiss Alps and into the storm.

Six engineers, a pilot and then a non-stop flight to Chicago.

Bits of the giant Constellation were scattered in a three-mile area. Italian army troops

After Ten Days of Royal Tour Evidence Piling Up Monarchy Still Popular With Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—Over the first 10 days of the royal tour, 5,000 handshakes of the Royal Tour, evidence is piling up that the monarchy is still popular with most Canadians.

There is evidence, too, that relations between Queen Elizabeth and the people seem on a firmer, friendlier and human basis, for more intimate glimpse of royalty are given in social matters, at least, Prince Philip is the boss.

Veterans of other tours have also concluded that the Queen is still as seriously dedicated to her role as ever but she has greater confidence and is more at ease in public. Her confidence impresses and being dropped a wide and beautiful smile as the crowds shout her a welcome in English or French. There is little sign of the nervous shyness that was evident on her first tour—in 1951. This time, and without appearing to lose royal dignity, she is often ready to smile back, or to "give" in the language of the stage.

And one step behind her in mood but often a jump ahead or spotting warmth that needs recognition, Prince Philip has become, apparently, a mine of information that makes his acceptance more natural and easy for Canadians. When enthusiastic mobs stopped the royal motorcade in Quebec City on June 24 Thursday, he leaned from his perch on the top of the back seat and laughingly shook hands and exchanged greetings with the crowd. Somewhere the Queen happily smiled in obvious amusement.

On previous occasions he might have given terse instructions to the police escort to open the way wider and she might have shyly withdrawn into the regal reserve and, perhaps cooled the ardor of the demonstrators.

This change was first noticeable at the beginning of the tour in tiny spots in Newfoundland such as Deer Lake, in Port aux Basques and little groups of spectators where little but what locals have been uneasy proximity. Here, too, the villagers had never seen royalty and they first treated its appearance almost reverently, but the royal tourists were easy and informal and the warm reception which both had as a result of friendly, understanding that seems in keeping with the times and the nation of which both are a part.

Even in Canada's biggest city, which has been just about every thing there is to see, the royal couple obviously made a deep impression by their informal and impersonal and blase approach and shouted a good-natured welcome along the royal route.

As for any suggestion French-Canada might be less enthusiastic than its English counterpart, there has been no warmer greeting than the "Vive la Reine" shouted through Quebec streets. Of course formal acceptance of monarchy as an integral part of

Seaway Baptism Sees Pomp Mixed With Picnic Air

Queen Supplies Dignity Eisenhower Amiability

MONTREAL (CP) — The regal baptism of the St. Lawrence Seaway accomplished, the Queen passed deeper into the North American continent today along that watery highway.

Pomp mixed with a picnic atmosphere prevailed Friday as the Queen and President Eisenhower met for the first time on Canadian soil.

In the elaborate presidential visit, a ceremonial spectacular laid official blessing on the seaway already opened to ocean liners.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his wife were among scores of Canadian, American international dignitaries in attending. About 20,000 persons watched the flag-bedecked yacht Britannia thrust smoothly through artificial Seaway gates and begin the gradual climb toward the Great Lakes.

With the finishing of the 11 gun salutes, fanfares from silver trumpets, star-studded air displays and speeches, a more informal tone took over.

CHAT ON BRIDGE

The Queen and Prince Philip, Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and Mr. Diefenbaker chatted for a time chatting on the royal bridge, breaking off for a luncheon with 56 guests. Meanwhile, the Britannia deftly navigated two locks, the Iroquois lift 56 feet—before anchoring for the night at Cotean Landing past Beauharnois.

Today, the yacht pushed on towards the American section of the seaway system in the Thousand Islands where further ceremonies were scheduled.

Included on the list of personalities attending Vice-President Richard Nixon of the U.S., Premier Frost of Ontario and Governor Rockefeller of New York State—encompassing the co-operation between the two in the Moses-Saunders hydro project. Seaway towns were to be visited before ending the day with a half-hour stop at Brockville.

The presidential party was met Friday morning at St. Hubert Air Base, a North American air defence station, by the Queen and Prince Philip. They then the group moved back to the 30-acre ceremonial site for the opening speeches.

The Queen, her dignity a concrete but unstudied assurability of Mr. Eisenhower, said in her carefully-read speech that the Seaway is a magnificent symbol of Canadian unity, of Canada-United States friendship and also of Canadian-U.S. continuing co-operation.

The president followed but added that it also stands as an example to the free world of what democracies can achieve by such co-operation.

When he had finished, the crowd clapped and the president and Queen moved around, shaking the head as if glad that was over.

The president and his wife, escorted by the Diefenbakers, left the platform immediately to lock in the late afternoon and flew by helicopter back to St. Hubert to board the Columbine III for Washington.

RATS KILL BABY

NEW YORK (AP) — A four-month-old baby died Thursday two days after being bitten by rats in his three-room shack home in the Brooklyn slums. The victim was Richard Fox Jr.

CORNWALL (CP) — The weather, on its best behavior up to now for the Queen's Canadian tour, kicked up today and logged in the yacht Britannia at its overnight anchorage near the Quebec-Ontario border.

But it was reported at 9 a.m. EDT that the yacht was under way and that visibility would dim as the day passed.

Tour officials said for the time being the entire day's program—which features Canadian-United States ceremonies at the $600,000,000 Moses - Saunders power project is being set back two hours. Today's ceremonies were the first for Ontario since the Queen's arrival in Canada.

WOULDN'T MOVE

Vice-Admiral Peter Dawnay, Britannia captain, had tour officials here informed about 8:30 a.m. that he was not going to move the vessel immediately from South Colcasz Landing, about 30 miles downstream near Valleyfield, Que.

In Cornwall itself, which were in festive skies were muggy and grey.

The tour had been scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. with the lifting of the yacht in the Eisenhower Lock part of the American section of the St. Lawrence Seaway. But there was to be met by Vice-President Richard Nixon and Governor Averell Harriman of New York state, accompanied by Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario.

Baptist Unity Quite Apparent Says Report

KINGSTON (CP) — Reports of growing fellowship, expanding overseas missions and a warning against pessimism highlighted Friday's opening session of the fifth triennial assembly of the Baptist Federation of Canada.

About 250 delegates representing 140,000 members of 1,200 Canadian Baptist churches have registered for the three - day meeting at Queen's University here.

"There is a growing awareness of fundamental interdependence among Canadian Baptists, a deepening sense of Baptist solidarity, not only on the national but also on a world scale," said general secretary, Dr. T. B. McDormand.

Dr. W. B. King, southern Baptist liaison officer in Canada, warned against the pessimism he had discovered among his Canadian brethren.

"There is no need for retreat in the Canadian Baptist church" he said. "I have seen a thousand places in this country where there ought to be new Baptist churches. Let us have no note of pessimism."

Dr. H. S. Hillyer of Toronto, general secretary of the Canadian Baptist foreign mission board, described expanding fields of missionary activity in Bolivia, where there are 40 Baptist churches and 20 missionaries; a period of growth and transition in India, supporting 77 missionaries, and continued progress in Africa where, in addition to 29 Baptist missionaries compared with seven five years ago.

Altogether the church had 145 missionaries in the field, he said, and 53 more were required in India alone during the next 10 years.

Prairie French Used by Ike Liked by All

MONTREAL (CP) — President Eisenhower gallantly tried what he called his "western prairie brand" of French in the St. Lawrence Seaway inauguration ceremonies Friday.

His valiant effort at twisting his tongue around the single 25-word sentence in French in his 375-word speech drew a grin from Queen Elizabeth, whose French pronunciation is almost impeccable.

Nearly half the Queen's address, preceding Mr. Eisenhower's, was in French.

Prince Philip, who is not as fluent in French as the Queen, applauded the president's effort while Mrs. Eisenhower giggled.

From the mixed French-speaking and English-speaking audience there was scattered, hesitant applause.

The royal yacht Britannia slipped into St. Lambert lock following the president's speech came a voice from a bus carrying a joint U.S.-Canadian parliamentary group:

"That was pretty good prairie French, Ike."

The Queen, Prince Philip, Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker all chuckled and waved to the bus.

Another cry boomed from the bus:

"We all fell in love with the Queen, Ike."

Again the party on the Britannia's bridge laughed a nd waved.

This Is Unkindest Cut of All, Batista Attacked as Castro Ally

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Fulgencio Batista, who fled Cuba six months ago, hopes to leave his Dominican sanctuary soon, but he doesn't know where he can go.

The former Cuban strongman told a reporter in an interview he has renounced all political activities. His greatest desire is to join his family, he said, leaving the future of Cuba to "the new men who have the responsibility to direct the destinies of my country."

Batista is anxious to enter the United States, where his wife and children live, the reporter said. His efforts to obtain an entry visa thus far have been unsuccessful.

His hopes to enter Spain, France or other European countries also received a chilly reception from the governments of those countries.

Recent attacks by the Dominican press and radio accusing Batista of being secretly in league with Castro's regime and of exploitator's almost frantic efforts to keep in favor with Trujillo, the troubled area.

Fidel Castro, Cuba broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic, contending that dictator Rafael Trujillo's regime was using "totalitarian methods of staff" to suppress the Dominican people, On June 13, Venezuela announced it was breaking relations with the Trujillo government.

Replying to a reporter's question, Batista denied he was plotting or helping plan any counter-revolutionary program against Cuba.

One Man Killed, Three Injured In Collision

BRAMPTON (CP) — One man was killed and three others were injured Friday night when a dump truck collided with two cars on Highway 7, five miles east of here.

Dead is the driver of one of the cars, Edward O'Brien, 41, of Glen Williams. Ray Williams of Georgetown, a passenger in Mr. O'Brien's car, and truck driver John Lawrynowicz, 20, of Toronto, were admitted to hospital in this town 20 miles west of Toronto. Both suffered head injuries.

Nelson Lawson, 42, of Caledon, was admitted to hospital in Toronto with severe head and chest injuries. He was the driver of the other car.

Black Bears Becoming Regular Luncheon Guests of Logging Camp

NORTH BAY (CP) — Black bears in Wyse Township, about 35 miles northeast of here, have become regular luncheon guests of a wood cutting crew.

Trouble is, the cutters are going hungry.

It all started with some scraps of bread tossed to the bears by the lunching woodsman. Now the lunchtime bell is rung at noon where the bears are demanding full-course meals — or grounds."

First the bruins stole the lunches, cached in the morning by the cutters, then the pilfering bears for the men to collect at noon.

Camp cook Lorenzo Boucher solved that problem by attaching the lunch boxes to the harnesses of work horses which haul the cut logs.

The bears, which are infesting the area in large part, decided on bolder tactics.

Philip Babinski was about to open his lunch box when a huge, large bear ambled right up to him.

"The bear looked at me. I looked at him. He snarled and his hair stood on end. I took off and the bear followed, until I tripped, then dropped a big wasgf bunny mory. anywhere," Mr. Babinski reported.

Raoul Berthume dropped a big poplar tree with his chain saw one afternoon and discovered nearly scared out of his wits.

Union Jack Did Not Protect Man From Eviction

LONDON (AP) — When the county council tried to evict Bill Wheal from his seaside house in Shoreham, Sussex, he run up the Union Jack and proclaimed his property an independent state within the Commonwealth.

To discourage any attempts to move him, Wheal stationed five old cars on the lawn in front lawn.

But neither this manoeuvre nor the deterrent of the current war — surplus cars could thwart the county council.

Friday a high court judge issued an injunction ordering Wheal to keep off the property for six days.

The row between Wheal and the county council arose when the 62-year-old farmer built a six-foot wall around his house.

The council objected. Wheal refused to take it down. The council then cancelled the lease on the property.

"No surrender," Wheal scrawled in white paint on the wall of the house.

But, as the judge made his order, Wheal had packed and was miles away to a farmhouse in Devon.

"I can run the campaign better from down here," he said.

He does so because he is a porter for the Sun Company, manufacturers of restaurant furniture. He is headed to a nearby bank for the $2,700 payroll for 32 employees.

Moments after the intersection Friday as usual with the bag, Lee was accosted by a man and one threw his arms around Lee's neck and said, "Let's have a party."

"I have no money," Lee replied. "All I have is a pair of mended shoes."

The would-be robbery looked in to be a fun-a-rist. They fled.

Lee explained that he picked up the payroll about 30 minutes early and left it in the car. In the plant, Mrs. Mary Ross, wife of the owner, asked him to get her a pair of shoes from a repair shop.

Kingston Wins Chess League For Second Year

Last night Kingston won the championship of the South-Eastern Ontario Chess League for the second successive season, in the result of a 5-5 tie with Belleville in a match played in the Alcan Hall in Kingston. No Firm Indication Russia To Switch Trade War to West

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Russia switches its economy to a trade war with the West, look out.

But there is no firm indication that Russia will—or can—do this.

The feeling in Ottawa is that the Communist dictatorship will have to pay more attention to the needs of 200,000,000 Russians who have been patiently waiting for a higher standard of living. Bet! - tightening, no matter what the reasons, can't maintain its spend forever.

In other words, Western countries aren't the only ones with problems.

ECONOMIC PENETRATION

A deep Soviet economic penetration of the West could throw Western trade into chaos. For instance, Russia could undercut Canadian products in world markets and eventually force a lowering of the standard of living in this country.

But it would require a gigantic, single - purpose effort to undermine the West in this fashion. In the meantime, could the Communist leadership keep the support of the Russian people? The most likely answer is yes.

Russian economic penetration so far has not succeeded by any means in pushing the West out of the so-called neutralist nations.

Secret Service Man Apologizes To Mounties

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP) — An apology Friday saved a misunderstanding from a minor to the status of an international incident.

It all happened when the hefty and very obvious secret service platoon arrived here to guard President Eisenhower. They showed through RCMP lines and looked as though they were going to take over security organization.

An RCMP official said one redcoated Mountie was shouldered aside so forcibly that he fell to the ground.

But later the secret service man apologized and international goodwill prevailed.

Accuse Govt. Of Falling Down On Promises

OTTAWA (CP) — Two opposition members Thursday accused the government of falling down on election promises to help the small businessman.

William Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) told the Commons that Canadians were led to believe in the 1957 and 1958 election campaigns that the government would do something more tangible than has been done to help small businesses.

He read a report of a statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker from an election platform which suggested Mr. Diefenbaker as saying the small businessman was "crushed" by the Liberal government's tight money policy.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said the Conservative government seems to have done is set up a small business section in the trade department to give information to businessmen.

Businessmen wanted more than information. They wanted loans, perhaps patterned on the Small Loans Administration of the United States.

Three Escape As Car Plunges Off Ferry Dock

Three Bloomfield residents escaped death by drowning early today when in a dense fog they took a wrong turn off Ferry Road and Deseronto and went off the end of the ferry dock into the Bay of Quinte.

The car dropped into eight feet of water but the occupants were able to scramble from their small sedan and were stated to be little the worse for their experience.

Archie Hill, 65, of the Prince Edward county village, told provincial police that he had been driving west along Ferry Road out of Deseronto when he got confused in the dense fog and mistakenly took a left turn leading to the ferry dock.

The fog obscured his vision and he drove the car through the barricade at the dock edge.

The driver, along with his two occupants, Russell Weldon and Leon Correy, also of Bloomfield were able to scramble from the car as it went over the dock's edge and settled in the water.

Governor Long Asks Separation From His Wife

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— Governor Earl Long of Louisiana, battling for freedom from a state mental hospital, filed a court suit Thursday asking separation from his wife.

The suit, filed by one of his lawyers, charged cruelty, desertion, abandonment and slander.

Mrs. Long twice signed papers committing the governor to psychiatric ward at Galveston, Tex., and Mandeville, La.

Mrs. Long slipped out of the state Tuesday night for parts unknown.

The 63-year-old governor goes into court at Covington, La., today asking release from the hospital on grounds he was illegally committed.

Long's lawyer, J. B. Newsom, said the suit was "the first step toward a divorce."

The suit has the effect of sustaining Mrs. Long's right to ask further commitment to any hospital should the governor be released from the hospital today.

Long contended earlier his wife, whom he married 36 years ago, was "the most jealous woman in Louisiana."

1-Yr. Suspended Sentence Given Trenton Youths

TRENTON — Two young Trenton men were given one-year suspended sentence each and ordered to pay costs yesterday when they appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of stealing money from milk bottles.

George Reid, 26 Marmora Street, pleaded not guilty to the charge and his friend Ralph Green, 16, pleaded guilty.

In giving evidence Staff Sergeant Walter Youmans told the court that on June 6, in the early hours of the morning, he had on the lads come along Ontario Street and when they saw the patrol car, hesitate and then start to go along College Street. The Staff Sergeant said he called them and they came over to his car. When asked what they were doing they told the policeman they could not sleep and were out for a walk.

Staff Sergeant Youmans said that later that morning the police had been informed that money was stolen from milk bottles and he suspected the boys. He then turned the matter over to Constable Joe Vickers.

Constable Vickers testified that he had gone to the home of Reid and had asked him to come down to the police station. Later Reid admitted what he and his friend had done. The constable told the court he found Reid to be very truthful and co-operative in telling the police what had happened.

Following the sentencing of Ralph Green, who had previously pleaded guilty and charged, he was called to the witness box by the crown prosecutor. It was then Reid and Reid had talked it over before they went out. He said it was he who had taken the money from the bottle and he had offered Reid half of it but Reid had refused to take it.

Both boys were given one month to pay court costs imposed upon them by the Magistrate.

Accused Given Week to Pay Fine and Costs

TRENTON — William Slaven, 20, of 243 West Street, was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and $11.50 court costs by Magistrate Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of stealing 25 cents from a milk bottle.

The accused pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The residents of the house on Myers Street where the money was stolen testified they had seen a man on the porch of their home with a milk bottle in his hand and had later chased him down the street when he fled. They testified they had not seen the man's face at any time.

Sergeant Detective Gordon told the court he had received a call and as a result had questioned one cruiser to the east end of the footbridge and he himself had proceeded to the west end. When he arrived he had seen the accused coming across the bridge and when asking him where he was going received the reply that he accused was going to the Lotus Cafe for breakfast.

The Sergeant said he later met the irate resident and he identified the accused as he was walking down College Street. Ten the policeman told the court he had then stopped the man again and after searching him found only 19 cents in his pockets.

Testifying again on behalf Slaven said he was not on the street in question and had gone across the footbridge because it was shorter to go that way when going down town.

Sergeant Steenburg had previously testified the accused lived on Bay Street.

In finding the accused guilty as charged the Magistrate said he was concerned over no money found on the accused although his reason for going across the footbridge was fantastic in the light of the Sergeant's testimony.

He gave the accused a week to pay the fine and costs.

Two of the oldest buildings in Trenton, shown in the above photo, may soon disappear to make way for the ever-increasing demand for down-town, off-street parking. The old police station and the fire hall will have a dim future if the town council can find a suitable site to build a new $123,000 combination police station and fire hall. The area these older buildings now occupy would be turned into increased parking space for

Trenton shoppers once the green light is given to the construction of the new building. Councillor Lloyd Weese said it would increase parking in the market square by about 40 cars and would mean a considerable increase in shopping dollars to down-town merchants. Mayor Ross Burtt once said he would like to see the old buildings now occupied by the police kept as a historic site in Trenton and it could also be used for a meeting place by many groups. (Photo by Georgeson.)

Around Town With Al

TRENTON — An often heard question around Trenton during the past few days is "Well, where are they going to build the new police station and fire hall?"

The only reasonable answer at this time being is, "You'll just have to wait and see."

The matter of the new police station has been brought to Trenton for the last five years and it is apparently closer to a reality now than it ever has been.

At the last meeting of the Trenton town fathers a vote was taken on building a new combination fire hall and police station with five councillors favoring it and one councillor against it. The one councillor, Wm. Bradshaw, said he would rather see the old one renovated because he doubted the town could afford such an added expense at the present time, especially with a new school in the prospect of being built on Dufferin Avenue. However, with the problems the Trenton School Board is experiencing over the obtaining of the deed for the proposed site, there is considerable doubt the actual building of the school will get underway much before this fall, if ever then.

The Ontario Municipal Board has not given the town permission to borrow the $200,000 to build the school unless the board has a clear title to the land. To get this the school board is taking court action.

So with this in mind perhaps it would be a good time to go to work on the construction of the new police station and fire hall.

LEGROND FOR BURTT

At the last council meeting following the council's approval of building the stations at a cost of not more than $123,000, Councillor Claude Graham, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee was instructed to look into the possibilities of obtaining a site.

Two sites have been previously mentioned across the council table, with one of these being the area now occupied by Victoria and Grey Trust Company on Division Street and Ford Street. However, to make this area large enough for a combination police station and fire hall two of the houses adjoining the small park would have to be bought.

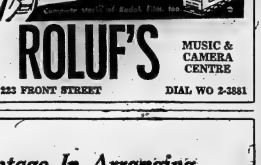
It would also necessitate rescinding of the present by - law covering parks to obtain the park portion of it or a vote of the ratepayers to get permission to use this park land for the building of the stations.

But some councillors feel this area is out of the question as a suitable site because of it being a poor location to get the fire engines on the way to a fire. They would have only three ways to go, east or west on Ford Street or south on Murphy. And all would call for a sharp turn to get onto town thoroughfares, something which is not liked by firemen who have to drive the trucks.

The second site previously discussed was on the south side of Quinte Street from the east of the parking lot next to the Trenton-ites offices to the C.P.R. tracks. At present this land is occupied by two houses and a warehouse. These the town would have to purchase from the owners and it is understood the price of the site must be included in the $125,000 voted for the building.

Most discussion favors the idea of keeping the police and firemen station in the downtown area and to do this finding a site will be a tough job.

However it is expected Mr. Graham and his committee will have some sort of a decision on the site problem at the next meeting of council, slated for Monday, July 6.



MORALE QUESTION

Councillor Lloyd Weese stated at the last meeting of council that a new police station would boost the morale of the policemen although this should not be a determining factor in the council's decision on whether to build or not.

But what the councillor forgot was, "Would the two departments be happy under the same roof, even if there was a dividing wall?"

Some of the firemen have expressed their opinion that they would rather be in a separate building from the policemen and members of the police department have also said they would like separate buildings. They would not give a definite reason why they wanted it that way but it indicates some of them would not be happy if they were placed under the same roof for the next number of years.

However the cost of the building will be the main thought in the overall decision of the town councillors and as for the ratepayers, who will be picking up the bill for all of it, they will have to just wait and see and as one councillor put it, "They can tell us what they think about it at the polls next December."

POET LAUREATE'S TRIBUTE TO CANADA

All those who write for a living must have sometimes felt that theirs is the most difficult trade. For words are meaningless unless vitalised by thoughts and thoughts are hard to command. The muscles of arms and legs flex one day much as another, if not weakened by illness, but the electrical impulses which activate the brain are not so dependable. They can be trained, fairly well, to gather up words in ordered bunches and assemble them in such a fashion that they present an accurate outline of known facts. More difficult is the task of making them reflect opinion. But how many of those who write would relish the task of doing so by royal command, and in verse of sound meter, on an assigned topic?

Yet this is the task which falls on the poet who is chosen for England's greatest honor to his art, the position of poet laureate.

In days gone by, the Encyclopedia Americana tells us, "graduates in rhetoric and versification in the English universities were presented with a laurel wreath and were in consequence, styled Poetae laureati." The royal laureate, "an officer of the lord chamberlain's department of the royal household of Britain," was merely one of these Poetae Laureati in the king's service.

"The first patent of poet laureate," the Encyclopedia continues, "was ganted to Ben Johnson in the reign of James I. The laureate was required to furnish an ode to the birthday of the sovereign or on the occasion of a national victory; but this custom was discontinued until the reign of George III. Since the time of Charles II the following poets have in succession held the office of laureate: John Dryden, Thomas Shadwell, Nahum Tate, Nicholas Rowe, Lawrence Eusden, Colley Cibber, William Whitehead, Thomas Warton, Henry James Pye, Robert Southey, William Wordsworth, Alfred Lord Tennyson, Alfred Austin, Robert Bridges and John Masefield appointed in 1930."

Today, almost thirty years after his appointment Masefield is still poet laureate. This week Canadians heard broadcast his latest poem, a 96-line tribute to Canada, her Seaway and her Queen, commissioned by the CBC.

Most Canadians who read it, we suspect, were amazed that an 81-year-old Englishman could display such a kinship with the spirit of this land. As a poem written to order, it should stir the admiration of all who read it.

But for Masefield at his best, running free before the winds of his own imagination, let the reader recall the "dirty British coaster with salt-caked smoke-stack, beating up the channel in the mad March days" or let him ride with the redcoats, hunt with the hounds or run with the dog for over the English countryside through the magic of "Reynard the Fox."

SHOES

One of the most interesting pictorial sidelights on the Royal Tour to date was a photograph of a woman reporter standing barefooted on the runway at the airport at Deer Lake, Newfoundland.

"Sore Feet," read the caption, which concluded with the sentence: "She donned her shoes when the royal couple landed."

The reporter must have provoked many a chuckle because it introduced an element of homely familiarity into the formality of the royal tour. Almost everybody knows that women doff their shoes because their feet hurt. Half of the readers would sympathize with the woman reporter because they, too, have found blessed relief by releasing their feet from the confines of shoes. The other, male, half of the readers would recall how they had seen women slip their toes from shoes.

The idea that it is normal for shoes to hurt the feet is also endorsed by the legend of the barefoot boy, who cannot wait for school to get out before he throws away his shoes and tramps through the summer holidays with his feet unfettered.

The male of the species, though, if he sits down to consider the matter, will realize that in his barefoot days grass always seemed to contain more thistles and stubble than dew and, once barefoot days were over, he discovered that shoes were an addition to comfort. An old shoe, after months of pounding, molds itself to the shape of the foot. Each hump and hollow of the foot is faithfully followed, until comforting overall support is provided. Of course, nobody's shoes can fit as well as one's own, but one's own can be a never-failing solace. Except on those unexplainable occasions when feet start to itch or burn, a shoe is a source of comfort for the male.

My face by his would gayly
And count the fight worth while.

If there was naught to cheer me
Except my baby's voice,
I'd hear my burdens bravely
And every night rejoice.

If all were dark about me
Except my baby's eyes,
I still would call the big world
An earthly paradise.

If all of life were bitter
Except my baby's kiss,
I'd revel in its sweetness
And steep my soul with bliss.

If I were only happy
When she is on my knee,
That joy, for all my troubles,
Reward enough would be.

I'd tread the old world gayly
And deem the fight worth while,
If I bear ten times my burden
To see my baby smile.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 25 contributing by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

OUR GOOD NEIGHBORS

Local history was the theme of the three-day convention held in Peterborough last week by the Ontario Historical Society.

More than 100 delegates from most of Ontario's historical societies (including the Hastings County Historical Society) were on hand for the convention, the first held in Peterborough in more than a half century.

The Peterborough City and County Historical Society was host for the occasion, and the visitors were very well treated, a full program of talks, tours, discussions, and entertainment having been planned.

Many of the speakers were from the Peterborough area, and their topics were of special interest to those present from the Quinte area.

The first speaker was Mr. J. E. R. Munro, who introduced the subject, "Peterborough Ought Area". Mr. Munro pointed out that the first log cabin built in Peterborough was erected by a fur trader in 1793 (four years before the first survey of settlement reached Belleville).

In 1818 the Peterborough site was laid out, two years later than Belleville. Then in 1825 Peter Robinson supervised the settling of 2,000 hand-picked British settlers in Peterborough area.

The story of Peterborough's growth was then picked up by Mr. Lloyd Hale, head of the History Department at Peterborough Collegiate.

Mr. Hale spoke on "Transplanted Britain before 1850." He painted a vivid picture of the hardships and privations experienced by the early settlers coming out from the Old Country.

Among these difficulties were overpopulation and poor crops, built to accommodate about 100 persons, carried five times that number); the length of time for the voyage, as long as 70-80 days; sanitation; seasickness; poor food and water; darkness in steerage; and disease. On one boat, more than ten per cent of the passengers and crew arrived alive.

Children were particularly hard hit by disease, especially by measles.

To cover up foul water, various flavorings were added, including rum, lime juice, cherry vinegar, but even these failed to kill the taste.

To combat lack of good food, immigrants sometimes brought "pets" on board small animals such as pigs.

Not all voyages were marred by these poor conditions, however. Occasionally they were marked by "good, clear days and absence of vermin".

Then, too, the voyages were sometimes enlivened by beautiful skies, wagers on daily progress and natural phenomenon such as lightning and unseasonal snow. One May 25th, a four-inch snowfall prevented the ship's departure at sea.

To conclude the opening day of the Peterborough conference, the city's librarian, Mr. Robert Peterkin, spoke on the history of the area (among them such appearances as "Cavan", "Gamebons, Strickland, "Trails, and Moodies. These people all faced pioneering in the Peterborough area, and were sustained by their religious beliefs and confidence in the future. Only Susanna Moodie and her husband, Dunbar Moodie, remained in the area after 1840 to a more civilized centre, Belleville.

Miss Anne Heideman spoke of "The Old Houses and Buildings of Peterborough", and described many interesting slides, following which the library and Lakefield museum in the Public Library was visited and refreshments were served.

When M.P.'s Sued M.P.'s

By Arthur Blakely in the Montreal Gazette

The House of Commons Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, to which the Opposition has been so anxious to have the Pallett case referred, was once one of the busiest of all Parliamentary bodies in its activities.

Charges that this member, or that, was guilty of such rules, practices, traditions and privileges of Parliament were constantly being referred to committee was, at times, handpressed to find the business that came its way.

Take, for example, the banner year of 1877. During this great period, the Independence Parliament of Canada, as it still does, the holding of Government contracts by Members of Parliament. But at the time, the Act made this an offence whether the contract was profitable or had been entered into "knowingly and wilfully" or not. And the statute provided that Parliamentarians guilty of breaking this regulation should pay a penalty of $2,000 for every day that they sat in the Commons in a guilty condition. And the penalty was recoverable by anyone — anyone at all — who chose to sue.

The consequences have been described by Norman Ward, in his excellent book "The Canadian House of Commons":

"Either because of the ready availability of this weapon to the virtuous citizens, or because there was a particularly virulent party spirit in the air, in no time at all several members of the Commons were served with writs claiming from one-half to one million dollars; members and ministers became busily engaged in suing their honorable colleagues.

"In the whole unhappy affair, the only case of a silver lining was provided by a lone member who, with a fine regard for the niceties of Parliamentary etiquette, refrained from mentioning an impending suit against Sir John A. Macdonald because, of all the members in the House, he alone had never been introduced to the great party leader.

"He had another Liberal bring up the case against Sir John."

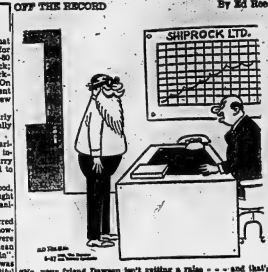
It became evident that there were 26 or 27 members of Parliament who, knowingly or unknowingly, had violated the law as it then stood.

A relief act was rushed through Parliament, to declare the guilty innocents from appalling financial penalties which they had incurred by sitting. And at the same time seven individual cases were rushed off pronto to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Two of the members whose cases were thus referred, threw in the sponge. Their seats were declared vacant by the Committee.

The committee began to deal with the cases immediately, but the end of the session was near, and it had to be made somewhere. And the case of the Hon. Timothy Anglin was the Speaker of the House of Commons.

It appeared that a newspaper which he owned had a subscription for mail and without his prior knowledge, agreed to supply Post Office forms to the Dominion Government.



The Speaker demonstrated conclusively that he had been unaware that such forms existed, and produced a ruling by an 1864 Committee on Privileges and Elections that such a transaction did not constitute a government contract within the meaning of the Independence of Parliament Act.

But the 1877 session of Parliament expressions of regret, declared this and other cases to be unfounded, and that the declaration of lack of knowledge was sufficient. And Mr. Speaker Anglin was duly disqualified and lost his seat in the Commons.

At this point, the session came to an end, and the immense relief of other affected parties. In 1878, the Independence of Parliament Act was amended. Other cases were not proceeded with.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SURGERY IS THE ONLY METHOD OF CORRECTING CATARACTS

A parcel of letters has accumulated on cataracts, including one that begins, "I know you wrote about cataracts but I never thought I would be writing to you for advice. I have heard the doctor says are cataracts . . . .

'Twas always thus. I agree that there's no use cluttering up your mind with a lot of detailed facts on things that you will never need to know — but as you read this column from day to day, I think you'll find that I try to give some basic ideas on various conditions which becomes more frequent as we grow older.

Try to get the fundamentals in mind. You can add the details later if ever you need them.

Cataracts are a cloudiness which sometimes develops in the lens of the eye. In the beginning, it may not affect your sight enough for you to seek relief.

But as the lens becomes cloudier, eyesight gradually diminishes. Not enough light can pass through the lens!

This develops slowly. With them you don't have to rush into such action, as you do with acute appendicitis, as intestinal obstruction, or some other "surgical" demands or directions without delay.

On the contrary, you will find that there is usually some preferable time approximate to, that is — at which the operation should be done, if it needs to be "done."

This depends in part on the "ripening" of the cataract. Sometimes a cataract may be quite apparent to the doctor, for example, but not enough to cause rough impairment of eyesight to make surgery necessary.

Also the condition of the other eye is the deciding factor in many cases.

This I want to emphasize: Surgery is the only known method of correcting a cataract. Remove the cloudy lens!

BEWARE OF "CURES"

One reader tells me that a neighbor, no doubt with the best intentions has been treating her with stories about a relative who has "cured cataract with blue juice." There is no medicine that will prevent or cure cataracts. And the last cataract operation that I received any great amount of publicity for was one by a hypnotized and sold by a man with a criminal record. So don't spend any money on such nonsense. Surgery is the only cure. The operation is not dangerous, and results are highly dependable.

Another reader says: "I am a woman, 56, and am facing a cataract operation in the near future. As I use my eyes in my work, I am naturally worried about afterward. How badly will my sight be damaged? — A. W."

Vision will not be damaged." The otter eye will continue to see as well as ever, provided the other eye is, indeed, in good condition. And if not, appropriate glasses will be provided to guide pay.

Money Best Of Rewards

Financial Post

If the Prime Minister is really hoping to provide "little rewards that go farther than money can possibly go" in compensating members of the National Energy Board, the Tariff Board, and other commissions of government that take a lot of expert time, it almost certainly due for disappointment.

What he wants, in return for his "little rewards," is a slice of the most productive years of an able man's life.

The day when a medal, a decoration even a title could offset lack of cash on the line was the day when a man with a good reputation and professional or professional experience was likely also a man with inherited money.

Free public education and death duties have altered all that; and income tax rates have gone a very long way indeed to making a man from making himself financially independent before reaching an age which he might sit on an energy board.

All of us — from the Prime Minister on down — have to face the fact that when we want really able people for public posts we should pay them money — and better money than we now do.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In my neighbor's garden yesterday over the fence, I saw a heroic battle between a June bug and a dachshund. Being myself highly susceptible to the mystic influence of June bugs, especially in the gloaming, or after dark has fallen, and they come zooming like buzz-bombs straight for your hair, I was able to appreciate the sentiments of the dachshund when he discovered in the grass the dachshund's natural enemy, though it was bright daylight.

I take into consideration the fact that the dachshund's soft underbelly is only two inches off the ground. And when I saw the dachshund's reaction to be see, fall to his feet, hysterically on all horrid spiney legs, this polished spectre? Why, more than likely and the dachshund would have been half-way over it!

What caught my attention was the sight of the little dog pointing his slender nose straight at the ground, ears laid back, and long body slowly quivering in horror. Up, up arched the back until the spine was only six inches from the ground. Then, with wild barks that grew hysterical, he circled round and round in circles with his nose for a pivot, the dog called upon all his gods to come running.

Nobody came. The June bug continued to stagger his blind way amid the grass. The dog went crazy. He started snapping but always a little short, just like a June bug or me. Then he flew look wing and flew off.

Picking his way carefully, eyeing the June bug in front of him and all around, the dachshund followed. However, being a dignitous pete, miffed thoroughly by the bare ground, and then most cautiously sat down.

NEW DAY

It appears that we are headed for space travel. They are setting up schedules now. Undoubtedly the first will be torn up and thrown into the wastepaper basket. We may go farther than we think. Or we may get started earlier than we think — or later. But certainly something is happening today and history will look back upon these times as being completely and utterly epochal.

Are there people on other planets? This we cannot say, but certainly there is no reason for doubting the possibility. If there are such people, are they like us or so different that they are unrecognizable? Might they be hostile? Probably not. Most authorities are pretty well agreed on this.

It would be hard to say what the result will be if we start moving to other planets and the inhabitants (if there are such of such other planets begin to visit us. This might make us rise to heights of wisdom, which might also catch some pretty dangerous diseases. We might be startled by the sight of a new star, for one of our great astronomers has said that there war would be an interplanetary war.

As we think of the possibility of space travel, this thought of the universe comes to our minds. God made the universe. That God is the Creator of all things and that He is the Ruler of this universe is

OUT OF THE SHADOW-LAND

Out of the shadow-land, into the sunshine,
Cloudless, eternal, that fades not away;
Softly and tenderly, Jesus will call us,
Home, where the ransomed are gathering today.

Out of the shadow-land, weary and changeful,
Out of the valley of sorrow and night,
Into the rest of the life everlasting,
Into the summer of endless delight.

Out of the shadow-land, over life's ocean,
Into the rapture and joy of the Lord;
Safe in the Father's house, welcomed by angels,
Ours the bright crown and eternal reward.

Chorus
Silently, peacefully, angels will bear us
Into the beautiful mansions above;
There shall we rest from earth's toiling forever,
Safe in the arms of God's infinite love.

Many a Christian soul, on the threshold of eternity, has found comfort and peace in this hymn of Ira D. Sankey.

The hymn is of interest, apart from the beauty of its imagery and message, for two reasons. It was the last song for which Mr. Sankey, the great gospel singer and composer, wrote words and music, and it was made to be sung at a memorial service for Dr Dwight L. Moody, the gospel preacher with whom Mr. Sankey was associated for so many years in world famous revivals.

The Moody-Sankey partnership was an unusual one in the latter years of the nineteenth century. The two men traveled together to every corner of America, holding evangelistic meetings, and crossed the Atlantic, too, for several soul-winning crusades in London and other cities of the British Isles.

Dr. Moody died a few days before Christmas, in 1899, and when a memorial program was planned soon afterward in Carnegie Hall, New York, Mr. Sankey wrote the hymn stanzas as they appear above, set them to music, and sang them at the service.

longer serve any useful purpose.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher once called attention to the buttons sewed on the outside seam of men's coat sleeves. Their usefulness disappeared with the last lace ruffles worn by men and that was a long time ago. A century and more ago gentlemen wore the ruffles at the wrists and to keep them from being soiled they were buttoned snugly back. The buttons are still put on our coats long after their useful purpose has disappeared.

This is a rather trivial illustration of our tendency to keep things we no longer need, a trait which can become very troublesome. Our minds are clogged with regrets and remorse, with grudges and grouches which should have been discarded. "Don't cry over spilt milk," is the old adage learned in childhood. Dr. Leslie Weatherhead of London has given a more colorful translation of the same advice: "Don't follow your own hearse."

We need the courage to change what should be changed, the patience to endure what cannot be changed and the wisdom to know the difference.

KEEPING EVIL DEEDS

And wisdom should tell us there is a difference between forgetting the evils done us and forgetting the sins we ourselves commit. Suppose a reckless driver ran into my car. The damage was done. The incident is over. I should forget it. It does no good to keep thinking about it. But if I were the reckless driver who caused the damage, that recklessness is in my own nature. It remains with me unless I get rid of it. If I don't care enough about my careless acts to correct it, I add to the sinfulness of it. Hence I must not try to bury my own wrongdoing at its forgetfulness. If I do, I am likely to go on repeating the evil deeds.

Also, wisdom bids us turn from futile remorse to true repentance. A truly repentant person asks forgiveness and tries to make reparation. But since we cannot usually repair the damage fully, we need God's help. God renews a right spirit within ourselves. And I believe God can convey our spirit of repentance to those we have wronged, though they are beyond our reach and even beyond the veil of death.

Some years ago a young man committed a heinous deed. His father, who was an honored citizen, heard of it on a Sunday morning. He called his son into his study after dinner and said: "My son, I cannot condone what you have done. It is bad beyond words. But I am your father and will see this through with you."

Speaking of it later, the son said his father at that moment seemed majestic in his dignity and melting in his love. Knowing his father was suffering with him, the young man's attitude and life were changed.

This is a suggestion of what Our Heavenly Father does in helping us handle our regrets.

A Lift for Living

'Don't Follow Your Own Hearse'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Every Sunday in most of our churches the congregation confesses in prayer: "We have left undone the things we ought to have done and we have done those things which we ought not to have done." When we feel truly sorry for what we failed to do, we can redouble our efforts and try to make up for lost time and opportunity. But how about undoing the wrongs we have done?

We may be inclined to say at once that we cannot undo what has been done, so why bother about the very important questions of successful living: when we have failed to go forward and forget and when to go back and remember.

It is folly to torture our minds with futile regrets over what cannot be changed. We must master the art of leaving if we are to master the art of living. Jesus made much of this point. He said once: "No man having put his hand to the plough and looking back is fit for the Kingdom of God."

We must learn to know how to let some bygones be bygones, how to close the gate on what should be forgotten so that yesterday's pack of pelping worries does not keep hounding us to destroy today's peace of mind.

NO USEFUL PURPOSE

Most of us have a tendency to keep some things which should be left behind. When we move from one residence to another, we discover how many articles we have kept which we shall probably never use, but we hate to throw them away. We preserve many customs which no

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Ward, Stirling, Wed Fifty Years

A family dinner at the quiet home of their summer cottage at Oak Lake to be followed by an "at home" the next day at their Stirling home, will mark celebrations this weekend for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Ward of Stirling on their 50th wedding anniversary.

The family dinner is being held today, while Sunday afternoon and evening the 50-year wed couple will be at home to a wide circle of close friends and relatives.

The couple's entire married life has been spent in Stirling, they having lived in the same house to which Mr. Ward took his young bride following their marriage at Massassaga half a century ago. The bride is the former Nora Delong of Prince Edward county, while Mr. Ward is a native of Stirling and has spent his entire life in the quiet Hastings county village.

Shortly after leaving school Mr. Ward entered his father's hardware business where he learned the tailoring trade. He and his father operated the Ward T. Ward clothing store at Stirling until 1936, when Mr. Ward entered the dry cleaning business from which he retired six years ago. He is 76 while Mrs. Ward is 73. Both still enjoy good health.

WARD CHURCH ORGANIST

Members of the Presbyterian Church at Stirling, Mr. Ward was former organist at the church and at one time also played the cornet. Mrs. Ward also was a young girl was organist at her own church at Massassaga.

One of the guests at Saturday's family dinner will be Mr. Ward's sister, Mrs. Bessie Eggleton of Stirling who was one of the attendants at her brother's wedding half a century ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward have three sons, Tom Ward of Calgary, Donald Ward of Regina, and James Ward of Belleville, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Crampton of Belleville, near Perth. A second daughter, Mrs. Lenora Berry of Woodstock, died in 1941.

There are 7 grandchildren.

Distance will prevent the Ward family reunion being complete on the occasion with Tom and Donald being unable to make the trip from Western Canada.

Sloanes Enjoy European Trip Even After the Ball Is Over

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

And so, as the travelogues say, our trip ends.

Back on board another Pan Am jet, it ended with a nonstop flight from London to New York, one of the few times we've been without a fuel stop. With it came a better chance than we'd had getting over to savor the delights of Deluxe class service.

If your system can stand a gastronomic orgy by broad daylight, you too can travel 3 seven miles above the Atlantic — with perhaps a spectacular view of the Greenland ice cap thrown in for your viewing pleasure. As advertised to us, the airline recently slates its luxurious caviar-to-cognac county by coach service. Only way we have it has found it prudent to sacrifice it in favor of sleep on overnight flights.

Only unconscionable gourmands are likely to get three figures worth of food and drink out of it. But the greater comfort of the seats and the professionally rare experience of being able to say you did it by that method is service, despite its considerably greater cost, as attractive to Economy as transatlantic jet passengers ever since this service began.

Some random reflections on Europe after the ball is over. Eating at the only wall clock we've ever seen in a hotel room, as mounted by the Swiss, there's nothing on this side of the ocean to match it for accuracy except the European deluxe class hotel.

In most countries hotels are classified by government boards according to their facilities. Though sometimes this is more expensive than big city comercial hotels at home, they jealously guarded their quality and paid close attention to detail and service with a cheek, a courtesy, and an uncanny capacity for anticipating the guest's wishes.

THE LITTLE EXTRAS

A receptionist in striped trousers and morning coat shows every guest to his room and explains the less familiar touches — like the bidet standing next to the bathtub which sends a maid or porter hustling to your room in the terry cloth robe at your disposal, the warming rack for the chair and the meeting on opening by the director.

switches on every hand.

Even a cup of tea is cold under each pillow — the maid will thoughtfully remove it after the first night and if you didn't use it — and a puff over the bedclothes to warm together after making up the bed. There's also a foot pad alongside each bed so that you don't put your tootsies on the cold floor in the morning.

If you leave your clothes lying around, the maid will hang them in the wardrobe and turn down your bed, and if you forget to put your shoes outside the door, she'll put them out for you.

The only "services" we could not adjust to were the sandpaper-like toilet tissue and the appalling habit of employes barging in with their mops and pails, not knocking when you summon them.

England's currency is the only one in the world in which six and six make 13 for the price of one on a restaurant check. Since two expences add up to a shilling, you must drop a shilling in the form of the column and carry one each guest.

Should tuppence, thruppence and bob throw you for a loop, remember that everything relative to shillings, bearing in mind there are 20 shillings to the pound. This way you'll be able to determine percentages for tipping quickly. By adding total shillings by seven you can also come up with dollars and cents.

If you're flying around Europe it's strange and hard to realize — on a country-hopping tour, the best time to travel is late at night or early in the morning. Travelling at other hours you'll find that Old Man Gravity is telling most of your departure day packing, waiting around, getting to and from the airport and then getting settled. Any trip is too short for a period of time-saving.

KEY TO ENJOYMENT

Your guide can be the key to your enjoyment. Before you place you visit. He is valuable not only for his knowledge of what he's showing you, but for his intimate acquaintance with off-beat places to eat and shop. If his guide assigned you by your tourist agency doesn't please you in these respects — may be anything from parrots to distinguished scholars — change him as to ask for a change.

Interested in buying a European car to either take home or resell after your trip? Briefly, this is most economically for a long stay; for a short one, renting a car usually proves cheaper.

In England, you may be surprised at the blindfold-fold drinks which are the British standard. For as American-sized jigger, you must ask for a "large."

British beer is not quite so warm as you may have heard. It is also milder and much less gassy than ours. It is served in light, dry and cold, ask for lager. Don't forget the salty crisps.

White Cane Club Elects New Officers

Members of the White Cane Club, their escorts and their assistant field secretary, Don Ferguson, from Kingston, spent an enjoyable time when they gathered at the YMCA Thursday evening to celebrate the final monthly meeting for the year 1958-1959.

Events of the evening were climaxed with election of officers for the coming season conducted by Mr. Ferguson, with the results as follows:

Violet Waite, president, elected by acclamation; Hubert Rushlow, vice-president; Pat Baberstock, recording secretary; Clarence Morris, treasurer; Alice Scott, membership convener, with Mrs. Rhoda Mattis carrying on as flower girl for the club.

The correspondence, some interesting stories and the delegates' reports of the C.C.B. convention held at Lake Couchiching North Bay, Ontario, were read by Mrs. Hattie in the absence of Mrs. Harry Rollins, who is now out of town on the occasion of the retirement of her husband.

Names of members having birthdays in June and July were read by the club's retiring secretary, Marguerite Hall, the birthday song for Mrs. Aikins. An interesting talk on Braille was given for the blind and their escorts to be held July 4th, at Lake Couchiching, with Mrs. Wake.

One of the members played a few numbers on his violin, followed by community singing with Don Ferguson at the piano. This was followed by the serving of refreshments and the appetite ladies to whom a hearty thank you on behalf of all, was expressed by Clarence Morris.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T and T will tend towards the brighter side of things today, for which I'm glad as I have been our privilege to glance through a reprint of the Toronto Star's gazette for November 1958 which concerns itself with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. It is an informative document emulating progress in Canada of the protection of human rights "within the Canadian framework." Perhaps it is a casual perusal one gathers in small measure how reactionary it is directed in the true from the top i.e. the UN down to individual states. It reveals how much work has led and, too, how Canada measures up to the Universal Declaration under such headings as Canadian legislation prohibiting discrimination in employment, equal pay legislation, freedom of association and right to organize, evolution and application in Canada of rights relating to motherhood and childhood, rights relating to social security, to fair standard of living, to equal protection against discrimination.

There is a long way to go in Canada, but great progress is being made and, when considered as a part of the world outlook we can thank our lucky stars that we are women and mothers in Canada. We are told "At no time in Canadian history have women and children enjoyed as much as a seriously disadvantaged position." The effect of this on the living being is pointed out by illustrating how in the beginning the nation was built on family ties and the importance of the mother in the scheme of things in the nineteenth century, abuses and misfortune were largely taken care of by family ties and privately. A list of subheadings reveals to what extent time and progress has changed the picture. The first to be briefly referred to is the organization of social welfare services and in order they include — welfare services for children, maternity provisions for children, protection of women and children in industry, income protection of mothers and children, comprehensive program for women and children, health programs for mothers and children, equal opportunities of children born out of wedlock.

It is an impressive list and "I" for one would endorse every under each heading. The list, we hope and pray, will shortly be made a a utopian dreamland, but we are making progress, and we are one of the most advanced nations in the world. Our example of accepting its practice as well as in theory the principles set down in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights is encouraging other countries to accept these principles of human rights. Women in every strata of society are affected and through the active work of many national organizations they bring weight to bear on every governmental level. We have listened to sceptics who doubt the influence of these submissions to government, but there remains no doubt of their effectiveness and their weight. We recently saw a letter written by a provincial premier in reply to a national women's organization plea, the letter left no doubt whatever that the suggestions would not be ignored. Even in the field of approach we have evolved from the birth pains of the early, but not so long ago, feminist militancy to the more powerful peaceful methods of association. The enthusiasm and drive, and in some cases the danger involved of women in less privileged countries is so great that we must use caution to help them by our example and know that the strength of forces at work in the race for men's minds and whichever side gets the most and wins will be the mighty power for good of the Universal Declaration. It is awesome even to try to contemplate the vacuum in this twentieth century without the Declaration.

Our thought for the weekend turns out of these thoughts and from the words of an authority on world empire. He said that we are part of the world and its decline and fall, the moral fibre of women and children in industry, income protection of mothers and children, comprehensive program for women and children, health programs for mothers and children, equal opportunities of children born out of wedlock.

It is an impressive list and "I" for one would endorse every under each heading. The list, we hope and pray, will shortly be made a a utopian dreamland, but we are making progress, and we are one of the most advanced nations in the world. Our example of accepting its practice as well as in theory the principles set down in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights is encouraging other countries to accept these principles of human rights. Inspector Is Honored By Teachers

On Tuesday evening the elementary teachers of Hastings and Prince Edward entertained at a turkey dinner in Canifton United Church to honor Mrs. E. Cummins, B.A., M. Ed., Inspector of Public Schools, who is shortly leaving to take up his new duties in Burlington.

Mrs. F. Henderson, principal of Canifton-Corbyville Public School, was mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Mary Campbell of Quinte School graciously thanked the ladies of Canifton W. A. for the sumptuous dinner they had provided.

Ralph Plumpton, Corbyville, accompanied by Mrs. B. Foster, Canifton, sang two delightful duets.

Mr. H. Walkom, principal of Point Anne Public School, read an address voicing the teachers' appreciation of their inspector for his guidance and advice for his future. Mr. Pullon of Massassaga made the presentation of an illustrated reclining chair to Mr. Cummins, and Miss Joan Campbell of S.S. 5 Thurlow, presented Mrs. Cummins with a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Cummins told of many interesting and a few sad memories he would have of his Inspectorate.

The success of this evening was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. F. Henderson, president, and Miss Ruth Barker, secretary-treasurer of the Teachers' Institute.

Let Not Him Who Is Houseless Pull Down the House of Another

By Alma Mason

There is a plaque at Knott's Berry Farm, Los Angeles, California, which carries these wise and penetrating words of Abraham Lincoln, "Labor was prior to capital but poverty is the fruit of labor. Property is desirable and is a great good to the individual. The some should be rich shows that others may become rich and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example insuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

What an argument Lincoln had against anti-capitalist — anti-Christian, anti-church propaganda we know it today. Although he believed in equal rights for all; in freedom of speech and doctrine, he did not believe the human race should be subjected to and levelled by an ideology which would turn God's greatest creation into robots, motivated by a dull sameness of desire and propelled along a narrow gorge of mass thinking and existence.

Some of us who dare to call ourselves "Canadian" are teeming and seething with frustrated anger as we consider more fortunate. In blind bitterness we abandon in thought and deed this land our forefathers bequeathed us. If the energy expended on jealousy and hatred directed against fellow Canadians and against our form of government were channelled into a constructive effort of endeavor for and loyalty to this wonderful land of ours, Canada would speedily become a Utopia of perfection.

It is true that an empty stomach provides rich soil for the seeds of envy and vindictiveness. Someone must be blamed for hunger and destitution. But in blaming the man on the soup ahead — we must bear in mind — that it is possible that he did not start life in the lap of material luxury. Often he has known great privation physically. Many of our great captains of industry, our foremost financial wizards, have sharpened their success on the grindstone of severe affliction and misery.

When our pioneering grandparents struggled to colonize this land, their hardships were a thousand times greater than any we have known. When Indian massacres, starvation and plagues overwhelmed them they did not blame the so-called "capitalist" or government policy. There were no "isms" for them to turn to in shame and defeat. They were too busy mixing blood and toil and sweat in a tremendous and united struggle for survival. God and prayer and human kindness built an unbreakable fortress of hope for them and enabled them to endure for five minutes longer until the tone of battle strategy changed and hardship and privation does our brand of bravery compare with theirs? Through indescribable misery their feet became more firmly entrenched in Canadian love and loyalty.

When the upward climb has been hazardous and the path rough and rocky, he who at last stands erect with the white drifting clouds of success on his shoulders, can better encourage another traveller for he has become familiar with every deep rut in the road. Thank God (or those, who in that free land of ours, have reached the summit. Thank God for the impetus they give our struggling feet. Thank God we too may follow.

He sits on high in lofty seat
And life for him seems soft and sweet,
But place your feet where his have been,
Feel pain of torn and bruised skin;
Know cold bleak winds of hope long lost,
Climb upward, friend, but count the cost.

Don't stand in cringing fear below,
The place he won you too can know;
When you would envy him his quest,
Remember that the topmost crest
That seems so bright and shines so fair
Was gained by blood and tears and prayer.

This land of freedom gives to you
A staff to mount into the blue,
A crown of courage from the throng
Of those before you, stalwart, strong,
Where their brave struggles left we have trod
The footprints clear are marked by God.

SPECIAL SIGNATURE PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Mother died last week, and I am writing on behalf of my sisters. Notes for flowers and messages of sympathy, my father and brother have asked me to compose their thank-you notes. I am married myself and have not all sure about the correct forms for my signature to these notes. Many of my father's friends are professional or business friends, whom I either don't know at all or don't know well. And I don't know some of my brother's friends who sent flowers and messages. Will you please advise me how to sign these notes? Thank you.

— Dorothy

(A) You notes of thanks to relatives and family friends would, of course, be signed with your own first name only. The notes to people whom you do not know very well but who would know your married name, you sign:

Sincerely,
Dorothy Clark Robins

Your notes to father's professional or business friends and to your brother's friends whom you don't know well, sign like this:

Sincerely,
Dorothy Clark Robins
(Mrs. John Robins)

In the notes you write for your father and brother, it is very important, for identification, that they begin with their names and your brother's name) that you include your maiden surname in your signature.

DO ATTENDANTS PAY FOR DRESSES?

— DESIRED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Isn't it the bride's responsibility to pay for the dresses she chooses for her attendants? It seems so, if the attendants' dresses are to be worn or accompany that rents this kind of attire, isn't it her responsibility to "pay the rental costs"?

No. Although the bride-to-be chooses the costumes of her attendants, each attendant pays for her costume . . . or for the rental of her costume.

SEULAH UNITED W.M.S.

The June meeting of Seulah United W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Malcolm McLellan with Mrs. S. Tooley presiding and giving a reading for the meditation, "It Was A Stranger Sight."

The Scripture reading, "An Exhortation to Bless God for His Mercy," read from the 103rd Psalm, was given by Mrs. Thomas Cluff.

The topic, chosen by Mrs. E. Hollins and Mrs. H. Stobbart was based on the First Book of Samuel.

The prayer, Mrs. Stobbart prepared a paper on the "Life of David," which was given by Mrs. H. Brooks.

Mrs. Jack Winkens gave a reading, "Shield of Safety." The king said, is the young man Absalom safe?—II Samuel. II 22, she read in part.

"Let us lift the question out of its setting—to think of the safety of young men today. This question about the character of youth is so urgent. The young man is not safe unless he has high ideals and the right traditions to hold him steady. Do our homes, the schools of to-day, set forth high ideals to hold them steady? All loose-living springs from the lack of early training of what is right and wrong.

"Society is paying a sorry price. Let us think of the vicious life involved in alcoholic drink and the allurement of gambling, which are enmeshing so many. Is the young man safe? He is only safe when he looks to his Master, Jesus Christ, who has given us the resources, the motives and the truths to work if we have faith in the eternal God and are ready to make sacrifice and follow this truth conviction of right. That will keep him strong and unashamed as he turns from the enticements of evil, then is he safe."

Mrs. E. Brooks gave a reading "Obly One Thing." This story was based on Jesus' command to his disciples, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every nation, tongue and tribe." But have we obeyed this commandment? Truly, we have built colleges, universities, seminaries and churches; this should be done. But there is still only thing we have left

Wedding

HUBBARD — WALSH

The Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Ontario, was the setting on Saturday, June 18, for a very pretty summer wedding when Margaret Agnes Walsh, of Marysville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh, became the bride of Carl William Hubbard, of Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hubbard. The Reverend J. P. Donoghue, of Marysville, officiated before a background of white and pink carnations, a single red rose adorned the flag table.

Miss Anne McAlphin provided the wedding music, and accompanied Mrs. Ted Gill who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Walsh, wore a floor length bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net in floor-length fashion, using a fitted lace bodice and lace lily-point neckline outlined in net, having tiny pearl buttons down the front. Her Pan collar, accented with seeded pearls, fell full skirt was of double-ringed net. She wore a fingertip length veil of nylon net held by a seed pearl and sequin-studded crown, and carried a mother-of-pearl prayer book crested with red Sweetheart roses, and rosebud-knotted white satin streamers.

She was attended by her sister as maid of honour, gowned in ballerina-length taffeta, fashioned with a fitting a double net skirt and net jacket with matching headpiece. The maid of honour carried a basket of yellow and white carnations, and wore a baby's breath and Sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marnie Black and Mrs. Helen Feeney were attired in ballerina-length taffeta to that of the maid of honour. They carried carnations and carrying baskets of blue and white mums, with Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The little flower girls, Sharon Marie Walsh, sister of the bride, and Jean Walsh, little niece of the bride, were sweet in their frocks of yellow taffeta, and net ballerina length. The former carried a basket of yellow and white 'mums with Sweetheart roses and baby's breath, while Jean Walsh carried a basket of white 'mums with Sweetheart roses and baby's breath, and wore matching headdresses.

Mr. Edmund Walsh of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Robert Feeney, of Oshawa, and Mr. Ted Black, of Belleville, acted as ushers.

The reception dinner was held at Hotel Quinte, Belleville, where Mr. A. A. Fewtrell, of Belleville, was master of ceremonies and toastmaster.

Mr. Edmund Walsh was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake with arch and swans, topped by a miniature bride and groom, while white lily bouquets added a delightful nuptial touch.

The bride's mother received, wearing dusty pink with white accessories and corsage of pink 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a dusty pink with white accessories and corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip, by motor, the bride donned a navy Pembroke, Ottawa and Jones Falls, the bride chose a pale blue suit with navy and white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Previous to her marriage, by the bride, Mrs. Hubbard was a member of the Trefoil Club This stimulating experience gave birth to the Montreal Reading Club (still very active) which met at her home. All previous meetings were held in Crescent Cross. Each member paid a dollar a month, if they took part. Those who wished to look on, paid a quarter. The first year they turned over sixty-five dollars to the war effort. The second year, a hundred dollars.

As a war wife, she kept her courage and that of countless others high by carrying on and believing alive the love for drama that Canada has pushed forward so dearly to preserve.

Nor did she neglect her love for Shakespeare. After the war, she began giving professional performances for school tours throughout Canada and her solo interpretations of a repertoire of fifteen Shakespearian plays, in costume, made it possible for thousands of students to share a love and enthusiasm for the Bard, which would have otherwise been denied them, otherwise. She began to write sketches of the lives of famous Canadian women of history and portrayed them, in costume, on stage. "Canadian Indian Princess," "Canadian Pioneer Mary," "Canadian Heroine," "Canadian Pioneer Mary," is easier, by far!"

Phebe: " . . . Comitance is not quittance." — from Shakespeare's "As You Like It," Act III, Scene V.

"I've just heard of Reverend Bowen P. Squire of Consecon, and his remarkable collection of Indian artifacts which he found in Prince Edward County practically in his own back yard, I understand," said a recent Montreal visitor to Belleville. "Would it be possible to meet him?"

Within the hour Mr. Squire, sandy-haired and smiling, who is one of Canada's outstanding amateur archeologists, now working with the Canadian government, was kindly displaying his "pages in stone or leaves of an unpublished book of history, graven in stone and bone"; butter-fly banners; net weights; pipe stones and hand stones. A woman's kit of bone needles to fashion moccasins and deer-skin skirts.

fishing bars and spars (forerunner of the modern fish hook); axes, pounding stones, ice boards, arrow heads and a hundred and forty pieces of various designs rescued from broken pottery.

"These date back thousands of years, when the Moira River was one of the main arteries of travel into the hinterland for hunting, fishing and war. Here life was very bit as exciting as it is today," he said. "Julius Caesar was Emperor, Man make history, but there are two kinds of history; the written and the unwritten. Archeology is the unwritten history and we have much history with — and is my love," he added, as Phoebe Eakins Mac-Kellar was told.

Mrs. Mackellar is currently visiting with a tour of Ontario Indian Reservations to take recordings of Indian legends, stories and songs, and was very impressed with the birthplace of Pauline Johnnson, Canada's Indian lore is not a sudden interest to her, for it is a hobby of many interests.

"As a child, I dreamed of having a Shakespeare theatre built in a favorite Canadian blueberry patch, where I could play, and while attending school in England, my interest in dramatics led to Concert offices, when I came to Montreal, I studied English literature and Shakespeare at the college plays and then returned to England where I took my Bachelor's of Dramatic Art," from which she received the certificate of proficiency. It was not easy after for she entertained her voice which developed a distinct handicap throughout her whole training "In my case, marriage and a family proved well," she declared, looking back a quarter of a century to the days when she received her certificate she became the wife of Andrew Mackellar, a Canada officer, whom she met on her second trip to England, and who during World War II became one of the youngest commanders in the British Navy, the legendary "Mad Mackellar is captain of the ocean going tug Foundation Franklin.

COMMON PROBLEM

"All sailor wives," stated Mrs. Macellar, indicating the wives of officers, "have common problems that may never travel," have one problem in common, marriage is the togetherness." These assest periods have been filled with entertaining guests, but it is important to keep busy." She acted as English movie star with the late Gertrude Lawrence and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. She taught under-privileged girls dramatics, under the auspices of the London County Council. For seven consecutive summers she came to Canada and put on a Shakespeare Festival at her family's country place at Como, Quebec.

The winter of 1940, while in New York, she happened to attend the Elizabethan Poetry Club This stimulating experience gave birth to the Montreal Reading Club (still very active) which met at her home. All previous meetings were held in Crescent Cross. Each member paid a dollar a month, if they took part. Those who wished to look on, paid a quarter. ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Route of 1959 Royal Visit to Ontario— Commencing June 27th

The Government and the people of Ontario welcome Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, and His Royal Highness the Prince Philip, to our great Province.

With the official opening of The St. Lawrence Seaway by Her Gracious Majesty, the worthy dream of years becomes a reality. Now open to deep-water shipping of the world, our Lake Ports will provide access to the heartland of the Continent—and from them, as ocean ports, will go forward, into world trade channels, Canada's and Ontario's raw materials and manufactured goods.

Out of this Development has also come the great Provincial power project—in which Ontario has made a vast financial investment—providing additional power resources which can be used to increase our industrial, agricultural and economic strength.

Proud to be a partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations, our Canadian Nation rejoices in and looks forward to the Royal visit. It will be marked by many memorable events. They will be of great historic significance, providing opportunity as well to show to the Queen of Canada the unfailing loyalty, devotion and affection of her Canadian people.

May the visit to Ontario of our Gracious Sovereign be a pleasant one, as we pay her due homage.

Your Car

Never Ignore Danger Signals From Brakes

By EUGENE MILMOE

Mileage timetables aren't enough as brake service guides. Too much depends on the use and abuse they receive. Some brakes have been found in dangerous condition after only 3,000 miles of driving.

Regular checks are needed, but brake insurance begins with driver care and alertness. The reckless type who invites frequent panic stops — his extreme who continually rides the brake pedal — or those who burn up lining descending hills are safety risks by degrees. So are drivers who give little attention to braking changes.

The car's required stopping distance may be increasing a bit as the brake pedal free travel may have changed, or the pedal may be sinking closer to the floorboard. Perhaps there's a pull to one side, a slight grabbing tendency, a drag or an occasional squeak, click or other brake noise. These are all danger signals, and deserve a lot more attention than such things as gas mileage and gleaming finish.

R. J. writes: "There isn't enough clearance to the end of the burretor of my '54 sedan. Would the fuel pump or the carburetor itself be the first thing to check."

(A) The pump, fuel line, fuel filter bowl — not the carburetor — are the suspects.

From N. D.: "My engine overheats and so far I haven't found out why, but I think it's a clogged radiator." What clogs turbs me as much is the increase in oil use. This is due to the overheating I hope, isn't it?"

(A) High engine heat thins out oil so that it burns away more readily. It could also cause greasy or cylinder expansion, thus allowing more oil to get by the rings.

• • •

G. L. asks: "If I rest my foot on the clutch pedal, the pedal vibration is very strong. When I press down, it ceases. Could I had the clutch checked over at a garage and it's in A-1 shape."

(A) Clutch pedal vibration is often caused by engine mounts that are either loose or incorrectly adjusted.

C. K. writes: "There's a rubbing noise coming from my right front wheel, and the car pulls a little toward that side, too. Would this be brake trouble?"

(A) Yes, probably a dragging brake shoe.

Frick Doubts Success of Third League

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick said Friday the makers of a third major league may find out—once they get into the market that it is not the best way to meet the game's need for expansion.

"My personal attitude on the proposed third league has been distorted somewhat and I would like to make my position clear," the bushy-haired executive said in an interview.

"I am wholeheartedly for expansion, and I am for it the best way we can get it. If the third major league is the answer, then I will move my full support behind it. But for years I have had other ideas about how we should go about this thing.

GRADUAL BUILDUP

"I am in favor of adding teams gradually—first four teams, making 10 in each of the league and then a couple of years later four more teams to build two 12-club leagues.

"Having reached that point, we then could all sit down and recapture the picture. That would be the time to decide on additional leagues."

Frick emphasized that he did not want to be put in the position of throwing cold water on the third league idea.

Preliminary plans for a third major league already are in the works. Bill Shea, chairman of Mayor Wagner's New York baseball committee, recently identified the persons behind the New York entry. Names of cities suggested for the new league are Toronto, St. Paul — Minneapolis, Houston, Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

SAILING IN THE SKY

Sailing season is here. For most of us that signifies being the best on water; but some birds sail in the sky. What a sight! Their sailing must one which can by means no visible motion at all! Gently large birds sail through the air on set wings with no apparent effort.

To us this seems phenomenal. But the birds are using updrafts, so that though doing no flapping they are carried along on a level course. Then with a few flaps they move from one rising current to another, once more to be held on the level, their outstretched wings tilting almost imperceptibly to keep them straight.

One of the best sailors is the big red-tailed hawk, noted for sailing and soaring. (Some females are 25 inches long). Our first intimation of its presence above us is often its long-drawn-out, raspy, upward kliss, "kreeer-r-r", ending in a downward slurr. Looking up, we see a big, thick-bodied, red-tailed hawk circling around, its tail expanded like an open fan.

This view shows us the dark streaked body with a light breast, and the white, underside of the tail. In good sunshine the red top feathers of the tail show through, giving a pink appearance. A black band near the end of the white-tipped tail. This description fits both adults and the ordinary young, but does also a less common, dark phase.

EXTRAORDINARY EYESIGHT

With speed and keen eyesight, the red-tail is searching the ground far below, watching for snakes, lizards, frogs, meadow mice, squirrels, rabbits, and other small mammals, or insects that might supply a meal. Sometimes an individual gives a bad name to all its brothers and sisters by raiding poultry yards, but actually this is quite unusual. Generally a red-tail is an asset to farmers, as a considerable rodent destroyer.

This big hawk returns to Canada the latter part of April or the beginning of May, and by the time he found all across our country, though seldom seen on the ground unless killed by forest fire season.

The bulky nest of branches and twigs, lined with grasses, weeds and dead leaves, is made in trees, often 50 to 80 feet up. It is quite customary for a pair to use the same home year after year. Two or three eggs take four weeks to hatch. The young remain in the nest until fully feathered. As this takes six or seven weeks, and young red-tails have enormous appetites, the sailing, searching parents are common sights.

AFTER TEN DAYS

Canada's constitutional structure seems definitely to have been succeeded by a readiness to accept the Queen and her family in a more personal and homey way. This was to be seen in the right note herself. First she made sure the royal yacht Britannia was displayed prominently the Canadian Exhibition — the certainly more acceptable to Quebec than the Union Jack.

Then she severed close and with reverence and respect to the Roman Catholic service of blessing the ocean, just before she presented them Tuesday to Canada's crack French regiment—the Royal 22nd—at Quebec. She heard the commander tell her emotionally in his French tongue of the regiment's steadfast loyalty to the Crown. But leaving no doubt it was "Canadian" loyalty, the regiment, in an unscheduled move, sang O Canada to accompaniment of massed bands.

OBVIOUS AFFECTION

Premier Duplessis talked to the young Queen with obvious affection and gave her one of the most enjoyable of many conversations she's had so far. And on his feet, he spoke of the "authority and liberty" of French - speaking Canadians under the crown.

His knowledge of the Queen's case practically everybody in the neat industrial city interrupted preparations for the important St. Jean Baptiste Day to turn out and cheer the Queen wherever she went. Their warm-hearted greeting obviously affected her.

At Quebec the mayor, who has seven children and 12 grandchildren, talked to her on a subject close to the Quebec heart—raising families. Then with almost fatherly affection he tucked her into the back seat of her car for a roaring ovation through the old streets of the city. This prompted her to rise to her feet in acknowledgement, something she hardly avoided the last time.

MEETING OF OPPOSITES

So there seems a closer meeting of opposites this time. For in Quebec its doubtful if there would be too much national disagreement on the tour-ing statement from Premier Smallwood of more royalist Newfoundland. He decried carping illogics and would-be republicans.

Actually Queen's Canadian mouthwash represents more anyone else in this troubled world. And the Queen is the visible symbol of these badly-needed qualities." The Queen was also the symbol of respect for authority and an anchorage for national pride.

This tour, in many ways, has brought people closer to the Royal Family because of. the more informal press arrangements which sees reporters and photographers get within ear-shot of what is going on. The arrangement apparently has the blessing of the royal family for as it must free and easy press reception the Queen said she had no objection to critical articles, because that was the right of a writer in a democracy.

The prince, exchanging banter with photographers on the mon-archy's basis of their long association, told them he had no objection to anything but "hole" type of operation which tried to invade the privacy of the Royal Family.

But this new deal, with the Mounties acting as conducting officers rather than roadblocks, has brought reporters in range of husband-and-wife conversation that also show the very human side of the royal family life and increases appreciation for the way they do their difficult and tough job.

The prince is obviously a confident support for the Queen. He can keep a difficult conversation going between them at ease and sometimes make up the Queen's mind when it's time to move on. His rarely boastful advice is often heard and he seemed to take a paternal delight as tourist guide when they visited some of the northern developments where he had already been. The workmen in the iron ore pits of Labrador, the pulp mill in Newfoundland and in the fiery aluminum smelter in Quebec, all appreciated the Queen's intelligent questions and obvious keen interest in their replies. There was nothing perfunctory about the way she conversed.

The Queen obviously has a motherly sentiment about her children that she doesn't always

TOUGH SOLDIER — Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, retiring from the army next week after 34 years of service, was known as a tough soldier who got what he wanted but the troops called him Uncle Chris." Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes Will Call It Quits on Wednesday After 34 Years of Army Life

Written for The Canadian Press by BILL ROSS

Chris Vokes, a plain-spoken Canadian general idolized nd feared on the Second World War battlefields of Italy, retires rom the army June 30.

No ceremony is planned to mark his departure from Headquarters, Western Command, at Edmonton, where a week later Maj.-Gen. Geoffrey Walsh is to proceed him as general officer ommanding, Maj. - Gen. Chris Vokes plans to pack up quietly nd go.

A fighting Irishman whose mother and son also took up soldiering, lantern-jawed Chris has had his share of the tumult and pounding during 34 years of army life.

So often in the news 15 years ago that his name became a household word in Canadian families with fathers, brothers, sons Vokes' 1st Canadian Infantry Division, even the restraints that peacetime clamps upon soldiers couldn't keep Vokes out of print.

BLUNT OFFICER

He did not subscribe to the more refined methods of "winning friends and influencing people." He usually got what he wanted — from soldiers of all ranks — by demanding it. No waster of words, even his superiors he was terse. Some even held him to be insolent. But he produced, and expected others to do likewise.

Vokes' battles cover every major Canadian engagement on the mainland of Italy — notably Ortona, the Gustav and Hitler Lines, the Gothic Line, Rimini, the Savio and Ravenna.

He started in the army as an engineer, became a staff officer, then commanded infantry at the battalion, brigade and divisional level, and closed out the war commanding an armored formation.

In appearance alone he was impressively suited to command Canada's commitment in the new Western Allies' German occupation garrison. His area's training and discipline was such that Vokes kept it the only one in which the Allies' "non-fraternization - with - Germans" ban was rigidly enforced.

Vokes in Italy was an awesome presence with a bushy, stiffly-brushed Prussian - like moustache that bristled red from upper lip to ears, and cushioned his fierce blue eyes.

BLAWNY FIGURE

Muscular forearms gleamed a rut - brown tan from below his rolled - up shirt sleeves. A blue Marchief was knotted choker fashion about his throat as protection against the incessant dust. The divisional commander, seen everywhere in the front seat of his jeep, was known to every soldier of his formation.

"Uncle Chris," they called him, without affection but with considerable respect.

In orders to his troops before the August-September 1944 battle of the Gothic Line, he told them bluntly: "So up and at him, 1st Division. Kick the b—d in the forks."

They did. In company with the 5th Canadian Armored Division and other units of the 1st Canadian Corps under Lt. - Gen. E. L. M. Burns, a smashing victory was gained. In its course the general's brother, Lt.-Col. F. A. Vokes, was killed while commanding the British Columbia Dragoons, a 5th Division unit.

Army histories gloss over whatever part Gen. Vokes and other senior officers may have played subsequently in Gen. Burns' removal from command.

REPLACED BURNS

But before his own transfer to the Northern European theatre as acting commander of the 4th Armored Brigade, Brig. Chris Vokes briefly replaced Burns as acting corps commander.

He left behind a division that was largely identified itself with his own personality—tough, soldierly, cavalier in the breezy manner of the cosmopolitan 8th Army and with a grim big heart.

In Europe he led 4th Armored through most of Holland and northwest Germany.

In Germany, as convening officer, Vokes had the responsibility of reviewing the court - martial sentence of SS Maj. - Gen. Kurt Meyer, convicted by a Canadian war crimes court under Maj.-Gen. H. W. Foster and ordered to be shot.

Vokes commuted the sentence to lifeimprisonment, holding that the "degree of responsibility" established at Meyer's trial on counts of ordering the execution of Canadian war prisoners was not such as to warrant the extreme penalty.

DECLINES COMMENT

Although that decision has resulted controversial, Vokes has steadfastly refused further comment on the propriety of both the commutation and his silence have consistently been upheld by the army headquarters.

Defence Minister Pearkes announced in 1957 that Chris was to be the army's next vice-chief of staff. Vokes said no. Pearkes countermanded the announcement, and forthright Chris Vokes remained in Edmonton area, closer to his beloved soldiers than he would have been in Ottawa.

Through, it all, Mrs. Vokes, the former Catherine Waugh of Winnipeg, has taken her husband's appointments philosophically. Their son, Christopher John Frederick—Freddy for short is following dad into the Army and served with distinction as an artillery officer in Korea.

For one parting comment, 54-year-old Chris already has earned editorial approval. The Ottawa newspapers applauded when he said he doesn't intend to join the growing list of Canadian generals who go on pension and then take pot shots at the government's defence policy.

"That is not my tradition, Chris Vokes quits the military scene altogether in the spirit of the old soldiers' "Old soldiers never die, they merely fade away."

Senator Kennedy, Jimmy Hoffa In Angry Clashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator John F. Kennedy told a defiant James R. Hoffa Friday "I have no hope of you ever cleaning up the Teamsters Union."

Kennedy said this during one of many angry clashes with Hoffa when the president of the giant truckers' union was called before the Senate rackets committee for the 12th time in 9½ years.

The Massachusetts Democrat challenged Hoffa to show any action he may have taken against a long stream of Teamster officials whom the committee has labelled corrupt, some of whom have been in trouble with the law.

Bristling, Hoffa said "I have the power and the authority" to suspend union officials who have pleaded the fifth amendment against self - incrimination to avoid testifying before the committee. But he said he won't do it while the committee is investigating them.

"When the final chapter is closed in this committee," Hoffa said, "we will then take up one by one these charges."

"You said the same thing 2½ years ago," Kennedy shot back.

The committee contends that Hoffa has made no real attempt to honor a long-standing promise to purge criminal elements from the union. Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, the senator's brother, has said that even if Hoffa wanted to, he is the underworld wouldn't let him.

Before calling Hoffa, the committee received testimony that the Detroit Times paid a Teamsters Union official approximately $36,000 to stave off labor difficulties.

Fight to Control Seaway Labor Before Court

OTTAWA (CP)—A struggle between two unions for control of Canadian labor on the new St. Lawrence Seaway will begin in part on a judge's decision.

Mr. Justice Samuel H. Hughes of the Ontario Supreme Court will begin reserved decision on a bid by the International Longshoremen's Association (Ind.) to block a representation vote of the 900-odd seaway workers, ordered to be held next Friday by the Canada labor relations board.

The board had ordered that the ballot could be between the labor union, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC).

The Seafarers, recently thrown out of the Canadian Labor Congress for raiding another CLC union, claim that the labor relations board had not acted in conformity with the labor code.

The board's orders ordered a stay of proceedings on the vote pending the court's judgment.

Meanwhile, executives of the Civil Service Federation of Canada and the Canadian Labor Congress Employees Association, an affiliate, have endorsed boycott the vote.

If the association's membership adopts the boycott, this might result in failure by the brotherhood to get the required 51 per cent of votes from eligible employees.

Record of Diefenbaker Govt. Not up to Dashing Election Campaign Says Times

LONDON (CP)—The Times, in a column-long editorial pegged to the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, surveys the record of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's first two years in office.

It says that making all allowances for the swing of the pendulum, "there is a feeling over a "good deal of Canada that the stimulus administered to public opinion by Mr. Diefenbaker's dashing election campaigns has not been continued by the conduct of his government in office."

"In several government departments, the independent newspaper says, there are complaints of a "lack of grip."

The editorial mentions specifically the "linked domains" of employment and immigration, but adds that the greatest difficulty confronting the Progressive Conservative administration lies in the conduct of external affairs, and particularly in choosing a successor to "statesmen of the international reputation" of former prime ministers Louis St. Laurent and former external affairs minister Lester Pearson, both Liberals.

The Times says that Diefenbaker's first appointment as external affairs minister, Sidney Smith, made no "great mark" on the department before his death last March 17, and that Diefenbaker showed the embarrassment in which he was left by keeping the seals in his own hands for nearly three months.

"The two men perhaps best qualified for the succession had by that time made themselves indispensable in other posts, Mr. Fulton as justice minister and Mr. Michener as Speaker. The prime minister's choice has fallen on one of his closest political friends, Mr. Howard Green.

"Mr. Green is a great parliamentarian, something of a wit and experienced as chairman of the party caucus. But at 63 he is and never to have left the North American continent since he came home with the Canadian Expeditionary Force from the First World War.

"It is widely believed in Canada his appointment means that the final control of external policy will continue to be vested mainly in the prime minister, a fact that hardly has hitherto been procrastinating and indecision.

"It is to be hoped that Mr. Diefenbaker has his eye upon future years and vigorous men who can soon be trained to be a support in an heavy burden on foreign policy."

Premier Kassem Rides Alone Without Guard of any Kind

Here is a closeup of the Israel leader's assassin, as brought out of Baghdad by a correspondent who spent three months there.

ROME (AP) — Suddenly your driver slams on the brakes in Baghdad's traffic jam and you jump out of the taxi—clapping his hands. A tan station wagon passes by. Nonchalantly and a ripple of applause from sidewalk onlookers.

The driver gets back in and grins. "Abdel Karim Kassem, he is going."

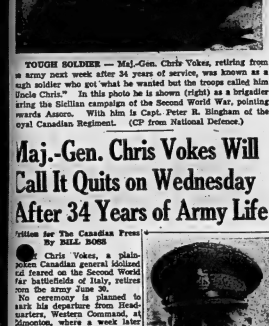
The obvious spontaneity is evidence of the popularity of Iraq's Premier Kassem. This is true even though Kassem's popularity has in part been built by others with their own objects in mind.

Kassem has climbed the detail of soldiers with machine-guns who used to follow his army station wagon. Generally he rides alone behind the chauffeur, smiling and waving to the crowds.

In his defence ministry office the 44-year-old career army officer who led the overthrow of Iraq's monarchy July 14 is surrounded by portraits of himself—one of them encircled by peace doves. He told one visitor he is embarrassed by the portraits plastered in every Baghdad shop window, but that their circulation gives something—of me to the people."

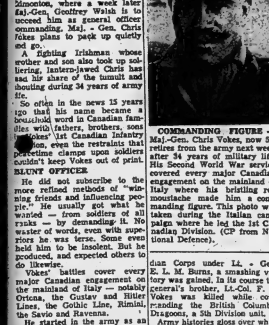
He gives the impression of being an idealist. But he also shows his shrewdness by outwitting plotters against him.

A moderate member of his cabinet says Kassem's views lie somewhere between those of British's Labor and Liberal parties. His expressed views indicate he favors some form of socialism. He talks of raising the living standards of the poor without taking away from the rich.



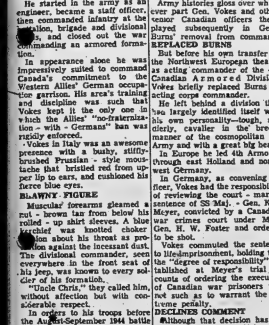
The Communists stood behind him when other groups plotted against him. After the unsuccessful Mosul rebellion of pro-Nasser army officers in March, the Communists demanded their prize—elimination of the forces opposed to them, arming of the people and arresting of a satisfied from government with themselves in key positions.

Kassem bowed with the wind. But during the last month he has infuriated the Communists by calling on them to cease political activity and by releasing hundreds of persons arrested after Mosul.



The Communists have stated in their newspapers that they do not like what he is doing, but they still refer to him as the "faithful son of the people."

"I belong to the people as a whole," Kassem says, "and work for the general welfare and to achieve the goals of our revolution through proper ways with careful consideration and quietly without haste.



"I am not a dictator. I do not want to assume such a role by depriving the press or the people of the People's Court is an organ representing the people . . . I can only hope they will receive instructions from my speeches and statements, and learn in time. I hope people will come to see my point of view."

Four London Chains Open Free Butter War

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Four London supermarket chains have opened a free butter war.

Steinberg's Limited of Montreal, which purchased the Grand Union chain, is offering to give one pound of butter to every customer purchasing $5 worth of goods at its stores and presenting a coupon clipped from its advertisment in the local newspaper.

Loblaws and Dominion Stores quickly announced they would give two pounds of butter for every Steinberg newspaper coupon with $5 in goods purchased at their stores.

In Edmonton, three of the city's largest food chains have been conducting a coupon battle for the last four weeks.

It started when Dominion Stores issued a booklet of coupons with a face value of $1.65 to be used in connection with the opening of a new store.

Loblaw Groceterias then announced it would redeem all food chain coupons at double their face value. Canada Safeway Limited followed with a similar offer.

Now all three—Dominion, Loblaw and Safeway—have, for a spellbound, Blondin again suddenly crouched on the rope. This time he did not return only.

In later trips Blondin uncorked a hatful of tricks that kept tens of thousands of spectators shivering.

On July 4, only a few days after his first trip, Blondin made the trip with a sack over his head, legs bound, leaving only his legs and feet free, and without benefit of net to balancing pole he used on his first crossing.

NOTED SPECTATOR

On July 14 U.S. President Millard Fillmore saw Blondin step in mid-stream and hold out a hat at arm's length, while a sharpshooter aboard the Maid of the Mist put a bullet through its brim. On the return trip he pushed a wheelbarrow along the hemp rope.

Blondin's crowning achievement came Aug. 17 when he carried a man on his back across the chasm. He called for a volunteer from the crowd to ride "piggy-back" across the gorge. There were no takers.

So that the crowds would not be disappointed, Blondin's manager, Harry Colcord of Chicago, agreed to go. He was of the same build as Blondin, but five pounds heavier than Blondin's 140 pounds.

Colcord took up his position astride Blondin's back, his feet resting in stirrups fitted to the performer's garb, and they set out.

Halfway across Blondin found too much slack in the rope was making him tired and he told his passenger to sit down so that he could take a rest.

Colcord inexperienced at this mode of travelling, was terrified. He obeyed, sliding down an inch at a time and holding Blondin's hips while he rested. Somehow he got up again, and they made it.

"I crossed with Blondin three times," Colcord revealed in later life, "But now not a deed to the whole city of Chicago could tempt me to go out a foot over that fearful gulf."

Blondin gave a performance in September, 1860, for the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII.

During his several performances that year, Blondin crossed with his hands and feet chained, carried a woman across, walked backwards across the tightrope and returned blindfolded, and on one occasion carried a small cooking stove, stopping to fry an omelet and lower it to the Maid of the Mist.

On various other occasions he made the crossing with baskets on his feet and shackles over his body, again on stilts, and once he took time out at the halfway point to stand on his head.

Blondin spent the later years of his life in Britain. He died near London on Feb. 22, 1897, at nearly 70 years but walked the tightrope without a mishap.

Great Blondin Made Many Daring Trips Across Gorge At Niagara Falls on Tightrope

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— The little Frenchman lay down on the two-inch tightrope, then suddenly sprang to his feet and resumed his perilous stroll into fame.

He was 240 feet above the rushing waters of the Niagara Gorge, some 100 feet out from the U.S. side. The date was June 30, 1859.

Blondin began a career that grew more daring each time Blondin strung his 1,300-foot rope across the gorge.

Blondin—he was born Charles Emile Gravelet in the French village of Hesdin, near Calais, on Feb. 28, 1824—took up tightrope walking there at an early age. He came to North America in 1855 and some time later saw Niagara Falls for the first time.

"What a splendid place for a tightrope performance," was his comment.

MADE HISTORY

His remark became a reality on June 30, 1859, when he became the first man to cross the gorge on a tightrope. He repeated the stunt at intervals of 150 feet until he reached the opposite bank.

Wallenda, 50, of Sarasota, Fla., and his little steamer Maid of the Mist. He drew up a bottle of Niagara River water, tasted it and moved on.

After 18 minutes he reached the Canadian side, and quickly made the return trip.

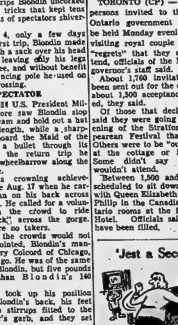
250 Decline Invitations to Dine With Queen



TORONTO (CP) — Some 250 persons invited to the official Ontario government reception to be held Monday evening for the visiting royal couple have sent "regrets" that they cannot attend, officials of the lieutenant-governor's staff said.

About 1,500 invitations have been sent out for the dinner and about 1,300 acceptances received, they said.

Of those that declined some said they were going to the opening of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival that day they wouldn't attend.

Between 1,300 and 1,600 are scheduled to sit down to dinner with Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip in the Canadian and Ontario rooms at the Royal York Hotel. Officials said all seat have been filled.

Writer Will Never Live Long Enough to See These Scenes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Scenes I'd like to see in television westerns—but I'll never live long enough:

Gunsmoke—Matt Dillon walks deliberately down the dusty street while the passersby rush into buildings for shelter. The last, dark man a block away walks toward Matt just as deliberately. Their firing hands hover a few inches from the holsters.

The man, dark man draws and two shots are fired simultaneously.

"Dagnabbit," Matt yells. His pistol caught in the holster and he has wounded himself in the calf. The L. D. man, whose shot went through the neck a nearby mule, laughs and rides out of town.

MORE PRACTICE

Doc hurries out to treat Matt while Chester says, "Dogone it, Mister Dillon, you best go get to have to practise more on that flyin' range."

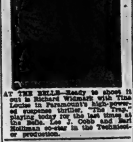
Have Gun, Will Travel — The sleekly dressed Paladin is enjoying a leisurely breakfast in the hotel bar. A couple is telling a beautiful young lady that her father has died and the foreman has produced a bogus will and has taken over the ranch.

Paladin escorts to her table and offers his card, "Perhaps I could be of service," he smiles.

The beautiful young lady rips his card into small bits and throws them in his face. "You'll take care of your business and I'll take care of mine," she snaps.

WHAT ABOUT MOUNTAINS

Wagon Train—A scout brings doleful news back to the grizzled old wagonmaster. There are Indians on both sides of the canyon, dead ahead. The wagonmaster shakes his head and asks about the route over the mountains.



"We might make it through, though we'd probably lose a few wagons," the scout says. "And we're getting low on water. All those cholera patients have been drinkin' more'n their share."

The wagonmaster peers down toward the canyon, where the redskins are chattering back and forth with smoke. Then he gazes up at the snow-clad Sierras.

"Only a fool would try to make it through," he says. "Pass the word: We're heading back to St. Joe."

AT THE RELLS—Ready to shoot it out is Richard Widmark with Tina Louise in Paramount's kick-'em-up comedy-western, "Hell Bent for Leather," playing Mon. to Wed. at the Belleville Theatre. Also on the bill are John and Mel Ferrer in "Green Fire," in Technicolor and Technirama.

AT THE RELLS—Monday—Dorothy Dandridge, record film actress, of Stuart Whitman in M.G.M.'s "The Decks Ran Red," co-starring James Mason and Broderick Crawford, opening Monday at the Bells Theatre.

FEATURE TIMES THEATRE

AT THE BELLS—Paramount's "The Fly," in Technicolor, Richard Widmark, Lee J. Cobb, Tina Louise, Karl Malden; 1.35, 4.35, 7.35, 10.35.

Television sets are continually being improved by the manufacturers to give better reception and longer service. For the service technician, these changes present a problem, for he must study continually in order to keep abreast of the latest developments. New test equipment must also be designed so that late model sets may be correctly tested and checked.

AT CIRCLE T SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., the technicians have up-to-date information on the latest in television circuit designs as well as modern test equipment. The Bolo Bounced, Farmer Flopped Maxwell Tolled, Bout Is Stopped

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Farmer Humphrey, the Tweeton Tony of the wrestling fraternity waddled to a two-fall defeat at Memorial Arena last night.

Humphrey, who is taller on his back than Bert Maxwell on his feet, huffed and puffed but he couldn't blow the Great Bolo down.

Bolo, who apparently leaves his mask in the box office here, tried every trick in his trade until he discovered the Farmer's kisser was allergic to right hooks.

He bounced like a rubber ball off the limpish belly of Humph. He tossed Referee Maxwell, who is built along lines but in miniature of Humphrey, at the big fella. The tummies tangled—and Bert bounced.

Three solid thumps by Humph had the Bolo rubber-kneed at one time and the trio ambled across the ring like a walking ad for Cran.

The Farmer boy should be allowed to carry a derrick as standard equipment, for once he adopts a horizontal position in or outside the ring, it's pretty tough to heave 630 pounds of quivering fat to its feet.

That's what happened in the first fall. Bolo by some way or another rolled the man mountain and rolled him out of the ring. He followed through, turned Humphrey over on his back and climbed back into the ring.

Humph couldn't make it and was counted out.

In the second fall the Farmer tried to push the Bolo through a corner post with his tummy. To make it easier on the mask-ed one, he inserted Maxwell as sandwich filler — and applied pressure by merely inhaling.

Bert objected, told Humphrey off, and had his pinkies nearly flattened when the farmer stepped on them.

Bolo resorted to elbow smashes to the jaw in the second fall and finally brought the big one down. He climbed on board and balanced himself long enough for Maxwell to count the bout-ending trio of thumps.

CRAMER SHARPENS MARKSMAN'S EYE

...ck Cramer, B.C. marksman, keeps his eye ...nd his hand steady as he practises for the ...mmonwealth's largest competition for milli... marksmen at Bisley, England, in July. ...mer, a sergeant in the militia, has been ...oting in competition since he entered the 1949 B.C. Rifle Association meet and won a place on the provincial Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet at Ottawa. B.C. Places Only One Member On Canadian Bisley Team But Jack Cramer Is Expert

By DON HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Cramer, B.C.'s only representative on this summer's Canadian team at Bisley, England, has worked hard to gain his place at the Commonwealth's largest competition for military marksmen.

He won a place on the 1959 team with his consistent shooting at last year's Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet at the Connaught Ranges near Ottawa. The Bisley meet opens July 1.

Just about this time 10 years ago, he was at the Heal Ranges near Victoria trying to sight in a hunting rifle. That was when he became awed to rifle shooting.

Cramer, 45, now is a sergeant in the militia and a member of the Seaforth Highlanders' rifle club in Vancouver.

EXPERT COACHING

Coached by experts such as Bagby Evans, Hugh Thorburn and Harold Palmer, Cramer entered the 1949 B.C. Rifle Association meet and won a place on the 25-member provincial team which went to the DCRA matches that year. He has been on the B.C. team every year since.

In 1953 he took the two top awards at the Alberta provincial competition, the Alberta championship and the Lieutenant-Governor's prize.

In British Columbia competitions he has won the Duff-Stuart, Westminster Corporation and Keith Price aggregate trophies, and twice has won silver badges for second place in the provincial championship. Last August he placed ninth among some 700 marksmen at Connaught to win a place on this year's Bisley team.

He is one of the rifle devotees who looks eagerly for the times he can get away from his men's wear shop in downtown Vancouver to flop down on a rifle range.

Ten years of practice and stiff competition have developed his skill. Like all other expert marksmen, with keen eyes and steady nerves, he is acquainted with the tricks of changes in wind and light conditions. He learned early the significance of a few clouds in an otherwise clear sky, and to watch carefully the wind socks placed at different spots down the range.

During the winter, to keep in shape, he fires a .22 calibre rifle, the small bore of the service rifle that is used during service meets in summer.

Two years after he started shooting he interested his wife Jackie in the game, and now she is a senior shot like her husband.

When Cramer isn't working or shooting he is likely to be seen out at the airport flying his own light airplane.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A lot of financial red tape will be cut next Tuesday when the Queen presents her 50 guineas to the owner of the Queen's Plate winner. One of the most relieved persons should be the keeper of the Queen's privy purse at Buckingham Palace.

His job is to make sure the palace books balance, just like any other big household. For many years he had to convert the winning owner that the draft for the guineas must be cashed, not framed and stuck on a wall as a showpiece.

This time, the script is simple. The Queen, who will watch the 1½-mile classic for three - year-olds at New Woodbine in suburban northwest Toronto, will personally hand over gold coins equivalent in value to 50 guineas.

THE 1839 PLATE

That's how it was done in 1839, the last time a reigning monarch watched Canada's greatest horse race.

King George VI, father of the Queen, watched the race from the royal box in the members' enclosure at Old Woodbine, in central Toronto. Archworth, owned by the late George McCullagh, won the stakes event and the King presented the gold cup to the owner of the Toronto Globe and Mail with a small blue velvet bag containing the gold.

McCullagh gave a few of the gold coins to servants on the farm where his thoroughbreds were trained, to stable boys, the trainer—Max Hurtt of Calgary, now dead — and jockey Denny Birley, who now trains horses in the United States.

Ordinarily, getting the Queen's guineas is an involved piece of business. The winning owner usually has to wait 10 days or more.

Meanwhile he puts faith in the Jockey Club, the Queen's mail, the governor-general of Canada, the keeper of the Queen's privy purse and the Queen.

HOW IT WORKS

Here's what happens when the Queen isn't around for the race:

The Jockey Club forwards a certificate on parchment to the governor-general in Ottawa, recording the name and address of the owner, name of the horse and date of the race.

The governor - general notifies the keeper of the Queen's privy purse at Buckingham Palace that a bill of exchange is being drawn for 50 guineas. The bill is for 52 pounds, 10 shillings — that's the exact way it is made out. In Canadian currency, it is worth about $147 at the present rate of exchange.

The governor-general then forwards a bank draft to the Jockey Club, made out to the winning owner. It is up to the club to see it reaches the rightful person who can collect the equivalent in Canadian currency by presenting the draft at a bank.

MUST TAKE CASH

A couple of winning owners in the pre-Second World War era thought it would be a good idea to frame the drafts. It didn't work.

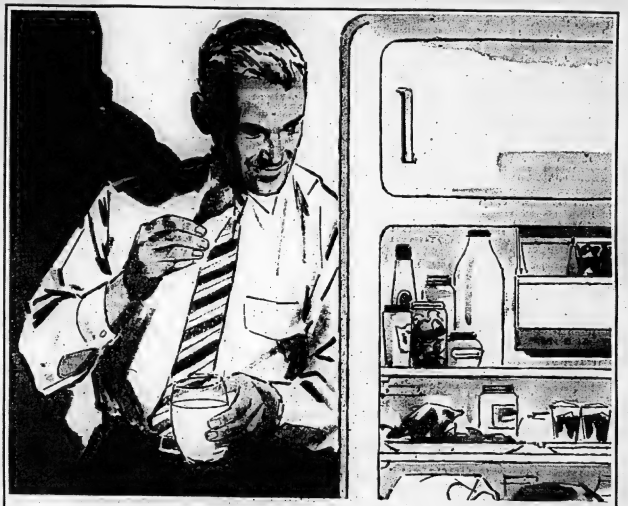
Col. R. C. McLaughlin, Oshawa, Ont., millionaire, won with Noormeter in 1934 and had the bank draft framed. Shortly after the death of King George V in 1936, he received a "peremptory order" from Buckingham Palace to cash it.

The King's estate had to be cleaned up.

But the colonel was smarter than Toronto tavern owner Willie Morrissey, 1938 Plate winner with Bunty Lawless. Col. McLaughlin had photostat copies made of the draft before cashing it. Morrissey simply went to the bank and cashed his, leaving him nothing but memories and faded newspaper clippings to show for his victory.

Of course, the 50 guineas is peanuts compared to the loot the winning owner receives. This year, if 20 horses start in the $50,000 added race, the winning owner will receive $52,000 plus the $3,000 Gold Cup.

NO TAX CHANGES



ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland budget surplus for the 1958-59 fiscal year could reach $12,005,700 if Ottawa pays the province what is "due us," Finance Minister E. S. Spencer said Thursday in his budget speech. He forecast no tax changes.

"MR. AND MRS." DAY ON THE LINKS

Monday may see the beginning of another year of harmonious relations or the start of a brief but cold, wordless war in golfing families of the city and district.

For on Sunday, with excellent greens and fairways favoring them, some sixty-four spouses and their partners will tee off in the second annual "Mr. and Mrs." tournament of the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The tournament calls for harmonious co-operation. This has been apparent all week with the boys getting home on time for dinner and the gals having it ready for them.

The committee in charge set a fine example. President Joy Bowerman of the club's ladies' division, and her immediate associates, Dolly Diamond and Anne Acton, swung into co-operative action and the result is a tournament that is "ready and rarin' to go."

But they didn't do it alone. Madame president called upon hubby to attach late deadwood tournament harness and Steve willingly obliged. He tightened up his belt, went on a diet, and came up with a fine effort.

Mrs. Diamond played out and called upon her right bower, the Jack, to temporarily forget the price of sheets and studied up jobs the she-men, Jack was Johnny on the spot. Likewise, Pete Acton, who came to attention, saluted smartly, and dug into the tournament job when spouse Anne sounded the call-to.

The result? Indications point to Sunday's tournament being one of the most outstanding of its kind held in the district. All that is needed now is the co-operation of the weatherman.

While the Sunday "Mr. and Mrs." tournament is the second in the history of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, it is by no means new in the archives of the game.

The first one took place in Bonnie Scotland centuries ago, after four killed, bearded Macs had inaugurated the 18-hole system. It seems the quartet, up to that time, had merely played the game by shooting the ball at and in a distant hole. There was no system.

This day they took along a supply of Highland Dew, common to the country, and took a beaker at each hole. By the time they reached the fifth the "whusky" was half gone. So they decided to play back. By the time they arrived at the "first hole" the nectar had disappeared and four happy Scots "highland-flung" their way to the wee cottages.

Unhappy spouses decided to take action, and the next time the foursome embarked on a golfing spree the wives and not the whusky went along. That was the first "Mr. and Mrs." tournament in history.

And a tip to the gals. If the old man pulls a golfing "boner" keep calm and collected. Don't let him know you're dying to "tell him off." Remember what happened to Mary Queen of Scots, the first lady golfer in history. While she was playing a round (not around, operator!) with one of her favorite courtiers, she flipped her royal crown—and later lost her head.

And if you really want to help him and yourself win your match, you could do what the famous Walter Hagen did in his heyday. Put on your gaudiest apparel. It might work.

Hagen was famous for his more or less sensational sartorial splendor when on the links. He said it was perfectly legit and he used various color combinations to win matches. "For why I get myself rigged up," he said, "what you could say, a violent — you know — pink elephants, green snakes, and so on."

"I stagger the eyes," Hagen said. "When my opponent sees me maybe his whole framework, as well as his eyes, get staggered. Such a man is apt to miss a short putt when the match is on. He can't get his mind on the game, not while I'm on parade. He is watching me. I am watching my ball. So, how can the other guy win?"

Of course, gentlemen, that could work both ways.

Right Over Might; Ingemar Is New World Champion

Smashes Patterson to Canvas Seven Times in Third Round Before Referee Stops Fight

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's mystery right hand turned out to be an atomic weapon—an explosive force that propelled him to the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

The "thunder and lightning" he had promised was unleashed in a dramatic third round that saw defending champion Floyd Patterson felled seven times in rain-soaked Yankee Stadium Friday night.

It was a right-hand bomb that burst against the jaw of the 5-foot-10 inch American seconds after the third round had started. It smashed into the canvas and his back and left him senseless.

Calmly and coldly, the Swede scorned, modern-day Viking dropped his bleeding and reeling foe to the canvas until referee Ruby Goldstein ended the slaughter with a wave of his hands.

RAPID-FIRE KNOCKDOWNS

It went into the record books as a technical knockout. The seven counts came nine, nine, six, six, seven, nine and one, all in two minutes and three seconds. It was a massacre.

The right never displayed during training days, made the 26-year-old, 196-pounder the first Swede to win a heavyweight title.

The upset—estimated by some 20,000 at the ball park and thousands more over closed - circuit television—was a big one. Among the shockers as Max Schmeling's kayo of Joe Louis in 1936, Jim Braddock's triumph over Max Baer in 1935 and Jersey Walcott's annihilation of Ezzard Charles in 1951.

SEPTEMBER MATCH

Johansson, who made about $248,000—most of which will be either attached in lawsuits or held in escrow for the IRS by order against Patterson, probably in the U.S. in September. Patterson will collect about $560,000 from all sources of revenue, gate, television, radio and movies.

But ahead of the dimple-chinned Swede, who has never been can to win boxing's most prized title, are countless riches. He once stars in a movie as a $1,000,000 for a return with Patterson.

The popular Swede last sent the 182-pound Patterson, 24, on his way "was a straight right—and flush on the chin," Johansson said.

"It was my best shot and I thought the fight was over then. I was surprised when he got up. Usually when I hit a man like that he stays down. But I had to hit him again and again."

Until that blow was landed neither had done much. Ingo, six feet, one-half inch to Patterson's five - foot - eleven, looked like champion back with a flicking jab.

NEVER LET LOOSE

Patterson didn't get in under the jab and never let loose with his combination body punches.

After being felled, Patterson picked himself up at the nine on ruby-key legs.

Johansson then smashed him to the canvas five more times.

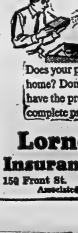
Johansson became the fourth heavyweight champ to win the title without a defeat. He has won 22 pro fights, 14 by knockout. John L. Sullivan, Jim Jeffries and Rocky Marciano were the others. Patterson was defeated in two draws.

NEVER SAW IT

"I couldn't see the punch coming," said Patterson. "The first one hit flush on the forehead. When I got up I didn't know where I was. I didn't feel the second punch but after that I think I started to come out of it. But I couldn't criticize the referee for stopping the fight."

Ingo, who has fought in the ring room, Johansson walked in. "Are you hurt, Floyd?" he asked.

"No," replied Patterson.



Patterson will be the first heavyweight champion in history to lose his title on a call. Floyd's manager, Cus D'Amato.

Bill Rosenchn, 39, promoter of gate.

this once - postponed much because of Patterson's contractual "I now am the boss. I have Johansson under agglusive contract. I'll give Patterson a return bout in September. I am going to have big money to say."

Patterson's defeat was his second. His record is 36-2 since 1952. The other defeat was a disputed eight-round decision loss to former lightweight champion Joey Maxim in 1954.

Rosenchn didn't share in the theories of experts that Patterson lost money with an estimated $425,000 gate. Rain that fell for 2½ hours in the evening hurt the

Plate Field May Be Cut To 21 Horses

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — In December, 1957, owners of 212 yearlings paid the hockey sum of $25 a head to enter their frisky thoroughbreds eligible for the 1959 Queen's Plate. Most of the horses are still eligible.

Eighteen months and many heartbreaks later, 71 of the original nominations are eligible for the Toronto Turf Association classic which will be witnessed by the Queen and Prince Philip at suburban New Woodbine Track. At 10 a.m. Monday, deadline for final payment of $500 a horse. It is probable the field will be cut to about 21.

Most of the eligible yearlings never left the farm. About 100 eventually met the starter's gun in a race or two. They ate many bills and a few made money for their owners. By bills, it is meant $1,000 to $2,000 training fees three-year-old stage, as owner spends up to $7,000 or $10,000 to baby a filly or colt along.

BIG PAYOFF

Of course, the payoff to the wise guessers who probably doesn't need the money—is considerable. In the 1958 Plate, a mile stakes, the winning owner will receive $52,300 plus the $3,000 gold cup. Not bad. Queen's Plate guiness which, in Canadian current exchange, is worth $28.

This year's race is the most glamorous since 1939 when the Queen's — then the father watched the classic at Old Woodbine. Besides the Royal Couple on top of this, the $50,000 - added stakes is the richest in the history of the Canadian turf.

The gift of the Queen's 50 guineas to the winning owner started the plate first started a century ago. The first winner will personally present the gold coins equivalent.

Officials expect the record crowd of 30,000 to see the classic sports event will be broken. The record figure was set at Empire Stadium in Vancouver for the 1953 Grey Cup final between Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes.

Amateurs Are Driving Hard For Honors in Ontario Open

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ontario's amateurs are pressing hard for honors in the 36th Ontario Open golf championship.

A total of 72 amateurs were among a field of 73 qualified to tee off today for the final 36 holes of the 54-hole tournament and pitted them all were Brantford Kitchener Rockway amateur, Gary Cowan.

Unperturbed by a 20 - minute downpour around midday Friday which soaked the St. Catharines Golf Club course, Cowan shaved four strokes off par to register a 69 and a 141 total.

Cowan, lowest amateur or tied for top spot in this tournament for the last two years, carded five birdies and missed par only twice during his round.

KESSELRING

Gerry Kesselring, also of Kitchener and four-time winner of the $5,000 championship held the runnerup spot with one stroke behind Cowan. An inches-short putting effort on the 18th green robbed him of a tie for the lead.

Gary Black of Toronto and Peter Hilditch of St. Catharines, pulled the day's biggest surprise. An early finisher, he shot a three-under-par 69 that stood as target until late afternoon when Cowan came in.

Bill Mcleod of North Bay was another amateur high in the field. He also shooting 69. Pros John Hendrickson of Toronto, Lloyd Horvath, Windsor Essex; George Knudson, Toronto Oakdale and Norm Hadley, Batavia, N.Y., hit the same mark.

Bruce Crampton, Mon Norman was four strokes off the lead at even par 71. Nine former champions, including Jerry Pate, Besides Kesselring and Horvath, amateur qualifiers were Bruce Cook, winner in 1946 and '49, and Phill Farley, 1942 and '45 champion.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor Rosedale, 1958 Canadian junior amateur champion, hit a 75 and failed to qualify. Panasiuk, 1957 runnerup champion Bruce Carstair of Toronto Weston, who was three over par after three holes, made a two-more sweep.

Champions Blast Chisox 8-4 Orioles Twist Tigers Twice; National Race is Unchanged

By MIG WILKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies are last, 13 games out of first, but they're in the thick of the fight for the National League lead.

How's it figure? Well, who did Los Angeles beat four straight to climb within a couple of percentage points of second, two games shy of first?

The Phils.

And who gave San Francisco a breather Friday night for the first time in a week, keeping the Giants nine games out of first to stay close to first-place Milwaukee and ahead of Los Angeles?

The Phils.

And who has taken more games (five) from Milwaukee's defending champions than any other team outside of the Giants and Dodgers this year, this season?

The Phils.

CROSSED BY GIANTS

The accommodating Phillies, beaten on three hits at Los Angeles Thursday night, were shut out on three hits by Mike McCormick Friday night as the Giants rolled to an 8-0 victory. That kept San Francisco within two games of Milwaukee and two percentage points ahead of Los Angeles.

Milwaukee bounced back with an 11-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Los Angeles puffed past Pittsburgh 5-4. Cincinnati beat St. Louis in their scrubbie over sixties 7-6 in 10 innings.

McCormick (6-7) gave up only singles and was backed by Jackie Brandt's three-run home run and Willie Mays solo homer.

The Dodgers matched home runs with the Pirates—each with three. Charlie Neal hammered a blast in the seventh was the difference. Duke Snider and Don Demeter hit the others for Los Angeles while Harry Bright, Dick Stuart and Don Hoak homered for Pittsburgh. Johnny Podres (7-5) was the winner with relief help.

SPAHN BOOMERS

Warren Spahn (10-8) hit his first home run of the season, the 32nd of his major league career—two for Mr. pitchers. Wes Covington and Johnny Logan each had three hits for the Braves and drove in five runs between them.

The Cardinals chased Don Newcombe in a five-run eighth. But the Reds then scored four in their eighth for a tie and finally put it away on Johnny Temple's bases - loaded double against losing reliever Tom Cheney. Luis Arroyo (4-2) was the winner in relief after the Cards had smacked Newk and Ronnie Lawrence for four home runs—two by Stan Musial, who was 3-for-4 and drove in three runs—Frank Cunningham and Ken Boyer.

Pointers Shade Temple's Tabbies In Disputed Rain-Halted Fixture

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Point Anne scored one run in the seventh in what proved to be the last inning at CFRA Park last night to edge the Bobcats 5-4 in a Belleville and District softball league fixture.

The game was called by plate umpire "Hoot Gibbs" because of rain in the top of the eighth. Coach Bob Temple and his play. ers protested Ehlers' decision but to no avail. The rain had started to fall all inning earlier with the score tied 4-4. The Bobcats contended that if the game was going to be halted because of rain it should have been done then and not after Point Anne had scored another run.

The Cementmen took a 2-0 first-frame lead with the Cats scoring once in the third and three times in the fourth to make it 4-2. Point Anne evened the score with a pair in the sixth.

A leadoff single by Dave Jones started the winning rally. Singles hit into right-field scored to be a double play but Jones slid into Brown at second to prevent the throw to first. Johnny Batchelor singled Kingston around to third and Pete Green's high hoist out to centre chased the tie-breaking run home after the catch. Next the Bobcats could do in their half of the frame was a single by Cousins. The rain continued and Hull tossed only one pitch to Goyer before activity was called to a halt in the eighth.

Bobby Hunter, making his first start of the season, pitched six frames to pick up the win. He was touched for three hits, fanning four, walking two and hitting one. Pat Edwards hurled the seventh with one strikeout while giving up one safety.

Bobby Hull handled the pitching chores for the Bobcats, allowing seven hits, all in the Pointers' scoring innings. He whizzed nine and passed four, striking out the side in the fifth after walking the first batter.

Carr singled to open the game and, after two were out, Batchelor doubled him in and scored seconds later on Green's base knock for the 2-0 score. The Catz got one when Goegan walked, advanced on Coulin's sacrifice and scored on a throwing error on the same play.

Cathcart Green was charged with tipping Brown's bat to start the ball rolling in the bottom of the fourth. A walk and hit batter loaded the sacks with Elliott walked, Goyer beat out a bunt and Hunter singled one through the Pointers' sixth. Goyer tied the count when Cousins failed to grab a high pitch by Hull.

Bobcats, with a saved and three singles, scored single runs in the six and three mark meet in a battle for first place in Cobourg tonight. Point Anne is in third with six wins and five losers.

Leafs Defeat Columbus 3-0, Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons hold a shaky half-game lead in the International League race today. Just a game and a half separated the top three teams.

If the Bisons put on many more performances as they did Friday night when they dropped a doubleheader to the Miami Marlins 8-4 and 7-6, they could find themselves on the outside looking in.

The second - place Rochester Red Wings turned back Cuban Sugar Kings 8-3, Montreal Royals polished off Richmond Virginians 4-1, and Toronto Maple Leafs whipped Columbus Jets, 3-0.

The Marlins scored four unearned runs in the first game against the Bisons. Buffalo made four errors, including three by third baseman Mickey Harrington.

11-INNING GAME

It took the Bisons 11 innings to drop the nightcap. Catcher Joe Lonnett's error permitted the winning run to score in the 11th inning. Miami collected 25 hits in two games.

Rookie Jim Hiland was the big man for Rochester. He saved the victory for Cal Browning when he took over in the eighth with two on and no one out. He retired the side and held the Sugar Kings in the ninth.

Tom LaSorda held the Virginians to five hits for the Royals in chalking up his ninth victory. The Royals scored all their runs in the seventh, sending 10 men to the plate. They collected a double, three singles, two walks and capitalized on two Richmond errors.

The best game of the night was pitched by Bob Chakales, who notched his second shutout for the Sherbrooke Maple Leafs. He permitted the Jet. more than one hit only in the eighth inning when they collected two singles. Tim Thompson helped Chakales with a home run.

Mulloy Joins Olmedo, Fraser In Tourney's Top Sixteen

By STERLING BLAFFRY

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—During the first five days of the Third Wimbledon tennis championships, the ralibre of play has been fairly good and the play acting has been simply great.

In moments of delight or despair, players have treated the 110,000 who paid to see tennis open-air theatre at its best—or worst. There have been soliloquies, tragic gestures, genuflections, thrown rackets and fake falls. Most of the performances have come from the losers.

Though all of the first-seeded Alex Olmedo of Peru and second-seeded Neale Fraser of Australia haven't cracked a smile after a good shot or shown unhappiness after a bad one. They're merely the best players here.

CHANGED MULLOY

Another player of the deadpan school joined them in the fourth round Friday after winning the day's biggest match. He's Gardnar Mulloy, the 43-year-old American campaigner who routed 18-year - old Earl Buchholz, the youngest American Davis Cupper, 6-4, 7-5, 9-4.

A few years ago Mulloy used to argue with umpires and linesmen and drew the wrath of the crowds. But Friday he was cheered by the centre court throng of 13,000 for his crafty manoeuvring, his drives to the corners, his delicate crost-court volleys and his soft stuff that skimmed the net and dropped dead.

"When you've been around as long as I have, you're glad to win one like this," said Mulloy.

IS LEFT

The victory put him in the round of 16 with the six surviving seeded players. Besides Fraser, American Barry MacKay and Australia's Roy Emerson got there Thursday and Britain's Bobby Wilson and Luis Ayala of Chile made it Friday.

Wilson reached the last 16 with a 6-4, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4 victory over Australia's Don Candy. Ayala defeated Abe Segal of South Africa 6-3, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2.

On the women's side, America is represented by four players in the last 16—Beverly Baker Fleitz, Darlene Hard, youthful Sally Moore and Janet Hoppe. Miss Hoppe, the only unseeded player in this group, plays Miss Moore, No. 7, in one of today's featured matches.

The top women's singles event today is the meeting between Britain's tall, top-seeded Christine Truman and Yola Ramirez of Mexico.

Elsmoor girl Karol Fageros of Miami defeat tedbecause of illness.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The city council was told Friday night that Kansas City Athletics have refused to agree to a renewal of their five-year lease on municipal stadium and are asking for a two - year contract to keep the situation "fluid." The club said the lease proposed third major league and aspirations of other cities are in the future, preferred a two-year agreement.

Tail Setting

Harmon Racing Bits

By Phil Stewart

Although there are some large breeding establishments or nurseries, the breeding and raising of the Standbreds, (the trotter or pacer) in Ontario is carried on primarily by the so called "dirt farmer" or hobbyist. The Quinte district is no exception as numerous people in the district raise one or two colts in a year.

As an example right in Belleville this spring Harmon Lucas has a new filly sired by Uncle Ben a son of the world champion pacer Billy Direct, 1.55. Harmon's breakdown who raised a nice colt by Prince McElwyn for three two years is also the dam of Jack Jeffrey's "Betty Abigail" and "J. M. J.". She has been bred to "Dangi B. Herbert" by Ora G. Herbert—owned by Hilton White of Coboconk.

District racing fans will likely remember "Mable Mack" who raced for Roy Boyce of Canifton a few years ago. "Mable" died after foaling a chestnut filly this spring. Roy had to raise this one on the bottle and I agree she's done quite well. The sire of this one is "Yankee Chief," by Chief Abdeelie. Campbell Waxmaker of Consecon is still racing "Yankee" at Quebec City although at fourteen years of age this will be his last year at the mutual tracks. Cam also has a brother to "Yankee" another stallion by Chief Abdeelie, called Hector Chief.

Roy Boyce also has a yearling colt sired by "Yankee Chief."

A district breeder who a number of fans will remember is Alex Williams of Bloomfield. At about 85 years of age Alex is, I believe, the oldest member of the new Quinte Driving and Riding Club. Alex's two broodmares foaled horse colts within 5 days of each other, both sired by Uncle Ben. These two mares "Pontiac Belle" by the Diplomat and "Pontiac Charm" by Exac are young and should produce a number of colts for Alex. Their last year's foals, a colt and filly were sold back to Mr. J. C. Cameron of Smith's Falls the owner of their sire "Ezra Blue". The Exac mare is the dam of one other, a bay gelding called "Pontiac Attorney," by States Attorney, who trained Belleville on the trot last winter and is due to start at Connaught Park, Ottawa anytime.

My mare "Hilliard Chipe" another one bred and raised by Alex Williams has been sent to the court of Scotch Magic 2.04 owned by W. J. Clark of Gananoque who will be remembered as the owner of the speedy Scotch Duff. Scotch Magic is already the sire of two with marks of 2.06 as well as some 11 other record performers.

Other stallions owned in the district include "Country Lad" 2.02 owned by Garnet Kirkpatrick, Odessa, "Mrs. Tripp" 2.10 owned by Charles Gollogy, Kingston, (Mr. Tripp who Charlie raced is the sire of "Miss Trippetyey" 2.18 this year, also owned by Mr. Gollogy), "Zombelle Abbe" owned by Tom Bateman of Belleville, "Dangi B. Herbert" owned by Hilton White of Coboconk, "Dan Direct" owned by Tom Fritz of Brighton, "John Dillard" owned by Hugh Stewart of Peterborough is the sire of "Larry Dillard" a two year old owned by Mr. Alex Purvey of Lindsay who paced a mile in 2.14 3-5 at Orono on Saturday, June 20.

All club members are reminded that they get in for half price as dehbiren under 13 will be admitted free. So come and bring the whole family. If you haven't your membership card yet come on up to the track some day soon and have a look at the horses and we'll send you a card. Come to the races and help us prove that "Harness Racing is not only America's, but also the Quinte District's fastest growing sport."

"We gladly recommend the BEDFORD"

Family Baking Ltd.

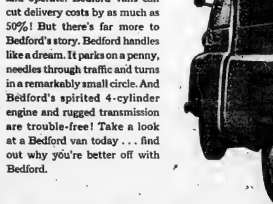
CAKES & BUNS FOR THE FAMILY

May 27, 1959

Gentlemen:



We would like to take this opportunity of telling you how satisfied we are with our new Bedford. We decided to add a new truck for the delivery of our bakery products and after looking around for economy and dependability, we decided on Bedford.

Although they have only been in operation a short time all these have proven to be our drivers' first impressions. The points we like best are the comfort, the visibility, the ease of handling in our business where we are constantly starting and stopping. The gliding doors are important to us as the handling of bread requires a minimum of fatigue and in our business it is good to know that the Bedford is built for safety.

All in all, we would gladly recommend the Bedford to anyone requiring a commercial vehicle.

Yours very truly,
FAMILY BAKING LTD.
Albert Dehuiter
Sales Manager

That's what one business man says about Bedford... and hundreds of others agree. No other van offers such practical loading space yet costs so little to own and operate. Bedford vans can cut delivery costs by as much as 50%! But there's far more to Bedford's story. Bedford handles like a dream. It parks on a penny, needles through traffic and turns in a remarkably small circle. And Bedford's spirited 4-cylinder engine and rugged transmission are trouble-free! Take a look at a Bedford van today . . . find out why you're better off with Bedford.

Bedford's clever design goes right inside too. The cabin's driver-designed, everything's easier to operate, driving fatigue is cut to a bare minimum.

Bedford's big rear doors swing wide open without effort. They open flush with the sides of the van for easiest loading and unloading in the world.

Bedford's got a whole newly-designed cab inside and out. Styling is handsome and practical than ever. The wide, one-piece windshield gives perfect vision.

The side doors on the Bedford van slide right back out of the way. The driver has an easy in and out . . . saves time and money!

By THOMAS COLLINS

"The 57-year-old wife of a 60-year-old retired man wants to know what's going to happen to her.

"Nearly all wives are younger than their husbands," she says, "and quite a lot of us are seven to ten years younger. We are the ones of retirement. Social Security is not concerned about us. Naturally our husbands' companion's salary and even our husbands, with a conceit that God gave only to man, are inclined to scoff at our predictions of . . ."

This wife goes on to explain that men die earlier than women, and sometimes they die around 65.

"My husband's company had a plan whereby he could split his pension so it would pay him so much for his lifetime, and pay me so much for mine. But at 57 I was so young, according to the pension tables, that his pension would have been cut to a pulpit when we couldn't live on it.

"If my husband lives until I reach pension age, I'm home safe. But what happens to the 57-year-old widow who can't keep her man alive that long?"

DUCKING THE ISSUE

This woman voices a fear that the younger wives of retired men don't like to think about. If they don't notice it, they resent, maybe he it'll go away. But it doesn't. And one day they wake up to widows with nothing to buy groceries with.

What can these wives do?

They can —

1. Get down on the floor with all the options offered the husband by the company's pension plan, and before he retires choose some option that will assure her the same sort of income. So Papa can't go to Bermuda fishing next year and will have to make do with his 1958 car. But Mama will be able to eat.

2. Get down on the floor with the husband's life insurance policies and see what options they offer. If the life insurance totals, say, $10,000 how much per month will this pay the widow if it is converted into an annuity by life? How much per month will it pay to the age when pension starts? A husband can survey about these things than his wife, and he is duty-bound to face up to the facts of life and death and help work this out with his wife.

3. See a lawyer and write a will that will give all possible security to the widow. Provincial laws differ on what a wife and children get from a father's estate, but in some cases a wife can be left with one-third of what her husband owned while the little flirt who married their son ran off with the remaining two-thirds and buy a yacht.

4. Ask the lawyer, while they are at it, to explain how the ownership of the house, car and any other real property can be set up so that the widow gets full control of it without further legal action, and without argument from the children and their spouses.

GET MEDICAL INSURANCE

5. Work out some kind of medical and hospital insurance for the husband — even if it means eating turnip greens — so that the final and perhaps prolonged illness will not wipe out everything the family has.

6. Cultivate the affection of the children and their spouses. Having full control of what money the family has will help, provided the imagination of the children instead of too much talking by the widow establishes how big the sum is. The widow who is seven to ten years younger than her retired husband cannot afford to be secondary to him in the esteem of her children.

7. Insist that whatever plans are made for the husband's retirement allow for to live and what to do — are made with full consideration of how the wife will fare if she is left alone with the plans.

8. Keep a weather eye on the want ads that offer jobs to 57-year-old women, and look at them to any conversation about older women who go to work.

What's past age 55 are lonely and tragic figures on the American landscape. They are, in the main, because they didn't speak up for their rights when it would have done some good.

Garden Notes

Hints on Thinning Tree Fruit

By FLORA M. HAVILLE

After the "June drop" you should begin thinning apples, peaches, plums and pears. Some growers believe that in years of heavy set thinning should be started before this to avoid a too heavy drain on the trees vitality. If you are to get the maximum yield from a tree thining is important and necessary. Then too, thinning spreads the strain of bearing and insures a better crop on the off years. There are thinning sprays on the market but the home gardener with a few trees can handle this job by hand.

Dessert apples will benefit from thinning, but ' is more important that cooking apples be thinned to avoid waste in peeling and coring small size apples.

Do not do all the thinning at one time. Take off all the misshapen and under size fruit. Where the apples are borne in clusters take out the large centre apples. It will be of slightly different shape and have a shorter stem. In cooking apples this may be left and the others taken off. In this case the extra size may be worth it but the keeping qualities of these apples seem to be somewhat impaired.

ALLOW AMPLE SPACE

In seasons of heavy crop go over the trees a little later and finish off any badly injured fruit and allow each apple ample space to develop to its top size.

In the early June the can you can nip out the fruit with thumb and finger. For you will need to work with secateurs or blunt nosed scissors to avoid accidental bruising of the fruit. Some apples can be removed by twisting the fruit round and round till it pulls away from the stem which is left on the tree.

Plums require the same practice for thinning. They should be four to five inches apart according to the eventual size of the fruit. Plums should be three inches apart for large dessert types, two to two and a half for the smaller canning types. Peaches should be four to

Son Of Slain Man Held For Murder Of 7 In Family

Bodies Found in Debris In Garage Near Stettler

STETTLER, Alta. (CP) — A rampage of death came to light in this peaceful central Alberta town, Sunday when the battered bodies of seven people, members of one family, were discovered buried under debris in their garage.

Police believe the victims, a father and mother and their five children, may have been slain as they slept Thursday night.

Arrested and charged with murder was 20-year-old Robert Raymond Cook, a son of the slain man.

The victims, most of them beaten beyond recognition: mechanic Raymond Cook, 52, his wife Daisy Mae, 37, sons Gerald Ray, 15, Patrick William A, and Christopher Frederick, 7, and daughters Kaine Verne, 5, and Linda Mae, 3. Albert is Cook's son by a previous marriage.

FENCE BUILT OVERNIGHT

Police found a blood - stained shotgun stuffed under a mattress in the Cook's nearby large greenand - white frame house. They said a 6½-foot fence concealed whether the victims had been shot or were battered to death, the bodies.

The youth, described by neighbors as "a nice boy," when he was younger, was to appear in court today on the murder count. He was charged specifically with the father's death.

He was in custody when the bodies were found. Police said he had been questioned extensively in connection with a deal involving his father's car.

The discovery, which shocked this town of 3,000 80 miles southeast of Edmonton, was made after officers went to the Cook home to tell the father his son had been arrested. There was no one at home.

ANSWERED TELEPHONE

When police questioned neighbors, one man said he had telephoned Cook's home on Thursday and that a man had answered, saying the Cooks had gone to Vancouver. Another neighbor said he telephoned and that he had been told the family had gone to Hanna, Alta., to visit relatives.

Police returned to the house Sunday. When they searched their knocks they entered. The bedrooms were empty. Police said the first indication that something was wrong came when they found blood on the floor and in the beds.

Then search led to an attached garage. In the centre of the floor officers found debris, pieces of cardboard covering some planks. They removed these and saw a pile of bodies. Bedding clothing and other articles dumped into a hole. Police said Cook drove by Cook senior for car repairs.

IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Police said they pulled out the articles and found the bodies. All seven wore night attire.

Police said forcible entry was used by the slayer wielding the heavy gun as a club.

"Most of them were beaten beyond recognition," an officer said.

As news of the ghastly case spread, small groups of citizens gathered at the intersection where the Cook house stands. They said Cook's home was a quiet family and the children were well behaved.

DISCOVER BODIES OF HUNTSVILLE TAXI DRIVERS

Two Missing Men Shot With .22 Rifle

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The bodies of two taxi drivers missing since June 17 were found today in the bush about 15 miles east of here. Police said they apparently were shot to death by a .22-calibre rifle.

Police were holding a 16-year-old youth for questioning. Two other suspects, a youth and a girl, were being sought.

Motive for the killings was believed to have been robbery.

The men, Francis Grosse, 29, and Bruce Spiers, 22, had not been seen since they left to pick up a fare at Dwight, near the spot where the bodies were found.

Their car was found abandoned in The Elk Lake area, 40 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake, two days after the two men disappeared.

A search was under way today along the wooded banks of the Montreal River near Elk Lake for a motorboat reported missing Sunday and believed to have been stolen by the same persons involved in the theft of the taxi and slaying of the two men.

The boat was reported missing Sunday by Alec McKee.

Inspector David Adair of the provincial police criminal investigation branch carried on the investigation of Elk Lake, at Huntsville and North Bay during the weekend.

Police Rule Out Robbery as Crime Motive

TORONTO (CP) — Police were still virtually without clues today in their search for the murderer of Elizabeth Kirby, whose battered body was found stabbed five times in west-end High Park Saturday.

Police have ruled out robbery as a motive. Her clothes had been rearranged, indicating possible rape.

A strolling couple found the body partially covered by underwooded area about 150 yards from where the paths from both the Queen and Prince Philip will have tea today.

Pieces of clothing, empty wine bottles and other objects found in the ravine were turned over to the attorney-general's crime laboratory for investigation.

The dead woman's landlady Mrs. Josephine Brickely, said she last saw Miss Kirby early Friday morning. She told police the woman had come home with a man and left after "a terrible fight with the man."

Miss Kirby was last seen at 9 p.m. Friday in a central section of the city.

Shrewd Sailor, Queen Leaps Before Swell

KINGSTON (CP)—The Queen made a brisk leap Sunday as she came ashore here from the royal barge. She was graceful and no rather matter of fact but some watchers wondered whether she jumped because she was stumbling and wanted to regain her balance.

The probable reason became evident when the barge a moment later began rocking fairly violently from the swell of a score of launches nearby.

Ronald Laing, a practised sailor, apparently had seen what was coming and the leap enabled her to get ashore before the barge began to sway.

Wives Better Weather Vanes Than Hubbies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The wives of weather bureau forecasters turned out to be better prophets than their husbands.

The women had confidently picked Saturday as the day for the bureau's annual picnic.

The men, after considerable study of charts, gauges and wind currents, gloomily predicted "considerable cloudiness with possible showers or thunderstorms."

The picnic was a success although the men frequently paused to look perplexedly at the clear, cloudless skys while mopping their brows in the 90-degree-plus temperature.

'Don't Lose Those' Smiles Queen As Hees Handles Lacrosse Sticks

CORNWALL (CP) — Two lacrosse sticks, gifts for Prince Charles and Princess Anne, caught the fancy of Queen Elizabeth Saturday.

"Don't lose those," she told Transport Minister George Hees with a smile as he took charge of the two sticks. She was pointing at the heavy rubber lacrosse balls cuddled in the netting.

"I think the children will be very interested in them," she added.

The sticks were presented, appropriately, by an Indian lad, descendent of the people generally credited with inventing what is officially regarded as Canada's national sport although its popularity has waned in recent years.

Michael Benedict, stolid, 19-year-old member of the Mohawk tribe, handed the sticks to the Queen, and his cousin, Diane Oakes, also 10, gave her a pair of Mohawk moccasins.

The presentations were among events at the Cornwall athletic ground where about 5,000 children and their parents attended.

Plans Proceed for Election In Germany Despite Protest

BERLIN (AP)—West Germany pushed ahead today with plans for a presidential election to isolated Berlin despite Soviet warnings such a move will be viewed as a provocative act.

Officials remained alert as East German officials said they would look on the election 110 miles behind the iron Curtain with "great seriousness." But in there was no expectation of any real trouble when the 1,038-member electoral body meets Wednesday.

The U.S. state department brushed aside Russian notes to Western Big Three protesting the holding of the election in West Berlin. Washington officials termed the notes a new effort to create tension.

Two Young Latvian Seamen Said Given Political Asylum

TORONTO (CP) — Two young Latvian seamen who deserted a Soviet fishing boat more than a week ago turned up here Sunday night while the trawler was sailing from St. John's, Nfld., for an unknown destination.

Adolph Olonis and Berthold Vilnis, both 21, appeared with their backs to the camera on a CBC national telecast and said they have asked for and been granted political asylum in Canada.

Speaking through an interpreter, the pair said they jumped the trawler Neman because they wished to live in a free country.

Meanwhile, Victor Selivanov, second secretary of the Russian Embassy in Ottawa, said in St. John's:

"If they claim political asylum it means that they will declare themselves enemies of our state. It is impossible to believe that the seamen are against our government's policies, against peace.

"In their 90-second TV appearance, the pair said through interpreter Rev. Arnold Luzis that they were treated well while in Canada, particularly by the police.

The men—both single—said the Soviet president that relatives of people who sought political asylum in other countries were not victimized but only time would tell about that.

Mr. Luzis, minister at St. John's Lutheran-Latvian Church here, said Toronto Latvian organizations paid the air fare for the men to come here.

He said the pair wished to get out of St. John's because they feared someone from the Neman might find them. The ship left port Sunday night after having been scheduled to sail June 29.

Before the Neman sailed, Capt. A. Gailis said in a statement the Canadian immigration authorities that the men "have been arrested by the RCMP."

"Immigration and RCMP authorities did not allow them to come back on the ship."

Mr. Selivanov, who has been in St. John's since the arrival of the ship more than a week ago, interviewed Vilnis once since the men were taken into protective custody last Monday. He said Vilnis had signed a statement asking to return to the Neman because he wanted to "work for the benefit of the Soviet motherland."

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Fairlough said today two Latvian seamen who left a Soviet ship in St. John's, Nfld., have been granted permits to remain in Canada for one year.

Mrs. Fairlough said permits were granted to Adolph Olinis and Berthold Vilnis, both 21, after they had applied for "political sanctuary" in Canada.

Mrs. Fairlough said the maximum which the minister may grant under the Canadian Citizenship Act. Persons with permits may apply later for extension of the status of a landed immigrant.

Asked whether the Russian government has protested against the granting of political asylum by the two Latvians, she said "I would rather not comment on that at this time."

An official of the Russian Embassy also said "we have no immediate comment."

FLAMING BUTANE GAS KILLS 19 IN RECREATION AREA

Gas Tank Car Falls Off George Trestle

MELDRIM, Ga. (AP)—Rescue teams renewed dragging operations in the Ogeechee River today as they search for more victims of a freak butane gas explosion that claimed 19 lives. Many others were burned, at least 10 critically.

No one could say whether all the bodies had been recovered, but Coroner Arnold H. Smith said reports that dozens of persons were unaccounted for were greatly overdrawn. Some 175 persons had been swimming, picnicking, boating and sunbathing at the scene.

The blast turned the Ogeechee River bank into blackened ruin several hundred yards from the trestle. It caught some of the victims in the water, others on the bank. Children screamed as flames flourished in the river or ran screaming from the scene.

A second but less explosion came after rescuers reached the scene and set off explosions about 18 miles northwest of Savannah.

BURN THROUGH NIGHT

Most of the 124 cars in the seaboard Railroad freight train were cleared the 30-foot-high trestle before flames ate it down. The cars fell in the water, but several piled up against the bank and burned through the night. Some of the box cars were telescoped and flat cars dangled from a 75-foot break at the end of the 250-yard span.

Flint reported said the blast on one of the cars apparently broke and tumbled several box cars and two butane gas tanks onto the river bank. Some observers thought the trestle gave way.

Sparks caused by the wreck may have ignited the gas, burning the area into an inferno. The crash is a boon for family outings and some believed the escaping gas may have been ignited by a riverboat campfire.

"The explosion came over the water with a big boom, and after that you could hear children screaming and yelling," David Parker, one of the injured, said. "It was awful—after it happened not to be able to save the children, but there was just nothing to do."

Parker, who suffered severe back burns, said he believed the

Attends Church, Takes Long Drive Through City

Saturday Fog Disrupts Split-Second Schedule

KINGSTON (CP)—The Queen, deterred by hot, humid weather and a heavy fog that delayed the start of her eastern Ontario visit three hours, swept powerfully through a week-end highlighted by a series of ceremonies at the St. Lawrence River power project.

The split-second scheduling of the Royal Tour went awry Saturday when the fog slowed the Britannia's progress up the St. Lawrence River and an unscheduled forced cancellation of a civic luncheon in Cornwall.

But it was back on time Sunday as the Queen and Prince Philip spent almost three hours in this old military city. They worshipped at Sydenham United Church, the first time the Queen has attended a non-conformist service in Canada.

The weekend round of activities was to have begun at 9 a.m. Saturday with debarkation from the royal yacht at Ellesboro Lock on the United States side of the St. Lawrence Seaway. But after inching its way through the heavy fog with visibility down to less than 1/4 mile, the Queen and Britannia docked at Snell Lock 9 miles downstream. The royal couple motored from there to the site of the first of three ceremonies in honor of the 1,800,000 - 900 Moses-Saunders power project built in conjunction with the seaway development.

GIFT FOR PRINCE

Later they joined Cornwall where the Queen received from a Mohawk Indian youngster a pair of lacrosse sticks for Prince Charles, hooped by car along the shores of Lake St. Lawrence formed by the power dam and wound up the day with an afternoon visit to Brockville where a shirt - sleeved crowd of 35,000 cheered enthusiastically after a long wait in 90-degree heat.

The visit to the power site, split through by the international boundary, marked the first time more than a few days ago that the Queen had been in the U.S. She will later visit Chicago.

She was welcomed by Vice-President Richard Nixon of the U.S. who received from the humidity weather was of a sort that should make her feel right at home, living as she does in foggy London most of the time.

The Queen had a familiar line when she apologized for arriving late and explained that the fog had been under the mistaken impression that the fog had been left at home in England.

LEADERS SPEAK

The dam as a symbol of unity was the keynote of speeches delivered by New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller and Nixon.

Nixon, on behalf of President Eisenhower, presented to the Queen and Premier Frost at the Canadian end.

Unveiling a special commemorative marker, the Queen said the power project symbolizes "international co - operation may prove infectious."

Cornwall, the Queen took great interest in the lacrosse sticks presented to her by Indians.

"Don't lose those," she told Transport Minister George Hees with a smile as he took charge of the sticks. She was pointing at the lacrosse balls snuggled in the netting. "I think the children will be very interested in them."

From Cornwall, the royal couple drove through Long Sault, Morrisburg and Iroquois.

'Must Be Like a Pressure Cooker' Says Kindly Prince to Boy in Cast

KINGSTON (CP)—"It must be like being in a pressure cooker."

Prince Philip sympathetically told young Don Hinkle who lay there sweating with a plaster cast running from head to legs.

The prince, picking his way through a massed array of people at Kingston's Richardson Stadium Sunday, singled out Don, 13, as for one of the numerous chats he held while the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh separate way about.

"Are you comfortable?" Philip asked.

"It's a bit rough," Don replied.

The prince followed with his pressure cooker reference.

Don, whose cast is covered with signatures of his friends, had been wheeled into special position. His arms and legs are bare because of the bulky cast.

"What did you do to yourself?" he was asked next. "I didn't do anything," replied Don, explaining that his head had been injured in ways and the cast was an attempt to get it back into place.

TORONTO (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, the pants of her dress whipped by a stiff breeze at the city hall, today spoke to a crowd estimated at 10,000 who gave her a roaring welcome on the first day of a two-day visit to Toronto.

Her activities in the Ontario capital lacked the informality of some of the smaller communities she has seen since the Canadian tour began 11 days ago but she was greeted warmly as she and Prince Philip moved swiftly through a heavy schedule.

She recalled that 42 years ago her great grandfather, Edward VII, visited Toronto as the Prince of Wales and said "I think we would be amazed if he could see the development of the city during the past century."

She noted that this is the 125th anniversary of Toronto's incorporation and, in a reference to the St. Lawrence Seaway, said: "It is a year of real accomplishment to be compared with the years in which the last railway spikes were driven to give the nation new dominion from sea to sea."

Three times she had to grab her white straw hat to keep it from blowing off in the hot, windy square facing the city's Bay Street financial district.

The visit to Toronto began at 10:05 a.m. when the Queen and Prince were driven along Queensquay gangplank from the royal yacht Britannia. Workmen had a little difficulty attaching the gangplank.

Lieutenant - Governor Keiller Mackay of Ontario and Mrs. Mackay then proceeded to the dock as a 21-gun salute echoed across the water.

The Queen stood on a small dais to receive the salute from a guard of honor made up of members of the Royal Regiment of Canada. She was presented to Premier and Mrs. Frost and members of the provincial cabinet.

In a brief ceremony the Queen pulled the veil from a plaque on the section of the Gardiner Expressway between the Queen Elizabeth Docks, a section of the RCAF Station Patricia just before Elizabeth alighted from the yacht.

Despite the 80-degree heat and the humidity, which became almost unbearable, the Queen was jammed into the intersection of Queen and Bay Streets at city hall after the yacht docked for a short time.

The royal couple was driven through a rundown waterfront area past rows of factories. Workers at the plants stopped to watch. At Kew Beach many people turned out of the nearby dripping bathing suit to wave at the motorcade as it swept by.

The Queen and Philip spent five minutes with some 70 crippled children who were guests for the day beat and sitting in the shade of three big elm trees under a huge marquee. Everyone's crippled children welcome their Queen.

They were greeted there by Conn Smythe, treasurer of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, and Mrs. Smythe.

YALE'S BOY

He also stopped to chat with Ron Kennedy of Lindsay, a boy who has been helped by crippled children and asked him how rowing honors he had won.

Two Bicyclists Suffer Injuries

TRENTON — Although traffic in Trenton was heavy yesterday police report no accidents on Sunday and only a few minor ones on Saturday.

However on Friday afternoon two children were injured when the bicycles they were riding collided with automobiles on Trenton Streets.

Chris Long, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Long, suffered a broken left leg and was taken to hospital after he rode his new bike into the path of an oncoming car.

The car was being operated by Ted Thompson, 18, of 96 Wrapp Street and was proceeding south on Lorne Avenue. According to the police report on the accident the car was at the intersection of Lorne and Wilkins and the boy on the bike was proceeding east on Wilkins. The boy rode his bike into the front of the car striking it on the left front corner.

The mishap was investigated by Sergeant Douglas Brodshaw and Constable Sidney Vickers.

In the second car-bike mishap, Roy Berger, 11, of 43 Fourth Street, suffered slight injuries to his right ankle and right shoulder when his bike went into the right front fender and light of a car being operated by Ron Thornton, 42, of 271 Dufferin Avenue.

It was reported that Mr. Thornton had stopped his car to make a left turn on Dundas St. to go on to Bay St., but the car began to creep ahead and the bicycle caught the front end of it as the youth passed. The mishap was investigated by Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton Police Department.

Centre Finances Subject of Talks At Board Meeting

TRENTON — "I refuse to write this place off as one which cannot make money," declared Mayor Vagn Lange stated at the board meeting in the Community Centre Board. "However, the finances of the Community Centre will never be good until the people of Trenton support the rink by getting out and attending the various activities put on here."

The councillor, also a member of the board, expressed his opinion during the discussion on the finances of the Community Centre. Mr. Lange told the board members the deficit was lower than for the same month last year and the general opinion was that this was good considering the time of year.

"If the deficit continues," the councillor said, "then the town council must look at the situation this fall and recommend to the town council that they budget for a deficit and this way keep the Centre on an even keel."

John Farrell, chairman of the board, said he felt this year was a poor example because of the trouble they have had with manpower. He said they now have a good manager at the present time and expected a better year will...be enjoyed next season. May was very active for the month and it is expected the canteen will now bring in more money. Also in the past, the chairman told the board.

The board members also discussed the possibilities of buying an ice chipping machine and the matter was left in the hands of Councillor Vagn Lange who will contact the other two groups who have artificial ice and see if they would be interested in going into a "share-purchase" of such a machine.

The matter of proper police protection was brought before the board and the members were informed that the Chief of...Police had stated he could spare a month's notice before off-duty policemen could be provided for the rink. The board felt this was not of the question because they themselves did not know what show was coming in that far ahead.

They decided to ask the police chief to supply them with men when needed at a week's notice if they could not get satisfaction from the police department and this then they would send a letter to the council asking for that body to intervene.

The board recommended that next year's board give first consideration to the application of the Lions Club in using the rink during the 21 giant bingo games.

Board member Cliff Baker informed the board the use of the Community Centre has been extended till the 1st of Oct. to September 19. The Guides are planning a training school for leaders on that day.

All members of the board were present at the meeting with the exception of member Lyle Carr.

Just about the most popular spot in the city during the weekend was at the Belleville Kiksmen Swimming Pool on Dundas Street East. Hundreds of kiddies splashed and swam to their heart's content in an effort to beat the heat. The pool was o cially opened for the season on Saturday and swimmers queued up waiting their turn. The Sunday afternoon crowd is seen in above picture.

QUEEN

The Queen received a red, white and blue nosegay from eight-year-old Judith Martin who presented it from her wheel chair.

Before the motorcade left on a 45-minute tour through the south-eastern section of the city toward city hall the prince talked to five former "Timmies," boys whose photographs have appeared on the society's Easter Seals during recent years.

Police were strict with the crowd at city hall and there was nothing like the scene that oc-curred in Montreal last week when many persons passed close to the royal car. Streamers of ticker tape lasted down from the Bay Street buildings as the Queen was welcomed by Mayor Nathan Phillips, received a bouquet from his granddaughter Linda, and was presented to members of board of control.

At noon the royal couple re-colered their car and were driven slowly down Bay Street to the Britannia Yacht Club where a gala luncheon while Philip was guest of honor at another luncheon in the Royal York Hotel given by the Professional Engineers and Scientists of Canada.

Craft of many shapes and sizes from sailboats to ocean liners dipped their flags and Prince Philip a whistling, hooting welcome as the Britannia cut through the clam waters of Toronto harbor and tied up at Queen Elizabeth docks at 9:40 a.m.

The appearance of the Britan-nia as it moved silently into view from behind the Terminal 15 warehouse caught the crowd seated in bleachers at the wharf by surprise. Most of the people were startled and a cheer welled up suddenly as they caught sight of the yacht's pointed prow.

The Britannia had entered the western gap of the harbor at 9:18 a.m., slightly behind schedule. At that time the Queen was wearing a high-necked blue dress with short sleeves and no hat. She made a quick change and cos-tume between that time and the moment when the yacht nudged into the dock a little more than 20 minutes later.

When she disembarked she was cladi in a light tan brocade dress with 'nik skirt, an off-white straw sailor hat, long white gloves and white shoes.

The Queen and prince were standing on the rear deck waving to hundreds of people standing alongside the western gap as the Britannia entered harbor. The prince wore a dark business suit. Both used sun glasses to shade their eyes from the glare.

The heat haze that had limited visibility in Toronto harbor lifted 20 minutes before the yacht en-tered the bay.

Many in the cheering crowd waved flags as the Britannia glided gracefully through the nar-row entrance behind the Maple Leaf Stadium baseball park east of the Canadian National Exhibi-tion grounds.

The Britannia was 18 minutes behind schedule after a 160-mile trip through Lake Ontario from Kingston. They spent it behind most three hours Sunday.

The weather was hot and hu-mid. The sun was shining brightly as hour before the royal couple was scheduled to leave the Bri-annia and began their day's pro-gram. The weather forecast was for cooler temperatures in the evening after a day of cloudiness, showers and thunderstorms.

FOUR-HOUR WAIT

The first person to show up at the pier was the Queen and prince were to disembark arrived at 8 a.m. an hour later, with a wait of at least four hours ahead of them, there were 1,000 people milling and flocking around in a gay holiday mood.

More than 100 policemen and hundreds of soldiers and sailors were on hand to direct the in-creasing crowds to position around the bunting - decorated square where the Queen will re-

Radio 'Hams' Set up Mobile Stations, Make 300 Contacts

This weekend saw about a do-zen members of the Quinte Ama-teur Radio Club, participating in the 24-hour field day exercise sponsored by the American Ra-dio Relay League. The local "hams" set up three mobile sta-tions in a field just north of Highway No. 2 near Bayside.

The three stations, operating under the club's call number of VE3BSQ, were set up to cover all portions of the radio ama-teurs' communications media. Done station operated the CW or code, frequencies on the 80, 40 and the 20-meter bands. An-other station was operating in both code and radio-telephone on the 2 and 6-meter bands of the very high frequency or H stations. The third operated a radio-telephone system on the 80, 40, 20 and 15-meter bands.

Results of the set-up were very satisfactory to the club op-erators, some of whom literally slept and ate by their transmit-ters during the exercise, the purpose of which was to estab-lish as many contacts as pos-sible during the allotted time. Those operating the VHF sta-tion enjoyed some success. This particular type of station is us-ually assumed to be good only for a "line-of-sight" transmis-sion. The local "hams" made contact, however, with other stations in Virginia and Ohio. It is understood that this was possible through the operators directing their antenna so that transmissions were beamed east to the north, where they would hit the effects of the aurora borealis and be reflected to the south but to a greater range than if the transmission antenna was originally pointed in that direction.

The furthest contacts for the members working on the regular transmission bands were in Ber-muda, Georgia, South Texas, Massachusetts, and South Caro-lina. Most of the contacts were made with operators in Ontario, Quebec and New York State. A few were even made with other Belleville hams. Over 300 con-tacts were made by the combin-ed three stations during the 24-hour exercise.

The club powered the three transmitters and four receivers used during the exercise by means of a portable gasoline-engined generator which put out 3.5 kilowatts of 117 volts, 58-cycle power. This was also a source for the eclctric light-ing used in the four tents erec-ted by the club members to house the equipment. Various antennae were erected for the exercise, the most impressive being that for the VHF station which required a type similar in construction to a TV antenna, with a spe-cial collapsible mast. The radio-telephone and CW stations were operating identical receivers which had a rated output of 65 watts. The VHF station trans-mitter was operating under a rated output of 150 watts.

ATTENDS CHURCH,

Ingleside, Iroquois and Morris-burg—towns set up at new loca-tions when the seaway created a lake where they once stood.

At Iroquois they boarded Bri-tannia again and sailed for Brockville, still well behind schedule.

Their arrival in darkness and mist lent an unreal air to the tour and added color to the pag-eantry. Originally scheduled to be in the old United Empire Loy-alist town three hours, their schedule was cut to 30 minutes. They stayed an hour.

Civic officials estimated that more than 35,000 people lined the streets of the Leeds County seat of 15,000 people.

Among gifts presented during the day were a 16-foot launch, towels and a picture of the Long Sault Rapids.

Back on the Britannia, the people sailed to Kingston. The royal yacht drew hundreds of small craft as outriders and the strange convoy rode like a mother duck with a line of duck-lings astern and to both sides.

They cruised in bright sunshine through the splendor of the Thou-sand Islands, where mansions and small forests dot the head-lands.

The royal couple reached King-ston Sunday afternoon, where Britannia's power cut for the first time into Lake Ontario. Here they saw a city established by the French in 1673 as Fort Froon-tenac.

They strolled among lines of veterans in Richardson Stadium and the Queen left her course to chat with a group of Chinese.

On they went to Sydenham Street United Church where Prince Philip read the second of the lessons at 1,100 fellow-wor-shippers swellered in the heat.

A TALL STORY

Either Col. Fadhel Abbas Madawi is a liar or Nikita Khrushchev is a fool.

There are those who, even without ever hearing of Col. Fahdel Abbas Madawi, would be willing to embrace both these propositions with open arms.

The kind of a fool that Khrushchev would have to be, though, if Col. Madawi is not a liar, would represent such a monumental high in stupidity that not even his worst enemy would believe him capable of it.

According to Col. Madawi, Iraq's army has nuclear weapons. According to the British, if it has them, Russia must have supplied them.

The British sources say that this, in the words of the Associated Press report, "would make nonsense of Premier Khrushchev's proposals for an atom-free zone in the Middle East."

This would not be the first time on which Mr. Khrushchev's acts have made nonsense, or worse, of Mr. Khrushchev's words and we would see no reason to call Col. Madawi a liar if the only evidence against him were as flimsy as the argument paraded by the British.

There are, however, certain other facts which are common knowledge.

Item One - - The Iraqi Army is Premier Karim Kassem's lone hope of preventing the Communists from taking over control of his government and to present the local Communists' foes with atomic weapons hardly seems logical.

Item Two - - Even if, for some devious reason, Mr. Khrushchev would like to see all the Iraqi Communists atomized, the Middle East is not exactly the kind of a place where you can be sure into whose back a knife is going to be plunged, or who is going to be in charge tomorrow of atomic weapons presented to a friend today.

Item Three - - Just as soon as Mr. Khrushchev starts giving away atomic weapons to satellites, allies and friends, he loses control of a decision when, if ever, the Third World War will start. Somebody might beat him to the bomb.

Item Four - - Mr. Khrushchev is known to covet the Middle East and it would seem to be safer for the would-be burglar not to arm the householder.

SOME H-BOMB FIGURES

That was a terrible thing that Dr. Hardin B. Jones did the other day.

Dr. Jones, assistant director of the University of California's Donner laboratory, must have scared the members of a U.S. joint congressional atomic energy subcommittee half to death when he based his appraisal of the results of a nuclear assault on the U.S. on the premise that from five to 20 per cent of the population would survive, but would have their life spans shortened by eleven years.

One can just imagine the sigh of relief which went up in Washington later in the same day when it was learned that the picture painted by Dr. Jones isn't necessarily so. The Office of Civil and Defence Mobilization came to the rescue with an official report. No more than 46,000,000 Americans would be killed if 263 nuclear weapons landed on 70 key cities and 154 military and atomic installations from coast to coast, it said. And only 20,000,000 would be injured.

From this it ought to be over-abundantly evident that our civilization is not going to be annihilated by any nuclear war but only slightly slaughtered.

Back to the brink!

CLARIFICATION, PLEASE

Don Loper, an American dress designer, says that the Queen "dresses too much her age."

At times she looks 33, which she is.

We gather that women who are 33 should not dress so they look like 33.

To a woman who is 33 looked 33 but, say, 25, would not all women who looked 25 shortly be suspected of being 33 and thus, in time, would not any person dressing in this fashion be said to look 33?

If so, would not it be necessary for a woman of 33 to dress so that she looked to be 20, in order not to be said to look 33 because she dressed as if she were 25?

And where can this end, short of diapers?

SHUTS THEM UP

At the American Museum of Natural History, they have a beetle so large that it peels and eats bananas - - which should make some of our Northern MPs look small about the size of their mosquitoes and black flies.

REAL SUCCESS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Prosperity some men aver
To be the emblem of success
Yet, after all is done and said,
Life's but a thing of emptiness
Entirely void, if only prize
Shall men consider worth their while,
Engrossing in their scheme of life
Love of gold and dearth of smile.

'Tis not enough to merely own
With what we have we ought to toil.
Life's but a failure if we think
Each kindly deed should be repaid.
But let your hand be opened out;
Your aim, to be a friend in need;
Then may they say when life is o'er,
Now here was real success,
indeed.

Wheel Becoming Obsolete

Montreal Gazette

It is only a few months since statements in West Germany and in the United States about "missile mail" were considered interesting but hardly news, mail simply was delivered by missile. From the U.S. Navy submarine, the guided missile launched some 3,000 letters were carried by a Regulus I missile to a naval air station near Jacksonville, 100 miles inland.

The idea of missiles, carrying mail or freight, buzzing through the air in all directions is not a pleasant one, in the manner in which this first missile-mail delivery was made - quiets most fears. It emphasizes the difference between the ballistic missile and the guided missile.

The Regulus I, like the veteran Matador and the long-ranged Snark, is a guided missile. Where the ballistic missile is on its own after the initial launching pad, the guided missile can be directed from the launch area, from the arrival area, or both. It can, with consideration of the wind, be aimed around and brought back to its launching pad. It can land safely and more precisely, on its undercarriage than a bird.

It is under ground control at all times.

This return to skids, sled-like undercarriages, is a significant new era in transportation which has been made possible by the development of turbine-powered jets and ducted fans. The "saucer" is not a fictitious object any more; in a modified form, it is a reality. In Canada, the United States and Britain, vehicles difficult to name are now being tested which will cruise at high speeds just above ground-cushion level, riding on a bed of compressed air provided by turbine engines.

Avro, in Toronto, has developed one for the United States intended as a troop carrier. Saunders-Roe in Britain is testing another which is expected to be the model for passenger and freight cars passing and their cars across the Channel. The U.S. Army is developing a light tank which will be able to ignore all ground obstacles by skimming above them.

In all of these new vehicles, wheels — and the weighty machinery needed to lower them or retract them — are unnecessary. Th. elimination of wheels, their suspensions and the hydraulics needed to place them, the housings required to shelter them, is a happy benefit which largely balances the weight penalty of the air-cushion plants needed in these "hover craft."

Hardly surprising, a pioneer American aircraft designer, tells in this month's Atlantic of how he considers the new "trend" in our travels and in the movements of ourselves and our goods. At one time there was only the wheel, just as the wheel and axle invention obsoleted the sled, some ten thousand years ago.

Oddly, piranhas become fairly popular specimens for the home aquarium. But the zoology report it is usually the advanced Piranha who gets eaten. In the inch brute costs about $75, smaller ones less. Each month they feed it a live goldfish. They are fed live fish and chicken livers. Careless aquarium owners have lost finger tips to their pets.

Piranha Rule Challenged

National Geographic Bulletin

Brazilians are trying to overthrow the masters of the Amazon.

Vicious piranha fish, rulers of the river and its tributaries as long as men can remember, are being attacked.

A year-long drought in northeast Brazil has dried up the streams, leaving only pools in which piranhas concentrate. Trapped, piranhas are easy marks - points similar to carp but with razor-sharp jaws. Dipping darts is brewed from the roots of native trees and used in the pools. This kills other fish as the piranhas, but is the only effective means of controlling the poisoners say.

Although, 7 10-inch-long piranha is a big one, the species measures and animal enters the water. Piranhas by the hundreds attack their prey, each taking a grapefruit-size chunk of flesh at every snap of their razor-edged teeth.

The boiling frenzy of a piranha attack can completely strip the meat from a steer in only a half minutes.

Fear of the water, piranhas levy a heavy tax on those who wish to cross. Shepherds and cow hands drive in a sacrificial animal to attract the hungry devils. Then the blood-mad fish gather around the unlucky beast, the rest of the herd or herd can swim safely by with little danger.

Piranhas will attack anything that smells like food. Some bite chunks from cars. A woman who trailed her hand outside a dugout canoe left a shock and rebuked the paddler for hitting her. Then she found a piranha had bound a finger missing — tribute to the piranhas.

Many Amazon animals have gaps among their toes, souvenirs of an involuntary trip into the water. Waterfowl are seen stumping around with missing feet.

Scientific expeditions also encounter trouble. Ornithologists find their bird specimens destroyed before they can paddle to them. Even fishermen lose nets and hooks, as well as their catch.

The piranha is a well-liked food fish, however, and resourceful natives have found ways to use a powerful enemy. The dried, cured fish is lashed to a blowpipe. Just before a hunter shoots the dart he clenches the turns it against the teeth to cut a deep ring, so the ring will break off in the wound.

Tribesmen in southwestern Brazil and Bolivia use the jaws as hair trimmers. When first shown scissors, they gave the instrument their own name for piranha.

Only Courage Is Required

Oshawa Times

This is the time-of year for daydreaming, on a shady lawn or beside a cool stream. While doing this, an Associated Press writer suggests a few things he would like to do, if he had the courage. Among them were:

Tell a plumber (or a painter, or a mechanic): "If you're not here in an hour, I'll get someone else."

Tell off a lousy waiter and tell him why.

Tell the boss, "If you'll see my secretary, I'm sure she can arrange a more appealing date."

Ask my wife, "What happens to all our money?"

Walk up to the big loud mouth at the party and belt him with no prior introduction.

Ask Queen Elizabeth, during an audience at Buckingham palace: "What's a beautiful dame like you doing in a job like this?"

Electrify my fence against the neighbor's prize cocker spaniel.

Push my head in a modern art gallery and shout: "It does, it does look like a cow."

Ask the doctor: "Be frank, doc. Haven't you paid for your own medical education and equipment 100 times over?"

Go to Tallulah Bankhead at a cocktail party: "Tallulah! Tallulah, baby!"

Stand up at a beatnik joint and recite from Edgar A. Guest: "Home is a battleground, a dark Lombardo muzzle."

Tell the internal revenue service: "I'm tired of this partnership. Why don't you buy me out?"

Investigate personally the thing called "home" and see if there isn't bad as-sil those TV announcers claim.

Send condolences to Ed Sullivan's old elocution teacher.

Walk into internal Mansfield at a crowded airport, kiss her fondly and then back off, saying: "Sorry I thought you were my mother-in-law."

No doubt there are some additions all of us would like to make.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JUNE 29, 1939.

"School's Out." From the little red school house that stands in the picturesque in many a rural section . . . from the stately brick buildings of the city schools there poured a flood of carefree children with but one thought in mind. Summer, and all that implied, a gay tune and the children answered with whoops of delight.

On Friday evening of last week a goodly number of the Kingston Road congregation met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gratton to bid "goodbye" for a time to Gordon and to Rose Gregory who are leaving the community to join the British Navy. The boys will sail for England the last of July.

Miss Fanny Yeoman, Montreal, is spending the week with Mrs. Murrell Taylor, Bingham Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ruston celebrated their wedding anniversary at their summer home "Bunalohn" on the Front Road last evening, having a number of friends and acquaintance present for the happy occasion.

The Directors Board of Education recently advertised for three teachers to fill vacancies on the public school staff. A total of 381 applications were received, and a number of them were from those holding university degrees.

30 YEARS AGO

JUNE 29, 1929.

Mr. James J. Wilson, a former school teacher in this city and late principal of Chesley High School, has been appointed School Inspector for Belleville.

Belleville and Picton Rotarians enjoyed their annual picnic at the Sand Banks on July 10th.

Mr. Charles Skelcher, for some time employed by the Singleton Clothing Company, has been appointed to the staff of the Department of Customs and Revenue as a customs-excise examiner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bradshaw, Miss Alice Bradshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradshaw, Peterborough, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weese, Yeomans Road.

40 YEARS AGO

JUNE 29, 1918.

Mr. George Wilson of Hamilton is visiting relatives in the city.

Judge Frslock and family left today for their summer home on Salmon Lake.

Mr. Walter E. Mikel and his mother left yesterday to spend several weeks visiting relatives in Toronto and Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. William N. Badgley, Corbyville, has returned home from Lindsay where she attended the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. John Macoun and Miss Nellie Macoun have returned to Ottawa after visiting friends here.

Miss Craig and Miss Emma DeMille will leave this evening to spend some time at Stoney Lake.

It will be welcome news that the price of coal will be lower within the next couple of weeks. The retail price took a jump three months ago owing to the scarcity and high price of feed.

Come Doctor, Diagnose This

Detroit News

It would be of interest to have from the American Medical Association or the College of Surgeons any comment they care to make on some surprising statistics gathered by the Health Information Foundation.

The Foundation conducted a comparative statistical study of two group health insurance enterprises operating in New York City and environs. These are the kind of plans, recently approved by the A.M.A., which offer insured a complete coverage of medical, as well as hospital, services. One is Group Health Insurance Inc. (G.H.I.), the other Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York (H.I.P.).

They differ radically in the way physicians are compensated for their services. G.H.I. pays physicians for each service rendered according to an agreed fee schedule. H.I.P. pays them on the basis of an approximation of the "socialized" medical care plan sponsored by the British government. Under H.I.P. participating physicians are guaranteed a specific sum, so much a head for each of the insured whose health they undertake to look after.

Now here are the interesting statistics. Under H.I.P. there were markedly more referrals to hospitals markedly more resort to surgery than under H.I.P., in terms of each 100 insured, hospital referrals were 75 per cent higher for the fee-paid plan, surgery was 77 per cent more frequent.

The reader may draw his own conclusions. We would prefer to hear such conclusions the professional organization may care to volunteer.

Strength for The Day

CONCERNING READING HABITS

"Reading maketh a full man," so does food. But there is nothing worse for the health than eating too high calorie food or food which aggravates some physical disability — or even too much food.

Although we live in a country where profligacy overcame read and write, nevertheless, we find it hard to take advantage of what this line to their best advantage. One could read a book a day and at the end of the year be surfeited and spoiled. One might read a book a year, but from it gain inspiration and the spirit of new life.

For people of moderate education the reading of a book a week is not too much to ask. Here is a suggestion if you follow out a program of reading: Make it one book in the field in which you are particularly interested; the second book a novel; the third book a modern production. Be sure to run in a religious book once in a while. Then go to hundreds being written and published today which carry good news to the soul of man and much spiritual power. Read the best books every day. Invest in at Genesis and read through to Revelation. Don't make it a chapter every day. Even a few verses carefully read and deeply pondered will carry you over many a rough place.

Books should be windows by which you look out upon a world of varied interests. It will be a better world for all of us if we read with regularity and choose well.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We live in the illusion, which is much nicer than a delusion, that this is the wonder age of all time. The modern age, we call it, forgetting that all ages were modern to those who lived in them. The modern age, doing a little travelling recently, by train, by plane and by car. And the greatest wonder that occurred to me with regard to this age is that we have not yet been shorted off so suspiciously with Adam and Eve. One could have got themselves into such a colossal shemozzle as we find ourselves to-day.

Railroad stations swarming with sweating hordes lugging their own gear. Airports packed with tousled and wrinkled globetrotters waiting for aclothes to get hot up.

Highways cascading with traffic that dams itself up at the slightest provocation. Hotels that plead we battle our way through the lobby. Restaurants in consideration of men was so badly served as ours. This is no age of wonders. We are in a mess.

Why, back in the horse and buggy days, if a hostelry served us as badly as do our present means of transportation, it would have been sold to the glue factory.

No, sir; back in the true ages people didn't get in each other's way. Our equipment was suited to the times. Nobody got hot up.

To Your Good Health
By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HIATAL HERNIA FREQUENTLY CAN BE CURED WITHOUT SURGERY

This is something I've discussed before, but I'm quite aware cases, that nobody can read the column every day, and some things of interest come by, always, by repeating some things. I can keep my comments up to date.

And, as a matter of fact, I've found from experience that, as hard as I try, I don't always manage to get things said just the way I want to, for misunderstandings can arise. These I can often correct the next time I tackle a topic I've discussed previously.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you explain a hiatal hernia? Is there any permanent cure? Can it develop into a much more serious condition?" Is surgery always necessary?"

A hiatal hernia has very little in common with what we call a "hernia" or "rupture." Either term, of course, really means nothing more or less than a break, or opening, in a membrane.

A hiatal hernia (or hiatus hernia) is being diagnosed more often now than it used to. Why? Is it more common? I don't think so. But our methods of diagnosis are constantly improving. X-ray is becoming more easily available, and the total of medical knowledge keeps growing. If the result is that we can detect, however, one solitary new fact (but they will discover thousands!) doctors will soon be more skillful. 50 years from now, just by studying the accumulated new medical experiences.

Anyway, you know what the diaphragm is. It's a muscular wall which divides the body, more or less at the base of the lungs. Alternately tensing and relaxing, this muscular wall, that is used to breathe, first drawing air into the lungs, then expelling it.

The digestive canal has to pass through this wall, at this point (as at any dividing point) it is possible, although not probable, that a break or weak point may occur.

IT GETS SENSITIVE

Then we have a "hiatal hernia." The intestinal tube, or plumbing, or whatever you want to call it, gets a small fold, or curlicque, and this becomes an irritable or sensitive spot.

The symptoms are almost, but not quite, identical with those of an ulcer. It's an irritable, or sensitive spot, as I just said.

Can it be "cured"? Well, it's not always a dangerous sort of thing. In more of a nuisance if, by the same sort of treatment that is used with ulcers, you can keep from irritating it, you can keep the critical spot comfortable and subdued. That's the answer!

If it happens to be a very severe case, persistent pain or bleeding, there may be no satisfactory answer except surgery. But surgery isn't always necessary.

Sane diet, and keeping your nerves from getting out of hand, and understanding the cause of the trouble — these make the complete answer in the majority of cases.

If a case will not respond to such treatment, and surgery is imperative, then have the surgery done. But for the greater number of cases, the conservative treatment will be wholly satisfactory.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm in taking epsom salts? Someone told me they were good for high blood pressure. I have had more than there every other day. — Mrs. LH."

"Someone" probably "learned" the from "a friend," who learned it on a horse. It will not do one feeble thing to correct high blood pressure, but taken every other day such a remedy can certainly irritate and inflame the innards." I mean your digestive tract. Epsom salts are an irritant.

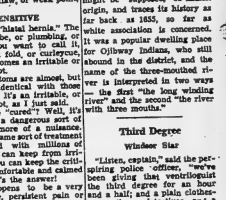
"Dear Dr. Molner: Are vitamin pills fattening? — Mrs. R.R."

No. They may improve appetite however and you then may gain weight.



KAMINISTIKWIA (RIVER)
ONTARIO

The name of this picturesque river, which empties into Lake Superior at Fort William, is said might be supposed, of Indian origin, and traces its history as far back as 1655, so far as white settlement is concerned. It was a popular dwelling place for Ojibway Indians, who still abound in the district, and the name of the three-mouthed river is interpreted in two ways — the first "the long winding river" and the second "the river with three mouths."

Eleven Members Of Two Families Killed in B.C.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)— Eleven members of two fishing families died in separate boating accidents Monday near this Northern British Columbia city during the weekend.

Five Indian children and a neighbor who apparently tried to rescue them died Saturday in a house fire at a United Church mission post, Skidegate on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Five members of a Prince Rupert family were drowned Sunday when a gillnetter capsized near Port Edward, 11 miles south of the city. They were returning from a religious revival meeting at Port Edward.

The blazing five-room house of fisherman Robert Moore trapped four of his children—William, 14; Brenda, 10, Lorraine, 7, and Robert, 4. The remains of their four-year-old playmate, Angeline Jackson, and Mrs. Moore's neighbor who tried to save the youngsters from the flames, were found in the ashes of the house.

The children were believed to have been sleeping in upstairs bedrooms. Mr. Moore was fishing and his wife was apparently visiting neighbors.

Five members of another family died in the treacherous waters that capsized gillnetter. A survivor, Cora Russell, 18, said she and Mrs. Russell were on deck when the flabboat Lorna Day rolled over, throwing them into the water.

Drowned were Jonathan Dagrick, 34, skipper of the boat, his wife Mary, 33, his two sons, Benjamin, 6, Arnold, 12, and his brother Herbert, 13. There were six survivors.

Chip of the Old Spud Becomes Big Business

The potato chip first saw the light of hot fat in Saratoga Springs, New York, according to the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. R. E. Goodin of that Branch adds that a silver of potato was accidentally dropped in a pot of boiling fat and, presto, history. The potato chip soon became a specialty of Saratoga Springs and before long its popularity spread around the country. Now that summer is here, it will be in special demand for picnics, barbecues, snacks and with salads.

At first it was difficult to turn out potato chips commercially, because they had to be sliced by hand and different kinds of fat did different things to potatoes. But gradually the necessary machinery came along and standards took a hand in processing problems. From the potato which has been developed, especially for potato chipping to the oils which are a particular blend of vegetable oils, every step in the manufacturing process has been developed scientifically.

"Not every potato is suitable for potato chips. Important factors for success in growing suitable potatoes include the amount of fertilizer, and the ratio between phosphate and potash, specific gravity reading or dry matter content. Area, variety and temperature at harvest and the conditions under the final chip for without a proper combination of these factors, a good fry is impossible.

Nowadays, the potato chip is big industry. Most of the Canadian manufacturing plants are located in Toronto, however, consumption of the product is now an all-time high, averaging four pounds of potato chips per person last year. Processors select the most suitable potatoes direct from those Ontario farmers who have been given this specialized attention. More than a billion pounds of raw potatoes annually are processed into potato chips by means of modern automatic peelers, slicers and cookers, at the rate of over ten pounds of finished potato chips every minute.

FLAMING BUTANE

train jumped the tracks as it crossed the trestle.

SCREAMS WARNING

"I thought it was going too fast. I saw the train coming, and screaming for people to take off for their lives. But there was no place we could go in such a hurry."

The freight was en route from Montgomery, Ala., to Savannah. Witnesses said several cars started tumbling off the trestle and gas began shooting out of a tank car. The gas spread like a ground fog over the river, then flashed into flame with a tremendous explosion.

This ignited a second car loaded with 10,000 gallons of butane. The impact of the double explosion wrecked several cars on the bank.

INJURED SCREAM

Within seconds the area became a screaming mass of humanity. Injured persons yelled with pain as they struggled to escape the fire, which continued to burn for hours after it had been started.

George Hodges Jr., 21, of Malvern gave this account:

"The train made a funny bump, bump sound when it came across the trestle and I popped everything and looked at it. Then some of the cars fell into the water and we began to get scared.

"When I saw the gas coming out of a tank car, I grabbed my wife and ran. We heard the explosion but we didn't look around until we got safely back in the woods.

"When we looked back we saw a great sheet of fire sweeping over the river and into the woods. It burned everything it touched. Then the car went off. It sounded just like a bomb. We went back and tried to help some of the injured people we could. They were all burned, charred terribly. It was horrible."

CROWDS HINDER RESCUE

Curious spectators jammed the roads to the edge of the disaster scene. Ambulances were unable to plow through the traffic jam as helicopters and fire-fighting air bases were pressed into service. The dead had been carried to Savannah.

Railway officials said their preliminary investigation indicated that none of the cars jumped the tracks until after the explosions.

The Savannah Morning News said a fourth car near the end of the train apparently broke, sending several box cars and a dining car off the trestle. Sheriff Bill Harris said the explosions could have been caused by a hot box which ignited the butane. A hot box is caused by lack of oil on a boxcar wheel bearing.

Harris said complete identification of the dead could not be expected until after Tuesday.

The force of the blasts and fire destroyed a house a city block away from the trestle and the area around the trestle a mass of gray ashes. Two cows were snapped like twigs and vegetation was destroyed.

Silk Scarves Bear Paintings Of Old Masters

By MURIEL FENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Famous paintings from the Italian old masters will be wearing reproductions from Italian old masters and even from the Dead Sea scrolls within the fall suits this year.

They are to be worn hanging in silk scarves from the house of Jacqmar, Richard Allan, one of the firm's directors, said the inspiration during a visit to Italy last year. Now, after lengthy negotiations with the Italian government about copyright, he has been able to print in full detail from various well-known paintings.

Typical designs will be wearing around their necks or on their heads reproductions of Botticelli's Birth of Venus, Piero Della Francesca's Victory of Constantine over Maxentius, or a view of the city of Siena by Lorenzetti.

Also in the range are two reproductions of Pompeii—a frieze of birds and a mosaic showing the symbol dog to be found on the most houses in Pompeii and, according to the superstition of the time, was supposed to guard the house against evil influences.

These scarves will be worn in a long line of designs which go back 20 years. The first one was produced in 1939 at the request of the ministry of information to help put wartime slogans over to the British public.

The result of the request was "London Wall—depicting a wall in which each brick bore a slogan such as: "Careless talk costs lives," "Be like dad, keep mum," "Save for victory," "Go to it," "We shall not flag or fail, we shall go on to the end" (from a Churchill broadcast) and "Lend us to defend the right to be free."

Piano Pupils Give Fine Recital Memorial Hall, Albert College

By GLADYS WARD

Hours of practising exercises and study which go into the making of a musician were culminated on Saturday night when the piano pupils of William G. Connor were heard in recital at Memorial hall. Sponsored by the Albert College Conservatory of music, the program of piano solos and duets was given variety by the addition of four numbers by soprano soloist, Mrs. Diana Woolley.

In a brief address of welcome, Mr. T. K. Franklin, bursar of Albert College greeted the guests and hoped that they would have a happy informal evening. On such occasions, he noted, the students had acquitted themselves most nobly and he felt sure that on this final recital for the year, they would do so again.

"They are the result of the good work of the Conservatory of Music is growing under Mr. Franklin stated. "In order to cope with this we are adding another teacher in music, Miss Marjorie Woodyard, from Fellow College, Grand Ligne, Quebec."

Used Cycle To Do Work In Nigeria

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A motorcycle has proved indispensable for Betty Fraser in the work as a missionary in Nigeria, British West Africa.

The 29-year-old native of Stratford, Ont., for nine years has worked for the interdenominational Sudan Interior Mission. Now she is on leave at her home in Niagara Falls with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fraser.

Since she started using the motorcycle, she said, travel through snake-infested jungle has been easier.

She recalled one night, while encamped in the jungle, when a native ran to her but screaming that a leopard was caught in a nearby trap. Miss Fraser grabbed a rifle and killed the animal, backed into a small cave.

ANTI-COMMUNIST EFFORT

Miss Fraser believes the work of the mission is "one of the greatest weapons against the inroads of Communism in Africa."

Distribution of literature is one means of combatting Communist-inspired broadcasts beamed to Africa from the Middle East. A phonograph she uses in her work has become known to natives as "the little box that talks," she said.

The mission operates five centres which treat about 5,000 leprosy patients, she said. Malaria, yellow fever and other tropical diseases take their toll.

Miss Fraser will tour Canada and the United States, giving lectures on her missionary work, before returning to Africa. But, she said, she does not plan to travel by motorcycle on this continent.

Mother-of-Seven Suffered Paralysis But Now Model

By SYLVIA BACK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Shortly after her husband died of polio 10 years ago, Susan Taylor suffered paralysis of the left side in a stroke. Doctors ordered and doctors feared she would never walk again.

Today, at 34, Mrs. Taylor, mother of seven children, walks without crutches and has embarked on a new career. Treatment, including dancing lessons, restored her ability to walk.

"Occasionally, I put an iron on my left leg when it gets a bit weak," says Mrs. Taylor. "but otherwise I'm all right."

On a challenge she took up a modelling career last January. She was accepted for training by an exclusive model school and, since she completed the course, photographic work has begun to flow her way.

"I am delighted by it all," says Mrs. Taylor, a pretty, softspoken woman with auburn hair and blue eyes.

"As well as caring for my children, I should be thrilled to start a career of my own now, for I think it's as important for the children as it is for me."

LIVED IN CANADA

She says the duties of looking after the children, aged nine to 16, and keeping house are not only responsible for the preservation of her model-like figure.

Mrs. Taylor's husband, a neurosurgeon, died in Florida in 1954. She has spent the last 13 years living in Canada, the United States and Switzerland.

In 1956, when there were three children, the family emigrated to Canada and spent the next 18 months in Cobble Hill on Vancouver Island.

Later, they moved to Calgary, where Dr. Taylor set up practice and where three more children were born and a Canadian girl joined the family.

Five years later they bought a farm at Maple Bay, B.C., where they still live and where all are with the chores.

"It was the first time in my life that I made my own bread, did my own canning and cooked on a wood stove," says Mrs. Taylor.

"But it was a lot of fun and I had eight Angora rabbits all my own."

In 1953, they moved to Dayton Beach, Fla., where Dr. Taylor hoped to practice medicine once more.

After his Beath and Mrs. Taylor's accident, she was in irons for 2½ years. Her children went to live with her sister in Switzerland and Mrs. Taylor joined them after treatment enabled her to walk once more.

This January, Mrs. Taylor, a waistline debonaire and great-granddaughter of Isaac Singer of sewing - machine invention, came to Britain to visit old friends.

The visit lengthened into a permanent stay and Mrs. Taylor is hoping to build a career for herself.

Television and magazine work is in the offing. Mrs. Taylor says "there seems to be a shortage of young-mother-type models."

At the moment she wants to do photographic work rather than model clothes. She feels she hasn't quite enough confidence to face an audience yet and says: "my left leg is still rather weak."

But I feel more hopeful now, than I have in the past."

School Children Cannot Work To Full Capacity

WINNIPEG (CP)—School children should not be expected to work up to their full capacity, a psychoanalyst said here.

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim told a meeting of psychiatrists, social workers and other experts that the child who works up to his capacity all the time has no energy left for development in other areas.

"Only in rare and special moments and in areas we thoroughly enjoy does anyone work up to his capacity," he said. "We as psychologists have a duty to tell teachers that to expect this from children is nonsense.

"However, fortunately most children have a healthy resistance to this."

Dr. Bettelheim said that children as well as adults spend a certain percentage of energy in normal living, such as getting from one place to another on schedule, in relations with other people and coping with frustration.

"This only leaves a certain amount of energy to devote to work or study," he said. His "image" of mental health was to keep a reserve of energy "because you never know what sudden emergencies will occur."

"Education procedures should be geared, and to the needs of an assembly line, but to the needs of the human animal."

HOME METHOD

Stops Perspiration Stains—Stops Odor

DRAMATIC STEAM BATH TEST SHOWS HOW

ARRID with Perstop* rose naked into this woman's forehead. Then she was put into a steam-bath at 100°. Fifteen minutes later . . .

. . . she was dripping with perspiration—but ARRID kept her forehead dry. ARRID will do the same for your underarms, too.

ARRID with Perstop*, used daily, keeps your clothes safe from ugly perspiration stains, keeps your underarms dry, soft and sweet.

Proved Up Times as Effective

Laboratory tests have proved that ARRID with Perstop* is 5 times as effective as all leading deodorants against perspiration and odor.

Remember—nothing protects you like a cream. And no cream protects you like ARRID. Don't be fooled. It's completely safe. The Extra-Cream is so sure.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and how we work. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Julia E. — I want Bill to find out why this woman has it in for me.

Bill E. — Get mixed up in a hen brawl? Not me!

Julia E. — My husband tells me my problem is a silly one, and in a way I think he is right. Yet it bothers me and I want to find a solution.

We are friendly with a group of young married couples and we really enjoy our social activities with them. But there is one woman in the crowd who gets my goat. She seems out to hurt my feelings. She says nasty little snide things that get under my skin. I think about it for hours afterward.

Most of the women in our set are extremely nice and intelligent, but this woman is coarse and takes no interest in the things we all care about. I have tried to ignore her, but that hasn't stopped her. I have asked my husband to try to find out from her husband why she has it in for me. But Bill doesn't want to do it.

Bill E. — Just what I need — to get mixed up in a hen brawl! No thanks, that's not for me.

It seems to me that Julia is just too sensitive. None of the other women feel the way she does. They agree that this woman's manners aren't the best and that she tends to be a little catty, but they take her in stride because all of us like her husband, who happens to be the life of our parties.

The way I look at it, this woman must be a little jealous of Julia because my wife definitely has class. Everybody always says that she has so much which she could go places with if she were interested in that sort of thing. Most women look up to her and come to her for advice about what to wear and how to entertain. This woman has never done either.

The Council: Jealousy may be part of the picture here, but it is only one half — the half that concerns the other woman.

The other half of the picture has to do with Julia and her sensitive reaction to a woman she considers coarse and ignorant.

Apparently this woman is not too well-mannered but she is not stupid. She is clever at feeling out Julia's weak spots and hitting out at them. Julia would not feel hurt if she didn't feel there was a great degree of truth in what the woman has to say.

It appears that beneath her polish and know-how, Julia is a very insecure person. She has covered this with social graces that win her admiration, yet she gains no real self-confidence because she is afraid to reveal her real self and win or lose popularity on this basis alone. Julia fears that the woman she pretends to disdain has seen through her pretty facade and has seen ugliness and weakness.

It is most unlikely Julia is really as bad as she thinks. Like most deeply insecure persons, Julia's feeling of her own unworthiness has little to do with the facts. Instead of trying to live with her husband in this situation she would do far better to think over some of the nasty, catty remarks that get under her skin. Then she will understand what the woman is trying to say to her. If there is any justice in them she should try to remedy her faults. If there isn't Julia won't find it hard to reject the remarks after having squarely faced them.

Perfumes and toilet waters should be kept in a cool place, because heat and light tend to reduce their effectiveness.

TODAY'S PRONUNCIATION-TIP: PROGRAM

The word is program. It is spelled program. And it should be pronounced pro-gram, just as it is spelled. (Not program . . . as so many announcers of radio and television, as well as so many other people, incorrectly pronounce it.)

ELOPEMENT QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter has just told us that she and her fiance had eloped about a month ago and were married in a nearby city. Their engagement had been announced in our newspapers two months ago, but they said they wanted to avoid what they called "the fuss and fanfare" of a real wedding.

1. The couple would like the marriage announced as soon as possible. Would it be at all proper for me to suggest to me to send an announcement of the marriage to the newspapers?

2. Also, is it correct for us to send formal announcements of the marriage to the relatives and friends of both families (the lists we would have used for the invitations, if they had been sent)?

3. Our daughter's godmother is very dear and long-time friend of ours, and she and "the bride" have each other dearly. She would like to give a party in honor of the couple after an announcement has been made. Would this be correct?

4. What is customary about giving wedding presents after an elopement? — Mother

It follows that your daughter's engagement had been announced, it is correct for you and your husband to send the newspaper announcement, and as soon as you wish.

2. Yes, formal announcements are usually sent. And, remember, these announcements must give the place of the marriage (name of city or town, province), the date (true date) and the year.

3. Yes, your friend is most gracious for your daughter's godmother to give this party in honor of the couple.

4. The first thing to say, of course, is that the eloping couple should not expect wedding presents. However, relatives and friends may send presents if they wish to . . . and sons undoubtedly will wish to.

SHOULD A MAN RISE TO SHAKE HANDS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should a man always rise when he shakes hands with another man? — C. M.

Yes, this is not only correct but the natural thing for him to do, since it's not comfortable to shake hands from a sitting position.

Perfect Chocolate Layer Cake

by Mary Moore

Now is the season for popular and highly recommended cake — a proud beauty to look at and a creation with incomparable flavor.

Fair mind leaps to fresh cocoa-nut cake or a three-layer sponge with lemon filling. But my sister, Pearly made a cake for Pete last week that joggled my memory.

If you are a chocolate cake addict, this cake is exactly your dish and would be excellent with fresh strawberries and cream for a picnic on the coming holiday.

PEARLY'S PERFECT CHOCOLATE CAKE

With Chocolate Filling and Orange Frosting

One-third cup sugar, 1/3 cup cocoa, ½ cup boiling water, ½ cup shortening (or ¼ and ¼ butter and shortening) room temperature, 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each baking soda, salt, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 2 egg whites, 2 egg yolks, ¾ cup buttermilk or sour milk. Mix together sugar, cocoa and boiling water and cook together, stirring constantly, until smooth. Cool. Sift together sifted flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Sift again. Cream shortening until fluffy. Add vanilla. Gradually add sugar, mixing until creamy. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Set aside until needed. Beat egg yolks until light. Add to creamed shortening and sugar mixture. Beat together well. Add cooled cocoa syrup and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk or sour milk, starting and ending with dry ingredients. Fold in gently after each addition. Fold in beaten egg whites quickly, just enough to blend. Turn into buttered 8 x 8 x 2" cake tin, spreading batter evenly. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven. Allow to stand in tin 5 minutes. Turn out on wire cake rack to cool. Chill in refrigerator. When cold cut into 2 layers — top layer being only ½" thick. Cover thick bottom layer with Chocolate Cream Filling: Six tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, scalded, 2 square chocolate. Heat chocolate in milk over double boiler, then beat. Mix dry ingredients and add egg. Stir in hot chocolate-milk-mixture to make paste. Return to double boiler. Cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool.

Replace thin top layer and frost with Orange Frosting: One-quarter cup butter, 2 cups powdered sugar, shake of salt, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 egg yolk, 1½ teaspoons grated orange rind. Cream butter, add remaining ingredients in order given and beat until of spreading consistency. Spread on cake when drizzle over Bittersweet Chocolate Topping: Gently melt one-quarter bittersweet or bitter chocolate, stir in 1 teaspoon butter. When slightly cool slowly pour over cake.

SECOND - CLASS CITIZENS

OTTAWA (CP) — Grandparents, who used to act as baby-sitters and child rearing experts, have been relegated by the modern generation to the rank of second-class citizens, Professor Edgar Perretz told the Canadian Welfare Council's annual meeting.

Private Schools Favored by Retired Teacher

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ella Le Maitre, retired headmistress of Roedean School in Johannesburg, South Africa, said in an interview here that she favors private schools and is opposed to coeducation except at the university level.

All South African private schools have long waiting lists for boys, she said in Britain.

"People are sacrificing their capital to send their children to private schools despite the enormous expense to them," said Miss Le Maitre, who first joined the staff of the famous Roedean school in Brighton, England, in 1918.

In 1933 she went to Johannesburg to head a branch of the school opened there by the young and of eight sisters who founded the original Roedean.

"You have to have real genius in charge of co-education. Personally I've never attempted it past the kindergarten stage.

"It is very difficult to have boys and girls at school together during the emotional 'lees-ages.' They are thrown together enough during recreation time.

"Girls of school age work with more interest than boys and should be taught at a different pace. They are ready for coeducation at university level, however.

"Schools should concentrate more on academic progress. Social development should come at home and in the holidays under parental control."

Now that she is retired, Miss Le Maitre says she will pick up her favorite occupation — teaching. She will join a small education centre in Rhodesia to teach.

CORDOVA W.A.

MARMORA — Cordova Woman's Association of the United Church entertained members from Marmora and Zion congregations at their June meeting.

The Scripture reading was from Luke and the devotional topic was "The Greatest Word." The president, Mrs. C. Chard, welcomed the visitors and a program followed. Mrs. Lorne Bowen read, "The Master is Coming." "Lessons from a Camel" and a solo by Mrs. J. Glover, of Marmora. "The Past is Gone," was read by Mrs. Harapke, and "Ladies' Aid," by Mrs. Harry Bowen. Mrs. J. Dupont of Zion, also rendered a solo.

It was decided to hold a picnic of W.A. members and families in July, the date to be set later. The Rev. J. M. McLeod closed the meeting.

LADIES KNOW BEST

REGINA (CP) — In a letter to the Leader-Post, Mrs. Reuben Gustafson of Ceylon, Sask., suggested the women's church groups be consulted in the search for a provincial dish since the "ladies' aid and the woman's auxiliary of the churches have always served the best food the province offers."

Poor Dad forgot to look before leaping

...safe driving rules slipped from his mind!

He'd planned all year to make this trip
A happy one, without a slip.
Now kids were counted in the back,
Suitcases stuffed on the rack.

He'd checked the car, he had his dough.
"All set," he hollered. "Off we go!"
Down the drive, the car was backed—
Into a passing truck it smacked.

...The trip was ended on the spot
Safe driving habits Dad forgot!

Common Market on Minerals Between U.S. and Canada In Prospect After Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of Canadian and American legislators wound up a meeting here Saturday with a statement that could become a blueprint to alleviate certain perennial trade troubles between the two countries.

They seemed to suggest establishment of some form of North American common market for base metals and possibly oil and gas. A limited rather than complete common market for these minerals was envisioned.

The Canada-United States interparliamentary group, established early this year at the instigation of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, is primarily a forum for exchange of views on common problems. It is said likely to make first suggestions to governments, but broadened views are given effect when the 24 Canadian and 24 American members carry them to their respective legislatures.

Roland Michener, Commons speaker and co-chairman of the Canadian section, said the group "agreed to seek the removal of all unnecessary restrictions" on the marketing of such base metals as uranium, lead and zinc. Lead and zinc now are under import quota restrictions in the U.S., seriously affecting Canadian exports.

JOINT STATEMENT

The group's statement said:

"The problems with respect to the marketing of uranium, lead and zinc are particularly acute. It was thought that a way should be found to avoid and limit the harmful consequences of the current overabundance of certain metals and the problem of marketing these commodities should be considered on a continental basis and from a long-term point of view."

Senator George Aiken (Republican, Vermont), a co-chairman of the American section, commented: "It is obvious that when several countries produce surpluses of certain metals, they should reach an understanding on marketing."

However, his country was not likely to agree at this time to such common market. "An understanding" such as exists between the two countries on trade in oil and surplus wheat might be achieved.

TO MEET IN U.S.

The group, set up in Washington in January, will meet next in the states, possibly next spring. Senators present then discussed questions relating to continental defence, defence production, energy and boundary matters.

In the statement issued in "in the final of defence production it was recognized that there is a unique opportunity for cooperation in acquiring the best use of the resources of the two countries with the minimum duplication of effort. Special attention was given to the possibility of the United States a proper sharing of defence contracts in the common effort."

Both sides agreed the missile remains a threat to North America but there was "no question of acquiring the best use of the resources of the two countries with the minimum duplication of effort. Special attention was given to the possibility of the United States a proper sharing of defence contracts in the common effort."

Fifty Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weekend drownings vied with traffic deaths across Canada this weekend as the toll mounted Sunday night to at least 50.

Traffic deaths, which usually claim the highest proportion of the total, took at least 18 lives, equal the number of drownings reported in a Canadian Press survey.

The toll was at least 13 more than the 37 who died last weekend in the survey period from p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday.

Ontario led the provinces with 18 deaths, eight in traffic, five by drowning and five miscellaneous.

B.C. and Quebec had 13 deaths each and Manitoba, Alberta and Nova Scotia two each.

The previously-reported total (with traffic fatalities in brackets): Ontario 18 (8); Quebec 16 (5); British Columbia 13 (13); Manitoba 2 (1); Nova Scotia 2 (1); Alberta 2 (1).

Ontario deaths:

Israeli Govt. Split Over Sale Of Arms to Reich

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's coalition cabinet was to decide today whether to approve an arms deal with West Germany unanimously or accept the resignation of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion.

Ben-Gurion told leaders of his socialist labor party—the Mapai —he would resign if left - wing "opposition from within" his cabinet did not approve the sale of an estimated $50,000 grenade-throwers to West Germany.

A special cabinet meeting was called today to vote on the sale but it was expected opponents of dealing with Germany—the Achdut Avodah and Mapam parties —would not reverse themselves.

Th premier said he would try to form a new government without members of the two parties. Without them, his government would control only 50 of the 120 seats in parliament, or less than a majority.

Late Friday the cabinet approved, apparently by a split vote, the sale of the grenade-throwers to the Bonn government. Most of the machines are reported to have been delivered.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Marriv quoted Ben-Gurion as saying the sale was necessary for Israel's defence. But the report did not indicate whether Israel would receive arms in exchange or whether the currency realized would be used for arms purchases elsewhere.

Ben-Gurion said Egypt, leader of Arab opposition to Israel, soon will receive Soviet MiG-19 bombers to match Israel's bombers.

Opposition to the sale was generally based on the question of whether Israel should do business with Germany less than two decades after the Nazi extermination of millions of Jews.

Annual Service Of Thanksgiving Held in Theatre

STRATFORD (CP) — Hymns and prayers rang out from the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Theatre Sunday during the annual service of thanksgiving and re-dedication.

The seventh season of the festival opens tonight.

Sunday's speaker, Rev. Embry Davies of Toronto's Yorkminster Baptist Church, likened the theatre to a "holy place" to the communication of the church.

"Religion is the supreme manifestation of communication," he told his congregation which included many of those appearing in the festival.

Reviving Inflationary Forces Bringing Country to Critical Juncture Eisenhower Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's anti - inflation committee notified him Sunday that reviving inflationary forces have brought the country to a "critical juncture."

Prompt government action is required, it said.

This was the first report from the committee, headed by Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and made up largely of cabinet members.

Congress, it said, must take immediately three minimum steps to avert "the serious risk of price increases." The steps:

1. Achieving a budget balance.

2. Making price stability, by law, "an explicit goal of federal economic policy."

The report carried only one direct reference to the deadlocked steel wage negotiations. It protested as one of several industries whose settlements this year could bring "wage increases of such magnitude as to lead to price increases."

But it disclosed that the committee is studying-means of curbing "the excessive concentration of power in the hands of labor or business" which, it said, reduces productivity and creates inflationary pressure.

Official sources confirmed the report's implication that the Nixon committee will explore as proposals to use the federal anti-trust powers against monopolies in both labor and management, as well as the possible breaking down of wage bargaining into smaller units.

Father of Nine Held in Death Of His Wife

CANNING, Ont. (CP)—W. J. Ashby, father of nine, was charged Sunday night with manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting in their home Saturday of his wife, Kay, 35. A daughter, Beverley, 17, was shot in the left wrist.

Police, who detained Ashby for questioning shortly after the incident in this community 16 miles northeast of Woodstock, a U.S. warship rode at anchor, her crew ashore, off Le Wast shot through the heart.

Ashby was remanded in county jail until Tuesday.

TERRORISM REPORTED

DOUALA, French Cameroons (Reuters) — Police said Sunday night three Frenchmen and three African natives were slain in "terrorist" outbreaks here Saturday night. The Cameroons Peoples Union is fighting for independence and union with the British Cameroons.

Most Oddly-Assorted Fleet Since Dunkerque Sails With Royal Yacht up St. Lawrence

KINGSTON (CP) — The royal yacht Britannia set out for her trip past the St. Lawrence River's Thousand Islands Sunday at the head of probably the most odd-assorted group of water craft since Dunkerque.

Long before the yacht carrying the Queen and Prince Philip weighed anchor in Brockville at 10 a.m., hosts of every description began congregating, little outboard motorboats, sleek cabin cruisers, sailboats, speedy RCMP and U.S. Coast Guard craft and escort destroyers.

Many were decked in gay colors and those aboard were dressed in everything from sport shirts to bathing suits.

Then shortly before 10 a.m. the band aboard the Britannia struck up a march, barely heard above the din of engines being revved up.

Then as the yacht began to move out into the river, the small craft began a race to keep up with her. The variety of vessels in evidence was reminiscent of the days when they assembled in the Thames during the Second World War to sail for France to evacuate British troops in the path of the Germans

WARM WATERS

Coast guard and RCMP craft darted among the flotilla warning the little boats away from the wash of the larger vessels as the Canadian navy frigate Kootenay, Gatineau and Restigouche took their places behind the Britannia.

Many of the tiny boats rocked in the wash, surprisingly none capsized. After several miles the procession straightened out and the smaller craft were left far behind. The RCMP escort then moved in close to the royal board of the Britannia while the coast guard took up position to port.

Prince Philip appeared on the veranda deck of the royal yacht after it left Brockville. He was wearing an open-neck sport shirt and olive green sweater. The Britannia kept to the river's main channel, following the American shore.

As it passed the islands, other small craft waited with their decorations ready on the breeze. Union Jacks and the Stars and Stripes were in evidence as holiday-makers gave a welcome to the Royal Yacht.

There was a slight haze throughout the trip and the sun shone above.

Along the route small boats darted out to get a closer look at the Britannia. Then, about 1 p.m., a U.S. warship rode at anchor, her crew ashore, off Le Wast

At Kingston the fleet began to build up again and the waters again were filled with all sorts of craft as the Britannia approached the city visitors had boarded their barge for the trip ashore.

Drama Festival Opens Tonight at Stratford

STRATFORD (CP) — Irene Worth, American - born star of Britain's Old Vic Theatre, opens Stratford's seventh annual Shakespearean Festival tonight as Rosalind in the romantic comedy As You Like It.

For Miss Worth, whose Shakespearean performances have drawn critical raves on this continent and in Britain, it will be a return engagement. She also starred with Alec Guiness at Oulig 13, 1953, at Stratford's first festival opening.

Tonight she plays opposite fellow Californian William Sylvester who has the role of Orlando in his first appearance in a Shakespearean role after a career in British stage and television.

Tuesday night, Scotland's Douglas Campbell as Claudius and Frances Hyland, both Stratford veterans, open in Othello, hailed as the festival's "first big tragedy since Hamlet" in 1957.

COMMUNITY PERFORMANCE

Miss Worth and Mr. Sylvester return to the stage Thursday night for a command performance before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip on their first visit to the Stratford festival.

The two plays will alternate throughout the season, ending Sept. 19 under the artistic direction of Michael Langham.

Tonight's performance will be under the direction of Peter Wood, brilliant 30-year-old British director who says he's enthralled by Stratford's open stage which is his first Canadian production. Tuesday night's tragedy is directed by Canadian George McCowan and John Gascon.

The festival also has many other attractions:

TO STAGE ORPHEUS

Feature of the music at the festival which includes chamber music concerts and folk singers, is Jacques Offenbach's Orpheus in the Underworld. Starring in the comic opera which opens July 10 are Martial Singher, Irene Jordan and John McCollum.

A new Canadian musical revue After Hours with Jack Creley and Charmion King will be seen August 4 with The Heart Is Highland which features Lennox Milne in all 13 roles.

The annual international film festival opens Aug. 24 and will present Canadian premieres of fine films from many countries.

Also on view are an exhibit of Elizabethan arts and crafts and an exhibition exhibit of Canadian paintings and a display of books and theatrical art.

NORWAY MAGNESIUM

Norway's largest electro-chemical plant will increase its magnesium production to 13,500 tons annually by 1960.

Soviet Union Expects Exhibit To Win Friends, Little Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a travelling salesman entering a new town, the Soviet Union has come to the United States with a soft sales pitch designed to win friends and perhaps drum up a little trade.

Hoping for the best, but not really sure of what to expect, the Russians next week open the Soviet Exhibition of Science, Technology and Culture in the New York Coliseum. The show is aimed at telling Americans something about Soviet life. It is the Russian balancing half of a mutual exchange agreement in which the United States puts on a similar show — the American National Exhibition — in Moscow, beginning July 25.

Alexei N. Manshulo, the stocky, 49-year-old director general of the exhibition, readily admits the Soviets aren't absolutely what it would cost them to stage the June 29-Aug. 10 exhibition. They had figured on about $10,000,000.

"But when I became acquainted with your prices," Manshulo says, "I saw the cost would be maybe $2,000,000 more."

What reception do they expect?

Manzhulo tosses up his hands. He says he has no idea of how many people would be willing to spend the admission price of $1 for adults or 50 cents for children.

Soviet spokesmen feel confident that the show will make a hit. In setting up the exhibition, they have generally avoided showing anything in such a way that it could be obviously compared with something American.

They fully expect their space exhibition—built by Sputnik—to draw most oohs and aahs from its visitors.

There'll little about the show that is peculiarly Communist. The stirrings machines, televisors, foto apparats, Sputniks and even machines are Communist only in source.

Visitors will quickly recognize them as washing machines, tvs, cameras, satellites and automobiles.

The Soviets figure that the 10,000 items in their display will contain a few surprises—particularly a new underwater TV camera, and a new surgical "regional machine" which sutures nerves and blood vessels.

The exhibits will contain 12 major divisions: Industry and agriculture; science and technology; radio and electronics; automation; peace; space; transport; education; health; sports; construction; the arts and social welfare.

On June 20, a plaque erected by the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board, which functions under Ontario's Department of Travel and Publicity, was unveiled at Adolphustown to commemorate the United Empire Loyalist Landing Place of 1784. Those taking part in the ceremony are pictured below, left to right: Dr. John Carroll, first vice-chairman of the Ontario - St. Lawrence Development Commission; Hon. George H. Challes, chairman of the commission; His Worship Harvey J. McFarland, mayor of Picton; Miss Kaye McFarland, president of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the UEL Association; Mr. John D. Van Alstine, a great-great-great-grandson of Major Peter Van Alstine; Prof. T. F. McIlwraith, a member of the Historic Sites Board; Mr. Norris Whitney, MPP (Prince Edward-Lennox); Judge Gerald F. Smith, president of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, and the Rev. E. C. Brown, who dedicated the plaque.

Nature Gets Revealing New Type of Health Checkup

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Nature starting to get a revealing new type of total health checkup.

It's aimed at learning how links in the life cycle can go wrong to give Nature the equivalent of skin or glands or an ailing liver.

And also how to get rid of radioactive poisons of the atomic age without injuring natural life.

This checkup is called ecology—the science of the interrelations between living things and their environment—as practised by such scientists as Dr. Eugene P. Odum, professor of zoology at the University of Georgia.

The first step is learning what happens naturally.

Radioactive poisons could spread in dangerously unexpected ways unless nature contains infinitesimal amount of phosphorus per gram of water, for example. Then eggs of birds which drink this water contain two million times as much phosphorus per gram as does the water. The chemical becomes concentrated in the eggs.

Dr. Odum and associates are finding ways to get rid of radioactive wastes set free near the Savannah River plant of the Atomic Energy Commission. How might they affect animal, human, plant, insect and bacterial life?

One finding so far is that channel catfish regularly migrate 60 miles or more from small streams to the Savannah River and back again. This means they could carry radioactive atoms to areas where catfish are caught and eaten as food.

In another technique, a square yard of grassland is sprayed with radioactive atoms and kept covered. Leaves absorb the radioactive chemical. Or it can be injected directly into the plant stems. Either way, the path of the atoms can be traced.

Radioactive phosphorus spreads rapidly through the plants. In a few days, insects feeding on the leaves become a big radioactive too. The scientists thus can trace Nature's food chain, learning where radioactive atoms ultimately go, and whether they might harm some link in the chain.

Swedish Champ Is the Boss In Own Camp

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's brilliant conquest of the world heavyweight championship has brought a refreshing change to boxing.

For the first time in years, the heavyweight champion is a man who calls his own shots, knows his own mind, makes decisions and won't tolerate diction.

Former champ Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson are fine, intelligent individuals but they were gripped in Svengali-Trilby relationships by their managers, Al Weill and Cus D'Amato. Rocky broke with his portly manager but always praised his wily tactics. Patterson has expressed gratitude to D'Amato.

Johansson relies heavily on the opinions of Edwin Ahlquist, Swedish promoter, and Dr. Gosta Karlsson, his personal physician. But Ingo has the final word.

Ahlquist, listed as Johansson's adviser, promoted the husky fighter's 18 bouts in Sweden.

But it was Ingemar who had the final word on the big decisions. When he decided Gunna was ripe to travel to the United States to fight Patterson, he made the trip.

Venturi Wins Chicago Open, Potts Second

CHICAGO (AP)—Ken Venturi made one of the oddest parlays in golf pay off for victory in the $27,000 Chicago Open.

He credited his garden in Daly City, Calif., a suburb of San Francisco, and the wind at Glenview Country Club with helping bring him the $6,000 first award Sunday.

In repeating for the tournament's crown, Venturi drilled shots through the gusty wind for a closing 66 and a seven-under-par 273. He made up five shots on Johnny Pott of Shreveport, the leader through the first three rounds, who closed with a 72 and 274 for runnery swag of 4,000.

"I had 25 putts on the last round in beating out Pott," said the 28-year - old erstwhile auto salesman. "It was the greatest putting day I've ever had.

Third place and $3,000 went to Gene Littler who closed with a 68 for 276. Bo Wininger was fourth at 277. Jim Ferree, Don Whitt and Sam Snead were next at 279.

SHOOTS AN ACE

GUELPH (CP) — Red Heron, former National Hockey League player, shot a hole in one Sunday on the par - three 130-yard 11th hole at the Cutton Fields Golf Club. It was his second. Witnesses were Red Sullivan of New York Rangers and Bill Sweeney of the American Hockey League's Buffalo Bisons.

Sinks Two Holes-In-One, One on Fly

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Boyce Parsons made two holes - in - one in the same round of golf Saturday. His three playing partners swear to it.

Parsons, 45, swung his No. 6 iron for a hole in one on the 148-yard, No. 3 hole at the National Cash Register course here. He then put the lucky ball aside because it was his first ace in 18 years of amateur play and began using another ball.

When he reached the 170-yard 12th, Parsons used his No. 6 iron again. But unlike the previous hole in one, when the ball landed five feet from the pin, took a bounce and rolled in, this time it went weakened by an ace of the fly.

Head Whips Gonzales in Tennis Final

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Lew Hoad of Australia defeated Pancho Gonzales 6-1, 7-5, 6-3, Sunday in the singles final of Jack Kramer's $15,000 pro tennis tournament of champions.

Hoad took a 21-20 lead over the American pro champion in their 1959 matches.

Gonzales, weakened by an attack of heat prostration during his semi-final victory Saturday over Tony Trabert, double faulted three consecutive times in the final game.

Gonzales, who had won the two previous pro tournaments at Los Angeles and Toronto, couldn't cope with Hoad's precision power except for a brief rally in the second set.

In the third-place consolation, Ken Rosewall of Australia rallied to defeat Trabert 6-8, 6-2, 7-3.

Weslock Captures His Third Ontario Open Golf Crown

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Veteran amateur Nick Weslock won his third Ontario Open golf title here Saturday.

The 49-year-old Windsor Essex golfer shaved five strokes off par for a 288 on the St. Catharines Golf Club course, as other leaders faded in the final round of the 54-hole tournament.

He was pressed by four-time Open winner Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Bill Mawhinney of Burlington and Irv Lightstone of Toronto, tied three rounds at steady golf paid off. His win of the 37th Ontario Open earned him the Dow Trophy and a place on the 1959 four - member Ontario Willingdon Cup team.

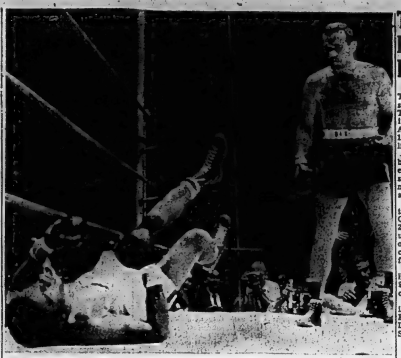
MISSED PAR ONCE

Weslock won the Open in 1946 and 1948. Saturday he shot two rounds of 69 on the par 71 course, missing par on only one hole.

Top professional money of $1,250 in the $5,000 tournament went to American professional Bob Hill of Webster, N.Y., who finished with 210, Six other Americans finished in the prize money for a total of $537.

Twenty-year-old Gary Cowan of the Kitchener Rockway Club, a member of last year's Willingdon Cup team, was low qualifier Friday with a four-under-par 67 but slipped off the pace Saturday.

Kesselring, also from Kitchener, had 68 Friday, and also slipped Saturday going one over par for each round. Kesselring collected second money of $800 with a 212.



Defending champion Moe Norman of Toronto shot a 64 in his practice round Thursday, but his best score in the tournament was a par 71. His 54-hole total of 215 was good only for eighth money of $175.

Professional Bill Mawhinney of Burlington was one stroke off the second-round lead with a 140 but faded to a 73 in the last 18 holes. His 213 was good for $400 in a three-way tie for third.

Sharing third place with Mawhinney were Irv Lightstone of Toronto Maple Downs and John Hendrick of the London Highland Club, Canadian amateur champion Bruce Carlaw of Toronto Weston marred his chances in his second round Saturday when he blew from his qualifying 71 to a 75.

DICKSON WINS RACE

WINDSOR (CP) — Gord Dickson, 37, won a nine-mile road race from Windsor's city hall to Detroit's city - county building, held as part of opening day celebrations in the first annual Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival. His time was 46 minutes and 25.4 seconds.

PATTERSON LOSES TITLE — Here's Floyd Patterson on the canvas after taking knockout blow from Ingemar Johansson in third round of their title bout here Friday night. Patterson was knocked down six times in the round before finally taking full count. Fight pictures will be shown at the Park Theatre Wednesday through Saturday.

Thomson, Player Favored for British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (CP) — The British Open golf championship starts today with Peter Thomson and Gary Player favorites and the poorest field of Americans in years rated 100 to 1 or even longer in the betting lists.

The American contingent numbers about 19 and outside of veteran Willie Goggin, the world's senior champion, it is made up mostly of servicemen who are amateurs.

Thomson, 29-year - old Australian who has won the British Open four times, and Player, 23-year-old South African, passed up chances of winning big money on the North American tour to compete over here on Muirfield's famous links.

First prize of the British open is only £1,000 ($2,800), but the 39-year - old British title still carries plenty of prestige.

Defending champion Thomson is 4 to 1 in the betting and Player 5 to 1. Then comes Bobby Locke, the four-time winner from South Africa, at 7 to 1.

FONTINATO WEDS

GUELPH (CP) — Louis Fontinato, defenceman of the National Hockey League New York Rangers, was married here Sunday to Marie Chancey of Windsor.

Harness Racing

HULL, Que. (CP)—T. E. M., owned by T. D. F. Stables of Pembroke, upset the odds-on favorite Saturday night to win the featured $4,000 Madawaska Mile at Connaught Park.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

After a weekend of quiet soliloquy and recovering from a scarlet countenance, the result of a pre-fight prediction, a few questions regarding the Patterson-Johansson fight remain unanswered.

(1) Was the triumph of Swedish right over alleged American might the climax of carefully well-laid Scandinavian plans?

(2) Will Eddie Machen now admit the right to the jaw that flattened him in the first round with Johansson, was not a "lucky punch"?

(3) Have American wrot prices come down since the Yankee batting experts, managers, sportswriters, etc., unloaded the crop that flourished over their eyes, planted there by Swedish interests?

(4) Does the sun-tanned D'Amato, withered on his own vine by the sudden-ness and ferocity of the Johansson attack, actually believe his own radio statement that "Patterson will be de field world champion to regain his title."

(5) Is the remark of canny Jack Kearns who quotes Montreal promoter Eddie Quinn to the effect he will stage a bout between the Moore-Durelle fight winner and Johansson with a million-dollar guarantee to the new heavyweight champion, merely a publicity build-up for the light-heavyweight brawl, or are his marbles slowly disappearing?

(6) Have a look deep it take to construct a beaten heavyweight champion, knocked down seven times in five minutes, that his conqueror is not the better man?

(7) Is it true the New York local of the Elevator Operators' Union has made Patterson an honorary member on account of his being able to re up and down so fast?

(8) Is that American bigshot boxing "expert" who sneered at European fighters and their methods of training, now convinced that a diet of golf, tea and crumpets and a pretty gal at the ringside, will not affect a real champion?

(9) Was that bigshot plan outside the residence of Harry Robinson, the shattered remnants of his favorite carnival ball which forecast a Patterson victory via the decision route?

(10) And who sent that "head-shrinking expert" to this department's residence Sunday morning, claiming he was commissioned to give a series of treatments after we called Patterson by a knockout in the ninth round?

(11) Is it true that the alleged footache epidemic in the Johannson camp was a phony and two minutes after the fight they removed their bearnes from their cheeks?

(12) Is it also true that the Johannson entourage kept the "mystery" of the Swedish right so carefully guarded, because several ladies were members?

(13) And was Ingo's whispered word of cheer to his fiance prior to the fight that "everything was going to be all right" a pun, or a statement of fact?

(14) Isn't it about time the belittlers of Floyd Patterson stopped asking "Who did that guy over fight?"

(15) Did the Swedish sportswriters and others over there who picked Patterson to win, actually believe that, or were they in the know and went along with the Johannson plans?

(16) Will Murray Rose, the United Press boxing writer-expert, quit playing the ponies now after he went all out to predict Patterson would win by a knockout in the first round of an "explosive bloody battle"?

(17) Will Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Jersey Joe Walcott and Jim Braddock go back to their wrestling referee jobs, and their reputations as boxing critics and fight-predictors have been knocked into a cocked hat?

(18) And will Gene Tunney be elected the president of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Ex-Champion Prognosticators because he was the lone member to pick Johannson to win?

Beat Bombers Twice Sunday As Indians Ditto Red Sox; 'Bums' Riding 7-Game String

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sweden's Ingemar Johansson won the world heavyweight boxing title by unleashing a murderous right hand.

Los Angeles' Dodgers are hoping to win the National League baseball championship with left hands—three of them—belonging to southpaw pitchers Johnny Podres, Sandy Koufax and Danny McDevitt.

Thanks to these three, the Dodgers today are in second place, only a game behind the league - leading Milwaukee Braves, and riding on a seven-game winning streak. The trio has won five of the seven games, including the last three.

TAKE TURNS

Sunday, it was McDevitt's turn as the Dodgers thumped the Pittsburgh Pirates for the third straight day. Saturday, Podres notched his 1-lead with a 2-1 squeaker over Chicago. Friday, Koufax of San Francisco whipped Philadelphia 6-0 and St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati Reds 9-7 and 11-6.

Milwaukee slumbered a 7-1 tromndog from the Cubs Saturday and the Giants lost 7-4 to the Phillies.

Erale Broglio had Saturday's top pitching performance, a two-hitter for St. Louis as the Cardinals shut out Cincinnati 5-0. The Dodgers blanked the Pirates 2-0.

Sunday the Dodgers inflicted the 10th defeat upon three-time winner Bob Friend, pounding out 11 hits, including home runs by Gil Hodges, Don Demeter and Charlie Neal. McDevitt got his fourth straight victory and seventh of the season although he needed help from Don Drysdale in the ninth.

MATHEWS HITS 33rd

Eddie Mathews' 33rd home run and Ted Cardwell's scoring single after first baseman Dale Long had dropped the foul popup were enough for Juan Pizarro to get his first triumph only five days after Milwaukee recalled him from Louisville. He permitted five hits and fanned seven batters.

Johnny Logan, Braves' shortstop, was lost to the team for 10 days when he was spiked on the right ankle, requiring 20 stitches.

The Giants' Johnny Antonelli allowed seven hits and struck out six Sunday for his 11th win. Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda drove in two runs each while Jackie Brandt homered. Richie Ashburn, 1958 batting champion, hit into double plays in his first, fifth and seventh innings.

10 PITCHERS

A total of 18 pitchers were batted in 18 runs and 35 hits in the Cards' sweep of Cincinnati. Six home runs were hit, four by the Reds, Cincinnati's Pete Whisenant hit two, both in the first game, when the Reds nearly overcame an 8-3 deficit.

St. Louis' hurlers built up a 9-0 cushion for Dick Ricketts but the rookie righthander was knocked out in the seventh when Cincinnati tallied eight times.

Jerry Lynch got five hits in the two games for the Reds and Don Blasingame, Joe Cunningham and Dick Gray got four hits each for the Redbirds. The Reds lost catcher Ed Bailey for a week or so with a split finger.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting — Sherman Lollar, Milwaukee Braves, clubbed two homers in Chicago's double victory over the Yankees. His first - game homer paved the way for a 9-2 victory. His second-game homer spoiled Don Lee's 6-2 triumph.

Pitching—Herb Score, Indians, hurled a two-hitter, fanned seven and won his eighth game when Jim Bunns homered in the seventh for the Cleveland 1-0 triumph over Boston after the Indians won the opener 2-4.

What a difference a day makes —especially if the day is Sunday. Ask Chicago White Sox who have won 23 out of 27 on this first day of the week and are only one game behind the American League - leading Cleveland Indians. Without Sunday, they'd be in sixth place with a .500 percentage.

And the New York Yankees who have won only seven out of 21 on Sunday and so are fifth, four games off the pace. Without Sunday, they'd be in first place with a .580 percentage.

And so the White Sox inflicted a double defeat on the Yankees, 9-2 and 4-3 to capture the series, three games to one.

But Chicago failed to pick up ground on the Indians who swept a split from Boston 6-4 and 1-0. Detroit bypassed the Yankees to fourth place with a 7-3 triumph over Baltimore. Washington rose to sixth with a 7-3 victory over Kansas City. Athletics, Cleveland badly needed the Sunday win after being cut down 13-3 Saturday by the Red Sox. Williams' two-run homer was the difference.

The Yankees fell 5-4 to Chicago. Harry (Suitcase) Simpson rapped a game-winning homer with the bags full. Detroit murdered Baltimore 12-2 and Kansas City edged Washington 3-4 in 10 innings. Ken Hadley singled in Gene Stephens with the deciding run.

Early Wynn and Dick Donovan pitched the Chicago victories. Wynn went the distance, spacing nine hits in the opener for his 14th victory of the season and the 280th of his career. The Sox had had a four - homer barrage against Whitey Ford and Jim Coates.

Sherm Lollar also hit a homer in the second game and a three-run first-inning blast off loser Don Larsen that was sufficient for Donovan's fifth victory although he needed help from Turk Lown in the ninth.

It was the Yankees' fifth double defeat on Sundays and the third in a row. They have won one Sunday doubleheader and split three.

Charlie Maxwell of Detroit connected for his 19th home run with a man on base in the third inning—the ninth time he has homered in Sunday games.

Don Mossi pitched a six-hitter for his sixth victory. The loser was charged to Milt Pappas, dropped the third-place Orioles 2½ games off the pace.

Brilliant pitching by rookie Jerry Walker and Yankees Bobby Richardson and Tito Francona and Jim Razes featured Indians doubleheader victory.

Francona singled-shown Woody Held with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the opener. Walker, who relieved starter Gary Bell, was credited with the win.

Richardson Killebrew and Jim Lemon batted in three runs apiece for Washington as Russ Kemmerer went all the way for the Senators' victory. Howard Reed, making his first start for the Athletics, was the loser. Killebrew had a double and single.

Britain's Christine Beaten, Olmedo Favored for Crown

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (CP)—The 73rd Wimbledon tennis championships go into their climactic second week today with Alex Olmedo, Neale Fraser and Lulu Hoad still in the men's field and Angela Mortimer and Maria Bueno, the women.

After the first week of play six men and six women seeds survived the early rounds with quarter-finals today and Tuesday. Top - seeded Olmedo of Peru holds the fancy of the fans after playing with style and confidence. Ayala, a Chilean, leads his mein threat. The two South American stars meet in the centre court today.

LONE AMERICAN

In other quarter-finals Fraser, the No. 2 seed from Australia, takes on fifth-seeded Rory Mc-Donald of Wales. Fraser and Hoad, who has the only American hope to reach the last eighth: Jean-Claude Molinari of France plays Ted Lever of Australia and Roy Emerson, another Aussie, clashes with Bobby Wilson of Britain.

The winner of the Mackay-Fraser match will meet Molinari of Lever in Wednesday's semi-finals, Olmedo or Ayala will play the winner of the Emerson-Wilson match.

In the women's division, Miss Mortimer, second-seeded British girl and last year's losing finalist, dropped only three games in getting to the quarter-finals. She will meet South Africa's Sandra Reynolds in Tuesday's other match. Miss Bueno of Brazil takes on Edda Buding, the Romanian-born attractive Argentine girl. Darlene Hard meets Ann Haydon of Britain and Lesley Turner, another American, meets Vola Ramirez of Mexico.

TOP SEEDS OUT

Miss Ramirez, unnervingly drubbed Christine Truman 6-3, 6-2 Saturday. The tall English girl could only watch helplessly as the barrage of shots went past her. "Everything was the main trouble," Christine said later.

Miss Truman had been favored to win the title held for 21 years by the United States. Gone too was Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz. No. 3 and top American hope.

And gone from the doubles were third-seeded Olmedo and Mackay, ousted in the South Africans, Gordon Forbe and Abel Segal, 8-6, 10-8, 2-6, 1-6, 6-1.

Gardnar Mulloy, the 43-year-old American-in-Paris, was out paced by Frenchman Molinari 5-7, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2. Fraser won a three - hour duel from Orlando Sirola, Italian giant, 3-6, 7-5, 16-12, 8-10, 7-5.

Miss Buding defeated Mrs. Fleitz 8-6, 2-6, 7-5.

Olmedo made short work of bearded Torben Ulrich of Denmark 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Mackay won from Billy Knight of Britain 6-2, 8-6, 10-8.

Swede Built Screen of Jabs

NEW YORK (AP) — Movies on Friday night's Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson fight show the new champion from Sweden threw up a screen of 86 left jabs in the first round and 107 in the second to set up Patterson on the right hand.

Slow-motion films of all seven knockdowns show the heavy head punishment Patterson absorbed.

Irving Kahn, president of closed circuit TV company which made the fight films, said 1,200 prints are being made. Patterson gets 40 per cent of the film revenue and Johansson 20 per cent. Kahn estimated the movies might produce $800,000.

Largest Field Since 1933 Entered for Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP)—Starter Bam Hall and his assistants will have a job almost as important as the jockeys Tuesday, for the centennial running of the $30,000 added Queen's Plate classic for Canada-foaled three-year-olds.

They have the task of getting away the 20-horse field, second largest in the history of the race, before the eyes of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Also watching will be a crowd anticipated by Jockey Club officials at near 40,000.

Final nominations for the 1¼ mile race, richest ever in Canadian racing, passed through the entry box Saturday, each accompanied by a $500 final payment.

LARGEST SINCE 1933

It is the largest field since the 1933 plate, won by King O'Connor. Starter Marshall Cassidy suffered through a 23-minute delay before he dispatched a record sextet of 22 colts that year. A horse called Que Tol broke his bridle, causing the delay.

The 112,000,000 suburban New Woodbine course can handle 20 starters with two 14-stall starting gates, but Hall likely will use one 14-stall gate with a small field holding six horses.

A poor start could almost ensure defeat, while the large field also places a lot of importance on the post position draw.

The favorite, 2 to 1 Winning Shot owned by John R. Evans, retired Toronto building contractor, added to his pre-race chances by getting the much-liked No. 7 post position. The bright red chestnut won his pink trial division last Wednesday by two lengths and in the sparkling time of 1:43 4-5, only four-fifths of a second off the track record and two-fifths faster than the winners of the other two divisions.

OTHERS UNLUCKY

Other contenders didn't fare so well. Prize trial winner Major Flight (3½-1), owned by Conn Smythe of Toronto, drew No. 10 position. Boo Georges (3-1) got No. 14. The other trial winner and owned by Mrs. R. S. Chris of Toronto, got No. 12.

Two fillies are entered—Miss Winwood, trained by Mel - Gen. Churchill Mann of King, Ont., and Flying Grey from Toronto's Don Ross stable. They get a five-pound sex allowance—121 pounds to 126 for the colts.

It will be only the second time in the history of the race that a reigning monarch has viewed a running of the Plate. In 1939, the Queen's parents watched Archworth triumph.

RECORD $51,625

In all horses start, the winning owner will receive a record $51,625 and will receive personally from the Queen gold coins, equivalent in value to 50 guineas, and a $2,000 gold cup. A guinea equals 21 shillings or about $2.94 in Canadian funds.

The list of jockeys shows only a few big names, Avilino Gomez will ride Winning Shot, Pat Remillard, at 53 one of the oldest active jockeys in North America, will be on Miss Whitell. He rode Pauilla, one of the few fillies to win the Plate, to victory in the 1943 classic.

TOPS BLIND GOLFERS

GUELPH (CP)—Claude Pattemore of Hamilton won the Ontario "blind golfers" championship Sunday with a 107 over 18 holes at Cutten Fields Golf Club here. The Canadian blind championship last year shot 53-54 with just 44 putts.

Nick Genovese of Dundas, last year's Ontario titleholder, and Harold Mitchell of Hamilton, a former Canadian champ, tied for second with 115.

Homer Le Blonde of Brantford won a prize for the lowest number of putts on the round with 37.

Leafs Nearly Out of Cellar, Royals Win

Assisted by Free Hall Pitcher

Joe Taylor isn't wasting any time convincing Buffalo Bisons that they made a mistake in letting him from Charleston of the American Association last Friday.

He slugged four hits, including a home run, drove in three runs and scored three Sunday as the Bisons won two from Havana Cubans, 13-9 and 5-3. The double victory gave the Bisons a fifth-game lead over second - place Rochester, who lost a double-header to Miami, 8-3 and 2-1.

Toronto inched to within four percentage points of vacating the International League cellar with a 5-3, 13 - inning victory over Richmond. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader went to four innings with Richmond ahead 8-0 when Toronto's Sunday curfew called a halt. The game will be completed from the start later in the season.

Montreal swept Columbus 2-1 and 8-2 in the other IL action.

LEAFS LOSE SATURDAY

Saturday, Columbus downed Toronto 2-0, Richmond edged Montreal 7-6 in 11 innings, Rochester won 4-3 over Havana in another game and Buffalo crushed Miami 12-3.

Taylor had a .286 batting average with the Charleston Senators, seven home runs and 41 runs batted in. His Sunday were consecutive, with the homer added to a pair of hits by Jack Phillips at Bob Morgan in the first game. Phillips drove in five runs and scored three.

Ken Lehman (3-3), last of three Buffalo pitchers, got the first-game victory over Don Rudolph (1-3). Bob Conley (1-3) won the second game and Dick Cooker's homer highlighted a five-run first inning that sank Vince Amor (3-6).

Rochester had Jim Archer (6-4) on the mound for two runs in the first inning of the opener but the stylish lefty found his stuff and retired the rest of the way to beat Bob Miller (3-5). The Marlins tied the game in the fourth and added a pair in the fifth to go ahead for keeps.

Bert Hamric and Foster Castleman hit solo homers off Howie Nunn (2-2) in the nightcap to give Harry Byrd his fifth victhory in 11 decisions.

Archie Wilson's single with two on and two out in the 13th brought Toronto its victory. It was his first hit in six tries. Toronto was behind at the time, when it used pinch hitter Joe Amalfitano's double and two singles to tie 5-5. Pat Scantlebury (5-11) won and Bob Wetzler (7-7) was the loser.

Mike Goliat and Clyde Parris drove in the runs in the first game. Tom Hall and Bill Harris evened his record at 6-6. Lynn Lovenguth, 7-3, was the loser.

Miami threw away the nightcap with four errors in the fourth inning, three for four straight. Montreal runs. Dave Jiminez lost his first decision for the Jets and Ed Hakow (7-6) won.

Hoyt Wilhelm, Lew Burdette All-Star Starting Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoyt Wilhelm, Baltimore's amazing knuckleballer and Lew Burdette, Milwaukee man of many deliveries, loomed today as the probable starting pitchers in the 30th major league all-star game, in Pittsburgh, Tuesday, July 7.

The pitchers, as well as the alternates, will be named by last year's personal winning managers later in the week. Each team will have 25 players and these players picked for the July games also will play in the second all-star game in Los Angeles, Aug. 3.

The two managers — Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Fred Haney of the Braves —are authorized to name three more players for the second game.

PLAYERS CHOICES

The managers had nothing to do with the selection of the eight starters, not including pitchers. The players themselves picked the starters.

The only unanimous selection was Milwaukee's Henry Aaron, who joined San Francisco's Willie Mays and Los Angeles' Wally Moon as outfield starters in the outfield. Two other Braves—catcher Del Crandall and third baseman Eddie Mathews—made the National League team, along with first baseman Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, second baseman Johnny Temple of the Cincinnati Reds and shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs.

Cleveland and Chicago had two representatives each in the American League lineup. Rocky Colavito and Minnie Minoso of Cleveland and Sherman Lollar and Jim Rivera of the White Sox. Lollar is the keystone combination with Billy Herman of the Cubs second baseman Nellie Fox of the Sox at the keystone combination with first baseman Gil Hodges at third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee at third baseman Killebrew of Washington at third.

BEATS OUT BERRA

Gus Triandos, Baltimore's slugging receiver, beat out Sherman Lollar and Yogi Berra, for the No. 1 catching job.

Welker Stengel nor Haney have given any indication as to which pitchers they will choose to start on their 1959 records, the following may be chosen:

American League — right-handers Burdette of the Braves; Don Drysdale, Braves; Sandy Koufax, Pirates and Don Newcombe, Reds. Left-handers Jerry Antonelli, Giants; Warren Spahn, Braves; Johnny Podres, Dodgers and Milner Mizell, Cardinals.

Toronto Boy Stars in Track, Field

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — It's not often that Canadians have something to shout about in track and field, but if young Bruce Kidd keeps developing they may have plenty to get excited about.

A chunky 15-year-old Toronto high school boy, Kidd turned in a sensational 14:34.4 for the three miles here Saturday, a clocking which record books show to be the fastest ever turned in for this distance by a lad of under 17 anywhere in the world.

His brilliant run was the high point of the Ontario senior men's and women's track and field championships in which three provincial records were broken and a Canadian mark equalled in broiling 90° degree temperatures.

EAST YORK DOMINATES

The meet was dominated by Toronto's East York Track Club which Kidd is a member.

While no junior (under 19) or sub-junior (under 17) world records were broken, Kidd's time was much better than the previous world's best for sub-17 lads of 14:38.2 set by Rowland of Great Britain at Luton, England in 1957.

East York topped the men's division with 97 points, 21 more than the second-place Gladstone A.C., of Toronto. East York also collected the women's title with 39 points with the Toronto Olympic Club second with 34.

YIES OWN RECORD

University of Western Ontario student George Shepherd, of Port Colborne, equalled his own Canadian 440-yard hurdle mark of 53.3 seconds set during a meet in Toronto. The former classic star's 57.8 set last year by Shepherd who represented Canada in the 1958 British Empire games. Shepherd, incidentally will Hamilton Olympic, also won the 440 yards in 49.2.

Another Hamilton Olympic performer, Sandy Kuhlmann, set a new Ontario high jump of 6' ft., 3¼ in. Bill Sirwka of the Sudbury Sampo Athletic Club won the men's discus event with a toss of 128 feet, 7½ inches. George Siulac of Toronto West End Y was second with a 126 effort. Matt Lipka third.

The Sudbury athlete placed third in the shot put which was won by Jim Griffin of East Elgin A.C. Wood with a distance of 44 feet, seven inches. Bill Mitchell of the University of Western Ontario was second in the event.

TIRES CAN MEAN TROUBLE

The only proper WAY to inspect tires is to have them removed from the wheels and examined inside and out by a tire expert. A quick alternative is to place the car on a hoist . . . or look over the tires carefully with the car on the ground. Bulges and cracked or broken sidewalls are serious signs. Recaps—which wear well with low-speed driving—can be detected by a mold line where the tread joins the sidewall. Thumping while driving usually indicates a boot in one of the tires.

It pays to be particular about the car you buy—and where you buy it! At KEN FINDER LTD., 949 Front St., customer satisfaction is the first consideration . . . regardless of the amount of the sale. Squeeze Play Scores Winning Run In Juniors' 9-8 Victory Over Read ◆ Belleville Juniors exploded for five runs in the top of the sixth frame to overcome an 8-4 deficit and defeat Read 9-8 in a South Hastings baseball league fixture at Read Sunday. The game was postponed from Saturday night.

Read scored in the first, second, third and fifth frames to take what looked like a commanding lead. The Juniors meanwhile had plated three in the first and one in the third to trail 8-4 entering the sixth.

Dick Morris ignited Belleville's big rally with a leadoff single. A couple of fielder's choice plays and as many walks kept the ball rolling and chased Read hurler Hanley in favor of Don Masters with the sacks loaded.

Left fielder Duffy Follwell promptly doubled home two runs to cut the margin to 8-7. A wild pitch allowed the equalizer to score and Follwell raced home later with the winner on Moxom's squeeze play.

Larry Soden came in to pitch the sixth and seventh innings for the Juniors to preserve the victory. Dainard had started with Latchford coming on in the fourth. They allowed six hits between them.

Hanley lasted until the sixth before he and with Don Masters taking over to try and quell the Belleville rally. They surrendered nine hits in all.

Doubles by Jim Lloyd and Clark and Moxom's single helped the Juniors plate three in the first. Follwell doubled and scored Belleville's fourth run on Moxom's base knock in the third. A free pass and safeties by McMechan and Ken Brennan gave them the first two runners.

A hit batter, Milligan's hit and Follwell's fly to the outfield netted a pair in the second. Gerald Brennan and Shannon hit safely for Read's fifth run. Two miscues, a walk, a fielder's choice that backfired and Calleny's fly ball built Read's lead with a trio in the fifth.

Duffy Follwell with a brace of doubles and Billy Movoin with three singles paced the Belleville attack. Jim Lloyd and Glen Clark had doubles with Morris and Latchford singling.

Don Masters doubled for Read with singles going to Milligan, C. McMechan, Gerald Brennan, Ken Brennan and Shannon.

WINS U.S. OPEN

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Wright caught fire with a hot putter and shrugged off extra strokes on the last three holes to win the women's U.S. Open golf title Saturday for the second time. She had a record 72-hole total of 287. The blonde belter from San Diego, Calif., shot a one-under par 69 and a 71 to finish two strokes better than Louise Suggs.

Saturday Rain Halts City Sports Events

Saturday afternoon's heavy rainstorm washed out at least three district games scheduled for that evening with one of them being played the following day.

The Belleville and District softball league game between Belleville Bobcats and Cobourg at Cobourg was also washed out. It will be played at a later date.

A City Commercial softball league tilt, scheduled for the CNRA Park, between Bishop Seeds and Chris- Drive-In was also postponed.

District Soccer Leagues Results

The RCAF soccer team has dropped out of the Eastern Ontario Football league schedule and has been replaced by Belleville Northern Electric.

Northern made its initial start in the loop a winning one here Saturday by shading Kingston City 3-2 in a regular scheduled affair.

Kingston took a 1-0 lead at the twenty minute mark in the game on a goal by Tom Sinclair with Northern's A. Brown tying it by half time.

Northern scored twice with P. Degenova and Brown kicking the goals for a 3-1 lead in the second half. Sinclair's second goal closed the scoring for Kingston.

You'll Find One in Every Barrel

STOCKHOLM (AP)—One newspaper in Sweden—and only one—was far from enthusiastic about Ingemar Johansson's smashing victory over Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight boxing championship last Friday.

Jonkopings — Osten grudgingly gave three columns to its front page to what the rest of Sweden was calling fight of the century.

Yngve Hamrin, editor of the paper and chief protagonist of an anti-boxing campaign in parliament, said the fight was abominable.

"Johansson's triumph stinks of blood, the whole affair was frankly hideous," Hamrin wrote editorially and went on to castigate the Swedish state radio for broadcasting details of the fight.

"The late-night broadcast was downright scandalous when diverse uncontrolled blabbermouths was sent out in glorification of what had taken place."

Johansson knocked Patterson out in three rounds to dethrone the champion.

Two Drivers Killed in Sports Car Race

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Alfonso Thiele, a former resident of New York now living in Italy, drove his Ferrari to victory in the Grand Prix of Monza auto race Sunday after a junior speed event in which two Italian drivers were killed and a third suffered a severed foot.

There were no accidents in the main event, a 53-lap 239 kilometre (186-mile) race for custom-built passenger model sports cars. Thiele was clocked in 1:53:58.3 for an average speed of 157.455 kilometres (97.32) an hour.

Juan Manuel Bordeu of Buenos Aires, a young Argentine protege of former world champion Juan Manuel Fangio, won the accident - marred junior formula event.

The race, run over the same distance as the main event, was in two heats. In the first heat Giulio Montevago of Italy was seriously hurt when his car smashed into a tree. His right foot was severed.

In the second heat, there was a collision in front of the main stands between cars driven by Alfredo Tinazzo and Nino Crivellari, both of Italy. A third car, driven by Giorgio Lippi, of Italy, hurtled over the other two cars.

Tinazzo and Crivellari died almost instantly, Lippi was not hurt.

Durelle Forced To Swim Four Miles

BAIE STE. ANNE, N. B. (CP) — Yvon Durelle, challenger for the world light heavyweight boxing crown, swam four miles to shore here Saturday after his pleasure boat capsized in Northumberland Strait.

The incident occurred less than three weeks before his world title rematch with champion Archie Moore.

Durelle received minor chest injuries when his outboard motor boat collided head-on with another small craft near Richibucto, about 30 miles down the coast from here.

A week ago Durelle decided not to fish, the day 35 fishermen were lost in a vicious storm that swept across the strait.

New Northern Loop Hinges on Air Travel

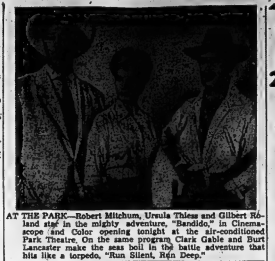
NORTH BAY (CP)—The possibility of establishing a new all-northern senior league for the coming season hinges on whether air transportation for travel service is available.

This was the contention representatives of the three Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior clubs group and two Porcupine Mines League teams agreed at their Sunday afternoon's special meeting.

Tentatively, Iroquois Falls Eskimos and Timmins Schumacher Flyers agreed to join Sudbury Cubs, Sault Greyhounds and North Bay Trappers in a five-team interlocking schedule arrangement.

CONTINUE PML PLAY

The Eskimos and Flyers plan to continue in senior league play PML play with Kapuskasing Huskies and South Porcupine Porkies, however, and would undertake the interlocking games to give them the larger schedule both teams had been seeking anyway.



The big hurdle is fast travelling in order that the teams can avoid lost employment time of players as much as possible. This is absolutely essential to the two Porcupine teams, who operate strictly on an amateur basis and attract hockey players by providing jobs.

Whether the league materialize depends entirely on the findings of officials in regards to the feasibility of employing air travel between the two farthest points—Sault and the Porcupine area, a distance of about 500 miles.

Another meeting may be held July 12.

SEA CADETS ON GUARD

SEA CADET DANCE

This Friday evening the Women's Auxiliary will be holding a public dance for the Sea Cadets. Featured will be Ted Curi and his Curimen from Brighton. These entertainers have enjoyed great success over the CKWB-TV station and should be putting on a very good show. The dance is being held in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Armouries. Uniforms are not compulsory for Sea Cadets.

TO SEE QUEEN

On July 26th the Sea Cadets of the "Quinte" will turn out for Royal parade route duties in Trenton when Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip land at the RCAF base on their way to Port Hope to visit CAE Governor-General Massey's residence. The local corps will join with the Sea Cadet Corps from Picton and Trenton in this honor.

The power craft of the "Quinte" has been undergoing its annual overhaul and painting. Unfortunately, due to an adverse incident earlier this season, the engine for the craft has seized up from exposure to water. It is hoped this situation will be remedied as soon as possible so that it may be used for harbor patrol duties.

The regular Sunday afternoon parade and boating activities are being continued with a goodly number of cadets enjoying these facilities. The regular Tuesday evening rifle practice sessions at the Armouries have been continuing with several cadets doing quite well on the Dominion Marksman targets and a number of new shooters are coming along to wards their marksmen rating under the Sea Cadet program.

RIFLE PRACTICE

Shortly an intensified practice program will be arranged for the best marksmen in the corps to prepare them to compete in the Commonwealth-wide Sea Cadet Rifle competition for the Duke of Edinborough's Bell, emblematic of marksmanship supremacy amongst all Sea Cadet Corps in the Commonwealth. Teams of eight marksmen each compete in this shoot. The "Quinte" will have one team entered with the possibility of a second team if the ability of the corps' marksmen warrants it.

Crabgrass Control

Nobody likes the look of crabgrass. The finger-like spikes of the seed heads have no appeal; the short, sharp-pointed, hairy leaves don't match well the shade or shape of the intended lawn grass. And when these leaves and stems turn a reddish-purple color, which they do in mid-summer, they suggest some serious nutrient deficiency in a well-fertilized lawn.

Another thing, crabgrass doesn't grow in shade. Since it picks the sunniest, most noticeable part of the lawn, you can't conceal it behind the shed or under a tree. And it consolidates its gains by sending down shallow roots and new shoots at each joint of the stems. In this way, left to its own devices, it pretty well takes over a patch of lawn by autumn, crowding the bluegrass out of existence.

A dense turf of bluegrass, fescue and/or White Dutch clover is the best defence against crabgrass invasion. High fertility and rapid growth help provide both competition and shade for the unwanted crabgrass. When watering is necessary, it should be thorough, to soak the deeper-rooted bluegrasses. Light, frequent waterings actually do the most good to the shallow rooted crabgrass.

Chemicals for the crabgrass areas should provide good control. You will need to spray at least twice, starting before the heads appear, with a second application about two weeks later. Potassium cyanate is used ten ounces in three gallons of water to 400 square feet. Some proprietary products are a combination of potassium cyanate and MCP to control both crabgrass and chickweed. In any such product be sure to read directions carefully, as the active ingredient will vary with different brands.

Do Your Children Run Your House?

The family can be a unique character-building institution... or it can be dominated by a small tyrant. In Judy Bander's Digest the mother of 4 children and the grandmother of 11 shows what happens when parents give in to children — wrongly afraid of losing their love. It's up to you, says the author, whether you live for your children — or with them.

Queen, Prince Climax 2-Day Toronto Visit At Running of Historic Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip embarked on a series of separate engagements today in comfortably cool weather on the second and last day of their visit to Toronto.

While Queen Elizabeth toured an unfinished $12,000,000 art centre, a Salvation Army hostel, a veterans' hospital, and a shopping plaza, Philip was off to 130-year-old Upper Canada College and a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Medical Association at which he was to be installed an honorary president.

The weather in the 70s was a welcome relief from Monday's humid 90s.

The Queen disembarked from the royal yacht Britannia shortly after 10 a.m. wearing a Hartnell creation, a grey and white dogtooth check silk jacket over a silk dress with pleated skirt, white accessories and a hat of three shades of straw—beige, grey and white—swathed with grey veiling. Philip was dressed in a brown business suit and fedora.

GO SEPARATE PATHS

Their schedule called for them to go different ways until mid-afternoon when they were to travel together to New Woodbine Park for the Queen's Plate, where 35,000 awaited them.

The Queen arrived at the O'Keefe Centre at 10:16 a.m., nine minutes ahead of schedule, and was shown the concrete and steel shell of what will become a 3,200-seat auditorium for the performing arts. It is to be opened in September, 1960.

After six minutes at the centre the Queen re-entered her car and was driven north through sparse crowds to the Isabel and Arthur Meighen Lodge, the Canadian Army's new home for the aged named after the former Canadian prime minister and his wife.

From there she went to the $14,000,000 Sunnybrook Veterans' Hospital, 13 buildings in North Toronto located on 600 acres of grass and woodland.

Then, after a brief stop at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, she was off to the Golden Mile shopping plaza in suburban Scarborough.

Philip, meanwhile, was driven north through crowd-free streets to the private boys' school on Avenue Road where he became a visitor, an honor similar to the position of members of the Royal Family becoming patrons of organizations.

LITTLE CHEERING

A notable difference between the morning activities Queen and Monday was the number of spectators. For a city of nearly 1,200,000 there were relatively few along the route of the two motorcades and there was little cheering as the Queen passed.

Monday, despite the asphalt-melting heat the crowds were big and enthusiastic.

Neither rufflet her composure With a beige sun parasol her only concession to a near-record temperature of 92 degrees, hottest she encountered, she moved through the more formal phase of her two-day visit here.

From her arrival in Toronto's heat - hazy harbor aboard the yacht Britannia to a glittering provincial banquet at night, crowds estimated at more than 200,000 turned out to see her, the largest number for any day since the Queen's tour began June 18.

At least 40 fainted in the humid heat. For today cooler weather was forecast, perhaps with rain.

The Queen and Prince Philip split up for separate morning engagements before they were brought by the city to various points to be to call at Upper Canada College to meet the president of the Canadian Medical Association.

VOTE FOR STATEHOOD

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii, territory since the Pacific, voted Saturday for immediate statehood. Nearly complete plebescite returns showed 136,568 votes favoring statehood and only 7,753 opposed. The vote cleared the way for formal admission of the United States as the 50th state this summer, probably in August.

Shots Fired To Disperse Strike Crowd

VILLE D'ANJOU, Que. (CP)—Shots were fired Monday as Ville d'Anjou police dispersed a crowd of picketers at a construction site.

Their source and number were still in dispute today.

No one was hurt and two men arrested in connection with the disturbance later were released on bail of $2,000.

A. A. di Croce, police chief of this eastend Montreal suburb where an oil refinery is being built, said he had ordered his men to fire three warning shots into the air to discourage the strikers and force provocateurs from stoning police cars and trying to overturn them.

He said about 500 or 600 men were involved and many of them were not even workers on the project.

UNION'S CLAIM

Romeo Girard head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC) local which called a strike Monday said police drove through the picket line and fired "a machine gun" over picketers' heads.

Other union men claimed chief di Croce stood on top of his car and fired at them with a submachine gun.

The chief said he had no automatic weapons with him.

"We could have used tear gas," he said, "but we didn't want people having sore stomachs for days after. So I told my men to shoot into the warning shots.

He said the mob was dispersed and a peaceful picket line of 15 men established later.

Nine Killed, 76 Hurt as Pilotless U.S. Jet Hits School in Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A pilotless U.S. Air Force jet fighter hurtled into the corner of an Okinawan schoolhouse today, then exploded, scattering fragments over a residential area.

The U.S. Force said nine persons were killed and 76 injured in the crash at Ishikawa, a city of 30,000 inhabitants 18 miles north of Naha.

Okinawa police put the toll at 16 dead and 80 hurt.

All the victims apparently were Okinawans. Police said that 60 of the less severely injured were schoolchildren playing in the yard of the school.

The blazing wreckage set fire to 30 houses in the vicinity.

Thousands rushed hysterically to the scene after a local broadcast that 150 had been killed and hurt. The milling crowds hindered the removal of the injured to hospitals by military ambulances.

The disaster was one of the worst since the war on Okinawa, biggest U.S. base in the Far East. It immediately touched off political repercussions in Tokyo. The Socialist party, long critical of American administration of the former Japanese island, said it would bring it up in parliament. The plane's pilot, Capt. John G. Schmitt Jr., bailed out safely. The U.S. Air Force has denied the stricken Super Sabre away from town but that it veered after he had been ejected.

Starving Youth, Girl Found By Policeman Combing Bush For Taxi Drivers' Slayers

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Two youths were charged today with murder in the shooting deaths of two taxi drivers whose bodies were found near here Monday.

Charged are Marvin McKee, 19, of nearby Elk Lake and Warren Sliaman, 16, of Huntsville.

Andy Young, 17 arrested Monday at Elk Lake with McKee, is being held by provincial police as a material witness.

The decomposed bodies of Francis Croso, 28, grain-elevator owner and Bruce Spiers, 22, Croso's night driver, were found Monday in a shallow grave near Dwight, some 12 miles east of this town of 3 miles north of Orillia.

Sliaman was arrested here Sunday night and was with police when the bodies were found near a golf course. The youth denied he had been shot with a .22-calibre rifle.

McKee and the girl were found by provincial police Constable William Adair Monday after a stolen boat was located on the Montreal River at Lake Lorne, 35 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake.

The two were reported starved and badly bitten by insects. They told the constable that for the last five days they had lived on a small bag of oatmeal and a pound of coffee.

Inspector David Adair was en route to Elk Lake from Huntsville today and it was believed McKee and Miss Young will be returned here.

The men were robbed of about $150 and police believe the killers returned to the scene the next night to search for more money and dragged one of the bodies halfway down a hill.

Croso got a telephone call June 17 for a taxi, his mother told police, and then picked up Spiers, the son of Huntsville police Constable Gordon Spiers. The car, stripped of its roof light, was found in a nearby gravel pit the next day.

The men were last seen June 17 when they left to pick up a fare at Dwight near the place the bodies were found. The cab was found abandoned in the Elk Lake area, 60 miles south of Kirkland Lake. Police apprehended the two suspects Monday afternoon.

Police here declined Monday to say whether the suspects are going to be charged.

Reconstructing the crime, police said the two taxi drivers were marched a mile up a "cliff-like" hill, shot in the back and robbed. Their decomposed bodies were then thrown into shallow graves about three miles west of Highway 35.

The search for the killers shifted to Elk Lake when the cab was found there Friday. Police in Ile found the ownership licence in the cab and believe the cab had been in the area for several days.

Monday morning police began a search along the banks of the Montreal River after a provincial motorboat was reported missing.

Two Deputy Reeves Accused Of Taking Bribes for Permits

TORONTO (CP)—Two deputy reeves of suburban York Township have been accused of accepting bribes of money for using their influence to obtain building permits for contractors.

Deputy Reeve Fred Howard was implicated in the alleged bribes Monday by real estate dealer Arthur Jeffrey, testifying at a judicial inquiry into township land and financial dealings.

He said Mr. Howard had told him and builder John Rollin of three construction companies that had paid Howard $300 for duplex permits, $400 for triplex, and larger amounts for permits for larger buildings.

Mr. Porter, a former policeman, said Mr. Howard had needed the $400 to help "grease the skids" of up to $750 for his help in getting the permits.

The inquiry started last month before Judge Joseph Sweet of Hamilton.

Earlier, builder Ray Zuccritti testified he had paid Howard $100 "which he understood was to be given in turn to Deputy Reeve Fred William Graham "for going out to inspect" a property on which Mr. Zucchiatti planned to build.

He was two weeks ago that Mr. Porter told the inquiry he gave $100 to Graham on behalf of Mr. Zucchiatti, who wanted a permit to construct a small apartment building.

Mr. Porter testified Monday that Mrs. Howard got $300 and Mr. Rollin about the payoff.

Mr. Rollin was trying to get a permit to build a duplex on particular property.

He said Mr. Howard wanted $750 to help get the permit, and quoted the deputy reeve as saying: "You'll pay it. You always have lots of money. If not, forget it."

Mr. Porter testified that a police detective had been investigating bribe money failed when Mr. Rollin backed out on the advice of Mr. Howard's solicitor Harold Linden.

Mr. Zucchiatti said in his testimony that he did not know the money he gave Mr. Porter actually was reached by Deputy Reeve Graham.

Large Number Russ Diplomats Defect to West

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record number of Soviet diplomats have reported to have defected to the West in the past year.

Responsible officials who reported this today said it was the largest number to flee to the West that they could remember. They declined to reveal the numbers.

Some of the defectors are understood to have been granted asylum by American authorities.

The latest diplomat who took refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Burma is reported to be only the latest in a long series.

Most of the others are described as of mediocre rank and "knowledgeable" in the inner workings of Soviet activities in their particular fields.

Defectors will be quizzed closely for whatever intelligence information they can provide about Russia.

Officials who talked about the defection in most guarded terms said the defectors fill the record flights appeared to be:

1. Soviet diplomats overseas are becoming disillusioned with the continued secret-police watch on their activities. Many had hoped that Premier Nikita Khrushchev would relax this intensive surveillance.

2. An increasing number have succumbed to the lure of better living conditions, plus freedom, to which they are exposed daily in their diplomatic life outside Russia.

Authorities cautioned against viewing the stepped-up flow of defections as any sign of deep-rooted restlessness among Soviet diplomats.

DELAYED-ACTION INCOME TAX RISE TAKES EFFECT

Pay Cheques to Be Lighter This Week

OTTAWA (CP)—The delayed-action income tax increase provided in last spring's budget takes its first bite out of Canadian pay cheques this week.

For all of the 4,600,000 persons who pay income tax, new rates become into effect Wednesday—the date ordered in Finance Minister Fleming's April 9 budget.

The average taxpayer will be paying seven or eight per cent more income tax, officials say. The government's coffers will be enriched by an additional $60,000,000 in the fiscal year ending next March 31—$129,000,000 in a full year.

For the great majority of taxpayers whose income tax is deducted from pay cheques there will be nothing special to do—ex cept pay more.

New tables listing the increased tax deductions were sent to employers a month ago to some 240,000 employers who collect and remit the taxes to the government.

TWO LEVELS

Mr. Fleming's budget provided for two levels of income tax increases: an increase one per cent on the first $3,000 of taxable income—income after all deductions—and an extra one per cent on taxable income over $3,000.

The second rate applies to all who pay income taxes. The extra two-per-cent rate will apply to an estimated 1,400,000 persons in the higher brackets.

The one-per-cent tax on taxable incomes below $3,000 will be funnelled into the special fund from which the old age security pensions are paid to all Canadians.

It means an increase to three per cent from two in the share of personal income tax going into the pension fund, with the maximum individual contribution boosted to $90 from $60 in a full year.

The extra two-per-cent tax on taxable income over $3,000 will go into the government revenues.

FIRST SINCE 1952

It is the first rise in personal income taxes in seven years, since the war was waged in 1952 to help finance the old age security pensions introduced that year. The last major change in the budget — corporation income taxes, sales tax rates on items on cigars, cigarets and liquor—came into effect earlier.

The tax increases were aimed at reducing Mr. Fleming's budget deficit from a forecast $550,000,000 in the current fiscal year down to $400,000,000.

A single man with no dependents starting $3,000 a year will pay $240 more income tax this year—including the pension fund contribution — compared with $274 in 1958.

A married man with no dependents, starting $3,500 a year, will pay $208 in a full year compared with $196 last year.

A married maid with two children and a husband earning $5,000 making $5,000 a year, will pay $390 in a full year compared with $366 in 1958.

CBC Supervisor Told Political Pressure Was On

Superior Said Bushnell Given Two Alternatives

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Peers, CBC supervisor of talks and public affairs, said today he had been told by his superior in the CBC that external political pressure had been involved in the decision to cancel Preview Commentary, morning radio program of political comment.

Testifying before the Commons broadcasting committee, Mr. Peers said he had been told by H. G. Walker, director of English radio and television networks, that CBC Acting President L. Bushnell "had been given two alternatives—either to take this program off the air or incorporate structure of the CBC would be endangered."

Mr. Peers made the statement as the committee opened its inquiry into the affair in which CBC employees that "clandestine political influence" was to blame for the program's cancellation.

The CBC board of directors, last week released the program after 37 employees—mostly producers—in the talks and public affairs department had submitted their resignations.

After a 90 - minute morning hearing, the committee adjourned until 2:30 p.m. Chairman Ernest Halpenny (PC—London) said the committee's steering group would decide whether to ask Mr. Walker to appear.

BEFORE COMMITTEE

Mr. Peers appeared before the committee with his assistant, Hugh Gillis, and Bernard Trotter, supervising producer of TV public affairs. They were the only ones among the 37 who have not yet withdrawn their resignations.

Mr. Peers described Mr. Walker as the CBC official in charge of broadcasting under the CBC management—to Mr. Bushnell.

In a prepared statement read to the committee, Mr. Peers said the program staff had plans to cancel the program on June 15 at a meeting in Ottawa with Charles Hungerford, CBC vice-chairman of broadcasting.

Mr. Peers described the sudden cancellation "without prior consultation" with the responsible program executive as "unprecedented in my 12 years' experience with the CBC."

DECISION "FINAL"

He said Mr. Jennings had said the decision to cancel the program was made by Mr. Bushnell "and was final."

The meeting two days later with Mr. Walker, he said Mr. Walker told them "that Mr. Bushnell had been placed in an impossible position."

"He told us Mr. Bushnell had been given two alternatives: either to take this program off the air or the corporate structure of the CBC would be endangered. Mr. Walker said that Mr. Bushnell not at liberty to divulge further information but that external pressures were involved.

"We asked whether these alternatives had been put to Mr. Bushnell by someone with a political connection, Mr. Walker said yes."

CONSEQUENCES FORSEEN

"Mr. Walker said whether Mr. Bushnell had taken into account all the possible consequences which would follow this decision both inside and outside the corporation. He replied positively that all the consequences had been foreseen, including staff resignations."

Mr. Peers told the committee

Entire Canadian Menu Served At Lieut.-Governor's Banquet

TORONTO (CP)—The Queen and Prince Philip dined on a Canadian menu Monday night in a room hung with crests of all the provinces.

Lieutenant-Governor Keiller Mackay welcomed her to Ontario at a provincial government banquet "joyfully, gratefully, proudly and with hearts overflowing."

Leading church and state and prominent figures of Ontario's public and commercial life made up the guest list which overflowed the Royal York Hotel's vast Canadian Room.

The Queen, who was in almost continuous conversation throughout the dinner with Lieutenant-Governor Mackay on her right and Premier Leslie Frost on her left, wore an evening dress of bouffant pink taffeta with silver straps and lace, with shoulder straps and belt of pale green satin.

Pinned to the front was a diagonal sash of the garter ribbon and other insignia orders, her accessories included a diamond and diamond tiara and necklace and earrings and a pair of long gloves and diamonds.

Prince Philip was escorted to the head table by the lieutenant-governor. Mrs. Frost walked with the prince, who sat at Premier Frost's left.

FARM POLICIES OF GOVERNMENT UNDER ATTACK

Crop Insurance Plan Causes Hot Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Government farm policies were under persistent opposition sniping in the Commons Monday as the Progressive Conservatives brought out their main agriculture measures.

Liberal and CCF spokesmen criticized the government variously of taking half-way action, mistreating farmers and of "shameful" dealings with provincial governments on farm matters.

Agriculture Minister Harkness in turn charged CCF House Leader Hazen Argue with trying to sow "disunity and difficulties" between the federal government and the provinces.

Acrimony developed as Mr. Harkness introduced a crop insurance plan dependent on provincial participation and legislation providing for farm mortgage loans with supervision by government farm experts.

STEADY CRITICISM

Mr. Harkness came under almost steady fire from Mr. Argue and William Knowlton (L—Kenora-Rainy River).

The CCF leader hammered at Mr. Harkness' bill on the claim that premiums are so high that the hard-pressed farmer could afford to take advantage of the legislation. It would be of no value in areas where crop failures are most persistent.

Mr. Bendickson, Liberal finance critic, called the crop insurance plan "mere window-dressing."

It had so many "back-door provisions" and "escape hatches" that he doubted whether the province would co-operate in setting up something to which loans could be applied.

He objected to farmers coming under crop insurance having to forgo benefits of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act.

Mr. Bendickson asked how many provinces will join in the scheme, but Mr. Harkness refused to predict.

QUEEN, PRINCE

The final event before flying to Ottawa in the afternoon will be the 1000h running of the Queen's Plate at Woodbine Race track, an event bringing the Queen into contact with a sport she follows closely. Every Monday, the Queen and her husband, Prince Philip receive cheers of a ticker-tape reception down the concrete canyon of Bay Street. The crowds rivalled those in Montreal last week but their enthusiasm was more restrained, perhaps because of strict policing.

SECURITY TIGHT

Tour photographers and city police bickered during the day amid complaints that the Toronto security was tighter than anything "we've encountered in Canada."

The Britannia, accompanied by three new naval escorts, tied up before 10 a.m. after arriving from Kingston, the Queen's first official function was to greet dignitaries including Premier Frost of Ontario and Finance Minister Fleming, federal representatives, and then to unveil a plaque commemorating a new dock after herself.

Three gaily-decorated fairies fore the ceremony ended. The Queen—dressed in a nut-brown dress and straw hat with white trim—then set out to see the city.

As in Montreal, there was a stampede to get a glimpse of the Queen and Prince Philip.

Police, using bull horns, battled to keep the crowds in check.

CBC SUPERVISOR

of unsuccessful attempts to meet with Mr. Bushnell during the week of June 15 to discuss the cancellation of the program.

He said that at meetings of senior CBC employees in Toronto on June 15 and 16 he learned that I have mentioned above were discussed by Mr. Bushnell. These had been representations from someone politically connected, and that the alternative to cancellation would be a very serious one for the station management."

The employees at the meeting signed a statement saying the decision to cancel was taken "in circumstances which suggest ... external pressures, actual or anticipated."

Mr. Peers said the statement was presented to Mr. Bushnell at the meeting by the vice-president of Sunday, June 21.

At the meeting, he said, the CBC vice-president "said that the program had been unsatisfactory, that there was political partisanship and imbalance of views." He said Mr. Bushnell told him he did not discuss a question as to what positive gain would result from the program's cancellation.

The Sunday meeting with Mr. Bushnell had taken place just before a meeting of the CBC board of directors which ratified the decision.

He said what would be the effect if the board reversed the decision," Mr. Peers said. "Mr. Bushnell said the show probably would be sent to Siberia."

Mr. Peers said that at another meeting of CBC employees convened on June 22, Mr. Bushnell had told them he had had long telephone conversation with CBC vice-president Alphonse Ouimet.

"He reported that until his phone call, Mr. Ouimet had no knowledge of the Toronto Community situation."

Mr. Peers said he had been recovering from a recent gall bladder operation following a heart attack in March when Mr. Bushnell had been acting for him.)

Mr. Peers said that in his prepared statement, Mr. Peers was asked by Marcel Ouimet, CBC vice-president whether he had any real evidence that there had been intimidation of politics, interference.

Mr. Peers said he had no "concrete" evidence. He said his information from Mr. Walker was such as to indicate that Mr. Walker had received his information from others who had spoken further with him (Mr. Peers) than he had. For that reason he had used the expression "clandestine."

Edmund Morris (PC—Halifax) moved, seconded by Mr. Hamilton (Cochrane), that a select committee be established to study the whole matter but so far, no reply had been received. Mr. Carswell then read a report from Mr. Ross McIlwain, and which had been requested by the Board, covering the annual inspection of air cadets, and several other items.

Mr. Carswell then read the County Tuberculosis Association asking that tuberculin tests be given to Grade 9 in the Trenton high school again this year was approved by the Board. A letter from John Connie, superintendent of buildings, asked that Dufferin school needed painting on the outside. Mr. Connie pointed out that within his holidays this year in order to paint it. The board decided that Mr. Connie had now been working for three years without a holiday and that he should be given a holiday of at least two weeks. Pete Aziz agreed with this, and the board decided that Mr. Connie should take at least two weeks' vacation during the next two months, time to be decided later.

Three dealers in town had asked for the use of the tender in addition for the board room and it was decided that McCaughtry's price of around $85a be accepted. A letter from Fire Chief Cecil Ellis recommended school doors should be checked regularly as some had been found sticking.

Mrs. E. Dedford mentioned the Opportunity Class to be held in the fall, and the board leagned that the new teacher for this class will be Laurie Harrington of Dufferin school, thus making this class possible in 1959. Instead of having to wait until

Queen Asks Bloomfield Girl About Rangers

TORONTO (CP)—A small, excited 11-year-old Agincourt girl who suffered from polio when she was 2½ years old met the Queen as she was presented to the Queen Mother.

Barbara Michell was the only person presented at a garden ceremony in High Park. Agincourt girl guides and boy scouts were also introduced as the Queen passed. She received the honor because she won the badge of footing.

The Queen spent more time with her than any of the others but when it was over Barbara was to be heckled as the Queen remember when was said to her.

Carolyn McMullen, 18, of Bloomfield, Ont., was the only gold cord sea ranger among the group. The girl, who owns an 18-foot sail boat said she was asked by the Queen if there were many sea rangers here.

New Public School Named Prince Charles

TRENTON — Prince Charles Public School was the name chosen for Trenton's new school by the Board of Education at its meeting last night at the Central School. Eight school board members were present at the meeting, and heated discussions were provoked on several subjects.

Business discussed during the meeting included letters read by W. F. McCrea, one of those was from Doug Whitley, whose interest in the air cadet movement is well known in Trenton. Mr. Whitley seemed to be under the impression that the land membership was to be mandatory in Grade 9 at Trenton High School this year, and in Grade 10 next year. It was also W. F. McCrea to that although the board felt that it was most desirable that facilities for air cadet training should be as complete as possible that it was beyond the power of the board to make such training courses obligatory and a copy to this effect was sent to Mr. Whitley.

Mrs. Mervin Irwin, high school principal, reported that weeds had been cut around the school. He suggested that some text books which had been purchased on Grade 13 work for high school, at a cost of around $800, be sold to interested pupils at cost items in order to at least reclaim the purchase price.

Mrs. Irwin also reported that the sum of $30 had been paid to the Trenton Kinsmen Club for funds as Trenton's share in the costs of Mr. Pringle, a barrister, who had been engaged in connection with an injury caused by a fall from the roof of the new school at Albert College in May 1958, and for which all schools take out insurance. The board was also joined responsible by the insurance company to the tune of $5,000 if the case had been lost. The board agreed that Mr. Pringle be paid the fee of $254, which was shared by all schools in the City of Quinte Area taking part in the sports that year. There was a unanimous decision to reimburse the students' council.

A letter commending the fact that the roof of Queen Elizabeth school was in need of attention was read. A letter had been written to the Canadian Fire Underwriters Insurance to that was stated, asking them to fulfill their bond, in this matter but so far, no reply had been received. Mr. Carswell then read the report from Ross McIlwain, and which had been requested by the Board, covering the annual inspection of air cadets, and several other items.

Mr. Carswell then read the County Tuberculosis Association asking that tuberculin tests be given to Grade 9 in the Trenton high school again this year was approved by the Board. A letter from John Connie, superintendent of buildings, asked that Dufferin school needed painting on the outside. Mr. Connie pointed out that within his holidays this year in order to paint it. The board decided that Mr. Connie had now been working for three years without a holiday and that he should be given a holiday of at least two weeks. Pete Aziz agreed with this, and the board decided that Mr. Connie should take at least two weeks' vacation during the next two months, time to be decided later.

Three dealers in town had asked for the use of the tender in addition for the board room and it was decided that McCaughtry's price of around $85a be accepted. A letter from Fire Chief Cecil Ellis recommended school doors should be checked regularly as some had been found sticking.

Mrs. E. Dedford mentioned the Opportunity Class to be held in the fall, and the board leagned that the new teacher for this class will be Laurie Harrington of Dufferin school, thus making this class possible in 1959. Instead of having to wait until

Mayor Will Not Seek New Term Due to Spending

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis accepted a bronze plaque on behalf of his department last night at a special banquet held in the Hall.

The plaque lists the names of the present firemen and the officers as well as an "In Memoriam" list and was donated to the brnhall by Jack Cummings, Fox Cartage, Quinte Machine and Repair, C. A. Crews, Mickey Wall Insurance, and P and D Ice and Fuel.

Guest speaker for the dinner was Mayor Ross Burtt, who has served on the Trenton Volunteer Fire Department for a good many years. The mayor told the firemen he was many fond memories of the old days on the Fire Department but the old methods are now gone. There would be no new fire hall until next year as far as he was concerned.

He said he had been elected in 1956 to sit as mayor for four years, but that he would not be running for a fifth term. "I've been on the job long enough," he said. "I've had my share of headaches and I'm sick and tired of the expenses in the building of the new sewage disposal plant.

The mayor said he would not be running for re-election this December and that because he could not see all these expenditures and he felt the town could not afford it.

Others who addressed the meeting briefly were: Walter Wrightman, Mel Dunfield, Mickey Wall and Jack Cummings, all who praised the work of the Trenton Fire Department and wished the firemen many more years of service.

Claude Graham, chairman of the protection to persons and property committee, also spoke briefly.

TO WOO OR NOT TO WOO

With the summer months upon us, more and more out-of-province licence plates are being seen on the automobiles on Ontario's highways. These plates may indicate that the occupants have come from Quebec, New York, Ohio, or Michigan. They also invariably indicate that the occupants are engaging in the increasingly popular pastime of the vacationist, touring.

In Canada catering to these tourists provides our nation with her third largest dollar earner. In Ontario, despite a decline in the tourist business over the past couple of years, the tourist industry still provides this province with her second largest enterprise.

The tourist business is unique in its operation. Contrary to some opinions the majority of tourists do not come to Ontario to fish or hunt. Most come just to look at the scenery and find a pleasant spot for a week or two of rest and recreation before heading back to another year of work. Few of our natural resources are expended or wasted in catering to these visitors. Dollars which are spent are mostly spent for services, food and accommodations. A few dollars are spent on souvenirs, usually manufactured in Canada.

In short the tourist trade provides our country and province with one of its easiest sources of revenue when considering the lack of depletion to our natural resources to support this industry. The moneys acquired through this industry act as sort of a bonus bolster to our national economy.

It would seem that such a source of revenue would be catered to by our government and by those in the tourist industry or allied services. For remarkably little expenditure we derive a rather large income. But there seems to be little desire to promote this lucrative industry.

Ontario realized an income of some $200,000,000 from tourists last year. This figure may seem impressive, and it is. But, we wonder, how many of us consider the fact that almost 90 per cent of the people who were touring in Ontario, according to the most recent statistics, did not remain in this province for any longer than it took them to travel from the Ontario to Quebec border, or from Sarnia or Windsor to Niagara Falls or Fort Erie? The astounding fact is that this province realized most of its $200,000,000 income from only a mere 10 per cent of the tourists who have come within its borders!

Two thoughts arise from this. First, how much income would the province realize if we were to get only one-quarter of these tourists to stay in Ontario for more than a brief day or two? Second, why aren't these tourists staying in Ontario?

The answer to the first is a half billion dollars. If we are to base our predictions upon the figures for 1958 -- a poor year for the tourist trade. The answer to the second query is more complicated. We can, however, build a pretty substantial answer based on the documents of the tourists themselves.

The major factors appear first, a decided lack of first-class accommodations (although Canadian restaurants' and tourists' accommodation have definitely been improving over the past few years there are still several criticisms of them); second, the difficulty which tourists have in obtaining refreshments in various sections of the province, especially in some of the most favorable tourist areas.

To enlarge on these, those persons who come to Ontario are mostly from the United States. They are accustomed to the superlative and high standard of tourist accommodations which the American tourist industry provides. By high standard we do not mean high priced. We do mean comfortable, fully equipped accommodations with adequate recreational facilities close to hand.

To illustrate this point we might point out that a traveller in the American southwest can obtain motel units which are completely equipped with (i.e. kitchen facilities, television, three-room units) for about $35 a week -- at the height of the tourist season. Nearly every motel has a bathing or swimming pool. Some of the more advanced establishments also provide such amenities as a dining and cocktail lounge, miniature golf course, bowling facilities, playground equipment for children, and provisions for other sports such as golfing and riding.

Another of the major complaints of those who tour in Ontario, and of those who would be happy to stay here for their vacations, is the impossibility of having wine or other alcoholic beverages served with meals outside of the larger cities and a very few establishments in some of the tourist areas. The difficulty in obtaining such beverages from licensed outlets for personal consumption at their camps or cottages without having to travel some distance is also a part of this complaint by those who contribute a great number of dollars to the provincial income.

We might comment in passing that these people are looking for a place where they can rest, enjoy the scenery and quiet, which our province's natural resources can provide, in a manner where their normal mode of living is not restricted.

If we want to woo the tourists to stay in Ontario some positive action is now required of both the provincial government and by the tourist operators and businessmen to provide the facilities considered adequate to meet the requirements of the tourist.

Wedding Customs' Origins

New York Times

This June like countless others is the season of marriages, when happy couples exchange nuptial vows. Various rituals -- some simple, some complex -- have been used over the years, but the chances are that few of the men and women who are principals realize what many customs and traditions in the ceremonies are continued or how they originated. All ages and countries have contributed in some way to the ceremony. Prayer, for example, is said to have been the locale for the throwing of the bridal bouquet. The fourteenth-century bride in that country threw her flowers as an omen of luck. As time wore on, more cautious brides used bouquets, and the idea that the lucky girl catching the bouquet would be the next bride took hold.

The custom of marriage also has been attributed to European influences. Bridegroom linked with custom in England, where the new husband waited upon his bride at a feast given by their wedding day. Such a servitor was known as a groom, and as Mr. and Mrs. Groom popularly accepted.

The term honeymoon has been attributed to the ancient Norse custom of drinking mead wine for thirty days after the wedding to make sure the baby was born on the outward symbol of lifelong union.

Tradition adds dignity and warmth to today's marriage ceremony, and these are really the basic elements for a successful service. But custom added to these color. Custom actually led to the word wedding, which is an outgrowth of the ancient custom of marriage by purchase. The prospective bridegroom gave a present of money or livestock as the purchase price for his future bride.

The white wedding dress is said to have come from this same with custom. In medieval times the bride wore red. Anne of Brittany broke the tradition when she was married to Louis XII by wearing white. This has been the bride's selection ever since.

The prank of tying shoes on the fenders of the bridal car is a variation of the important role the shoe once played in the ceremony. In ancient Egypt, it is said, the father of the bride used to hand his daughter's sandal to the prospective bridegroom. This was the principle of transferring the bride to the new husband's care for the rest of her life. Contemporary citizens use shoes to give the wedding ceremony its proper conclusion, and to mark for all to see the bridal couple. It is perhaps the lightest touch of the day.

* * *

A traditional royal wedding gift is wine. This custom still is followed in Spain, where a gift of sherry is presented to the bride and groom. Certain that the union will be blessed with children. In other lands, champagne has become the wedding reception's libations. Although many can remember the use of champagne for the familiar toast, this tradition is of more recent origin. It wasn't until the seventeenth century that the sparkle in still white wine was discovered. Before that white or red wine was served after the ceremony.

* * *

While customs may change with the passing years, there is always room for the eccentric. This is the ceremony of the bride-groom cutting his bad every day. bride's as she cuts the first piece of wedding cake and feeding it to her spouse. For the cake-cutting ceremony is their first act together as host and hostess.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the press club yesterday I was sitting with four young fellows who had been married only early thirties, not one of whom was married.

"Well, I've thought about it often enough," said one. "But there isn't as much need for a wife nowadays as there appears to have been in the older genera-tions. Most of the jobs I have gone with are any good at housekeeping. What with the simplified housekeeping, what with prepared foods of all kinds, methods for dishwashing, dusting, sweeping, laundry, that a man can do his own housekeeping with the greatest ease. So after all a fellow would want a wife for is companionship! And you have to look around quite a while to find somebody you like as a permanent companion."

"My reason for being single," said the second, "is that I am just too darn cozy the way I am. living in a nice little bachelor apartment, free to come and go as I like, ready to pack up and go anywhere I want, as suddenly as wants to send me."

"Me," said the third, "I've always pulled around with older men. And boy, if their domestic life is any criterion, I don't want any part of it."

The fourth was listening with a sly smile.

"In my case," he said, "I support my dear old mother. How would you guys like to come up for dinner tonight? A phone call, Cold vichyssoise, omelette with chives, home made bread and..."

"Hold it! It's a deal!" cried we all.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SCENERY

Scenery is God's most lavish creation. It has inspired man for centuries. It is everywhere. One of the best forms of scenery is to be noted in our world's magnificent Canadian and many of our beautiful churches.

Thoreau loved that little world of scenery all around Walden Pond. I like this thought by William Hamilton Gibson: "I have often been surprised to find what a predominant part in every scene the water bears, since it has played and how it stands out as almost the only thing in the memory of which I should like to carry over with me beyond the veil, unwounded and unaltered."

I shall never forget my visit to the great redwoods of California, and to the Rocky Mountains. I understand John Muir lived out of that country and the many glaciers. He wandered by foot over miles of dramatic territory and literally became a part of that great country. All Americans should visit it before they try to unravel the problems of Europe, and the rest of the world.

I love the scenery of the forest, and on quiet days, when you can hear the wind in the wild, nearby or in worlds unknown. Here is another beautiful line by James: "Today everything is a-dripping; the earth has moisture in it, and the air is full of spots of melting blue."

Scenery is the great friend. Her very smile is medicine to the soul. She has her secrets but they are tender and spiritual appreciation!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 30th, 1939

At a meeting of the Fair Board last evening it was resolved by the directors that this year again two new cars would be given the holders of the lucky tickets during the exhibition. The same conditions of the draw which prevailed last year will again be in force. In the report of the secretary, it was revealed that this year's prize list will be a heavy one.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McVeigh and Renfrew, are the guests of their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McVeigh, Highland Avenue.

Miss Helen Scanlan, nurse-in-training at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, is spending a vacation with her sister, Miss Florence Scanlan, Alfred St.

Mrs. G. H. Stobie, Jean, Meribeth and George, left on a week-end motor trip to New York to attend the World's Fair.

Mrs. F. Correll, Mrs. E. Zeran and Miss A. Stone were the hostesses at the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club yesterday afternoon. The winning rink included Mrs. A. Woonacott, Mrs. E. Cross, Mrs. J. Legault and Mrs. H. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Allen of Philadelphia, P.A., and Mr. and Mrs. John Sears of Utica, N.Y., were guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. E. Liddle and Mrs. Loomer.

Credit for the unusually heavy building of new homes now being carried on in the city can be given to the city council whose special property committee this year has endeavored to encourage residents to dispose of unused lots to residents of Belleville at prices which have cleared all taxes and resulted in a small profit to the city.

30 YEARS AGO

June 30th, 1929

The Barnum, Bailey and Ringling Bros. big circus will be here on July 11th.

A little girl about six years of age, whose name is not available, fell head first into a well near Pinnacle Street yesterday afternoon and was drawing water. Frank M. Barrett, who was passing at the time, heard the child's cries and was more frightened than injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDonald are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Barton Babcock, of Oshawa, formerly of this city, was in town today.

Miss M. Fleming has left to spend a vacation in Toronto and Chicago.

Mr. George Thrasher, of Stirling, was in town today.

The 15th Regiment will parade on the morning of July 1st for a field day.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.

In 1902, Charles M. Hays, the general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, was appointed the Canadian government a plan for a railway from North Bay, Ont., to Port Simpson on the Pacific coast, which would have followed Peace River valley to Prince Rupert. Subsequent explorations showed Port Simpson not to be a suitable place because of ground formation, and the Grand Trunk sponsored a competition with a prize of $250 for a name of not more than three syllables or contain more than 10 letters and to be purely Canadian and have a significant to British Columbia. Twelve thousand entries were received and the prize was won by Miss Eleanor. Prieres of Ashbridge Bay, and awarded to Mrs. John Arms of Donnecher, Ont., and R. Kirkpatrick, Quebec City, Ont., for having suggested Port Rupert. The name of course came from Prince Rupert., founder of the Hudson's Bay Co.

THE PENSION AGE

The pension age is just now coming. Fifty years from now people will look back and practically everybody over 65 will be living on a pension. The possibility of fortunes or substantial savings accounts diminishes as the years grow larger. And old age living soul ever see taxes get less and less they were increased.

Now there are ways in which this pension pattern will not be followed. Many people will ask the system stands now, we help create those pensions. But the day may come when unscrupulous politicians will promise pensions in which the receipient pays nothing to build up the payments. Just like the old days of high? the hog. We'll get it from the rich and from the corporations. Why they're loaded with money." Of course when that day

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

IT'S A RARE PERSON WHO DOESN'T HAVE AT LEAST ONE MOLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am quite concerned about a large number of freckles and moles which have appeared on my back and face in recent years.

"Can anything be done to lighten the freckles or prevent the appearance of more?

What causes moles? Is there any way I can prevent them from appearing? I have about 30 now. -- B. F. C."

Moles and freckles aren't the same -- except they have in common the fact that they are colored spots on the skin.

The spots mean that pigment (coloring matter) has accumulated in those areas. So now let's consider them individually.

Moles generally are the result of some minor oddity in skin-makeup. They sometimes have a tendency to increase in number as we grow older. Again, we may or may not have any sudden whatever ones we were born with -- and it is a rare person who doesn't have at least one somewhere on the body.

There are all sorts of moles -- brown, "blue" which means that the dark coloring is deep-seated fairly deep in the skin, red, purple, yellow and sometimes white. Some are hairy, some are not.

Most moles don't cause any trouble. If they are disfiguring, they can be removed surgically -- and since they are on the surface, the surgery is simple. From the medical standpoint, however, there is only one way to go on the collar line, belt line, palm of the hand, sole of the foot or on a part of the face where you shave. That is, remove them if they are so located that they are subject to constant chafing or irritation.

In addition, any mole that changes size rapidly, changes color, bleeds or becomes scaly should be removed at once as a precaution against its becoming malignant.

THE PIGMENT SPOTS

Freckles, unlike moles, are the result of ultra-violet light (whether from the sun or sun-lamp). It causes the pigment to clot at spots. Freckles often fade in winter and come back in summer. When I say "fade" I don't mean they are likely to disappear entirely.

There are ointments, lotions and various home remedies intended to "bleach" freckles, but frankly, I don't know of any that are effective.

If you tend to freckle, some of the sunburn preparations which "filter" the sunlight may retard or minimize freckle formation, but don't think that means you can pour on some lotion and then expect to have a different kind of skin! I said "retard". Not prevent.

There are cases in which chemicals can be used by a physician to remove the outer portion of skin -- and this includes freckles. But obviously, a delicate process, and should not be attempted by anyone but an expert. And it doesn't change your skin. The new surface will tend to freckle.

So for all practical purposes, I say the only thing to do about freckles is learn to live with or cover them up with cosmetics. Personally, I think such freckles are objectionable at all.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can long use of bubble baths be bad? I have colitis. -- Mrs. E. H.

Colitis is known to irritate the colon of some individuals, I am not familiar with it as being an actual cause of colitis.

Mrs. H. T. D.: No, there's no reason why you can't shampoo and cat them, unless you have something wrong with your digestive tract. The vast majority of us, it's better to eat the skin, too. It's full of fiber and natural to chew.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of The Ontario Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., requesting booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Story of English Cheese

By Dafne Treneman of the English Country Cheese Council

Cheese is one of the oldest foods known to mankind. It was manufactured in early Greek literature and appears to have been made in very much the same way that is made cheese today. In Britain make it today -- by dividing milk into curds and whey, allowing it to drain until firm enough to be eaten.

Many of the farmer or so varieties of English cheese made today are known to have been in existence as long ago as the early Middle Ages; that is, from about 1000 A.D. Some of the most famous cheeses were given the names of the districts where they originated.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, the lover of cheese in England had a wide choice of delicacies from which to choose; from the skim milk that after the cream was taken off, to the rich and creamy cheeses, which were made from the milk of the best cows. Many of these local cheeses, however, had disappeared by the end of the 19th century; others were hard hit by two world wars, when labor became scarce. In 1930, when the Milk Marketing Board was established and farmers were assured a guaranteed price for their milk, it became possible for many farmhouse cheeses would disappear for good.

Since 1954, however, the cheese industry in England and Wales has undergone a vigorous revival and some regional cheeses are again available. Cheesemakers are once more using their skill, which has come down from mother to daughter, from generation to generation, to make cheeses peculiar to the places in which they live such as Cheshire, Lancashire, Cheddar, Stilton and Wensleydale. These cheeses, together with others are also made in creameries as well as in a few farmhouses.

The English and Welsh cheeses, Cheddar is the best known. This cheese should be firm bodied, with a close uniform texture, and have a nutty flavor, ranging from sweet nor too acid.

A favourite of Welsh miners. Caerphilly cheese is easily recognizable by its flat shape and thin pinkish rind. Its color is uniformly white and its flavor is mild, with a pleasant tang. Derby is another cheese popular in mining communities.

Leicester is large and round and has a rich orange colouring a warmly which makes it most appetizing to the eye. Though mild in flavor this is a successful cheese, ideal for eating with dessert.

Stilton -- which takes its name from a village in Huntingdonshire, where it was first sold at the Bell Inn -- is also referred to as the "King of Cheeses". A prime Stilton is creamy white in color and patterned with blue veins. The texture should be open and flaky and the body rich and slightly moist. The flavor is rich, mellow and strong.

BRIGHT SPOTS

All of the 4,000 railway stations in Sweden are brightened by a garden spot, large or small.

For prompt action in extinguishing a fire in the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dall, a Certificate of Meritorious Conduct has been awarded by the Boy Scouts' Association to Troop Leader Gordon Cook, 16, of 221 Pine Street. Last October during Fire Prevention Week the Belleville Scouts noticed flames through the window of the neighbor's house. Despite the fact the house was full of smoke he ran in and extinguished a pot of blazing grease on the stove with a wet towel and then searched the house to make sure that no one was in the house, the mother having left a few minutes earlier to search for her children. Gordon is the son of Sgt. Cecil Cook of the city police department, and Mrs. Cook. Wednesday he will appear on CKWS Kingston TV at 4.45 p.m.

Royal Tour Briefs

TORONTO (CP)—A gang of pickpockets has been following the royal tour, police said Monday as they issued a warning to citizens here to be on the lookout. They said the gang is reported to have taken an estimated $4,000 from the pockets of unsuspecting persons in Cornwall Saturday. Some of the pickpockets pose as vendors of novelties and balloons.

"My gosh, that's a boomerang," commented Prince Philip as he and the Queen were shown a model of Toronto's ultra-modern new city hall. "No it isn't, it's an oyster," replied a city hall official. "I suppose you're right, said Philip. "It's a challenge," he added as the proposed locations of various offices were pointed out to him.

The Queen met one of her cousins Monday for the first time. Among 50 guests at luncheon aboard the royal yacht Britannia was Prince Karl Wladimir Zu Leiningen, a fourth cousin, now living in suburban Willowdale. With him was his young wife. Princess Maria Louisa, daughter of the former king of Bulgaria. The guest list included George Cassell Imlach, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Joyce Davidson, the TV commentator who stirred up a controversy with her remark on a U.S. television network that, like most Canadians, she was indifferent to the Royal Tour, said Monday she plans to take her two daughters to see the Queen next Saturday at Gravenhurst, where the girls will be spending a few weeks at summer camp. Hoping to shield Shelley, 9, and Connie, 8, from publicity, Miss Davidson said "there won't be any photographers that far north."

Prince Philip gazed into the murky waters of a High Park pond Monday and announced to a young boy scout: "The water looks good. I think I'll go for a swim."

"But it is polluted, sir," replied Arthur Daniels, 14, one of a group of scouts and girl guides seen by the royal couple.

"If we both went in," said Philip, "it would be more polluted."

Tomorrow Muskies and Bass Are Fair Game for Anglers

The fighting muskies and the battling bass are fair game tomorrow.

While the big exodus of anglers will not take place until the end of the week, a lot of the fish-hungry fraternity will avail themselves of the season-opening opportunity tomorrow.

And in case the anglers have forgotten the bag limit is two per day for the muskies. Possession limit is the same.

For the bass hunters the bag limit is six per day with possession limit the same.

Lest you forget the size limit for muskies is 25 inches.

Reports from the Lands and Forests Tweed District headquarters said today that the water is clear with no sign yet of weed blossom.

This is strike one on the bass and muskies. They won't need specs to see the bait.

If you want muskies and don't size, know where to go try the Moira River at its deep spots; Stoco Lake, the Crowe River near Marmora; the Trent at Bradley Bay; Germans Lagoon above or below Glen Ross at Frankford; certain spots on the Bay of Quinte preferably Muscote Bay, the vacation spot of the big fellas, and Hay Bay, where you're more likely to hook a fat pickerel at the latter haunt.

Bass seekers should do well on the Bay of Quinte, West Lake off Wellington, Consecon Lake, the Murray Canal, to name a few of the better spots.

And don't be surprised if you are fishing the Bay of Quinte if you land one of those fantastic sheephead or freshwater drums. A dozen or so of these unique fish have been hauled out of the bay recently, one a fifteen pounder, another weighing nine. These are not records for these fighters grow to an immense

Both Brickbats, Bouquets Thrown at Opening Show

STRATFORD (CP)—The critics mixed their brickbats and bouquets after Monday night's opening performance of As You Like It at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

Most of the praise was reserved for Irene Worth, star of the production.

Here's what the critics said:

Harvey Taylor, Detroit Times: "... Far from the best work the Stratford players have done with a Shakespeare comedy. The first act dragged interminably, not only because of the slow pace in delivering the lines but also because of director Peter Wood's determination to engender visual humor. Irene Worth is fine as long as she's wearing dresses, but when she's impersonating a boy she makes only a token effort to make her movements and voice masculine so that her deception of Orlando seems totally incredible."

"GUSHING TORRENT"

Bill Boss, Ottawa Journal: "In the first act's gushing torrent of words of William Shakespeare was especially guilty, with Canada's Kate Reid and even British import Irene Worth gasping close behind. Shakespeare's strokes of plot and poetry fell by the wayside. The splendor of Desmond Heeley's costuming and properties saved the hour. Only in the final scene did the play shake itself loose to wind up in a rich pageant of color, words and music and end in glorious key."

J. Bruce Martin, London Free Press: "Some of the comedy reflected on the frantic in Mr. Wood's attempt to amuse. He praised Miss Worth and Mr. Boss and found Douglas Campbell "still a comedian of the best Shakespearean clown in the business."

Nathan Cohen, Toronto Star: "Fortunately for Stratford, Irene Worth performs Rosalind with delightful grace and taste . . . good as Miss Worth is . . . and she is first rate, she is not that hypnotic that she can hold the show down or compensate for the generally inadequate cast."

John Gardiner, Windsor Star: "The overall picture of the comedy was, unfortunately, rather disappointing. In many instances, the acting was overdone and in some parts the diction was close to being incomprehensible. There was elocution and declamation galore but these do not make for theatre with a capital T."

NOT BARD'S BEST

Jean Hamelin, Montreal La Presse: "Irene Worth does a good job as Rosalind . . . she really steals the show. She is a fine artist and she proves it once again. Her characterization will stand as one to be remembered in the records of Stratford. A very good presentation . . . though the play is not Shakespeare's best comedy."

Herbert Whittaker, Toronto Globe and Mail: "It is a mixed bouquet for a Queen . . . dawdling too often as it spins out its tale of masquerade and lovers in the forest. Its principal joy is, of course, Miss Worth's winsome, poignant Rosalind."

Sydney Johnson, Montreal Star: "There is no doubt that the production is swiftly paced and full of bucolic humor. There are many laughing lovers but there are few languishing moments."

TWO MYSTERY TORSOS

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — The second torso in 24 hours was found in a wooded area near this east Alabama City Monday. Both were white men, their arms and legs missing, their heads badly battered. Beyond that, there was no identification.

City Industries Except One Observe Holiday

Belleville workers generally will observe Wednesday, Dominion Day away from the their desks and benches with a poll of local factories indicating that only one plant in the city would work with employees taking holiday later.

Employees at the Bakelite plant will work as usual on the holiday and will take Friday as the holiday, giving them a long weekend. The nature of the plant operation apparently does not lend itself to mid-week holidays, it was stated.

Other factories polled, however, stated they would close on Dominion Day. These included Northern Electric, International Hardware, Stephens Adamson and Stewart Warner.

All stores will be closed for the holiday and banks and government offices will also observe the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boyall have just returned from Edmonton, Alberta, where they spent the last few weeks with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kingsbury, and children, Debbie, Judy, and Danny, of 12015 90th Street.

HONEY — McCULLOUGH

White chrysanthemums adorned the altar and sanctuary, and white satin bows the guest pews of in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 20, at 2.00 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding when Sally June McCullough, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice E. McCullough, was united in marriage to Robert Earl Honey of Trenton, son of Mrs. Eleanor Honey of Leamington, Ontario, by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church.

The guest organist, Mrs. Doris Smith, of Frankford, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the eight-boy choir in the rendition of "O Perfect Love, Psalm 67, and 'Brother James' Air' (Psalm 23). Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hugh A. McCullough, the bride was radiant in her waltz-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned on princess lines, with three-quarter sleeves and round, scalloped neckline. She wore a matching lace headdress and elbow-length veil of embroidered net, and carried a white prayer book created with yellow, tear-drop roses with rosebud knotted streamers. A single strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Miss Sharon Caldwell of Trenton, as maid of honor, and Mrs. L. Davis of Belleville, as bridesmaid. The former was in mauve taffeta, and the latter in green taffeta, under white nylon organza. Both wore Sweetheart picture hats, elbow-length gloves, matching shoes, and carried round bouquets of mauve and green mums.

Mr. Gary Honey, of Leamington, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Wayne McCullough, of Belleville, and Mr. Lloyd Honey, of Leamington, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing blue taffeta lisheath style with neckline accented by seed pearls. A three-quarter-length duster, white accessories, and corsage of white roses added a pleasing complement. The bridegroom's mother, who was attired in turquoise crisp taffeta with matching duster, white accessories, and corsage of white roses, assisted in the receiving line.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and Watertown, N.Y., the bride chose a two-piece pink and green flowered silk dress with accessories, and corsage of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Honey are residing at 247 Coleman Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Leamington; Belleville; Trenton; Cherry Valley and Toronto.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at three showers, with Mrs. Mary Daw, and Mrs. L. Davis, as hostesses, and by the Pink and Green Club.

Doctor's Wife Finds Red Cross Work Enjoyable

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)— "You have to fit in with a doctor's life," says Mrs. J. G. McCarroll.

But the fact she is a doctor's wife and has a family doesn't prevent Mrs. McCarroll from doing a first-rate job as president of the Moose Jaw branch of the Red Cross.

Her interest extends to all phases of the society's work—swimming classes, blood donor services, assistance for disaster victims, sick room supplies and sewing.

Moose Jaw's Red Cross president entered the society's work in her native New Brunswick. She assisted in Red Cross blood clinics in Saint John. Later as a member of the British Civil Nursing Reserve, she saw the work of the Red Cross overseas.

"One of my many Red Cross memories dates from war days," Mrs. McCarroll said, "I remember a liberated prisoner of war telling me that if it had not been for Red Cross parcels, he 'would not have been alive.'"

Her education and training as a nurse gained for her the position of supervisor of obstetrics in the Saint John General Hospital.

The McCarrolls have two children—Susan, 10, and Bill, 6.

Mrs. McCarroll finds meals a bit of a problem occasionally because of her doctor husband's irregular hours. But she is used to it and has fitted in with a doctor's life.

Girl Guide Movemnt Shows Large Growth in Canada

"It is estimated that 500,000 yellow lilies are to be planted next year as part of the 50th anniversary celebration of Guiding in Canada," announced Mrs. D. G. Diamantides, Division Commissioner for Girl Guides in Belleville, who attended the first All-Canada conference for Girl Guide Commissioners held recently at Macdonald College in Montreal. "More than 1,000 tulips will be planted in Belleville to decorate the park areas, churches and schools where the companies and packs meet. It's the Girl Guides' way of showing their appreciation to the community," continued Mrs. Diamantides.

Mrs. Diamantides, who, with 200 other commissioners from across Canada, attended the week-long conference, found the conference most interesting and challenging. "One gets a cross-Canada view of guiding and becomes keenly aware of the responsibilities of the Girl Guide Movement in our communities," she remarked. She paid high tribute to the leadership of Mrs. W. Rostrum Nesbitt of Toronto, Chief Commissioner of Canada.

A tremendous growth in the Girl Guide Movement was noted at the conference, during its first year of centenary. From the beginning with the formation of one company in St. Catharines, Ontario, in 1909, Guiding in Canada has grown and spread so that now there are nearly 180,000 Guides, Rangers and Brownies in 6,786 companies and packs. During the past year alone, over 15,000 girls joined the Movement. 13,200 volunteer leaders work and play with the girls.

Growth in Guide camping was also reported at the conference.

Nearly 40,000 campers participated in various camps last year, an increase of some 9,000 girls.

Inter-provincial camping is being promoted and next summer, jubilee year for Canadian guiding, inter-provincial jubilee camps will be held in each province, attended by representatives from every other province as well.

A building fund has been launched to make possible a National Canadian headquarters, to be located in Toronto. Members of the girl guide movement are making this possible by purchasing the proposed building by the square inch. So far, orders for 185,000 inches of the 2½ million inches required, have been received.

Locally, the growth of the Girl Guide Movement is keeping pace with the National picture. There are now in Belleville 25 companies and packs, compared to 20 a year ago; and 645 Guides, Brownies and Rangers compared to 560 last year. Volunteer leaders number 61, an increase of seven from last year.

Flickering Torch Flames Make Striking Opening For Stratford's Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

As the lights in the theatre faded to darkness, last night, the Stratford Shakespearean Festival gave its crowded first-night audience one of the most spectacular openings we have yet had, as the flickering flames of many torches cast weird shadows around the stage. From this auspicious beginning, it was clear that in his production of Shakespeare's comedy "As You Like It," Peter Wood has his own imaginative ideas of how this unusual auditorium should be used. And to a play which usually offers little in the way of spectacle-gaiety was added that would have done justice to one of the historical plays, mounting from the torchlight procession of Oliver's sedan chair, through the court witnesses, to a delightful pastoral finale, where the martial flags were replaced by banners of flowers and straw.

It was perhaps principally Wood's and the splendid performance, for Mr. Wood was very ably assisted by Desmond Heeley with his Elizabethan decor and dresses. The cast is large, with many small but important parts, and there were times when one wished that they could be bigger. It seemed almost a waste, for example, that Eric Christmas should develop so delightful a character as Adam in the first act, and then be seen no more, or that Douglas Rain, as dependable and charming as ever, should have to wait until the play is two thirds over before making his appearance. But this is certainly no fault of either director or actors.

OLD FRIENDS BACK

From the acting point of view, the play revolves around the characters of Rosalind, Celia and Orlando, played respectively by Irene Worth, Kate Reid and William Shatner. Miss Worth is an old friend of the Festival, but she gave us a wonderfully warm yet forceful Rosalind, not quite boyish enough perhaps in her scenes disguised as Ganymede to be completely convincing, but nevertheless a most distinguished performance. As Celia, Kate Reid had to score always a more difficult task, acting a one moment as a mere foil to Rosalind, but developing a definite character of her own. Her years of playing in England have not removed the somewhat harsh quality of her voice, which at times interferes with the rather timid quality of her Celia. William Shatner's performance as Orlando gave good and sufficient reason for Rosalind's devotion; for he was at all times a most attractive upstanding figure, and in particular the electric moment of their first meeting was beautifully played.

Two of the smaller characters, both of them miniature gems, have already been mentioned. Others of note included William Needles as the bashed Duke, William Hutt as the melancholy Jacques and Tony Van Bridge as an old shepherd. Douglas Campbell's Touchstone verged on the over-acrobatic, but his outlandish fooling gave the audience much entertainment. It will be most interesting to see this accomplished actor, who at Stratford has played largely comic roles, take the lead in "Othello." On the distaff side, Frances Hyland, who will play Desdemona, made an attractive shepherdess, and Ann Mortish provided a true foil to much of Touchstone's foolery.

MUSIC A FEATURE

The unusual use of music is rapidly becoming a Stratford tradition, and this production was no exception. All the famous songs, including "It Was a Lover and His Lass" and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind" have been given new settings by John Cook, of London, Ont., and the singing was entrusted mainly to two young lads, Brian Crain and Robert Burrows, both of whom had very true and clear soprano voices, and the ability to carry their parts in the face of determined opposition from the male chorus. One might best describe the music as being modern Elizabethan, and as such it fitted almost admirably the mood of the whole production.

Perhaps the main criticism which can be raised against this opening night performance is a tendency to slowness, particularly during the first act; it is possible that a few days will provide the necessary tightening up and quickening of tempo. In summary, despite a new and "foreign" director, it is a production very much of the Stratford tradition, and one which will give a great deal of pleasure to the thousands who will see it between now and September 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Adams are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Madel Audrey Cooney, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooney of Belleville, R.R. 2. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. George Adams of Madoc, and the late Mr. Adams. ADAMS — COONEY

A quiet but very pretty wedding was recently solemnized in Bridge Street United Church by the Rev. R. F. Sherwin, assistant pastor, when Madel Audrey Cooney, of Belleville, R. R. 2, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooney, became the bride of Gavin Adams, of Madoc, Ontario, son of Mrs. George Adams of Madoc, and the late Mr. Adams.

The Rev. R. Alec Gordon, church organist, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle, was given in marriage by her father. The gown was fashioned with fitted lace bodice, having long sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, and Peter Pan collar outlined with tiny seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant ballerina skirt featured a deep gathered flounce of nylon tulle. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress accented by sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a horseshoe bouquet of deep red Sweetheart roses, mingled with nylon net. A sunburst of pearls in pendant form, worn by her great-grandmother, a gift of the bride's mother, completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Mrs. Madeline Hart, of Stirling, as matron of honor, attired in peacock blue with fitted torso bodice having shoulder-length cap sleeves and off-the-shoulder neckline. The skirt was enhanced by embossed satin back and front panels, with side panels of nylon tulle. She wore a floral headdress, and carried a nosegay of white and pink 'mums.

Miss Diane Valcamp, of Belleville, R. R. 2, was junior bridesmaid, gowned in pale pink nylon over taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the bride. She wore a matching floral pink headdress and carried a nosegay of white and blue 'mums.

Mr. Thomas H. Cooney, brother of the bride, of Belleville, R .R. 2, attended the bridegroom, while Chris Adams, of Madoc, and William Adams, of Belleville, brothers of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received, gowned in a light-blue, rose-embossed sheath, with white accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations. The bride's groom's mother assisted, wearing navy blue crepe featuring a pleated skirt and matching jacket. She wore a pink and white carnation corsage, with white accessories.

While daisaek, centred by an all-white, two-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of lily-of-the-valley and orange blossoms, misted about the base with white lilies accented by blue and white butterflies, flanked by tall white candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

Guests were present from Oshawa; Madoc; Grand Island, N.Y., and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams are residing in Madoc.

The Flying Dutchman Comes To The Rescue

by Mary Moore

An emergency arose in this family and K L M, Royal Dutch Airlines blew the trouble shooter to the rescue.

You see I was planning to go to Germany to christen my son's my new little grandchild (grandaughter we hope) arrived, but Marianne's was stricken with a "slight heart attack". Frau Messing is to have cared for Gary and Davey during Marianne's hospitalization. So when I received an S.O.S. "Mom, can you come sooner?" things had to happen fast.

After leaving Montreal at 8130 hours we all moved our watches forward five hours for Amsterdam time, so at 4 A.M. Sunday we were arrived and eating our Saturday night's late supper.

My seat partner was a young twinkly-eyed Texas lawyer who kept me entertained with tall Texas tales — and dared me to pick up my chicken leg in my fingers. I promptly did, then he did, and soon everyone around us in the beer cabin was happily munching on fried chicken legs as Nature intended. While there is seldom any ice to break around a Texan this one little informality turned supper aloft into a friendly picnic.

"Encouraged by my enthusiasm over the food my lawyer friend said "If you-all think this is good you should have tasted the steak we had this afternoon. Naow that was a steak — tender as all get sout and lovely lil butter ball potatoes. I'll never figger how they do it. They're so keerful."

Soon seat lights started going out and the steward distributed blankets and pillows, pulled the door curtain and I slept a long until all was quiet. I hated to miss the sunrise but sunrise I knew was ahead but sleep seemed more precious at the moment.

After dawn did come up the Texans started to stir and exclaimations of rapture for a "cuppa cawfee". As if by mental telepathy the steward brought a silver pot the size of a county steaming stuff and seven of us polished off all of it so time we came alive and washed up and it was orange juice and then. Then came breakfast with ham and flaky croissants and marmalade and more coffee for those of both.

As we came in for the landing I had my first sight of fabulous Amsterdam with its network of canals separated by parks and colorful flowering gardens. An airport was gay and flower-decked and overflowing with sightseers.

My connecting K L M plane to Dusseldorf left in 28 minutes after our arrival and in 40 minutes after that I was through Customs and kissing and hugging my loved ones. Gary knew me at once and both he and Davey are taller and tanned with bid-boy haircuts.

Next week I will be able to tell you whether our new baby is a boy or a girl and will keep you posted on our German away.

All my helpers gathered round and we baked and cooked and typed night and day to do enough advance columns to allow for my trip (Germany).

K L M gamely promised, on very short notice, to find and hold space out of Montreal on an all-economy flight en route from Amsterdam to Amsterdam, Holland.

After dozens of almost insurmountable obstacles had been surmounted or gotten round or avoided, I found myself actually sitting in seat 16B on K L M flight No. 668 and the engines revving up for takeoff.

Then I looked around to see who were my fellow passengers. They were Texans. Six of them bound for Teheren in Iran and were an oil-rig replacement crew. Their leader, or in oilmen's jargon, tool pusher who is head man on an oil rig (sounds like top man on a totem pole) — he was young, tall, blue-eyed, bespectacled, and strange as it may seem those casual boys of his called him Mr. Little. In their careless, free fashion they tried to kid the K L M stewardess. She would reply coyly in a different language every time to their confusion and delight.

Freedom of the Press

What precisely is meant by that familiar phrase, 'freedom of the press'?

Fundamentally it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a much larger freedom — the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy. But freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because under modern conditions, the press is the principal agency by which the ordinary man receives the information he needs to judge the actions of his rulers and make up his mind on public affairs. Without newspapers, or with only gagged and blindfolded ones, he is in the dark, and helpless. An unfettered press is therefore one of the essential bulwarks of a democratic nation.

If any proof be needed, it is supplied by the record of the totalitarian dictatorships which have darkened the twentieth century. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially of newspapers, was the cornerstone on which all these regimes — Nazi, Fascist and Communist alike — were founded. Without it, they could hardly have lasted for more than a few months. With it, they could keep their peoples in blinders and drive them on any course they chose. The calamities of our age, its fear and insecurity, stem in no small measure from the simple fact that at critical periods great sections of the earth's population have been prevented by their rulers from learning the real news of the world.

These examples should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard not only against direct censorship but also against more insidious encroachments. Normal freedom is not enough. The only truly free press is one which can record the news faithfully and comment on it frankly without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe with anything less than this.

And liberty, of course, involves obligations. That of a free newspaper is to be truly free. It must strive to be thorough, accurate and unbiased in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials and resistant to all outside pressure. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must above all be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understand it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the free peoples of the world have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

"HOUSECOOLING" . . . OPPOSITE OF "HOUSEWARMING"!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our family has always lived in a pleasant, comfortable house we all love and in which we have so many times given parties inviting our relatives and friends. Now, alas, there's to be a "road cut through," and we're moving into an apartment. Last evening we were all discussing plans for the party, the last one we'll be giving in our house, and we were wondering what to call the party on the many invitations we'll be sending. "Farewell Party" was one suggestion; "Leaving Home," another; and several others, but none seemed just right. Have you any suggestions Mrs. Beeckman?

—Hoover

Today, with so many movings, "Housecooling" is the name frequently used on the invitations to the kind of party you and your family are planning to give. As the opposite of the good old term "Housewarming," it seems tailor-made for the we're moving occasion.

PLANS FOR THE GOLDEN WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a Golden Wedding Anniversary party is to be given should the couple themselves give the party, or should it be planned and given by their children?

2. At the anniversary dinner should the wife sit next to her husband? And if so, at his left or right? — Reader

1. The couple themselves may be the hosts of this so-important party, or it is entirely proper for their children to plan and give the party.

2. The couple should sit side-by-side, as they did at their wedding reception . . . the "bride" at the right of the "bridegroom."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. K. M. — Connie is secretive.

Connie M. — She has embarrassed me to death.

* * *

Mrs. K. M. — I am the mother of three children. I am considered an attractive, up-to-date woman. People say I have a grand personality. Why is my daughter ashamed of me?

My daughter Connie is 20, I and always looked forward to ashing so much with her at this time of her life. I think mother and daughter should become closer and closer friends as time goes on. I want to share in Connie's joys and problems.

To my disappointment, Connie doesn't see it that way at all. She is very secretive — never tells me about her dates and meets most of her friends outside our home. I didn't permit this when she was younger, but now that she is a grown woman I can't make demands. Connie should realize herself that this is all wrong and will make men more respect her.

Connie M. — I don't know about men losing respect for me if I don't bring them home to Mother first. But I am sure they will lose plenty of respect if I do.

Mother has embarrassed me to death all through my teens by saying to my dates things like, "Well, what do you think of my beautiful daughter?", "Aren't you the lucky one — to escort the prettiest girl in the dance?"

When I complained to her about it, she went around asking what was wrong with it. Well, there's plenty wrong. For one thing, I'm no beauty by a long shot. Mother may have thought she was boosting my morale or casting a spell over the boys so they would see me as she'd like me to be, but it didn't work. I lost plenty of boy friends that way. Now when a date picks me up at home I run for the door before Mom can get there.

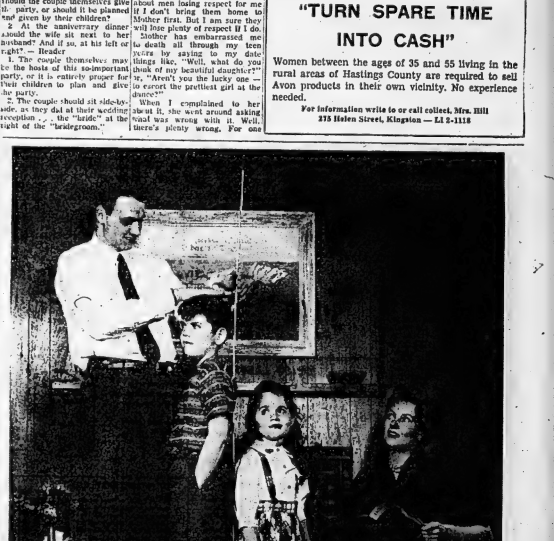
The Council: We're with Connie, Mrs. K. M. was all wrong to inject herself into the picture and presume to "sell" Connie by relating to her as though she were a piece of merchandise.

On the other hand, we doubt very much whether Connie ever really lost a boy friend because of her mother's comments. Far more likely, she was made nervous and unhappy by those comments and a sense of strain was set up between her and the young men. It undoubtedly cast a pall on the evening.



Connie apparently has grave insecurity about her ability to hold a young man after the initial interest. The fact that she has had dates is indication enough that she is not without attractions. The rest is a matter of relaxing enough to be able to give and take in enjoyable social interchange. However, as long as Connie is insecure about herself she will not only be unable to show herself to best advantage but will be incapable of appreciating another individual.

Probably Mrs. K. M. felt her daughter needed a boost, but she has gone about it all wrong. In her anxiety about being close with her daughter, she reveals the smothering quality that may be keeping Connie in a childlike state of insecurity. Mothers who are really close friends with their daughters don't struggle for intimacy. They stand in the background and encourage their daughters to grow into independence. They let it be understood that a guiding hand is available — when it is needed.

This minister of transport says:

"This end up, handle with care!"

The family minister of transport jokes as he lifts his young son into the car, but he is well aware that raising a growing child is no joke. It means watching family expenses with an eagle eye.

The annual expenditures of the Minister of Transport at Ottawa involve millions of dollars — and his department is only one of many.

This money comes through the Minister of Finance who gets it largely in taxes from Canadians such as you. When he spends more than he takes in, he must borrow from you . . . or else create new money. The creation of new money is one factor that leads to inflation — which means your dollar buys less and less.

The government has been spending more than you have been paying in taxes. To narrow the gap between income and expenditures, new taxes have been imposed.

You can encourage the government to live within its income by asking only for those services you are willing to pay for with taxes. Tell your M.P. at Ottawa that since you are trying to save, you expect government to do the same.

You also help when you save more by means of life insurance, savings deposits, and the purchase of government bonds. Your savings help to create a SOUND dollar; and this, in turn, helps to create job security for you and more jobs for other Canadians.

A SOUND DOLLAR MEANS A BETTER LIFE FOR YOU

"THEY BUILDED BETTER THAN THEY KNEW"

CHARLOTTETOWN: CRADLE OF CONFEDERATION

Dr. Roderick MacDonald was a lusty 6-year-old at the time of the Charlottetown conference. 101 years old, Dr. Roddie, as he is affectionately known to the Islanders, gave up his active medical practice only 3 years ago.

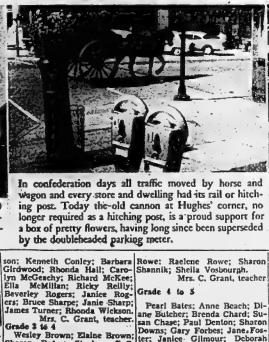
Today the Island is served by several car-ferries as well as commercial airliners, but many islanders still recall nostalgically the days when small boats were the only means of communication with the mainland. In winter, those who helped pull the ice boats over the ice and snow paid $2 a crossing; for $5 one might remain seated througout the passage.

The Island's Lieutenant-Governor Walter Hyndman, grandnephew of Robert Harris who painted the well-known "Fathers of Confederation" shows a self-portrait of the artist to Ernest Lord, great grandson of Col. Hamilton Gray, one of Canada's "fathers" and chairman of the Charlottetown conference.

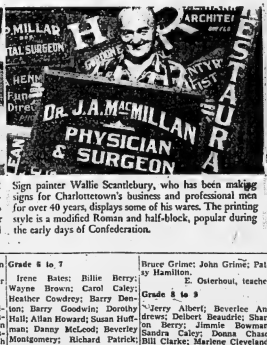
On July first Canada celebrates the 92nd anniversary of Confederation: a time when the nation fittingly takes stock of its present, girds itself for the challenges of the future, and re-examines the traditions and historic occasions which make up the colourful tapestry of its history. Any reconstruction of the highlights of Canada's past must include the now famous Charlottetown Conference of September 1864 when the Fathers of Confederation met, and in a friendly exchange of opinion and goodwill, laid the groundwork for the union of all British North America into one vast Dominion stretching from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific. The conference heralded a succession of events which led ultimately to union and Charlottetown, capital city of Prince Edward Island, has ever since been the proud bearer of the epitaph: "The Cradle of Confederation". Above, delegates to the Conference posed for this historic picture on the steps of Government House. Seated (centre) is John A. MacDonald, first Prime Minister of the new Dominion when this country achieved nationhood in 1867. A man of far-reaching vision, and the master architect of Confederation, "Sir John A." as he is often referred to today, stands in the front rank of Canada's national heroes.

Confederation promised the Islanders continuous and effective transportation to and from the mainland. Today's preliminary studies are underway for a causeway. Above, hydrographer Bill Henry charts currents in the Northumberland Strait.

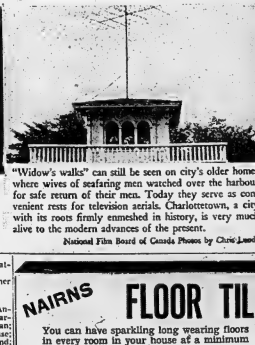
The Micmac Indians, who were the original inhabitants of P.E.I., called the island "Abegweit" — "cradled on the wave", an apt description for the tiny gem which sits like a jewel in the blue waters of the tranquil Gulf of the St. Lawrence. The island bosses one of the finest agricultural areas in Canada and is often referred to as "the garden of the Gulf". Above, an aerial view of the picturesque harbour at Charlottetown with its surrounding farmlands reaching into the distance.



Charlottetown was designated as the Island's capital in 1765 and was incorporated as a city 104 years ago in 1855. Its first tourist was Jacques Cartier who discovered the little island back in 1534. He described the land as "the fairest that may possibly be seene, full of goodly meadows and trees."



Today the Confederation Chamber in Charlottetown's Provincial Building is a historic shrine and attracts many thousands of visitors yearly. Above, guide Robert Craig instructs an interested class of pupils from the Queen Charlotte High School in the historic import of the Charlottetown Conference. The plaque on the wall bears the names of each of the 26 delegates and the inscription: "In the hearts and minds of the delegates who assembled in this room on Sept. 1, 1864 was born the DOMINION OF CANADA."



Despite the great fire of 1866 which destroyed some 200 buildings, many fine old buildings of Confederation vintage still stand. Above, spire of the old Charlottetown hospital, today used as an old people's home.

In confederation days all traffic moved by horse and wagon and every store and dwelling had its rail or hitching post. Today the old cannon at Hughes' corner, no longer required as a hitching post, is a proud support for a box of pretty flowers, having long since been superseded by the doubleheaded parking meter.

Sign painter Wallie Scantlebury, who has been making signs for Charlottetown's business and professional men for over 40 years, displays some of his wares. The printing style is a modified Roman and half-block, popular during the early days of Confederation.

"Widow's walls" can still be seen on city's older homes where wives of seafaring men watched over the harbour for safe return of their men. Today they serve as convenient rests for television aerials. Charlottetown, a city with its roots firmly enmeshed in history, is very much alive to the modern advances of the present.

Chinese Communists Making Play for Provinces Bordering On USSR, Outer Mongolia

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists are crying louder and louder for more land "Go west, young man." It is part of a stepped up campaign to colonize China's northwestern provinces bordering on the Soviet Union and Outer Mongolia.

The drive has been gathering momentum for the last three years and seems to be developing into one of 1959's top major campaigns. It coincides with—and may be aimed at counter-balancing—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's campaign to populate and develop Russia's "virgin lands" in Kazakhstan and other eastern areas bordering on China and Outer Mongolia.

But the Communists have at least three far more immediate aims—to exploit the largely—untapped wealth of these lightly-populated areas, to reduce the local populations to impotent minorities and forever to quash the seeds of rebellion among the traditionally free - wheeling inhabitants.

China's northwestern provinces are inhabited mostly by racial and religious minorities who never have had any business and have resisted communization ever since the Reds took over 10 years ago.

Official reports give no overall figures on the mass migration but estimates here run to several millions. A recent report said earlier this year more than 1,380,000 Chinese had migrated to Inner Mongolia and neighboring provinces.

Peiping miscreants have no words about the political aims in the border areas.

"Local nationalism should be prevented and high vigilance maintained in order to guard the enemy and wicked elements from splitting the unity among nationalities and sabotaging Socialist Communism," declared the Peiping newspaper Kuang Ming Jih Pao warned.

The Chinese Communist leader of Sinkiang province, in northwestern China, has acknowledged local hostility on many occasions and recently assailed their "widespread clamor" for independence.

The Chinese Communists also make no bones about their economic aims in the border areas.

The Peiping monthly Min Tsu Tuan recently reported that in Inner Mongolia the minority nationalities "owned more land and possessed less labor power while Han peasants (Chinese settlers) possessed more labor power but owned less land.

This "contradiction," it said, was resolved by communizing the area, whereupon "members of the Mongolian nationality turned over their waste land to the communes."

Today, the Chinese Communists outnumber the Mongols in Inner Mongolia seven to one.

Service Station Operators Near To Closing Down

TORONTO (CP) — Service stations in Metropolitan Toronto will close down July 7 to back up their demands to oil companies to halt the gasoline price war, it was announced Monday night.

Kenneth Langdon, field director of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Association, who announced the deadline, said that nine out of 10 oil companies have said they will not negotiate with an operators' committee.

"The negotiating committee is still prepared to meet any individual oil company prepared to change its mind," he said.

TO POST PICKETS

Mr. Langdon said "all dealers, lessees and their employees are asked to meet at the Canadian National Exhibition immediately at 5.30 a.m. July 7. At this time they will be allotted their picketing duties at all company head offices, bulk plants and service stations which may attempt to stay open."

Operators' three-point demand included a ban on price discrimination, elimination of free premiums and a ban on price signs.

Pricesfor regular gasoline in Toronto and other Southern Ontario communities have dropped by as much as 10 cents a gallon in the last few weeks. Premium gasoline prices have also dropped sharply.

Drivers for British American Oil Company and Texaco Canada, Limited, — members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union (CLC) — have promised not to cross picket lines in front of a shutdown, Mr. Langdon said.

The operators' demands include a ban on price discrimination among both branded and unbranded dealers; elimination of free premiums and a ban on price signs.

British American Monday released a copy of a letter to the association in which the company said any move to restrain competition or control prices would be illegal.

France, Italy Want Meeting Before Conference Reopening

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

France and Italy have added weight to the idea that there should be some kind of a meeting of Western statesmen to precede the reopening of the East - West conference at Geneva July 13.

Suggestions to this effect have been floating around since before the Geneva foreign ministers' talks went into recess, bringing a distinctly cool reaction in Washington. But pressure for a high-level Western get-together seem to be increasing.

President de Gaulle of France and President Gronchi of Italy—in a communique issued at the end of de Gaulle's official visit to Rome—said a meeting should comprise the foreign ministers of their countries along with the United States and Britain.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany was for a "little summit" meeting of the Western powers and, before the de Gaulle visit, Italy had joined Belgium in proposing a meeting of the NATO council to map out strategy for the coming word tussle with the Russians.

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Christian Herter are reported to have agreed in principle that a hurried meeting would give an impression of disarray in the Western ranks, when actually they are aligned on essential issues.

But de Gaulle, particularly, has long pressed for more consultations and a greater hearing for France not only in NATO but on all issues dividing East and West. His determination has led to some rude shocks for NATO.

While such questions as a possible summit meeting with Russian Premier Khrushchev would have top priority at a Western conference, some diplomats believe de Gaulle would use it also to clarify his stand regarding NATO's nuclear defence.

Last fall the French leader made a bid for full participation in Western decisions on a global scale along with Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain.

Since then reports from Paris and elsewhere have linked Allied support, for France in Algeria to admission of the NATO nuclear problem—whether the U.S. should be allowed to store nuclear weapons in France.

French spokesmen have been refusing to clarify this position, saying that access to nuclear arms and the Algerian war are not involved in the new arrangements which France would like to have with the U.S. and allies. France's drive to produce an atomic bomb of its own may be a factor in this.

The heart of the present problem, the spokesmen say, is the French government's belief that it should have an equal voice with Britain and the U.S. in military and political decisions—especially regarding the use of nuclear weapons anywhere in the world.

If France had its way in this ambition, it is said, there would no longer be any objection to the U.S. arranging for missile bases and stockpiling atomic weapons on French territory.

Sarnia to Pay $84,000 Subsidy For Bus Service

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Transit Company, which took over the city's bus transportation system last Sept. 1, was a vote of confidence Monday as ratepayers voted more than 2 to 1 in favor of a new 10-year franchise agreement.

Under the agreement the company will continue to receive a municipal subsidy of $84,000 a year, for about one mill on the tax rate.

Final count was 2,934 in favor of the new franchise and 1,400 opposed.

Within six months after Sept. 1, 1961, the city will have another referendum result from renewal floods that caused serious damage to crops in South China.

Festival Opening Audience Gives Thunderous Applause To Comedy 'As You Like It'

STRATFORD (CP)—The comedy As You Like It launched the seventh annual Shakespearean festival Monday night to a full and enthusiastic house.

The critics gave the play a mixed reception but were almost unanimous in their praise of Irene Worth in the leading role of Rosalind. As in other years the opening was heralded by a fanfare of trumpets and the booming of a cannon.

The theatre sparkled with the jewels and gowns of the first-nighters but the many of those who would otherwise have attended were in Toronto for the official provincial banquet for Queen Elizabeth.

However, As You Like It will have another glittering night Thursday when the Queen and Prince Philip attend a command performance.

MISS WORTH PRAISED

Most of the critics had kind words for the American born Miss Worth, the darling of the British stage and most of the critics.

Jean Hamlin of Montreal La Presse said "she really steals the show." Herbert Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail said she is the "principal joy" of the comedy.

Nathan Cohen of the Toronto Star says Rosalind is played with "delightful grace and taste" but while Miss Worth is "first rate, she cannot hold the show on her own or compensate for the generally inadequate cast."

William Sylvester, who also was born in the United States and did most of his work as an actor in Britain, won some acclaim for his Stratford debut as Orlando opposite Miss Worth. Toronto actress Kate Reid, also in her first appearance here, played Celia.

TOUCHSTONE ROLE

Douglas Campbell, Scottish veteran of Stratford festivals, played Touchstone and reaped many laughs as he romped through a romance with Ann Mortrish as Audrey, a country girl.

Other major roles were taken by William Needles of Kitchener and Toronto, as Rosalind's father, William Hutt of Stratford as Duke Frederick and Leo Ciceri as Oliver, Rosalind's brother. Frances Hyland as Phebe and Winnipeg-born Douglas Rain as Silvius.

The play was directed by Peter Wood, 30-year-old English director.

Tonight's audience will see Douglas Campbell in the title role of the tragedy Othello. Miss Hyland will appear as Desdemona and Douglas Rain as Iago.

Israeli Premier Almost Certain To Resign Post

JERUSALEM (AP) — Political observers say Premier David Ben-Gurion's resignation appears almost certain in the Israeli government crisis created by his role of arms to West Germany. The 74-year-old premier called a cabinet meeting for today with the prospect of a vote on his demand for unanimous approval of the deal.

Left - wing cabinet members from the Achduth Avodah and Mapam parties have assailed the arms sale and have given no indication of backing down.

There were reports that Ben-Gurion, who has been the spearhead of the Jewish state since its founding in 1948, has already drafted his letter of resignation to President Izhak Ben-zvi.

But even if he resigns, he is expected to remain in power. He may form a caretaker government or name a new majority coalition without the Achduth Avodah and Mapam.

The premier walked out of a cabinet meeting Monday, after the left-wing ministers charged that he had distorted facts in the Bonn - Ben-Gurion exposal his threat to resign unless the critics within the cabinet backed him.

PUSHY TO EXCESSIVE

The left wing and the Communists have bitterly criticized the government's agreement to send an estimated 250,000 grenade throwers to West Germany. Most of the launchers are reported to have been delivered. The leftists say Israel shouldn't be selling arms to Germany so soon after the Nazi extermination of Jews.

Japanese Wants Highway Dept. to Put up Fence

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — It's precisely raining motorcycles Shigeo Yanaka's house.

Tanaka's home lies at the bottom of an S-turn on a highway. Saturday night, a policeman was surveying damage done by one motorcycle when another whizzed in, scoring near miss.

On June 14 seven plopped into Tanaka's yard within an hour.

Tanaka has asked the highway people to put up a fence.

Paralyzed Boy Given Cornwell Scout Badge

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen's Scout Michael Byng-Hall, 17, of Vancouver, stricken with body and leg paralysis since birth, has been awarded the Cornwell Scout Badge, scouting's highest award for bravery and courage.

The award, topped a list of 27 honors to adults and scouting officials announced today.

The National Boy Scout Association waived the age limit of 16 on the Cornwell Badge to award it to the Vancouver youth.

Despite his inability to transport himself easily, Michael has passed most of the tests required for the Queen's scout badge, and where other requirements were impossible he passed substitutes.

Other awards include:

Certificate of meritorious conduct—Cub Donald C. Campbell, 11, Brockville; Troop Leader Gordon Cook, 17, Belleville.

Bar to the medal of merit—Jack Poulton, Toronto, deputy regional commissioner.

BIG REBEL LOSSES

CANADA MOVES TOWARD METRIC SYSTEM — Dr. L. E. Howlett of the national research council believes Canada may be switched completely to the metric system of measurement in 20 years. Dr. Howlett, in Canada's role as an international mediator, has now persuaded the U.S. and Britain to adopt common standards for the inch and pound. The changes, effective June 30, are almost insignificant to the layman — a difference of 39 inches in 100 miles, one pound in 16,000,000 pounds — but mean a great deal to manufacturers of equipment made to fine-gauge measurements. Canada had formerly been in the middle using the U.K. standard for the inch and the U.S. standard for the pound. Dr. Howlett deplores the confusion caused by use of two different measuring systems in the world and hopes to see the entire world converted to the metric system. Next year he expects to introduce a new basis for the metric system using wave lengths of light instead of a portion of the distance between the equator and the pole. (CP Photo).

U.S. and Commonwealth Move Step Nearer to Metric System Used Around World

OTTAWA (CP)—Another landmark in Canada's role as an international mediator will be marked Wednesday when the United States and the Commonwealth meet a step nearer to the metric system used almost everywhere else.

The U.S. and Britain have agreed to common standards for the inch and the pound, and it is through 10 years of work by Canadian scientists led by Dr. L. E. Howlett of the National Research Council.

Dr. Howlett will range even further afield next. With the cooperation of NRC's Dr. K. M. Baird, he expects to introduce into the world next year a new basis for the metric standard — using wave lengths of light instead of the present basis which is a portion of the distance between the equator and the North Pole, as represented on a length of metal stored in France.

Eventually, he hopes to see the whole world converted entirely to the use of the metric.

DEPLORES CONFUSION

Like other scientists, he deplores the confusion caused by use in a relatively small island of the world of the inch, foot, yard and mile; the ounce, pound and ton; the quart, the bushel and various other unrelated measures.

He said in an interview Canada may be switched completely to the metric system in 20 years.

The changes effective Wednesday are almost insignificant to the layman. There are about 39 fewer inches in 100 British miles than in 100 American.

There is one pound more in 16,000,000 pounds of British coal than in the same number of U.S.-measured pounds.

But manufacturers of machinery in which fine - grade measurements are used and scientists and engineers the world over have been pulling their hair over the discrepancies.

FOLLOWED BRITAIN

Canada formerly stuck close to the U.K. standard for the inch and to the U.S. standard for the pound.

"We foresaw the need to bring the U.S. and United Kingdom together and to set a system for the future," said Dr. Howlett, 55, director of NRC's division of applied physics.

But instead of basing the Canadian compromises on the British bronze bar—the imperial standard for the inch—or on any mass of metal for the pound, they based them on the metre for length and the kilogram for weight.

The first tangible step was taken in 1951 when federal legislation was amended to adjust the inch from the imperial standard to 2.54 centimetres—half way between the U.S. and British inches which differed by 4.5-millionths of an inch.

Next came a meeting last October, after three years of negotiations, between Dr. Howlett and the heads of U.S. and U.K. agencies. At this London gathering each party agreed to Canadian compromises for both the inch and the pound.

SECOND CONFERENCE

Meanwhile, Canada found the mid-way point in the small difference between the U.S. and British pounds and legislation is now before Parliament to make this the Canadian standard.

The British agency also is working to have both the inch and the pound changes put into law. But in the U.S. the new standards are to remain informal from a legal point of view since weights and measures are under state jurisdiction and it would be too much trouble to amend laws in 50 legislatures.

New Zealand, South Africa and Australia, which followed the B r i t i s h standard, also have agreed to the changes.

How the differences develop between the British and American measures? The culprits were the decades of minute slips and blocks of metal—which for the decades of minute parts of their length or width through molecular changes.

These now can be tossed onto the scrap heap—except one. For the time being the strip of platinum - iridium alloy stored at Sevres, France, in the care of the International Committee of Weights and Measures continues to be the metric basis.

But Dr. Howlett, as head of the international conference - consulting committee on the metre, is confident his new basis will be adopted at a conference meeting in Paris in October, 1960. All major countries of the world are represented in the conference, established in 1875 under the Convention du Metre.

The new standard, first proposed in 1827, has been worked on recently in Dr. Baird's NRC laboratory and most of the work has been done. It is based on the wave length of a particular light that is unchangeable throughout the universe.

In scientific terms, the metre—equal to 39.37 of the new inches—will have the length of 1,650,763.73 waves of the orange light emitted by Krypton 86, a gas that exists in the atmosphere.

Any well-equipped lab can produce this wave length and measure it. Dr. Howlett said it is 100 times more accurate than the present basis. But it is not urgently needed that engineers and scientists change over using it in anticipation of its acceptance.

With the inch and the pound now to be based on the metre, all danger of new discrepancies developing in future in these or in the metre itself would be eliminated.

Surging Wings Whip Miami; Bisons Win

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

A tremendous 12-4 surge in the last half of June has given Rochester a firm hold on second place and has placed unlimited joy in the hearts of the Wing's followers.

The reason? The Rochester surge was the work of its second line pitchers, with big men Bob Keegan and Cal Browning gaining only a 3-3 mark between them.

Keegan became the first International League pitcher to win 10 games this season with a 5-3 victory over Miami Monday night. He has lost three. Buffalo kept its 2½ game first-place margin with a 4-1 victory over Havana.

GOES AGAIN TONIGHT

Keegan had a 3-3 mark in the Wings surge until Monday night, while Browning has won only once—last Friday. Browning is 9-3 on the year. He is slated to pitch tonight against the Marlins.

However, Bill Smith (3-0), Howie Nunn (2-1) and Jim Archer (2-1) took up the slack during the surge and now with Keegan and Browning back in stride the Wings have the pitching to bid seriously for first place.

Keegan, who last won on June 17, made No. 10 on his third try. He retired 13 straight batters from the fifth through the eighth innings, and after giving a run in the first inning allowed only two hits.

Quebec League Looks at East. Ontario

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Hockey League, holding its annual meeting in the midst of a sweltering heat wave, took a serious look Monday at a geographical shift that would embrace Eastern Ontario but decided to do nothing until a further meeting July 8.

Three of the four clubs in operation last season were represented—Montreal Royals, Three Rivers Lions and Chicoutimi Saguenens. Quebec Aces, recently turned down since with the Royals in a bid for entry into the American Hockey League, were not officially represented.

Shawinigan Cataracts, holding a dormant franchise last season, virtually gave up their position when Shawinigan's representative Joe Tremblay walked out. The Shawinigan club was told it had no voting power.

Spokesmen said contact with the QHL has been made by interests in the Ottawa-Hull district, Kingston and Sudbury. Names of those interested were not disclosed. There were reports that Cornwall also was interested but it was felt there are inadequate rink facilities in that East-ern Ontario city.

Chicoutimi has operated as an independently owned club. The others are farms of National Hockey League clubs. If the Saguenenns drop out—as is rumored — long-haul transportation between prospective Ontario cities and the northern Quebec centre would be eliminated.

George Burns Explains Why TV Show Was Not Renewed

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It certainly looked like George Burns up there on the stage.

He grinned knowingly at the audience and punctuated gags with puffs of cigar smoke. Flicking the ash with his little finger, he went into a suave soft-shoe, then sang a few of his inimitable songs — inimitable because no one else will sing them.

Yes, it was George, all right—and without Gracie Allen.

Twice nightly he is pleasing audiences at the Hotel Sahara with his line-wise routines, and the audiences are no more pleased than George. "I'm too old to retire," he says persuasively, explaining why he continues though Gracie chose to quit.

"If I had known what I have learned playing night clubs, I never would have gone off TV," he said. His solo effort of last season, the George Burns Show, had rough going and wasn't renewed.

WRITES FOR HIMSELF

"Now I know how to write for myself," he explained. "For the first 13 weeks, I was still writing a TV show for Gracie, but she wasn't on with me."

What are the chances of the Burns and Allen team resuming?

"It'll never happen," he said with finality. "Gracie is perfectly happy to stay retired. Our daughter has children now, and Gracie likes to fuss over them. And she takes care of the house and sees her friends and goes shopping. She's never missed acting for a minute.

"She never was a ham, anyway. Most actors are aware of playing to an audience. Not Gracie. The site of the stage lured the audience was a wall to her. She concentrated only on what she had to say and never gave a thought to cameras or lights or makeup or anything. We were on TV for four years when she asked one day, 'What's that red light on the camera for?' (The red light means the camera is on.)

George plans to limit his TV appearance to a couple of specials yearly.

That, he figures, would be enough to keep the ham in him alive.

Johansson To Quit After Two Fights

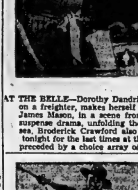
GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — World heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden will fight only two more matches before retiring from boxing, his personal physician and adviser, Dr. Gosta Karlsson, said on his arrival Monday from New York.

"He will defend his title against Floyd Patterson," Dr. Karlsson said. "Then he will go one more match only, probably against Eddie Machen."

Dr. Karlsson has been Johansson's personal physician, adviser, and friend since 1952. He was at ringside when Johansson knocked out Patterson Friday night in Yankee Stadium.

"The prime reason for Johansson's decision is that he is well aware of the dangerous side of boxing,such as injuries to the brain, etc," Dr. Karlsson said.

"Another reason is that he has received an offer to star in a film which would assure him of income of several million kronor." (About $400,000).



Dr. Karlsson would not disclose the name of the film company that made the offer but said that it was an American company.

Fight Film Is a Classic, TV Pays Off

NEW YORK (AP)—The closed circuit telecast of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight last Friday will gross more than $1,000,000, TeleProm pTur official said Monday.

Irving B. Kahn, company president, said that with 95 per cent of the returns in, the gross receipts figure to hit $1,023,000 on the sale of approximately 340,000 seats. The net would be $336,600.

Without figuring in the foreign movie sale, Kahn estimated Patterson's overall purse, including the Yankee Stadium gate receipts, would be between $550,000 and $600,000 and Johansson's end between $250,000 and $300,000.

"The fight film is a classic," he added. "The later returns on it should give both fighters annuities for life."

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—Sweden's world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson will be given a hero's welcome when he arrives in his hometown of Goteborg Saturday.

When the transatlantic plane lands at the Trendalla Airport, Ingemar and his family will be brought over to the Ullevs soccer stadium by helicopter.

At Ullevs, built for the 1958 world soccer championships, a capacity crowd of 35,000 "Ingo fans" will cheer his new world champion.

Ingo kayoed Machen in the first round at the same stadium last September.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — World heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson flew to Miami Monday for a four-day seaside vacation with a Florida friend.

A crowd of 500 swarmed around the plane which brought the 26-year-old Swedish boxer and his fiancee from New York. They reached out to shake Ingo's hand and some yelled a welcome in Swedish.

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson suffered a punctured left eardrum in his recent defeat by Sweden's Ingemar Johansson last Friday, the former heavyweight champion told the New York Post Monday.

Patterson said a punch to the ear apparently aggravated a slight injury he had suffered before. Physicians say such an injury could be cleared up within two weeks.

INDIAN PADDLERS WIN

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Two Indian paddlers from Cumberland House, Sask., Monday won $1,000 first prize in the 81-mile Gold Rush Canoe Derby for the second time in three years. Baptiste Laliberte and Marcel Bessart covered the course in 14 hours, one minute and 22½ seconds.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Americans golf pros usually are looked upon as money-clutching performers who wouldn't give you the time of day. But, says Stan Leonard, "they're really big-hearted guys."

Stan knows from personal experience. He has been digging divots with the best of them the last five years and has been eminently successful at the pay-off wicket. In this sport, as any follower knows, a topped drive, a bad approach or a careless putt could cost thousands of dollars.

It wouldn't be out of line to say that the 45-year-old Vancouver pro is Canada's greatest golfer—and possibly his richest. Last year, $1,300.00 in purses was at stake on the Professional Golfers Association gold trail and Stan pocketed more than $25,000 of it, plus another 15,000 to $18,000 in endorsements and TV matches.

That was the most any Canadian had taken in one year. Leonard, who never blows his top or goes into a tantrum when the shot goes wrong, was living proof of the old saying that "life begins at 40."

It was natural that he should be asked to give advice to young Canadian golfers who dream of picking up more than a sustake on the gold trail. Leonard was interviewed in Toronto the other day, just before he left for the $57,000 Chicago Open.

"That's a real tough question," he said. "But I'll tell you this. Anybody who wants to make a decent living out of golf must have two things going for him—a really sound game and a good mental approach to this rat race. If these are lacking, look out, because they'll (the pros) kill you."

Asked if the big - timers were selfish, that they wanted or grabbed all the spoils and glory, Leonard replied:

"There's nothing to that. The American golfers on the tour are big-hearted, so much so in fact that it could be dangerous to the neophyte. They can spot the flaws in your game quite easily and usually go out of their way to be helpful.

"And that is where the young fellow should be careful. The pros, in an honest effort to be kind and thoughtful, could make the young fellow the most confused person on the course.

"The best thing for any youngster to do is to go to the pros they respect to get the kinks straightened out. Then they should concentrate on developing a really sound game. That's my advice."

Leonard added it took him two years to develop what he calls a sound game after he joined the big-time trail in 1953. "And sometimes now I wonder if my game is sound."

Sound or not, Leonard has been piling up a good bank account from his golf for years. He hit the North American tournament trail with a big splash, ending in the money in 38 of the 60 tournaments he entered over a three-year period.

In one stretch, he won money in 32 consecutive tournaments. That's a record few Americans can boast about.

Leonard has won just a few dollars short of $50,000 in the last three years. Add another $40,000 or so in endorsements and so on and it is easy to understand why he grins whenever he looks at his bank account.

Pete Runnels Back in Hunt For Bat Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Pistol Pete Runnels of Boston, seeking to win the American League batting championship following last season's heartbreaking setback, has fired a .402 average at opposing pitchers this month to thrust himself into the thick of the race.

In seventh place with a .321 mark on June 1, Runnels has climbed to second place at .332 with 41 hits in 102 at bats. Through Sunday's games, he trailed pace - setting Harvey Kuenn of Detroit by only three points. Kuenn dropped four points to .335 in last week's games.

Al Kaline of Detroit dropped to third at .344.

In the National League, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee tallied off 10 points to .381. Except for a three-homer barrage against San Francisco on June 21, the Milwaukee slugger has been losing ground steadily since dropping under the .400 mark on June 17.

However, Aaron's closest pursuer, Bill White of St. Louis, also went into a tailspin. White fell 14 points to .328 with only seven safeties in 28 trips.

Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco and Joe Cunningham of St. Louis are deadlocked for third place at .339.

DEFENDS IOC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem. Mo.) demanded in the Senate Monday that cold war politics be kept out of the Olympic Games. He defended the May 24 decision of the International Olympic Committee to withdraw its recognition of the Chinese National Olympic Committee.

That, he said, was simply because of the Nationalist Chinese committee's position that it supervised sports on the Chinese mainland as well as on the island of Formosa.

Hennings is a former star track and field man at Cornell University and track coach at Washington University in St. Louis.

PRESTON (CP) — Sarnia is not among the 16 teams competing Wednesday for the fourth annual all-Ontario Dominion Day Dunstan softball tournament but it is sending a team anyway. Ray McQuinn of the Sarnia Minor Softball Association told tournament organizer Don Mullan Monday that if one of the 16 teams doesn't show up "we will take their place." Sarnia's entry arrived too late this year. The team won the title in 1957 but lost to Willowdale, a Toronto suburb, last year.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It may take a little time but Ontario Baseball Association promoter Jack Carver's hopes for senior baseball in the district may come true.

"That is what we are working on, a new edition of the old Central Baseball League," Cuffer Noakes and Vic Morris, coach and manager of the Belleville Junior baseball squad told this department the other day.

They were talking about the forthcoming visit of the Lindsay junior baseball squad, a crack nine operating up around the Kawartha district. The Lindsay youngsters will be here tomorrow afternoon for an exhibition game with Cuffer's crew at the CNRA Park starting at 2.30.

"The Lindsay team is something like our boys," Morris said. "They are all home brews and have been together since their minor baseball days. Their manager told me he hopes to keep them together until they over-reach the junior age mark, then he hopes a senior league will be formed in the district."

"The ray practically took the words out of our mouths," the Cuffer said. "Not blowing our own horn too loudly, but we have one of the best little junior squads in this part of the province. They will get a real test tomorrow when they meet the Lindsay youngsters, but the visiting kids will have to be awful good to defeat these boys of ours."

"In two or three years," the Cuffer went on, "I believe we will have a smart senior club with what junior material we have now. So will Lindsay, I am told. From what I hear from other centres, I believe a senior league can be organized by that time. I hope so at least because I would hate to see such a fine bunch of young players like Belleville has in the junior squad, broken up because of lack of a league to play in."

We agree with the Cuffer. There is a strong possibility of such a league being formed. Kingston is operating a senior loop now with three junior teams making up the bulk. Word from the city down east has it that Memorial Stadium, the home of many a hard-fought senior and professional baseball battle, has been reconditioned and readied for play. Kingston might be coaxed into returning to district senior baseball.

However, it is a long way off, but two top-flight junior squads like Belleville and Lindsay are at least laying the foundation.

The Noakes' youngsters play a double-header tomorrow. They meet the Lindsay team at 2.30 and immediately following take on the Read squad in a scheduled South Hastings Baseball League fixture.

The Cuffer will work out his entire pitching corps against the Lindsay team. Gordy St. Louis will start, Billy Latchford will follow with Glen Dafoe the next stint. Mo. Sills, Sodes may pitch an inning but he will be saved for the Read game.

Baseball fans should not miss seeing these fine young teams in action. The Belleville squad has compiled a 7-3-1 record in the South Hastings League. They are a powerful bevy of youngsters with lots of hitting ability and showing plenty of sparkle afield. In his four young hurlers, Noakes has a very capable pitching squad giving the team plenty of balance. Fans should not miss this pair of games. To repeat, the Lindsay junior game gets under way at 2.30 at the CNRA Park with the Read game immediately following.

BIG DOINGS AT OX POINT

There's going to be fun, fireworks and an all-round July 1 wing-ding for the family at Ox Point tomorrow when the boys there (indoors) hold their annual Field Day. Under the convenorship of the capable Earle Anderson and his hard-working committee a fine program of various events has been arranged, and there will be "something doing" from 10 a.m. up until the last waltz is played in the canteen at midnight.

There will be ponies for the kiddies at 10 and from 10.30 until noon Bill Haw and F. Hall will look after the track and field events. There will be plenty lunches in the park and canteens going at full swing. The Foremen take on the All-Stars in softball at three o'clock with Phil Loft and R. Ferguson in charge and also from three to five there will be more points and a series of special events convened by J. Stewart and H. Payne.

The folks will eat dinner from five to six and ready themselves for the cashew session slated for the canteen at seven. The dance gets under way at nine and will round out what appears to be a grand day of fun and entertainment for all.

FIGHT PICTURES AT PARK

You read about it and heard it — now you can see it. The sensational knockout victory of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson over Floyd Patterson is being shown exclusively at the Park Theatre. It started yesterday and will be shown today and tomorrow.

The film runs for about sixteen minutes and gives a close-up view of the devastating power of the Johansson fists, especially his "thunder-and-lightning" right. It is said to be the "fight picture" of the year, crammed full of action until the fateful third when a well-beaten champion was spared further terrific punishment.

Jump Back Into Second Spot With Extra-Inning Victory; A's Score Eight in Tenth

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The American League pennant race, so far a scramble of winning streaks and slumps, gets rolling tonight on what could be days and runs all over on one pitch.

10 telling days for the five contenders—Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore and New York.

In those 10 playing days, sandwiching the break for the all-star game at Pittsburgh a week from today, two of the three western venders will face each other every day.

Cleveland, first by one game over Chicago, plays four games with the White Sox and six against Detroit. The Tigers, four games behind and tied for fourth with New York after a 10-inning 10-3 loss to Kansas City in the only league game Monday, have a half - dozen games with the White Sox in those 10 days.

STANDOFF LIKELY

That gives either of the three—the Indians, White Sox or Tigers—a chance to break away, but a standoff would give Baltimore and New York a chance to take charge.

The Orioles, third, 2½ games back, and Detroit play each other only three times in the 10-day period. Baltimore splits 4 dozen games between Washington and Boston, while the Yankees have it with the Senators and Red Sox.

A standoff among the Indians, White Sox and Tigers would make Kansas City the tie-breaker and the seventh place Athletics could snarl things but good.

They jumped from behind for a 2-2 tie on Kent Hadley's winning home run at Detroit Monday, then turned another batch of Tiger bobbles into a record-tying, eight-run 10th. The Tigers now have lost nine of their last 14 games, and while dropping three of their last five, 35 of the 80 runs against them have been unearned.

TIES 1943 RECORD

The eight runs tied the league record for 10th-inning scoring. The Tigers set the mark against Washington in 1943, and Cleveland matched it against Philadelphia 10 years later.

An error by losing reliever Barney Schultz (1-2) got the Athletics started. Then reliever Al Sima gave up a walk and the tie-breaking and winning runs came in when Smith threw wild on Dick Williams' bunt. Hadley (3-for-5) scratched Williams home and the Athletics went on to send 12 batters to the plate.

Bud Byerly (6-6) was the winner with Ned Garver's relief.

Right - hander Jim Bunning started for Detroit, but was sidelined for from five to six days when hit on the right wrist by Jerry Lumpe's line drive in the third inning.

The National League's longest winning streak of the season covered seven games in seven days and was all over on one pitch.

Jim Davenport and Willie Mays tolled reliever Stan Williams's first two pitches for 13th-inning home runs Monday night, but Davenport's was all San Francisco, giving the Giants a 6-4 decision that ended Los Angeles's streak and reclaimed second place from the Dodgers. It was Davenport's second home run of the night.

That was the only league game scheduled and left the Giants two percentage points ahead of the Dodgers. Both are 1½ games behind Milwaukee's league-leading Braves.

Davenport now has homered in three straight games since June 1 in the majors—each time at the Los Angeles Coliseum, where he hit five of his 13 roads homers last season. Monday night's pair, for a total this year, were the first against the Dodgers in '56.

DODGERS FIGHT BACK

The Dodgers, who three times this season have blown leads of five in the first, chasing Jack Sanford in his first appearance since June 6 when he was the victim of a 3-1 lead after Davenport's leadoff homer. Stan Williams's game-tying home run scored two for a 3-2 Giant lead in the third against Johnny Antonelli, but Don Hodges's 14th home run tied it in the Dodgers' third.

Both scored in th. ninth. After Craig retired 16 in a row, the rookie Kasko drew a single to Orlando Cepeda and Jackie Richardson's triple. Dick Stuart's came back on a single by Gillian and a double by Charlie Neal scored Richardson. Ed Bressoud's single and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Carl Furillo drove in reliever Mike McCormick.

The young lefthander, now 7-4, blanked the Dodgers on four hits the rest of the way, getting Don Zimmer on an inning-ending fly with the bases loaded in the 11th.

Williams then came on after southpaw Sandy Koufax had struck out five in three perfect innings of relief, but was tagged for a pinch-hitter in the 12th.

Zimmer and Neal led seven of the Dodgers' 11 hits, with Gilliam's 4-for-5 lifting him from .300 to .302 in the league batting race at .345.

Both outfielders injuries. Cepeda was struck in the face by a Kirkland foul ball as he attempted to bat in the 13th. Furillo bore his right foot while running out an 11th-inning single.

Eric, Jonathan Clash With Hutton, Bolo

Yukon Eric has adopted a cute little playmate to aid and abet him in his carnival wrestling matches. The puncheon-chested lumberjack has taken unto himself one weighing than 300-pound Don Leo Jonathan. Yep. And there is a reason for—me twosome than this 378 pounds of muscle.

They tangle with the former world champion Dick Hutton and the Count Bolo, a weird combination, here on Friday in what should be a rouser of a bout.

And look who's back after a long holiday. None other than the well-known Irisher Timmy (Mr. Shoy) Geoghegan, the Dublin Dandy. And he's matched with Jack Laskin in a semi-final tangle.

Pat Flanagan and Al Korman will serve the soup.

Dick Lines, Only 20 Years Old, Has Bright Future in Baseball

By MARVEN BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal-born Dick Lines talks with a smooth, easy drawl of his baseball ambitions. He has been living in the southern United States for the last 10 years.

This season is his third in pro ball and he's only 20 years old. But he's caught on with Columbus Jets of the International League, a class-AAA farm club of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ahead lie the big leagues, long a consuming design for the gangling, raw-boned southpaw.

Lines is confident he can make the jump. But he's not in a hurry to do it.

"I can wait," he said in an interview.

LEFTS ON HIS SIDE

"Sure I'd like to move up—the majors have been a big goal to me for a long while—every pitcher will I guess. But I've got youth on my side. And when I do go up I want to be sure I stick."

Baseball observers feel he has able polish for three years in pro ball and Lines says he has youth on his side and is in no hurry to make the jump. "When I do go up I want to be sure I stick," he said. Lines has kept his Canadian citizenship which he says has proven no handicap to his career. (CP Photo).

WAY TO MAJORS — Montreal-born Dick Lines, 20-year-old pitcher with Columbus Jets, is confident he can make the jump from International League ball to the major leagues. Baseball observers say he shows remark-

Lines plans to retain his Canadian citizenship, "simply because I like being a Canadian."

It's proven no handicap to his career, he said. But being a Montrealer — where many are French-speaking — has prompted some good-natured ribbing from his teammates.

"They call me 'Frog.' And guess who started the whole thing? My fellow - Canadian Tommy Burgess."

Burgess, 31, is a power-hitting outfielder from London, Ont., who has been in the IL for many seasons.

Lines makes his home in Richmond, Va., with a married sister. His family settled there after his father left a job as a policeman in the Montreal suburb of Westmount. His parents have since moved to Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

George Lines never played pro sports. But he gave his son all the encouragement a father could offer.

After settling in Richmond, he took to baseball. He moved up through high school and American Legion ranks to sign a minor-league contract with the Pirates.

Pittsburgh sent him to Clinton, Iowa, of the class-D Midwest League in 1957. There he compiled a 12-3 record and posted a league - leading earned run average of 1.80.

This season he made the jump to the Jets indirectly from Lincoln, Neb., Chiefs, a Pittsburgh farm in the A - calibre Western League. He had a 10-6 tab with the Chiefs before developing a sore arm that kept him shelved for the last half of the season.

But he played winter ball in Mexico after the ailment left him and built up an 11-4 performance with Mazatlans.

NO PREJUDICE

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (CP) The International Olympic Committee said Monday it has received assurances there will be no racial discrimination in the selection of South Africa's athletes for the Olympic Games. The IOC said the assurances came from the South African Olympic Committee which said that all peoples in the country were entitled to compete in International sports, particularly the Olympic Games.

Yvon Durelle 'Impressed' by Swede Right

While Yvon Durelle ignored chest injuries for a 15 - round workout in Moncton Monday night, Archie Moore ignored the current heat wave in Montreal to do four miles of roadwork.

The fighters — preparing for their return match July 15 here — both had heavy workouts.

The Bale Ste. Anne, N.B. light heavyweight showed no ill effects of two weeks ago in accidents.

He swam four miles to shore Saturday after his pleasure craft capsized and Sunday suffered minor ski injuries when his outboard collided with another small craft.

Durelle said Monday he was impressed by Ingemar Johansson's right bid wouldn't be an easy victim himself.

"If we met, we'd both break our right hands hitting each other," he said.

For his second day of training in Montreal, Archie did road work, boxed four rounds, went through another four rounds of shadow-boxing and skipped rope. His weight was reported at 181, eight pounds over the title weight.

Durelle is expected in Montreal today from Moncton.

SET ALL-STAR GAME

PRESTON (CP) — The junior division all-star game of the Inter-County Baseball Association has been tentatively set for July 21, Goldie Whitfield, association secretary, announced Monday. The game, previously scheduled for next Saturday, was postponed because floodlights at Riverside Park had not been completed.

Yankees Meet Australians In Wimbledon Semi-Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (CP)—In what could be a preview of the next Davis Cup challenge round, America's Alex Olmedo and Barry Mackay and Australia's Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson are in the Wimbledon semi-finals.

Olmedo, the panther-like stroke artist from Peru who paced last year's American Davis Cup victory over the Aussies, erased another South American, Luis Ayala of Chile, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 Monday in the quarter-finals.

Mackay, only native born American left in the men's singles, upset second - seeded Neale Fraser of Australia 5-7, 10-8, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 with the finest tennis he has shown so far in the two-week tournament.

SEMI-FINALS WEDNESDAY

Olmedo will meet Emerson and Mackay will face Laver in the semi-finals Wednesday. The two young Aussies scored easy wins Monday.

Emerson upended Britain's Bobby Wilson 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 with excellent returns of service. Laver blasted Jean-Claude Molinari of France 6-3, 6-3, 6-0.

Emerson and Laver are the logical choices with Fraser to represent Australia in the Davis Cup.

The duel between Mackay and Fraser, the runner-up here a year ago to Ashley Cooper, was a tremendous one between the two biggest hitters in the game.

DAVIS CUP PREVIEW

Such matches inevitably bring on speculation on the Davis Cup challenge round to be played at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28-30.

Fraser is the top Australian but he left the impression that he may never beat Mackay again. Mackay collared him in the second set, let the third set go while he caught his breath, and then beat the Aussie good and proper in the final two sets.

Olmedo could be expected to whip handily either Fraser, Laver or Emerson, which leaves the United States in a highly favored position to keep its hold on the cup.

Two women's quarter - final singles matches are scheduled today in the centre court with Brazil's hard-hitting Maria Bueno meeting Edda Buding, a stateless Romanian, and Yola Ramirez of Mexico taking on American Sally Moore.

A flock of men's doubles and mixed doubles also are on tap.

"Our detective agency reports you were out night clubbing till 4 a.m. again, so go pinch his against this guy who's beaned three already!"

Home Golfers Set Pace in British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (CP)—British golfers have set the pace so far as the British Open golf championship enters its second 18-hole qualifying round today.

Of the 22 low scorers after the first round Monday 18 were British.

English professionals Frank Jowle, 45, and Jimmy Hitchcock, 34, led the field of more than 250 players with 67s over the 6,491-yard Gullane Links, the easier of the two courses used.

Over the 6,806-yard Muirfield layout — links for the 72-hole championships starting Wednesday—Nella Coles, a 32-year-old British pro, topped the list with a four-under-par 68.

The first 100 low scorers will go into the championship play.

American low scorer was Willie Goggin with 70.

W.A. Holds Discussion on TV for Kids

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant Rawdon W.A. convened in the church hall Tuesday evening with approximately 37 ladies in attendance. The president, Mrs. Carleton Potts, opened the meeting with the theme song and prayer.

Mrs. Robert Merrick presented her report. Mrs. Ross Jeffs' report on "thank-you" notes, one for the paying of funeral fees. Mrs. Douglas Campbell and Mrs. Raymond Jeffs presented the reports regarding the purchase of juice glasses, plates and table cloths. Mrs. Will McMahon reported a profit of $60 from the recent catering at the hall. The treasurer reported $683 on hand. Mrs. Eric Summers gave a report of the visiting committee. The July volunteers for visiting are Mrs. Will McAdam and Mrs. Will Jeffs.

The literature secretary was empowered to purchase special W.A. books. The group decided to pay the necessary donation to send the overseas bale to Korea. The W.A. will entertain other groups at an evening meeting in the hall on August 4th. Mrs. Eric Summers gave a report of the recent W.A. conference held in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Mrs. Ross Jeffs conducted the devotional and at the close read Bible passages. Mrs. Burton Thorpe gave a solo.

A discussion was held on the subject, "Is Television Good for Children?" Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. E. Summers gave points in favor while Mrs. K. Weaver and Mrs. Clarence Scott argued in opposition. The audience generally agreed television should be supervised and than children would receive benefit from it.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher showed a set of slides giving a view of the work carried on at The Normandale Mission. Rev. Donald Richardson is the ministerin charge and Rev. Elgie Joblin is supervisor of Indian missions across Canada.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

MARINE GUILTY OF RAPE

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — A 19-year-old white marine private was convicted here Monday of raping a 47-year - old negro woman. The jury did not recommend mercy, making the death sentence mandatory for Fred Travis of Atlanta. He will be sentenced today and if he is executed, it will be the first recorded case of the execution of a white man for raping a negro woman in the United States.

MARK TRAIL

JEFF COBB

FRONDIZI AT FLAG DAY CEREMONY— Argentine President Arturo Frondizi, left, as he arrived at Plaza de Mayo in Buenos Aires for ceremonies marking Flag Day. The government crisis appeared near a climax as a move grew among military leaders to oust Frondizi despite his cabinet's resignation. With him are Defence Minister Gabriel de Mazo, centre, and War Minister Gen. Solanas Pacheco, right. (AP Wirephoto).

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, July 1

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You have occasion to want to spend extravagantly today. Be prudent and economize instead. This starts you on the road to real security and in P. M. you can realize added savings. Take it easy this first day of the month. Think.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Resist that temptation to make radical changes without much thought beforehand, whether in home or business sphere. Follow through conscientiously on obligations made or you may sever connections that you will later regret.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Take care you do not vent your ire on a good partner simply because a private anxiety has you all het and bothered. Be objective in all that you do and courteous with others for best results. Gentility is the keynote right now.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — If you take to heart any criticism from a disturbed comrade you are made to feel quite guilty when you are not. Avoid him or her if possible and tend to own immediate affairs. Maintain equilibrium and gain prestige.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Important you do not gamble with good name or fame already built up so laboriously. Higher ups in many vital spheres are on the warpath right now, and you could be an innocent bystander ready for the sacrifice. Keep calm, busy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Dropping regular tasks to jump into some seemingly fascinating new outfit today would only bring disappointment. Stick to duties and accomplish much that is important. You will be far ahead of the game in so doing. P. M. relax.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You realize the importance of collecting money and paying your bills, but see that you are not too harsh with debtors today, since they are having a difficult time also. P. M. do not be jealous of anyone.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Determined associate is withholding information or funds which you feel you are entitled to. Search own conscience and see if you have co-operated as ideally as you should. Break the barrier with a smile and act justly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You can get back into the good graces of fellow workers, higher ups or family ties by rolling up your sleeves and putting behind you all those accumulated "likes". Be sure you rest tonight, however. Stay at home!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You feel you want to take a fling at something new and different today and leave dull duty behind. This would only result in setting up some very confusing condition. P. M. be particularly kind to mate, resent better relations.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day to use real diplomacy with family ties because the slightest comment could lead to a battle royal that could be very harmful to one of your sensitive nature. Attend to your work diligently. Serve kin devotedly.

Bird's Nesting In Tiger Cage Lively Sport

GLASGOW (CP) — Sammy Maxwell, 9, collects bird's eggs.

Sunday, his hobby almost cost him his life—he went looking for eggs in a tiger's cage at the zoo here.

He spotted a nest under the eaves of the cage, took a quick look around, decided the tiger wasn't there, leaped a guard rail and started climbing the cage bars.

Just then, the cage's occupant, a seven-year-old Malayan tiger described by keepers as a "cage, ferocious brute," returned to his own cage from an adjoining one.

It gave a quick glance, spotted Sammy and leaped at him.

The big cat's claws ripped through the lad's leather jacket. A keeper heard the beast's roar, jumped the guard rail and pulled Sammy to safety.

Sammy escaped with a scratch no worse than might be given by a household cat.

Queen Will Help Canadians Observe Nation's Birthday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The presence of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will make the celebration of Dominion Day, 1959, an occasion long to be remembered.

The Royal Tour schedule has the Queen and her husband in the nation's capital for the observance on Wednesday of Canada's 92nd birthday as a nation.

Elizabeth will be seen on a national television network at noon, EDT when she delivers an address as Queen of Canada. During the afternoon the Commonwealth air forces memorial will be unveiled, and the Queen will present colors to regiments on Parliament Hill.

For the dinner at Government House in Ottawa on the evening of July 1 Governor-General Massey has invited 35 Canadians from all walks of life—industry and labor, education and medicine, science and the northland, farming, the theatre, the arts and sports, and so on.

RECALL PIONEERS

This glittering occasion contrasts with the more traditional observance of the holiday elsewhere in Canada. Outdoors celebrations and sports events are dotted across the land, and the days of the pioneers will be re-ekcrks.".

called in many communities.

Some of these present-day communities were perhaps uninhabited areas when Confederation came into effect on July 1, 1867. That date, to be recalled next Wednesday at many functions, united the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada (Ontario and Quebec) with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Manitoba joined in 1870 as a new province; British Columbia in 1871, Prince Edward Island in 1873, Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1905 and Newfoundland, the oldest British colony, became the 10th province in 1949.

Dominion Day remains one of the few national holidays that have not been switched to a Monday observance. It may be celebrated on a Monday only when July 1 falls on a Monday, or the Sunday immediately preceding.

This year there are more than 17,000,000 Canadians to celebrate the national birthday. In 1867 there were fewer than 4,000,000.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A couple being married here next weekend will honeymoon in an underground bomb shelter —for the greater glory of civil defence and shelter-manufacturers.

Then they'll have a more orthodox wedding trip at the expense of bomb shelter manufacturers who induced them to spend their first two weeks together 10 feet below North Miami.

Kelley Geiger, 25, and Nancy Bellmyre, 23, plan to climb down through the hatch of the eight-by-14 foot shelter after their wedding and reception.

The comforts of home below will include beds, a variety of canned food, powdered milk, drink-flavoring tablets, checkers and cards.
